NO. 653 KEARNY STREET, CORNER of Commercial, San Francisco Entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment and cure of all diseases of the urinary and generative organs, and all physical conditions or weakness consequent upon the errors or ignorance of the sexes. Skin disease (of years' standing) and ulcerated legs successfully treated. The sick and the afflicted should not fail to call upon him. The Doctor has traveled extensively in Europe, and inspected thoroughly the various hospitals there, obtaining a great deal of valuable information, which he is competent to impart to those in need of his services. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, Box 1957, San Francisco. no15-tf

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed. Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

J. M. Hardie in Philadelphia.

J. M. Hardie, who was quite a favorite when performing at the Metropolitan Theatre in this city, but who did not then attempt Shakespeare, got it pretty hot in Philadelphia, when he was recently supporting Madame Janauschek Cushman. The Press of that city said:

Mr. Hardie made a better Macduff than he did a Macbeth some time back, but he has some obtrusive faults which sadly mar most of his efforts. He could learn much yet from a good master of elocution, and even more perhaps from a dancing master, for many of his attitudes are extremely awkward; but most of all he needs to imbue himself with the spirit of his parts, and then let that spirit seek a natural expression, instead of relying upon exaggerated theatrical trickery. For instance, an actor who violently and palpably shakes himself from head to foot in order to express inward agitation is apt to produce laughter instead of sympathy.

Mr. Hardie is a very good actor in many roles, and we dare say is quite as good an actor as Philadelphia deserves to have.

No Medal for Massey.

The Israelites of San Francisco won't present Gerald Massey with a gold medal set with brilliants. He was very rough on "God's chosen people," in his lecture entitled "Why Does Not God Kill the Devil." He characterized the old testament as a book displaying the grossest ignorance of natural science. To cap all he pronounced Moses, "the great law-giver," a myth! Mr. Massey, had evidently no care about "offending a large and respectable portion of the community," as the daily papers would phrase it.

A Little Mistake.

Mr. Brickley recently brought suit against Dr. Toland for $20,000 damages. He had his leg set by the doctor, and thought it was two inches shorter than the other. It was proved that it was really only three-quarters of an inch shorter, and Mr. Brickley apologized and withdrew the suit. If he had measured his leg carefully he wouldn't have made this mistake. However, an inch and a quarter is a good deal off a man's nose, or leg, and under some circumstances might be worth $20,000.

Too Bad.

The Post observes:

A morning contemporary says it is becoming monotonous to see disreputable women in the private boxes at our theatres.

Just so. It would be quite refreshing to see some disreputable men there for a change, wouldn't it? The trouble is, that there are no "disreputable men." Certainly neither the Post nor its "morning contemporary," would think of calling a man who has money enough to pay for a box at a theatre "disreputable."

A Pretty State of Things.

Supposing God did kill the Devil there would be a nice state of things. There would be about twenty thousand parsons thrown out of business. The Devil won't be killed if they can keep him alive. They abuse him from their pulpits, but that is all make believe. They know that he is their best friend.

Hard Lines.

A man has been sent to the Insane Asylum because he was found at 4 o'clock in the attitude of prayer, in front of St. Mary's Hospital. If a woman is found in an attitude of prayer outside a gin shop in an Eastern city, they call her a crusader, and don't send her to the asylum as a maniac.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents; Five for one dollar.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-r

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. Man's Sphere.

Aunt Betty, in the Wolverine Citizen, says: While there is so much being said about "Woman's Rights," "Woman's Sphere," etc., we hear not a word about "Man's Sphere." What an unheard of thing! No danger of his getting out of his sphere. Oh, no! he doesn't engage in feminine employment, not he, (he wouldn't be caught in such little business), or at least only a few, such as cooking, baking, washing, tailoring, dressmaking, millinery, to say nothing of the dry goods trade and very many other indoor occupations that are really woman's vocation. We are daily, almost hourly, told that woman's work is indoors. Then why in the name of all that is right and just does man usurp every remunerative employment there is? Not long since there was an enterprising man traveling around the country, cutting and fitting ladies' dresses. What befitting business for a great strong man! And then he pompously tells woman, "Madam, your place is at home, attending to your (my) household, taking care of your husband, baby, and so on." But, my dear sir, not every woman has house, home, or husband; what will they do? Oh, they can make shirts for ten cents apiece, or work from five o'clock in the morning, till nine or ten at night, for the munificent sum of from twelve to twenty shillings a week.

No wonder there is such an army of poor needle-women and others that have to labor for a mere pittance. They are just driven into starvation by those monopolies, and nothing can produce any change for the better, in those unfortunate classes, until woman appropriates her own natural and proper occupation, (and we will add some less whisky manufactured, so the husbands can not squander quite all their earnings.) Almost every lucrative pursuit is monopolized by man, and therefore the employments that are left for woman are unremunerative, and in the large cities every place and situation are so crowded that it makes or produces great destitution and want. And, gentlemen, the time is coming when you will be constrained to relinquish our dominions, to vacate our premises.

Let him in Anybody.

George Selwyn, a friend of old Lord Holland, had a morbid love of seeing executions, death-beds, and dead bodies. When Lord Holland lay dying, he said to his attendant, "If Mr. Selwyn calls to-morrow, be sure to admit him, and if I am dead he will be delighted to see me!"

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. A Naughty Philadelphia Girl.

The London correspondent of the Buffalo Transcript thus describes the doings of an American girl abroad: A young girl of Philadelphia, who is now on her travels, went to Westminster, and condescended to admire the great abbey. With admiration came the desire of possession. The whole abbey was too large to be removed, so she quietly took a penknife from her pocket and cut off a piece of the chair of Edward the Confessor! She was arrested, and as she was very pretty, they let her off with five hundred dollars—the price would have been higher if she had been plainer. Not content with this, she serenely journeyed to Dresden, in search of new worlds to conquer. While visiting a church there, she attempted to possess herself of some flowers from a shrine. In pulling them off she overturned the image of the Virgin, to the infinite horror of the custodians of the church. For this pleasing freak her father paid twenty-five hundred dollars. Her beauty probably made the fine small on this occasion also; but fancy the panic in that family if she had had red hair and freckles. And if she had been a forbidding female of uncertain age, I dare not dwell on the financial crisis that must certainly have ensued.

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the spinal, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "COFFEN" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Neither pains nor money has been spared to produce W. S. Gilbert's charming satirical fairy comedy entitled "The Wicked World" in a manner worthy of its merits. It combines all the attractions of scenic effect, pretty women with short dresses, fun, good music and capital acting. John T. Raymond, Miss Lillie Wilton, Lewis Morrison, W. A. Mestayer, and all engaged in its representation acquit themselves well. "The Wicked World" and the farce of "Toodles," with John T. Raymond as Timothy, will be played to-night, and at the matinee to-morrow the "Wicked World" without the afterpiece.

Opera House.

This house was packed full last night, every seat being occupied, the aisles crowded with stools and many people standing in the vestibule. All were thoroughly satisfied with the play of "Charity." Mr. Gilbert has treated the great social question of the day in a manner which will be approved by the general public, and this is one of the causes of its great success in New York. We gave the plot of the piece in yesterday's issue, it remains only to state how it was played. The company at the Opera House is undeniably strong. Miss Alice Dunning as Mrs. Van Brugh, was much applauded last night, and was called before the curtain. She carried the sympathies of the audience with her throughout the play. Miss Dickey Lingard, in the sentimental role of Eve, was very successful and proved that it is not alone in bright and sportive roles, that she excels. W. H. Lingard as Mr. Fitz Partington, the private detective, caused much laughter by his comic dress and make up, and facial distortions. He made every point in the part tell, and kept the audience continually amused while he was on the stage. Miss Mary Wells, made a decided hit in the strong character part of Ruth Tredgett, a tramp, and was frequently applauded. A. D Billings, who is now stage manager at the Opera House, appeared as Dr. Athelney, and presented one of those capital old men impersonations for which he is noted. J. K. Mortimer, was very good as the earnest, soft-headed but warm-hearted Fred Athelney. John Howson as the Pharisaical Smalley, did some acting worthy of any stage, and J. W. Norris, as his whelp of a son Fred, played a very difficult role with admirable skill. Had the author been present he could not but have been well satisfied with the manner in which his play was mounted, and acted. "Charity" is a decided success, and will crowd the Opera House for many nights to come. It will be performed every evening until further notice and at the matinee on Saturday.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The great Carlo Family have excited quite a furore since their first appearance at this house, and their daring and graceful performances are received nightly with shouts of applause. They will appear to-night and at the matinee, to-morrow, in conjunction with the funny Kenebels, Omar Kingsley, Fred O'Brien, Johnny Cooke, and a great troupe of artistes. The comic pantomime of "Los Quatro Amantes," in which Mlle. Fanny Carlo appears as Jeanette, concludes the entertainment.

Platt's Hall.

To-night the talented lecturer and original thinker, Gerald Massey, will deliver his last lecture in this city. Prior engagements prevent his longer stay. The immense audiences which he has drawn, will, we hope, induce him to pay us another visit before long. The subject of the lecture to-night will be, "The Coming Religion." A great many of the old ones do not appear to work well, this very wicked world is getting no better fast, and the coming religion will probably be adopted because it is better suited to the age than those which were invented during a different state of society from that which exists at present. There is room for a live religion,

Union Hall.

The Dickens Ball, given at this hall last night, was a brilliant success. The company was made up of the very creme de la creme of San Francisco society, intellect, wealth and fashion being worthily represented. Dickens himself was there, in the spirit, and bodily represented by Sumner Bugbee, who gave a most lifelike impersonation of the great novelist. Hundreds of the creations of Dickens who will live forever were there. The dramatic profession was largely represented, and many of the characters were realized in a manner which showed dramatic art acquired on the stage. The managers of the ball must have realized a considerable sum for the benefit of that admirable institution, the San Francisco Female Hospital.

Bella Union Theatre.

Among the attractions at this house to-night will be the production of a local extravaganza bearing the sensational title of "Naked Truth," in which Miss Jennie Johnson, H. R. Archer, J. W. Summers, Matt Kelly, Fred Ritchie, Tommy Barton, Tommy Bree, and all the ladies of the company will appear. During the piece the Amazon march will be executed, with calcium light effects. A bright first part and amusing olio of songs, acts and dances, make up a very attractive bill.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Price and Geo. C. Thompson in their specialties, Mortimore, Devoy, Morton and others in acts, Miss Irene Walters in pathetic ballads, Miss Ida May in dances, and a host of other artistes in attractive performances will entertain those who visit this place of amusement to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

Captive ascensions on Saturday and Sunday by Prof. Allen's balloon. On Sunday, at four o'clock Prof. Allen will make a grand free ascension, three miles high, with the chances of landing at the Alameda County Hospital or wherever the wind may take him. The frog feat after the style of the Kecebels, and other performances in the Pavilion on Sunday.

City Gardens.

The tenth yearly picnic and ball of the Steuben Guard, Captain C. Wochats, will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday next, the 19th inst. The Guards will be escorted to the grounds by the famous San Francisco Cadets, who will add to the interest of the occasion by giving an exhibition of their remarkable "Blindfold Drill." There will be rifle shooting and games of all kinds, concert and dance, and music by Alpers' favorite band. Admission fifty cents. Cars will run all night.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 1:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Broadway Wharf, connecting with the cars of the North Pacific Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

Badger's Park.

The British Benevolent Society will picnic at this favorite park to-morrow. A large attendance and a good time are anticipated. The marvel of the "hairless horse," is to be seen here.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

Poor Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia correspondent of the New York Arcadian is severe upon the condition of the stage in that city. We quote as follows: The theatres are somewhat dull just now, with the exception of Mrs. John Drew's and the Walnut-street. At the former the Vokes are drawing large houses, and at the latter Mrs. D. P. Bowers and Mr. J. C. McCollom are playing "Led Astray." Mrs. Bowers' staginess somewhat detracts from her otherwise excellent representation of Armande Chandoce. The piece is put upon the stage with Mr. Hall's usual taste and liberality, and the support is very fair. But the Philadelphia stage is, as a general thing, afflicted with the spirit of inanity, which seems to continually hover over it. Davenport and Forrest, and Connor, and Mrs. John Drew—is the subtle influence which they once exerted in the dramatic world utterly gone from among us! During the past few years we have lost Walcot, Louis James, Lewis Morrison, Davenport—all the brighter lights of the stage, in fact, and may be said to have been left, in dramatic darkness.

A Suicide's Home.

The New York Dispatch says: An exchange informs us that there is a house in Fort Waye, Ind., in which six persons have committed suicide. This suggests an idea which we think worthy of adoption by all cities. A house should be set apart in each city for the suicidally inclined. To this hotel for the disappointed should go the youthful lover who has been frowned upon by his little girl, and there he could blow his head to pieces with a pound of powder, and not spoil his mother's carpets. Or the young politician, whose aspirations have been blasted by an unappreciative public, could quietly get square on the world there by taking one dose of arsenic instead of many doses of benzine. Or the daring young musician, whose soul is filled with a fiery ardor to surpass Paganini, could go there and let out his poetic soul by means of a razor, instead of wailing it out through a flute, or grating it out on a fiddle, or banging it out on a banjo. If we had such a building in this city we would prevail on the Dispatch minstrels to retire to the house and remain there until they had become very dead corpses. Then we would go and look on them, and weep over them, and make affecting obituary remarks about them, and say that in death they were more beautiful than in life. And then we'd leave them with the proud consciousness that we had done our Christian duty, and go home rejoicing that the world was quieter than while they lived. We bet there'd be bonfires and general jubilation in the Second Ward on that night.

Customs of Different Countries.

Prentice Mulford writing from Paris says, "That a breakfast without wine is deemed almost an impossibility by a true Frenchman," Mott, when Minister to England, in writing of the English people, notices the universal use of what may be called that nations beverage—English Ale. The brawny coal heavers in New Castle, the powerful Cornish miners in the tin mines of Cornwall, the sturdy Welsh, the thrifty Scot, the versatile Irishman deem ale a necessity to enable them to perform their toils, while the highest in the land, both male and female, require their glass or tankard of ale, not only to assuage their thirst but to give tone and vigor to their system. Travellers say that tea and rice form the principal part of the living in the Chinese Empire. The above is certainly not more true than that ale, porter and roast beef go far towards forming the meat and drink of an Englishman. We have English Ale and Porter here in San Francisco, but it is not the ale and porter that is obtained in England. Stock ale and porter as used in England, will not bear shipment to this country, unless a certain amount of alcohol is used, which tends to make it more of an alcoholic drink than a malt beverage. Englishmen in this country, and Americans who have visited England, often express their regret at not being able to obtain a glass of British Beer, as they call it. Messrs Merrifield & Rosener some time since, conceived the idea of brewing ale and porter here in San Francisco similar to the English beverages. For that purpose they secured the services of English brewers, Messrs. M. & R. proposed to have their ale ready for the market before informing the public of their movements. Of course, their friends were aware of their intentions, and from them others learned of it, so that before their stock was ready for market (although they had hogshead after hogshead full and placed in tiers, it had not got the age that the English brewers had decided it should have), people were calling at their main depot, 521 Market street first to try it and then almost invariably to order a dozen bottles or a package sent to their residence. Although their would-be customers were satisfied with the ale Messrs. M. & R. were determined not to sell until they were satisfied that their ale and porter would prove what they call it "The Star Ale and Porter." They are now ready, for the Market, and that they will find a ready sale is the belief of all who have tried it. This ale and porter can be had on draught at nearly all of the saloons in the city.

Half of the pain and annoyance of a dental operation is obviated by going to a thorough practitioner. We had occasion to call on H. H. Thrall, Surgeon Dentist, 305 Kearny street, and can cheerfully recommend him. 3-1

THREE MONTHS.

(HE.)

Three months married! Am I happy?
Does she love me as she should?
Have I always done my duty
Self-forgetting, for her good?
When the cloud came down this morning,
Settling over Love's fair day;
Did I do my best to lift it?
Did I prove a helpmeet—nay!

(SHE.)

I am sitting here unhappy,
Conscience-stricken, lone and sad,
He has gone for me to labor,
And his poor heart is not glad?
When he bent his head to kiss me,
Angrily I turned away;
Wishing I had ne'er been married;
Telling him the same to-day!

(HE.)

Once I vowed to love and cherish
Her until death did us part,
Soon, so soon, my vow is broken
To thy shame, oh! faithless heart!
Three months married! By this token
I'll begin my life anew—
Fly slow hours, and bring my darling,
Who henceforth shall find me true.

(Both.)

(SHE.)

"Blame me only, oh! my husband."—

(HE.)

"No! the fault was mine, dear wife"—

(SHE.)

"I will henceforth do my duty."

(HE.)

"I will guard you with my life."—

(BOTH.)

"We'll forgive and be forbearing;
Life hereafter will be bright,
Though the clouds may seem to lower,
And the sun be hid from sight!"

A Colorado Editor Interviews a Chinaman.

The Golden Globe tells the following: We asked him if he didn't want some advertising done. He stopped long enough to say that he charged a dollar a dozen without ironing. We explained that it was not washing we wanted, but advertising. We told him how much his business would be increased, how he'd be richer than the King of the Sandwich Islands in six months if he'd only advertise. This seemed to be clear to him, and his face brightened up as he said: "Business belly slow; nobody got no money." We calmly took out a paper at that. We carefully explained to him all about fifteen cents a line—one of these things clear across here every time the paper was printed. The people, we told him, would read this and then come to him for washing. He took a deep interest in the whole story, and paid marked attention to our few remarks. "You see, Mr. Hong Lee," we said, thinking he was getting along first-rate in English, "this is a paper—this here" (putting a finger on it.) "When people read they rush off frantically and buy of everybody whose name they see in the paper. Do you understand?" He said he did, and wanted to know how many pieces we had—whether they were big or little. We felt discouraged. We had worked hard for half an hour already, and he all the time thinking that we were talking about washing! With an imprecation on the whole race we went over the whole story again, even going so far as to figure out to him how many papers we printed and how many we expected to print. He was all attention as before, but when we stopped for breath he spirted water on a batch of clothes through his teeth, and then said, as coolly as a mummy, that if we brought the clothes on Monday he would have them done Wednesday.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 420, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

SATURDAY .....APRIL 18, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trip to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
D'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—George J. Gee, the pianist, has been tendered a benefit by leading citizens of Sacramento, headed by Governor Booth. It will come off at the Metropolitan Theatre, on Monday evening, when a concert will be given by the beneficiary, Mrs. E. K. Marriner, S. D. Mayer, H. O. Hunt and the Arabian Quartette.

SAN JOSE.—Madame Duret withdrew from the management of the Opera House, last week, the business not being encouraging. On Tuesday, the "Flicht of Leave Man," was produced under the management of W. J. Cogswell, who appeared as Bob Brierly, Miss Carrie Lipsis played Sam. On Thursday night, Miss Kate Denin made her appearance in "Leah the Forsaken," on Friday evening, Miss Denin made her second appearance in "Hunted Down." To-night W. J. Cogswell, who has worked hard to please the not over appreciative people of San Jose, will take a benefit and appear in "Nick of the Woods."

MARYSVILLE.—Miss Mary Watson gave an entertainment at the theatre on Monday evening, and another on Tuesday evening, assisted by J. P. Addams, Miss Ida Kellogg and others. The performance on the last-named occasion consisted of "The Vermont Wool Dealer," banjo solo by Miss Ida Kellogg, "Aschi" by Miss Mary Watson and J. P. Addams, and "Sam Slick, the Clock Peddler" by J. P. Addams, Miss Mary Watson and C. E. Hunt. On Thursday and Friday evenings, the French horn quartette, Ernest Schlott, Fred Buch, Mr. Walther and Mr. Ahrenberg and Miss Lettie Best, vocalist, gave a concert at the theatre. Too much amusement for one week in Marysville.

OAKLAND.—A concert for the benefit of the Independent Presbyterian Church, was given at Brayton Hall, last night, by Madame Inez Fabbri, Miss Anna Eiser, Miss Ivy Wonderlords, Frank Gilder and others.

GRASS VALLEY.—A very attractive entertainment was given at Hamilton Hall, on Tuesday evening, and repeated on the following evening. It comprised the exhibition of the Ma-Fish gymnastics by Harry Clarke and Mlle. Laura, banjo solos by Harry Howard and other performances.

WILMINGTON.—Stephen Massett, gave one of his entertainments here on Friday of last week.

ANAHEIM.—Jeems Pipes entertained the people here during the week.

VIRGINIA CITY.—Maguire's California Minstrels opened at Piper's Opera House, on Monday evening, to a grand house, and have been doing well since. The company comprises Billy Sweatnam, Lit le Mac, and all those who were recently performing at the Bush-street Opera House.

PORTLAND, O.—On the 9th, Madame Laura A. Stevenson, who has been sick and hard up, was the recipient of a complimentary benefit at Masonic Hall. She had a full house.

DENVER, COL.—The latest attractions at Ward's Cricket Varieties, were, a moral drama entitled "The Streets of Denver," and Miss E la LaRue in banjo solos, Lew Parker continues to act as stage manager.

SALT LAKE.—On the 10th, J. H. Vinson, stage manager of the Salt Lake Theatre, took his benefit. He had a splendid house. He appeared in his favorite character of Haverack in "The Old Guard." On the 14th, Miss Annie Graham, late leading lady at the California Theatre, commenced an engagement, appearing as Cora, in "Article 47." On Thursday evening, W. S. Irwin's emotional drama entitled "Shadows," written expressly for Miss Graham, was produced. "The Geneva Cross" was to be played last night, and will constitute the entertainment this evening.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Foreign dates are to March 21st.

London offered as the only amusement novelty of the week the opening of the Italian Opera, at Drury Lane under Mapleson. "Semiramide" was given with Titiens as the heroine, Madame Trebelli Bettini as Arsace, Aquesi as Assur, Ricciardi in the tenor part. Campobello as Orve, and Casaboni as the Shade of Ninus. Prince and Princess of Wales and the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh arrived after the close of the overture. The duke, who is an accomplished musician, left his box between the acts for the orchestra room, and requested Sir Michael Costa, the leader, to repeat it. The overture was repeated accordingly. No heavy female gems had yet arrived. On the 18th, "Il Trovatore" was given and introduced Signor Gassi, a baritone, to the English public as the Conte di Lima. It was remarked that he had a commanding figure, with a voice of moderate compass, the middle range being far the best.

The "Road to Ruin," after a run of 118 nights at the Vaudeville, was shelved 20th, to make room for "London Assurance."

W. R. Crawford, actor and proprietor of the Brittania Tavern, Hoxton, died 14th, aged 45.

James Ellis, manager of Cremorne Gardens, London, from 1845 to 1851, was reported as having died at Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 9, aged 62.

John Garside Neville, an old London actor, and father of Henry Neville, lessee of the Olympic Theatre, London, died in that city on the 16th, aged 87. He performed in "Amy Robsart" at Drury Lane, one or two seasons ago.

"Little Sandy," clown in Hengler's Circus, was recently married to a daughter of John Henry Cooke, the celebrated rider.

In Paris, the Italian Opera Company were preparing "Le Nozze di Figaro," with Miles. Heilbron, Belocca, and Belval The last named lady was to open in London after their opera had had its run.

Madame Carvalho had signed a fresh engagement with Du Locle, director of the Opera Comique.

Ambroise Thomas' Hamlet was in rehearsal at the French Opera-house, but as M. Faure is confined to the house with a severe influenza, an interruption has taken place which will still further postpone M. Thomas' triumph.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,—
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

Customs of Different Countries.

Prentice Mulford writing from Paris says, "That a breakfast without wine is deemed almost an impossibility by a true Frenchman." Mott, when Minister to England, in writing of the English people, notices the universal use of what may be called that nations beverage—English Ale. The brawny coal heavers in New Castle, the powerful Cornish miners to the tin mines of Cornwall, the sturdy Welsh, the thrifty Scot, the versatile Irishman do all a necessity to enable them to perform their toils, while the highest in the land, both male and female, require their glass or tankard of ale, not only to assuage their thirst but to give tone and vigor to their system. Travellers say that tea and rice form the principal part of the living in the Chinese Empire. The above is certainly not more true than that ale, porter and roast beef go far towards forming the meat and drink of an Englishman. We have English Ale and Porter here in San Francisco, but it is not the ale and porter that is obtained in England. Stock ale and porter as used in England, will not bear shipment to this country, unless a certain amount of alcohol is used, which tends to make it more of an alcoholic drink than a malt beverage. Englishmen in this country, and Americans who have visited England, often express their regret at not being able to obtain a glass of British Beer as they call it. Messrs Merrifield & Rosener some time since, conceived the idea of brewing ale and porter here in San Francisco similar to the English beverages. For that purpose they secured the services of English brewers, Messrs. M. & R. proposed to have their ale ready for the market before informing the public of their movements. Of course, their friends were aware of their intentions, and from them others learned of it, so that before their stock was ready for market (although they had hogshead after hogshead full and placed in vats, it had not got the age that the English brewers had decided it should have), people were calling at their main depot, 531 Market street first to try it and then almost invariably to order a dozen bottles or a package sent to their residence. Although their would-be customers were satisfied with the ale Messrs. M. & R. were determined not to sell until they were satisfied that their ale and porter would prove what they call it "The Star Ale and Porter." They are now ready, for the Market, and that they will find a ready sale is the belief of all who have tried it. This ale and porter can be had on draught at nearly all of the saloons in the city.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property Improvements just completed. Special departme t for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single bath, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 617 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its out lines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—If "The Wicked World" has not drawn such crowded houses as did "Pygmalion and Galatea," and "The Palace of Truth," it is not so much because of lack of merit in the piece, as lack of appreciation on the part of the public. The last two opportunities which will be afforded them of witnessing this really delightful comedy will be at the matinee to-day and this evening. To-night, the farce of "Robert Macaire" will be substituted for "Feodles." John T. Raymond will play the part of Jacques Strop, and Barton Hill that of the unscrupulous hero.

OPERA HOUSE.—This house was crowded again last night when W. S. Gilbert's remarkable play entitled "Charity," received its second representation. The performance was so excellent on the first night that there was but little room left for improvement. The loud applause at night proved how thoroughly the audience agreed with the author in his just attack on the cruelty of Society in hounding a good woman, who has offended one of its laws, and refusing her the forgiveness which it so willingly accords to any male offender. Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard, W. H. Lingard, Miss Mary Wells, A. B. Billings, J. K. Mortimer, John Howson and J. W. Norris, act their respective parts capitally, and we doubt if the cast of the play has been surpassed in either New York or London. "Charity" will be played at the matinee to-day, to-night and to-morrow night, when even church people might miss one service, and attend with profit to their souls.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—At the matinee to-day and again this evening, a great programme will be presented. It will comprise a comic act by George and Frederick Carlo, Olympian games by the Ducrow Brothers, a drawing room entertainment by William Carlo, and the juvenile Carlos, Omar Kingsley and his trained horse President, great leaps by Fred O'Brien, grouping by Mlle. Fanny Carlo, Mlle. Bridges and others, a daring bareback ride by Omar Kingsley, a comic interlude by the amusing Kenabels, a two-horse hurdle act by Johnny Cooke, "Le Concert Diabolique" by the Brothers Carlo, and the comic pantomime of "Los Quarto Amantes." To-morrow night extra attractions will be offered on the occasion of the benefit to Mons. Barbier, the daring æronaut, who recently met with a severe accident, and had his costly balloon nearly ruined. We hope the public will crowd the house on this occasion. On Monday evening, the trained elephant, "Princess Mollie," will appear in the ring.

YE OLDE FOLKE'S CONCERTE.—Ye Olde Folke's Concerte, which is to be held at Platt's Hall, on Wednesday next, promises to be a highly successful affair. Madame Anna Bishop will appear as Dame Eleanor Standish, from Old England, Mrs. M. R. Blake as Mistress Dorothy Doolittle from way down East, Mrs. C. B. Parsons as Ruth Hopkins, Mrs. D. H. Whittemore as Charity Page, Alfred Wilkie as Percy Assheton from England, Frank Gilder as Ez kiel Bradford from Connecticut, M. A. Anderson as Dougal MacGregor from Scotland, and Sam Booth as Jabez Lawton from Diggity-quash. A charming selection of old-time glees and ballads will be sung by the above-named vocalists, and a full chorus, all under the direction of Geo. T. Evans.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The very lively extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," with its Amazon march and comic scenes, choice ballads by H. R. Archer, Dutch Binnders by Fred Ritchie, song and dance by Miss Susie Robinson, "The Siamese Twins," by Matt Kelly, Tommy Barton and Fred Ritchie, and a multitude of other attractions will be offered at this house to-night.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—A great Saturday night bill will be performed at this house by Geo. C. Thompson, Johnny Price, Frank Mortimore, Miss Ida May, Miss Maggie Brewer, and others whose names appear on our first page. There is always plenty of fun at Buckley's Varieties.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Captive balloon ascensions to-day and to-morrow, by Prof. Allen's balloon. On Sunday, at four o'clock Prof. Allen will make a grand free ascension, three miles high, with the chances of landing at the Alameda County Hospital or wherever the wind may take him. The frog feat after the style of the Kenebels, and other performances in the Pavilion on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS—The tenth yearly picnic and ball of the Steuben Guard, Captain C. Wochats, will be held at the City Gardens, to-morrow. The Guards will be escorted to the grounds by the famous San Francisco Cadets, who will add to the interest of the occasion by giving an exhibition of their remarkable "Blindfold Drill." There will be rifle shooting and games of all kinds, concert and dance, and music by Alpers' favorite band. Admission fifty cents. Cars will run all night.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Broadway Wharf, connecting with the cars of the North Pacific Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg & Co the proprietors get up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Kinsman Museum, [illegible]

PLATT'S HALL.—Gerald Massey drew a large audience last night to listen to his lecture on "The Coming Religion." He claimed that Spiritualism was the only religion suited to the present age, and must eventually be adopted by all. It should be popular; it has no hell, no devil and nothing unpleasant about it. If it had a few more such talented advocates as Mr. Massey it would spread very fast.

SALE OF FINE LANDSCAPES.—A choice collection of Thos. Hill's studies of California and Eastern scenery, will be on view at H. M. Newhall & Co's Rooms on Sansome street, Monday and Tuesday, the 20th and 21st inst., day and evening, and on Wednesday morning to hour of sale. They embrace nature under every aspect, and are well worthy of inspection. Mr. Hill is one of the most versatile of our local artists, and his figure and animal compositions are as noticeable as his landscapes.

NOTES.—Lewis Morrison will take his farewell benefit at the California Theatre on Friday evening, May 1st, when the new and original play of "Rose" will be produced, with John T. Raymond in the comedy part.

On Monday evening at the California Theatre, J. T. Raymond will present his really excellent impersonation of Rip Van Winkle, in the play of that name. "Everybody's Friend," "One Hundred Years Old," and a dramatization of Mark Twain's Gilded Age are in preparation. The last named piece is the work of Geo. B. Densmore, editor of the Golden Era, and our only California novelist. Mr Densmore does everything he attempts well, and we have little fear that his play will be an exception to the rule.

Miss Marian Singer, vocalist and pianist, who made such a successful appearance on the occasion of Miss Ellie Wilton's benefit, will give a concert at Platt's Hall on the 20th inst. She will be assisted by Alfred Kelleher, Mr. Lindeo and others.

The management of the California Theatre has made an engagement with William Hoskins, formerly light comedian of the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, and Miss Florence Colville, a popular Australian star. They will appear during Mr. Raymond's engagement in "Camille" and "The Heir at Law."

Omar Kingsley, the daring and graceful bareback rider, is to have a benefit on Wednesday, matinee and evening, at the Palace Amphitheatre. He deserves a splendid house.

Joe. Guista, the popular oyster man of the California Market, ought to make his appearance on the stage. He is great in character impersonations at masquerades. He was recently presented by the Occident Social Club with a handsome cane, as a token of their appreciation of his talent in representing Enoch Arden at one of their parties.

The following dispatch was received by the Alta this morning:

CHICAGO, April 17th.—Mr. John McCullough at his benefit to-night played "Hamlet" to a host of friends and admirers. In Chicago there has rarely been developed so much enthusiasm over the rendering of one of Shakspeare's characters. Mr. McCullough's conception of "Hamlet," differs from that heretofore witnessed on our stage; the popular verdict was evidently in favor of his conception of the character. The actor had to make his usual appearance after each act, and at the close of the play a speech was demanded. Mr. McCullough replied in a few expressive words of thanks for the public appreciation, etc., and retired amid prolonged cheering, which must have conveyed to him some idea of the esteem in which he is, and always will be held in Chicago. To-morrow his engagement closes, with the "Gladiator" in the afternoon, and "Richard III." in the evening.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

L. Davenport was the star at Wood's Museum.

It is said that Jarrett & Palmer will inaugurate their fall season at Booth's with a Shakespearian tragedy.

The manager of the Union Square Theatre, New York, next season will be Mr. Parselle.

Mlle. Moriacchi is engaged at the Lyceum, New York, to appear in a new ballet.

Mr Fred Williams, of the Boston Museum, goes to Chicago next season, to assume absolute control of Hooley's Opera House.

Mlle. Nilsson sails for England on May 2d.

Edwin Adams plays in Buffalo on the 20th.

The Boston Herald says the announcement of an amicable and final settlement or adjustment of the differences between Messrs. A. C. Baldwin and Arthur Cheney, respecting the building of the Globe theatre, is premature. Matters are proceeding satisfactorily, but it will be sometime yet before a definite settlement is arrived at. The chances seem to be that Mr. Cheney will be enabled to carry out his idea of building one of the most perfect theatres in America, on the site of the favorite Selwyn's and Globe, but there are yet remaining a dozen points to be discussed, on one or more of which such disagreements may arise as will end the matter finally.

The Mobile Theatre commenced a dramatic season on April 6, under the management of T. C. De Leon. In the company, are Harry Pearson, Aug Pitou, Florence Noble, Carrie Jamison and Theodore Hamilton.

The Aimee Opera Bouffe Company open at the Chestnut-street theatre, Philadelphia, on the 6th.

Baker and Farron commenced an engagement at the St. Charles theatre, New Orleans, on the 6th.

Mr. Daly's Fifth Avenue company will occupy Hooley's Opera House, Chicago, during the month of June.

Miss Katharine Rogers opened at Hooley's theatre, Chicago, on the 6th.

Mr. John McCullough appeared at the Academy of Music, Chicago, on the 13th.

"Man and Wife" is to be revived at Wood's Museum, Philadelphia.

Miss Carlotta LeClercq opens in Boston on the 20th.

Edwin Adams will visit Europe this summer.

Sothern appeared in Buffalo on the 13th.

The N. Y. Spirit of the Times says:

Mr. John Jennings, who made such a decided hit as the switch tender in "Under the Gaslight," at the Grand Opera House, and who, by-the-way, is one of the best eccentric old men on the stage to-day, has declined a most lucrative offer to go to California. Jennings very properly prefers New York, and will prove a most valuable acquisition to the company of any first-class theatre.

The New York Spirit of the Times says: Miss Mary Wells has gone to San Francisco to join Maguire's new company. Miss Wells is the best eccentric and character old woman on the American stage.

Fillip Fillips, nasal sweet singer of Israel, Cohoes, N. Y., 13th.

Little Nell, Milwaukee, 9th, 10th, 11th.

The New York Mercury tells us the following news:

Miss Clara A. G. Williams, sister of the young actress known as Little Nell, was married in San Francisco, March 26th, to Mr. James Hellm, of that city, a gentleman owning fast horses and reputed to have a well-filled purse. The young lady is nineteen years of age, and left the 27th for New York, on a visit to her parents, prior to starting for Europe.

Little Nell's name is Gibson. How she comes to have a sister of the name of Williams, we can't tell.

A new Lyceum theatre is being built by Mr. French at Toronto, in place of the burned building. It will be 45 feet longer than the latter, and contain 1,200 seats. The Toronto Opera House, also now building, is on Adelaide street, west, and Mr. Kelly intends erecting another opera house, to contain 1,600 persons, on King street. The celebrated Holman English Opera Troupe will probably open it. J. B. Speakman is superintending the alteration of the building on King street, opposite the Lyceum lot, into a theatre, which is to be opened late in May by Herndon's company.

The new Academy of Music, Baltimore, will probably open next September. So far about $263,000 have been expended, and bonds are to be issued for a $120,000. One hundred and fifty free tickets will be issued, less than the Philadelphia Academy by half.

Lizzie Price, now Mrs. Lizzie Winkle, is advertised in a Philadelphia journal as having applied for an absolute divorce from her husband, William Winkle. The case was to be heard before an examiner on the 16th, at Philadelphia.

Majilton-Rayner troupe, St. Louis, 13th, Chicago, 20th, one week.

Owen Marlowe opened Central Hall, Brooklyn, 6th, for a parlor entertainment. George Rowland, hitherto known as a good amateur, belongs to the company. Also Mrs. Owen Marlowe.

Lyd a Thompson troupe, Baltimore, 13th, and wind up the season and disband at Philadelphia, 25th.

Barnum's Roman Hippodrome, on Fourth avenue, is nearly completed, and will seat 10,000 persons. The Twenty-seventh street side will be furnished with crimson morocco, upholstered opera chairs, and will be the upper-ten portion. On the Twenty-sixth street and Fourth avenue sides wooden benches will be arranged for the lower ten, and the Madison avenue side will be canechaired for the middle-classes. The ring is laid out like a race course, and will be one-fifth of a mile in circumference, and thirty feet wide. The audience will be seated under the roof, and a canvas dome will be stretched over the centre of the building. The vacant ground in the centre of the ring will be laid out in flower gardens and fountains. The grand attraction will consist of the Congress of Nations, consisting of a pageant representing all the nations of the world. Each nation will have its ruler and court in fac similies of the costumes worn by them on state occasions. In addition to this, all the noted ministers of state, generals, statesmen and naval commanders will be represented in this regal display. Platoons of military of various countries will also be introduced. The performances will be entirely different to anything yet seen in a circus. The entire building is heated by steam, and the dressing-rooms, located under the auditorium on the Twenty-seventh street side, will be airy and comfortable.

Nym Crinkle, of the Philadelphia Mercury, has a very complimentary notice of George M. Ciprico, in that paper, from which we make the following extract: Rare genius and brilliant talents are often lost to the world for the want of opportunities to display and develop them. These opportunities do not occur so frequent as merit deserves they should, and hence it is that medium talent, with a certain amount of assurance, passes triumphantly over the heads of those far more worthy. The audience of the Walnut Street Theatre had not the least idea that Mr. Ciprico, playing in some minor part of a play, had achieved great success in New York and elsewhere as a Shakeperian reader, more particularly in his rendition of the tragedy of "Hamlet," and that the quiet, unpretending student of the drama, striving to become as good an actor as he was a reader was an earnest and successful scholar of the works of the immortal bard. It is Mr. Ciprico's intention, at the close of the present season, to give a course of readings throughout the country, extending as far as San Francisco, where he is well and favorably known. On his return to this city he will appear in pieces written expressly for him, and suited to his personal and dramatic qualifications.

The Chapman Sisters opened at Springfield, Ill., on the 6th, to a crowded house.

Mrs. Effie Ellsler proves, at her theatre in Cleveland, that some women are as well calculated to attend to business as some men.

Chicago has started an opera company. Their initial performance will be "Masaniello." The Tentonic voice reigns supreme.

On the subject of the rights of holders of tickets to seats at places of amusement, it seems next to impossible for American judges to agree. After a prolonged trial a Cincinnati court has decided that a purchaser of an admission ticket to an operatic or dramatic entertainment who purchases his entrance card after the performance has commenced, has the legal right to occupy any seat he finds vacant, holders of reserved tickets possessing not a single right which he is bound to respect. A bill has passed the House of Delegates of Maryland imposing a penalty of five dollars for every seat sold as reserved after the performance begins. We hope the same court will decide that if a man orders dinner at a restaurant and pays for it in advance, that anyone else may eat it if he is not there precisely at the time he ordered it to be served.

The Yosemite.

Tourists have already commenced visiting the far-famed Yosemite Valley this season, and it is a noticeable fact that almost every visitor to this picturesque valley, on their return to San Francisco, obtain scenic views of prominent points in the valley taken by Houseworth & Co., of this city. Messrs. Houseworth & Co. are very successful in their open air views, but not more so than they are in parlor photographs. They have a large gallery of portraits which they apply call Houseworth's Celebrities, and among their latest additions is one of Miss Dickey Lingard, now performing at the Opera House in this city. Messrs. H. & Co. produced a very happy effect in showing the head and shoulders of Miss Dickey, rising from a veritable bird's nest, with her pet birds resting on her shoulders and on the edge of the nest. A half day could not be more pleasantly spent than in visiting the art warerooms of the Messrs. Houseworth, at 9 Montgomery street, and the photographic parlors, directly opposite at 12 Montgomery. There is scarcely a noted person that visits our city, that does not visit the above-named rooms.

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Boyle, [illegible]

Joe Guista.

Everybody knows Joe Guista (if they do not it is not Joe's fault), who keeps the Oyster and Chop House, at 105 California Market, and caters for the appetites of his host of acquaintances. His place, heretofore, large as it was, was too small to accommodate the public, but Joe was equal to the occasion—he added an upper floor, which he fitted up and furnished beautifully. Part of the floor is used as a family restaurant, the rest is occupied by private rooms for ladies, and the result is, that he has got some of the neatest and pleasantest rooms to be found in the city. A ladies' toilet room is also provided, and, in fact, in fitting the place up Mr. Guista showed both judgment and taste. Mr. G. is a popular man, but the Oyster, Clam and Crab delicacies he serves up are still more popular. After the Theatre is out take your mother, wife or sweetheart to Joe's, and, our word for it, you will come away pleased. Remember the number—105 California Market. 4-3

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trip to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

Amusements in Sacramento.

The people of Sacramento are not over liberal in their patronage of amusements, and managers cannot afford to take much risk. The owner of the Metropolitan Theatre is, we think, blind to his own interests in holding out for a good price before he will let his theatre. The following from the Bee, shows how little encouragement he gives managers to open his theatre:

It was the intention of Tom Maguire to give another week or two here of the minstrels, but the extravagant figure at which the rent of the Metropolitan Theatre is placed deterred him. In regard to the rent of the only theatre in the city, we yesterday accidentally overheard a conversation on Fourth street, the facts therein alleged being that Manager Piper recently tried to arrange with the owner of the theatre for a reasonable lease of it. The best that the owner would offer was to lease it for as low as $300 per month, but only on condition that Piper should lease it for two years, and pay the full amount—$7,200—in advance. "But, Mr. ——, if the theatre should burn down?" "Oh, then, in that case, I would be willing to return one-half the amount of the rent for the unexpired term." Such liberality would tempt the birds off the bushes; but managers are not birds, and for the present there is no prospect of legitimate theatrical amusements.

We hope that the proprietor of the only theatre in Sacramento will see that it will pay him far better to have his theatre open, and bringing in even a small rent, than to have it remain closed and bringing in no rent at all.

Prayed to Death.

If the following, which is going the rounds of the press, be true, this praying business in saloons ought to be put a stop to. Saloon keepers have rights which should be respected. They every day of their lives run the risk of being talked to death by loose-tongued "lushingtons," it is too bad that they should be prayed to death: "A startling incident of the praying crusade occurred in East Douglas, Mass., a day or two since. A band composed of some of the prominent men and women of the village had visited several saloons, and were well treated. About noon they called upon Mr. Simpson, a well-known saloon keeper, who politely invited them in, though apparently in a state of great agitation. After praying with him, they began reading the Scriptures, when he suddenly seemed to faint, and fell to the floor. He was immediately taken to his house, but remained insensible, and died in a few hours."

Should be Repeated.

At the meeting of the State Medical Society: Dr. Henry Gibbons read a paper on "Quacks and Quackery in California." He said that Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is one of the most dangerous nostrums in existence, and has proved a fatal drug in many cases. We think Dr. Gibbons should read that paper once more for the benefit of the public generally. California is the paradise of quacks.

Coming Out.

The New York Dispatch speaking of the performance of "Charity," at Fifth Avenue Theatre, says: "Miss Fanny Davenport must henceforth rank higher in the critical mind than she has hitherto done. Her creation of Ruth Tredgett is a gem of character acting, and by it she has proved herself an actress, and not a mere milliner's block.

"Zip."

"Zip," Lotta's new play, in which she has been performing at Booth's, is thus described: Mr. Fred Marsden is responsible for the play in which Lotta appears, and he has a great deal to answer for. The plot is feeble, the characters miserably drawn, and the dialogue a compound of stale jokes and rampant idiotism.

High Art in the Police Force.

It is high art to "work up" petty larceny to grand larceny, to make a simple drunk, drunk and abusive, obstructing a thoroughfare, the double offence of obstructing a thoroughfare and resisting an officer. These suggestions were purposely omitted from Chief Cockrill's instructions to police officers.

Fun in the Pulpit.

Dr. Porteous, an English divine of some repute, has been rebuked by the Episcopal bishop of New York, for lecturing on English and American humor in the pulpits of churches not consecrated according to the Prayer Book. His license has been revoked, and he is informed that until he repents and asks forgiveness for the heinous iniquity above recited, he may not be recognized as an Episcopal clergyman. In Brooklyn and New York the English divine has made many warm friends by his ungodly discourse. These have organized a new congregation, to be known as the Church of All Souls. Dr. Porteous declares his intention to preach the word of God wherever he can get two or three together. A warm discussion has sprung from the action of the bishop.

If Dr. Porteous will put a little English and American humor in his sermons as well as in his lectures, we are sure he will draw good houses. We suggest as a name for his new church, "Jolly Souls," instead of "All Souls," which is rather hackneyed.

Unpleasant.

An exchange says:

Stanley, the correspondent of the New York Herald, who accompanied the expedition of Sir Garnet Wolseley to Coomassie, thus describes one of the curiosities found in the palace of King Koffee:

But one of the most curious things of all found was an old brass snuff or tobacco box, on which were engraved the unmistakable features of Mrs. Beecher Stowe, with the name of "Mrs. Stowe" engraved upon it. There were certainly the outlines of the face of the famous authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and the ringlets hanging down each side of the face—a true portrait I suppose, of Mrs. Stowe as she appeared twenty years ago. The gentleman who picked up this antique box intends to present it to the British Museum.

We don't know how Mrs. Stowe will like this box with her likeness, as she appeared at the age of twenty, being described as an "ant que."

Poor Mrs. Van Brugh!

Had Mrs. Van Brugh lived in California or in Scotland instead of in England, W. S. Gilbert's admirable play of "Charity," now running to crowded houses at the Opera House, would lack all point. She lived with Captain Van Brugh, as his wife, and bore him a child; he died before the marriage was declared to the world by the performance of a ceremony. In neither California nor Scotland is any ceremony or declaration of any kind necessary to make a marriage legal. The mere fact of the parties living together as man and wife constitutes a legal marriage. In Scotland, the performance of a ceremony, except among strict church people, is the exception rather than the rule.

The Light of Heaven.

Among Oakland Items we find the following:

A most magnificent meteor visited this section of the universe about half-past eight o'clock Thursday evening, actually lighting up the streets with an effect very much like that of the burning of a blue light.

After night fall, Oakland is the most dismal of cities. It depends almost entirely on the moon, and an occasional meteor for the lighting of its streets.

Perhaps it Was.

The Marysville Appeal, speaking of a recent concert says:

An audience that filled about one-half of the house, and which ought to have been filled to repletion, welcomed the renowned performers.

How does it know that the audience was not filled to repletion. All its members had probably dined well.

Tough.

The Grass Valley Union says: "The Marysville Appeal adds to its item about the man on whom a millstone fell, that he 'is an unmarried man.' We don't see what that fact has to do with the case, unless we are to infer that a four thousand pound millstone would not hurt a married man."

A Virtuous Paper.

The Oregonian, published in Portland, says:

Meiggs has lived to see the "brand of Cain" removed from his brow by the Legislature of a great State. Instead of being shunned by society he is courted by his victims.

Having set this precedent, why cannot the people of California call the bloodhounds of the law from the track of Tiburcio Vasquez? Is not he an "Argonaut?"

At the present day, meddling with another man's money is regarded by commercial papers as a far greater crime than taking a man's life. The "brand of Cain" is a pretty severe term to use in speaking of a man who, finding himself in a bad fix, got away with money which was not his own, and afterwards paid it back. The Oregonian must be a very virtuous paper to be so much shocked.

Work for the Microscopical Society.

The Microscopical Society is in a flourishing state, and is doing a good deal of work. We suggest that when it gets time it can do the public service by discovering an idea in an Alta editorial, or an expressed conviction in the Call. A microscope of extraordinary power will be required.

Go a Little Further.

At the banquet of the State Medical Society, Dr. Beverly Cole offered the following toast. "Woman," the natural ally of the physician at the bedside. We hope Dr. Cole is willing to go a little further and accept woman as an equal ally, not only as nurse, but as physician.

Customs of Different Countries.

Prentice Mulford writing from Paris says, "That a breakfast without wine is deemed almost an impossibility by a true Frenchman." Mott, when Minister to England, in writing of the English people, notices the universal use of what may be called that nations beverage—English Ale. The brawny coal heavers in New Castle, the powerful Cornish miners in the tin mines of Cornwall, the sturdy Welsh, the thrifty Scot, the versatile Irishman deem ale a necessity to enable them to perform their toils, while the highest in the land, both male and female, require their glass or tankard of ale, not only to assuage their thirst but to give tone and vigor to their system. Travellers say that tea and rice form the principal part of the living in the Chinese Empire. The above is certainly not more true than that ale, porter and roast beef go far towards forming the meat and drink of an Englishman. We have English Ale and Porter here in San Francisco, but it is not the ale and porter that is obtained in England. Stock ale and porter as used in England, will not bear shipment to this country, unless a certain amount of alcohol is used, which tends to make it more of an alcoholic drink than a malt beverage. Englishmen in this country, and Americans who have visited England, often express their regret at not being able to obtain a glass of British Beer as they call it. Messrs Merrifield & Rosener some time since, conceived the idea of brewing ale and porter here in San Francisco similar to the English beverages. For that purpose they secured the services of English brewers, Messrs. M. & R. proposed to have their ale ready for the market before informing the public of their movements. Of course, their friends were aware of their intentions, and from them others learned of it, so that before their stock was ready for market (although they had hogshead after hogshead full and placed in tiers, it had not got the age that the English brewers had decided it should have), people were calling at their main depot, 521 Market street first to try it and then almost invariably to order a dozen bottles or a package sent to their residence. Although their would-be customers were satisfied with the ale Messrs. M. & R. were determined not to sell until they were satisfied that their ale and porter would prove what they call it "The Star Ale and Porter." They are now ready, for the Market, and that they will find a ready sale is the belief of all who have tried it. This ale and porter can be had on draught at nearly all of the saloons in the city. •

Half of the pain and annoyance of a dental operation is obviated by going to a thorough practitioner. We had occasion to call on H. H. Thrall, Surgeon Dentist, 305 Kearny street, and can cheerfully recommend him. 3-I

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

W. S. Gilbert's capital play of "Charity" has made a decided hit, and everyone is going to see it. It could scarcely be better played than it is at the Opera House. Miss Alice Dunning, as Mrs. Van Brugh, Miss Dickey Lingard as Eve, W. H. Lingard as Mr. Fitz Partington, Miss Mary Wells as Ruth Tredgett, A. D. Billings as Dr. Atheiney, J. K. Mortimer as Ted Atheiney, John Howson as Mr. Smailey, and J. W. Norris as Fred Smailey play their respective parts to perfection. The piece is elegantly mounted and is in every respect attractive. It will be played every night until further notice.

California Theatre.

To-night, John T. Raymond, will, by permission of Joseph Jefferson, appear in the latter's own version of "Rip Van Winkle." The character of the kind-hearted, but dissolute Dutchman is admirably represented by Mr. Raymond, and we are sure the performance will be much enjoyed by all who visit the California Theatre this evening. The rest of the cast is published on our first page.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Mons. Barbier's compatriots mustered numerously at the Amphitheatre last night, when he was the recipient of a benefit. An admirable performance was given and everything was applauded to the echo. The present week commences with a new programme which is published on our first page. Among other attractions, the trained elephant Princess Mollie, will be introduced on the occasion and will delight all by her extraordinary performances. There is no end to the attractions at this wonderful place of amusement.

YE OLDE FOLKE'S CONCERTE.—Ye Olde Folke's Concerte, which is to be held at Platt's Hall, on Wednesday next, promises to be a highly successful affair. Madame Anna Bishop will appear as Dame Eleanor Standish, from Old England, Mrs. M. E. Blake as Mistress Dorothy Doolittle from way down East, Mrs. C. B. Parsons as Ruth Hopkins, Mrs. D. H. Whittemore as Charity Page, Alfred Wilkie as Percy Assheton from England, Frank Gillar as Ez kiel Bradford from Connecticut, M. A. Anderson as Dougal MacGregor from Scotland, and Sam Booth as Jabez Lawton from Diggity-quash. A charming selection of old-time glees and ballads will be sung by the above-named vocalists, and a full chorus, all under the direction of Geo. T. Evans. The sale of tickets at the Hall will commence to-day, and there will be a lively demand for front seats.

Bella Union Theatre.

The extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," with Amazon march and with calcium effects, ballads by H. R. Archer, comic acts by Matt Kelly, Tommy Barton, Tommy Bree, Fred Ritchie and others, songs by Miss Louise Somers, Miss Maggie Kelly, and others, dances by Jimmy Moore, and a variety of other performances will be given at this popular variety theatre to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson, Johnny Price, Frank Mortimore, Harry Dewey, and others will appear this evening in lively acts, Miss Lotta Gray will sing comic songs, Miss Maggie Brewer will perform fancy dances, and a very popular entertainment will be presented.

SALE OF FINE LANDSCAPES.—A choice collection of Thos. Hill's studies of California and Eastern scenery, will be on view at H. M. Newhall & Co's Rooms on Sansome street, Monday and Tuesday, the 20th and 21st inst., day and evening, and on Wednesday morning to hour of sale. They embrace nature under every aspect, and are well worthy of inspection. Mr. Hill is one of the most versatile of our local artists, and his figure and animal compositions are a s noticeable as his landscapes.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Broadway Wharf, connecting with the cars of the North Pacific Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

Notes.

The Fay Templeton troupe closed an engagement at the Stockton Theatre on Saturday night.

Charles Vivian, with Madame Jennie Reiffarth and Madame A. E. A. Muse, performed at Albany, Oregon, on the 14th.

Robert Eberle, the well-deserving stage manager of the California Theatre, will take a benefit on April 28th.

J. T. Raymond will take a benefit on Friday, and appear in "Everybody's Friend."

G. B. Densmore's dramatization of "The Gilded Age" is to be produced at the California Theatre on Wednesday evening.

Freaks of Fashion.

Fashion rules the ladies, ladies rule the men and men rule the world, was a remark made lately by a talented lecturer. If it is true, then Fashion is king, and Libby & Swett, at 631 Market street, are Fashion's Grand Chamberlains, for the latest is to use fashionable stationery. Our better-half, told us yesterday, to bring home some note paper and envelopes, not the kind we use in the office, but some HIMMEL BLAU (we believe that was what she called it) but the name slipped from our memory, and knowing that Libby & Sweet had the reputation of being the fashionable Stationers of this city, we called upon them and made known our wants, but were worse off than before, for Mr. Swett began showing us the latest styles, (there were only about six hundred), and for the life of us, we could not tell what to select, there were so many beautiful tints, to say nothing of the different shapes, and so we concluded to let Mr. Swett select for us, which he did. The result was satisfactory, for this morning we found our shirt buttons more securely

SHE KISSED THE DEAD.

BY HOMER GREENE.

She kissed the dead. Her warm, red lips
Were pressed against his marble brow.
"For if he's but asleep," she said,
"And is not numbered with the dead,
He'll rise and kiss me now."

She kissed the dead. Her warm, red lips
Were pressed against his lueless cheek.
"For he will know," she softly said,
"My kiss, and if he be not dead,
He'll turn to me and speak."

She kissed the dead. Her warm, red lips
Were pressed against his lips of ice.
"He answers not," she weeping said,
"I know my darling must be dead,
For I have kissed him thrice."

An Indignant Judge.

The Daily Vicksburger, relates the following story, and vouches for its truthfulness: A colored man from the country happened into Vicksburg last week, and was looking around to buy some bacon. He at last purchased some of a rascally dealer at a very low figure, but soon discovered it was spoiled. The dealer refused to take it back, and the colored man brought the offender before Justice Brooks. The meat was produced and shown to be bad, and the justice proceeded to pronounce judgment, which he did in the following words:

"You are guilty of offering spoilt meat, and the evidence shows that you have actually sold some of the meat to the plaintiff here. Now, in doing this you have violated the law. You have been guilty of a crime which endangers the lives of your fellow being. That meat, sir, would kill any man, and I know it, and you know it. Now, sir, it is ordered by this court that all this meat before us, and all similar meat in your possession, be forfeited by you, and that it be sent to the county poor-house."

National Games.

Every nation, civilized or uncivilized has its national pastime or amusement. The Romans had their gladiators and amphitheatre. The Russians, the hunting of bear and wolf. In England, the running of horses and the game of cricket is as universal as roast beef and plum pudding. The national game in America is, certainly Billiards Preachers, students and lawyers, all alike, take pleasure in the game, and the result is, that those who foster for the amusement of the public, spare no trouble or expense in fitting up and adorning Billiard Parlors, for parlors, many of them are in point of comfort and elegance. Every Billiard player in this city, of course, knows of the Lick House Billiard Parlor, (rather a large parlor by the way) and although he may not even know the proprietors, he feels a certain pride in the place, because it seems more of a public institution than a private one. So lavish have the proprietors been in keeping the place up to their standard of excellence, residents of the city, often take strangers to the Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, to show them a sight worth seeing—the magnificent carved wainscotting of laurel, the unique patterned carpet, etc. Although the place did not seem to lack anything, Mr. Porter, was not satisfied, and so he has closed it for a few days, but Tuesday, when Mr. Porter has a re-opening, he will convince the public that he has left nothing undone in point of elegance and comfort. The Billiard Parlor, is under the direct charge of Mr. James Farquharson, a gentleman, long and favorably known in this city.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that he enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-r

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Katie:—"So awkward to be without any wool, major, is it not?"

Cool in Danger.

The Des Moines Register tells the old story that, during a freshet in the West Botany river recently, a party of men started in a boat to rescue a German whose house was surrounded by water and in danger of being floated off. Arriving at the house they made known their errand, but the Teuton declined to go because he had a fine blooded hen that was then laying an egg, and he wanted to wait for it; and again, his boy was asleep, and if he waked him up he would cry. So they left him.

Gin was His Favorite Drink.

In the preparation of epitaphs, says Lord Kames, conciseness is quite as desirable as truth. We do not remember to have seen any epitaph in which a man's virtues are more concisely stated than that of the late Mr. Mink:

The angels to-night, in their mansions of light,
Are a-waltzing 'round Anthony Mink;
He was faithful and kind, as any you'll find,
And gin was his favorite drink.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Yosemite.

Tourists have already commenced visiting the far-famed Yosemite Valley this season, and it is a noticeable fact that almost every visitor to this picturesque valley, on their return to San Francisco, obtain scenic views of prominent points in the valley taken by Houseworth & Co., of this city Messrs. Houseworth & Co. are very successful in their open air views, but not more so than they are in parlor photographs. They have a large gallery of portraits which they aptly call Houseworth's Celebrities, and among their latest additions is one of Miss Dickey Lingard, now performing at the Opera House in this city. Messrs. H. & Co. produced a very happy effect in showing he head and shoulders of Miss Dickey, rising from a veritable bird's nest, with her pet birds resting on her shoulders and on the edge of the nest. A half day could not be more pleasantly spent than in visiting the art warerooms of the Messrs. Houseworth, at 9 Montgomery street, and the photographic parlors, directly opposite at 12 Montgomery. There is scarcely a noted person that visits our city, that does not visit the above-named rooms. •

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-r

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-c

Joe Guista.

Everybody knows Joe Guista (if they do not it is not Joe's fault), who keeps the Oyster and Chop House, at 105 California Market, and caters for the appetites of his host of acquaintances. His place, heretofore, large as it was, was too small to accommodate the public, but Joe was equal to the occasion—he added an upper floor, which he fitted up and furnished beautifully. Part of the floor is used as a family restaurant, the rest is occupied by private rooms for ladies, and the result is, that he has got some of the neatest and pleasantest rooms to be found in the city. A ladies' toilet room is also provided, and, in fact, in fitting the place up Mr. Guista showed both judgment and taste. Mr. G. is a popular man, but the Oyster, Clam and Crab delicacies he serves up are still more popular. After the Theatre is out take your mother, wife or sweetheart to Joe's, and, our word for it, you will come away pleased. Remember the number—105 California Market. 4-x

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trip to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-y

A SUBMISSIVE WIFE.

Mrs. Jones says she hates those women who are always crying out for their rights. She is happy, and contented to submit her will to her husband's as it is a wife's duty to do. She scorns the idea of not allowing a man to be master in his own house. She observes that "no one can accuse her of setting up her will in opposition to that of her husband." Jones acknowledges this yet, somehow or other, he never seems to have his own way. He comforts himself with the idea that he might have it if he wanted to; as he says "there's nothing to prevent his doing so." Very soon after he was married, Jones who is very fond of a cigar after dinner, and likes to smoke it while lying on the sofa, asked his wife if she minded it. Mrs. Jones with a sweet smile said "never mind me dear, smoke your cigar." Jones said, "but I do mind you dear. Tell me, will it annoy you?" Mrs. Jones then confessed that the smell of a cigar had such an effect on her that she was always "laid up for days afterwards." Jones doesn't smoke in the house. Mrs. Jones told Jones that he musn't give up his club because he was married; she wouldn't hear of such a thing; he must enjoy himself and be as free as ever. Jones rather liked this, but when after a week or two of married life he proposed visiting the club he found that to do so would endanger Mrs. Jones' sanity if not her life. She didn't mind his going, but she had never stayed alone in a house by herself. She couldn't call the servant in to sit with her, that would never do; but it didn't matter, Jones must go, only he must promise that he wouldn't be frightened if he found her in a fit when he returned, she didn't know that she would have a fit, but she might have one. Jones gave up his club. Now, Jones, co-operatively with Mrs. Jones, is raising quite a large family; he has four children. The other day Jones remarked that he should soon be obliged to get a new business suit as the clothes he wore were looking seedy. Mrs. Jones said by all means, Jones should have a new suit of clothes, and she begged he would not bother himself because she had no Spring dress, and the carpet in the front room was not fit to be seen, and Harry and George both wanted new suits and new boots, they could go without these things, and "Papa must have his nice new clothes." Jones didn't buy any new clothes, and he has a hole in his right boot which he strives to conceal by inking his stocking when it shows through. Jones used not to go to Church before he was married. He goes now twice every Sunday to the Second Warm Water Baptist Church on Mission street. Mrs. Jones said she could go alone well enough; she didn't mind what all her friends and relatives would say if her husband did not accompany her, that is, she didn't care for herself, though she must confess that to hear her dear Albert spoken of as these people, ("all good people in their way, but severe") would speak of him, would make her feel as if she never could lift up her head again. Mrs. Jones is always ready to give in her will to her husband's. He has only to say she is wrong and she will give in in a minute. She does not mind suffering. If he wants to have the window open, she doesn't say he shan't, she only reminds him what a cold she caught only two weeks ago through the window being opened, but after all it didn't last long, and it didn't matter. Mrs. Jones is not the only submissive wife in San Francisco who manages by submitting to get her own way in everything. But still Jones is happy, and such a thing as a quarrel is a rarity in the Jones domicile. "Wives submit yourselves to your husbands," take example by Mrs. Jones.

"The Hidden Sin."

We have received from T. B. Peterson & Bros., Philadelphia, through A. Roman & Co., San Francisco, a novel by Mrs. Eliza A. Dupuy, bearing the above title. It is a love story, the scene of which is laid in the United States. The descriptions of American scenery are well written, and the plot is interesting.

Shut Up.

Sacramento clerks want the stores closed early. We don't see why they should not be closed at six o'clock every evening. All the business there is doing in that dull town can be well accomplished in the daytime.

New Music.

We have received from the publisher, Mr. Gray, "The Kenilworth Galop," composed by George T. Evans. The title page is embellished by an excellent photograph of Miss Jennie Lee, executed by Bradley & Rulofson.

Untrue.

As we prophesied would be the case, the report of the suicide of Alphonse Hartdegan, started by the "live paper," has turned out to be untrue. He is alive and well in Germany.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

The Matinee Fruit Store.

Keeps the choicest varieties of domestic and imported Fruits, Jellies, Confectionery, etc., and sells at the lowest rates. Pure, healthy Apple Cider, fresh from the press every day. No 409 Bush street, one door above Kearny. 1-y

A Religious Story.

We did not find the following story in an exchange, but any religious paper that likes to copy it, can credit it to "an exchange." A San Francisco clergyman was recently walking after nightfall down a dark street. The lamps were not lit and the moon had hid her face. The clergyman walked along pondering on his next sermon and trying to think of a good sensational title for it, when suddenly he was confronted by a desperate man who levelled a revolver at his head and exclaimed, "Hand over your money." The clergyman who thought a good deal of himself, and of his power over his audience, drew himself up to his full height, which wasn't much, only about five feet six inches, and said, "Wretched man! kneel and thank God that you are prevented from committing the crime which your guilty mind has planned. Kneel, I say kneel." The idiotic footpad who was quite green in the business, actually did kneel, and then the man of God kicked him in the stomach and ran away leaving his victim writhing in agony on the sidewalk. We scorn to point out the moral of this story.

Real Criticisms.

For original plays we have to go to the French. Now and then an original author like W. S. Gilbert or Robertson, comes to the surface, but for the most part, we are dependent on the French. It is rather sad, however, that for real criticisms on plays produced in San Francisco, we should also have to go to the French. It is nevertheless a fact. The Courrier de San Francisco, every Sunday publishes the only criticisms of performances at the California Theatre and Opera House, which are worthy of the name. If those of the English-speaking (not writing) critics who can read French would study the criticisms written by O. D., in the Courrier, they might gain an idea of what "criticism" is.

An Immigration Publication.

We have received from the publisher a very interesting pamphlet entitled "New Washington, or the Renovated Capital City." We suppose it is published for the purpose of encouraging immigration. Quite a number of persons in California are quite willing to go to Washington, but they expect to be allowed mileage and provided with situations before they leave. We are glad to learn, however, that Washington has much improved in appearance during the last three years. Moreover, the morals of the regular residents, white and colored are said to be quite up to the average, which is a great comfort.

Something to be Proud of.

The Bulletin, in speaking of Master Ellie Brown, the juvenile elocutionist, says: "He has never had a day's schooling in his life and yet he can repeat with the most perfect facility many gems of poetry and pieces of prose." What a respect the Bulletin must have for a parrot, who without ever going to school, can whistle Yankee Doodle, and cry "Polly wants a cracker!"

A San Jose Item.

The drum corps regaled the public ear last night with their dulcet strains.—Mercury.

Ye gods! This is what the San Jose people call encouraging music. They stretch their ears and revel in the performance of the drum corps.

A Good Time.

The sixth edition of "The Resources of California," by John S. Hittle, is in the hands of the printers. Wouldn't the present be a good time for Mr. Hittle to publish a new edition of his other work—"Evidences Against Christianity!"

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it,

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Coming Nobly to the Defense.

The parsons of San Francisco are coming up nobly to the defense of the Devil, whom Gerald Massey treated as a myth. One of them says that Spiritualism is the work of the Devil himself, or of "subordinate fiends." The devils who produce the phenomena of Spiritualism, are not devils to be afraid of at all. They are, on the contrary, pleasant, well-spoken devils. We have no doubt that the clergymen of San Francisco will be successful in keeping the devil alive for some time longer, but he is not what he used to be.

Society Talk.

John Gummidge has not long left college, and is ill at ease in society. At a private party the other night, by way of saying something pleasant to a young lady, he asked: "Have you ever seen a man hanged, Miss?"

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 418 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 327 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The performance of "Rip Van Winkle" last night, with John T. Raymond in the title role, drew one of the largest houses of his engagement. Mr. Raymond acquitted himself admirably, presenting an impersonation of the part which could scarcely be surpassed, save by Joe Jefferson himself. He was capitally supported by Mrs. C. B. Saunders as Gretchen, Walter M. Leman as Derrick, W. A. Mestayer as Nick Vedder, Miss Carrie Wyatt as Meenie, E. J. Buckley as Cockles, and John Wilson as Heindrick Vedder, Tillie Darling and Mamie Darling as Heindrick Vedder and Meenie in the first act, won much applause for their acting. The play was well put on the stage, and gave entire satisfaction to all who witnessed it. It will be played again this evening. To-morrow night, G. B. Densmore's dramatization of Mark Twain's great satire, entitled "The Gilded Age," will be produced, with John T. Raymond as the American Micawber, Colonel Sellers. In consequence of the engagements made at this theatre and the benefit of Mr. Raymond, but two opportunities of seeing this play will be given.

Opera House.

People are going to the Opera House who do not often go to theatres, and the regular theatre-going public go with a rush. "Charity" is a play which should be seen by all. The lesson which it inculcates is the great lesson of the day. The play is admirably performed, and there is not a dull line from the time the curtain rises until it falls on the final scene. The Opera House is doing an immense business, as indeed, it must, if Manager Maguire is to be reimbursed for the expense he has been to in engaging the company now performing there. "Charity" will be presented this evening and every evening until further notice.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The new programme presented at this house offers a multitude of attractions, prominent among which is the wonderful performance of the trained elephant, Princess Mollie. R. H. Dockrill, who made his reappearance last night, presents his very attractive scenic act, in which he acts Falstaff, Shylock and Richard III. on horseback. Omar Kingsley introduces his famous trick horse Napoleon, Joe Kenebel appears in his wonderfully laughable feather and transformation act, the Carlo Brothers present a variety of gymnastic feats and other performances set forth on our first page make up an entertainment which has never been equalled in this city for variety and excellence. Next Monday evening, the peerless bareback rider, Omar Kingsley, will take his benefit, and should have an immense house.

YE OLDE FOLKE'S CONCERTE.—Ye Olde Folke's Concerte, which is to be held at Platt's Hall, on Wednesday next, promises to be a highly successful affair. Madame Anna Bishop will appear as Dame Elsanor Standish, from Old England, Mrs. M. B Blake as Mistress Dorothy Doolittle from way down East, Mrs. C. B. Parsons as Ruth Hopkins, Mrs. D. H. Whittemore as Charity Page, Alfred Wilkie as Percy Assheton from England, Frank Gilder as Hezekiel Bradford from Connecticut, M. A. Anderson as Dougal MacGregor from Scotland, and Sam Booth as Jabez Lawton from Diggity-quash. A charming selection of old-time glees and ballads will be sung by the above-named vocalists, and a full chorus, all under the direction of Geo. T. Evans.

Bella Union Theatre.

"The Naked Truth," "The Young Scamp," "The Spirit Table," dances by Jimmy Moore, ballads by H. R. Archer, comic songs by Miss Susie Robinson and a great variety of performances will be given at this house to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The revival of "Old Black Joe," with George C. Thompson in the title role, has proved very popular at this house. It will be presented to-night, together with many other performances, which are specified on our first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

The aquarium, the conservatories, the seal pond, the art gallery, the menagerie, the skating rink and other attractions, draw immense crowds of visitors to these gardens.

City Gardens.

The First Annual Picnic of the Harmonic Stamm, No. 160, U. O. B. M., will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday, April 26th. Racing for prizes, fat men's race, and other diversions will take place on the grounds, and a pleasant time may be expected.

SALE OF FINE LANDSCAPES.—a choice collection of Thos. Hill's studies of California and Eastern scenery, will be on view at H. M. Newhall & Co's Rooms on Sansome street, Monday and Tuesday, the 20th and 21st inst., day and evening and on Wednesday morning to hour of sale. They embrace nature under every aspect, and are well worthy of inspection. Mr. Hill is one of the most versatile of our local artists, and his figure and animal compositions are a noticeable as his landscapes.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 179.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Alhambra Saloon Re-Opened.

The crusaders will have to assemble in force to-night if they wish to prevent the sale of wines, liquors, etc., at the grand re-opening of that bijou saloon, "The Alhambra." Messrs. L. F. Blackburn and Matt Fallon, two gentlemen, well and favorably known, (the proprietors of the above saloon) cannot keep a better place than they have heretofore, but will have new surroundings and new fixtures; the card rooms are large and well ventilated, and, take it all in all, we predict a prosperous future for Messrs. B. and F. To-day's Chronicle in speaking of the opening, said that Messrs. Piper Blackburn & Fallon, were the proprietors, which is a mistake, as Mr. Piper does not belong to the firm. The public are cordially invited to attend the opening to-night. •

THINGS THAT NEVER DIE.

The pure, the bright, the beautiful,
That stir our hearts in youth;
The impulse of a wordless prayer,
The dream of love and truth;
The longings after something lost,
The spirit's yearning cry,
The striving after better hopes—
These things shall never die.

The timid hand stretched forth to aid
A brother in his need;
That kindly word in grief's dark hour
That proves the friend indeed;
The pleading of mercy softly breathed,
While justice threatens nigh;
The sorrow of a contrite heart—
These things shall never die.

The memory of a clasping hand,
The pressure of a kiss,
And all the kind and loving acts
That form affection's bliss;
If with a firm unchanging faith,
And holy trust and high,
Those hands have clasped, those lips have met—
These things shall never die.

The cruel and the bitter word
That wounded as it fell;
The chilling want of sympathy
We feel but never tell;
The hard repulse that chilled the heart
Whose hopes were bounding high;
In an unfading record kept—
These things shall never die.

Let no thing pass, for every hand
Must find some work to do;
Lose not a chance to waken love,
Be firm, and just, and true;
So shall a light that cannot fade
Beam on thee from on high,
And angel voices say to thee—
"These things can never die!"

National Games.

Every nation, civilized or uncivilized has its national pastime or amusement. The Romans had their gladiators and amphitheatre. The Russians, the hunting of bear and wolf. In England, the running of horses and the game of cricket is as universal as roast beef and plum pudding. The national game in America is, certainly Billiards Preachers, students and lawyers, all alike, take pleasure in the game, and the result is, that those who cater for the amusement of the public, spare no trouble or expense in fitting up and adorning Billiard Parlors, for parlors, many of them are in point of comfort and elegance. Every Billiard player in this city, of course, knows of the Lick House Billiard Parlor, (rather a large parlor by the way) and although he may not even know the proprietors, he feels a certain pride in the place, because it seems more of a public institution than a private one. So lavish have the proprietors been in keeping the place up to their standard of excellence, residents of the city, often take strangers to the Lick House Bar and Billiard Saloon, to show them a sight worth seeing—the magnificent carved wainscotting of laurel, the unique patterned carpet, etc. Although the place did not seem to lack anything, Mr. Porter, was not satisfied, and so he has closed it for a few days, but Tuesday, when Mr. Porter has a re-opening, he will convince the public that he has left nothing undone in point of elegance and comfort. The Billiard Parlor, is under the direct charge of Mr. James Farquharson, a gentleman, long and favorably known in this city.

Freaks of Fashion.

Fashion rules the ladies, ladies rule the men, men rule the world, was a remark made lately by a talented lecturer. If it is true, then Fashion is king, and Libby & Swett, at 634 Market street, are Fashion's Grand Chamberlains, for the latest is to use fashionable stationery. Our better-half told us yesterday, to bring home some note paper and envelopes, not the kind we use in the office, but some HIMMEL BLAU (we believe that is what she called it) but the name slipped from our memory, and knowing that Libby & Sweet had the reputation of being the fashionable Stationers of this city, we called upon them and made known our wants, but were worse off than before, for Mr. Swett began showing us the latest styles, (there were only about six hundred), and for the life of us, we could not tell what to select, there were so many beautiful tints, to say nothing of the different shapes, and so we concluded to let Mr. Swett select for us, which he did. The result was satisfactory, for this morning, we found our shirt buttons were securely fastened.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

Important to Smokers.

Nutmegs.

[From the Danbury News.]

Dead men write no autographs.

A reformer is a man who wears shiny new rubbers on warm, dry days.

Some men would go into a baggage-car to smoke if there were seventy-five smoking-cars on the train.

A Danbury widower is so afraid of his wife's ghost appearing unto him that he sleeps with a pistol under his pillow.

Saturday morning our people were awakened by the singing of birds and the rasping of snow shovels on the pavement.

Mr. Przybyloviez is the name of a hotel-keeper in Leavenworth, Kansas. It requires two men and a boy to pronounce it.

There is a time for all things. The time for a boy to run away from school and go a fishing is when his folks have company to tea.

How few, sitting in comfortable clothing in the genial heat of home fires, give a thought to the gardener out in the bitter blast, sowing onions.

A Danbury man, whose wife recently died, subsequently confessed to a friend that "nobody could pull down an under-coat as neatly as Jane did."

Another harbinger of Spring is the man with his coat-pocket full of walnuts, which he cracks on the curbstones and against awning-posts when you are speaking, and eats when he is talking.

Spring having sufficiently advanced to thaw out the cobble stones, robbins and the widdows in vacant buildings are receiving the attention of the youth of the land. The only sure way to hit a bird with a stone is to first spit on the stone and then aim three times.

A Danbury girl who was accompanied home quite late Sunday evening, was taken to task by her parents for the length of the session at the gate, and went up to her room in what is popularly denominated a "huff." The next morning her mother going to call her, was horrified to find her in bed with her bonnet on. She was so mad on retiring, that she forgot to take it off. We believe this is the only instance of the kind on record.

The country will very soon be flooded with very handsome steel engravings representing a rugged and healthy looking gentleman sitting up in bed unsupported, and delivering an oration to a number of serene-looking gentlemen, two or three middle-aged ladies, a stupid boy, a horridly prim girl, and a negro woman with a turbaned head. Underneath this picture will be the simple words: "The Death of Summer." It is the misfortune of American art that its devotees never saw a death-bed scene.

A Clown's Joke.

Here is a riddle lately propounded by a clown in a London Circus. It is above the average of circus wit. "Who travels fastest?" no answer being given by the public the clown replies: "It is the young husband. An hour before the ceremony he is at the Cape of Good Hope, and an hour after he is in the United States."

The Yosemite.

Tourists have already commenced visiting the far-famed Yosemite Valley this season, and it is a noticeable fact that almost every visitor to this picturesque valley, on their return to San Francisco, obtain scenic views of prominent points in the valley taken by Houseworth & Co., of this city Messrs. Houseworth & Co. are very successful in their open air views, but not more so than they are in parlor photographs. They have a large gallery of portraits which they aptly call Houseworth's Celebrities, and among their latest additions is one of Miss Dickey Lingard, now performing at the Opera House in this city. Messrs. H. & Co. produced a very happy effect in showing he head and shoulders of Miss Dickey, rising from a veritable bird's nest, with her pet birds resting on her shoulders and on the edge of the nest. A half day could not be more pleasantly spent than in visiting the art warerooms of the Messrs. Houseworth, at 9 Montgomery street, and the photographic parlors, directly opposite at 12 Montgomery. There is scarcely a noted person that visits our city, that does not visit the above-named rooms. •

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-y

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-c

Joe Guista.

Everybody knows Joe Guista (if they do not it is not Joe's fault), who keeps the Oyster and Chop House, at 105 California Market, and caters for the appetites of his host of acquaintances. His place, heretofore, large as it was, was too small to accommodate the public, but Joe was equal to the occasion—he added an upper floor, which he fitted up and furnished beautifully. Part of the floor is used as a family restaurant, the rest is occupied by private rooms for ladies, and the result is, that he has got some of the neatest and pleasantest rooms to be found in the city. A ladies' toilet room is also provided, and, in fact, in fitting the place up Mr. Guista showed both judgment and taste. Mr. G. is a popular man, but the Oyster, Clam and Crab delicacies he serves up are still more popular. After the Theatre is out take your mother, wife or sweetheart to Joe's, and, our word for it, you will come away pleased. Remember the number—105 California Market. 4-z

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trip to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

Christianity in England.

A country clergyman in England calls attention to the fact, as indicating a better observance of Lent, that in his neighborhood twenty-three packs of hounds were advertised to start on Ash Wednesday, 1872. Last year the number was reduced to fifteen, and this years shows a diminution to nine.

We would not, for the world, rob the worthy clergyman of the satisfaction he gains from this circumstance, but it must be confessed, that it is also a fact that foxes are getting scarce in Great Britain, and consequently the hounds do not "throw off" so frequently as they did some years ago. However, anything that tends to prove the progress of Christianity in England is a comfort—to the clergy.

Very True.

This is what the Pittsburg Commercial says: Rev. "Adirondack" Murray tells his congregation he must have a six months' vacation, because he is "worn out." If journalists were as easily exhausted as preachers, the world would be compelled to do without any newspaper at all.

As a rule there is more in journalists than there is in preachers, and consequently they are less easily exhausted. If this were not so, some of them could not write a dozen editorials a week, each one containing more thought than half a dozen ordinary sermons. This has no reference to San Francisco editors, who get along about as easily as the preachers as far as thought is concerned.

A Lesson for Him.

While manipulating the windlass of a well, the other night, a party who had been laying in a stock of whisky before it was all seized by the police, let the handle slip when the bucket was half way up, and naturally enough received a chuck under the chin that knocked him over a neighboring fence. "Sold agin," he muttered as he climbed to his feet, "might anode—hic—better than to—hic—go foolin' roun' so much water. Belcher boots I'll stick t' whisky after this."

Of course, he thought after this he would let well alone.

Omaha Journalism.

There is a hearty vigor about Omaha journalism which suggests that that city is not yet an enervated centre of effete civilization. The editor of the Omaha Herald says that the wall-eyed scullion who fiddles and dances in the Plattsmouth Herald, delivered a temperance lecture a few nights before, and that he is glad the lecturer was partially sober at the time, and not dripping drunk as usual.

A Pleasant Idea.

In Australia they make bricks out of bone dust. The Milwaukee Sentinel is of the opinion that this is better than cremation. A widow, it says, could warm up the bricks made out of the bones of her lamented husband, and take them to bed and warm her feet on them. And even in death he would minister to her comfort.

A Faithless Wife.

Women are unreasonable. Especially American women. One of them, a resident of New Haven, deserted her husband because he merely caused the death of their four children. American wives will soon want to deprive their husbands of all rational amusements.

A Surprise Party.

A man in Jersey City, alluding to a recent visit of masked burglars to a house in that city, facetiously styles the felonious entry as "a little surprise party." If the inmates of the house had received the burglars with a masked ball the surprise would have been on the other side of the house.

A Sad Case.

The Arcadian remarks, "One of the 'curadest' things a poor devil of a journalist has to do is to write about theatres, when there is nothing to write about."

Our San Francisco critics are sadly puzzled, and make a sad mess of it when there is anything to write about.

Ye Thirsty Printers.

When you call for Star Ale, be sure you get it, at least that was the verdict of the compositors of this office, after punishing a dozen bottles, yesterday, for which they return thanks.

An Inconsistent Man.

Dio Lewis is the man who kept a Utica audience until 10:30, explaining to them the good result of going to bed promptly at 9.

Offenbach's Children.

All of Mons. Offenbach's children are bright. Their mother is an English woman, sometime Miss Mitchell; he, as everybody knows, is a German. There is something singularly piquant in these Anglo-Saxon children reared in an atmosphere which is the quintessence of everything Parisian, the very attar of Paris. The brightest of his children is his son Auguste Offenbach. He has been spending the winter at Cannes. He fell ill last autumn, and became so delicate, after his long convalescence, his medical attendants engaged the family to send him to the South to remain until spring. Mons. Offenbach revived "Orphee aux Enfers." A few days before its first performance he sent Auguste this telegram: "To Mons. Auguste Offenbach, Splendide Hotel, Cannes. My dear Auguste: I have introduced your little Turkish March into 'Orphee aux Enfers.' I am sure you will grant me permission." Auguste instantly telegraphed back: "To Mons. Jacques Offenbach, 11 Rue Laffite, Paris. Dear Father: I will cheerfully aid you in your new piece, and allow you to introduce my Turkish March into it, if you will accept my conditions, which are as follows: namely, that you allow me to be present at the last three rehearsals and at the first performance, and that I may be allowed to go alone to the Dramatic Composer's Agent's Office to receive my share of the copyright."

The Power of Puffery.

There is a good deal of truth in this paragraph: The art of puffery is little understood by outsiders, who have no desire nor motive to use it; but it is a tremendous engine in the hands of those anxious to secure without fairly earning, fame. Nearly half the reputations of the day, as ample investigation would show, are made by puffs that interested persons either write, or cause to be written in the newspapers. The general public sees the puppets dance, but never suspect who pulls the wires. The pullers of the wires are the journalists. They allow themselves, through good nature, to be used for the benefit of others, while a great majority of the unacknowledged benefactors tug at the oar and die in obscurity.

A Kindly-Hearted Man.

Last week, at a little social gathering, a duet was being performed by two young ladies to the apparent delight of all the assembled guests. The two executants were doing their utmost to drown one another, and with such good effect that one could hardly have heard the report of a cannon fifty yards off. Everybody was radiant, with the exception of one individual, to whom at length a friend addressed himself:

"My dear fellow, what makes you so pensive?"

"Ah," was the reply, "I'm thinking of the neighbors."

Both Telling Truth.

A New York paper says: The Daily Times and Commercial are calling each other bad names. This is no unusual thing for newspapers. But it is unusual for both parties to engage in a disgraceful billingsgate brawl to tell the truth of each other. It's the case in this row, however.

It is not at all unusual in San Francisco.

The Bars a Nuisance.

The New Orleans Picayune extends an invitation to the crusaders to visit that city. There are many bars it would like to see removed—especially those at the mouth of the Mississippi.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Rum Crusade.

"One hardly knows whether to cry or laugh," says the London Spectator, "over the latest development of woman's rights in Ohio—to admire the movement there as a crusade again vice, or detest it as an explosion of unjust and silly fanaticism. Certainly no such marvelous mixture of faith and foolishness, religion and contempt for justice, deep piety and reliance on lynch-law, could exist for a week anywhere except in an American State, where reason is silent before a surge of emotion, and law is powerless whenever public feeling happens to run against it."

Half of the pain and annoyance of a dental operation is obviated by going to a thorough practitioner. We had occasion to call on H. H. Thrall, Surgeon Dentist, 305 Kearny street, and can cheerfully recommend him. 3-i

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 335 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

That one of the cardinal virtues is attractive in San Francisco is proved by the immense audiences which Gilbert's play entitled "Charity" is drawing. A good play presented by such an admirable company as that at present engaged at this house would draw in any city in the world, we must therefore not give too much credit to our public for a desire to profit by the moral lesson inculcated. "Charity" is an undeniable success and will be repeated every evening.

California Theatre.

There has long been a demand for an American drama, a real American drama is to be produced to-night. The characters are created by Mark Twain, who commenced his literary career on this coast, and the story in which they appear has been cast into a dramatic shape by G. B. Densmore, one of the best litterateurs of California. "The Gilded Age," has been read by almost everybody, and the character of Major Sellers, is familiar to all. Mr. John T. Raymond, will this evening, personate this worthy, and will, we have no doubt, give a vivid realization of the American Micawber. "The Gilded Age," is announced for representation on two nights only, therefore those who wish to see it, must lose no time in securing seats. The full cast is published on our first page.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Barnum has established in New York a permanent hippodrome. John Wilson has rivalled the great showman in the attractions which he presents at the Palace Amphitheatre. R. H. Deckrill, Mlle. Deckrill, the Kenebels, Omar Kingsley are unrivalled in the profession. the Carlo Brothers, Mlle. Fanny Carlo, Leon Samwells, Johnny Cooke and others cannot be surpassed, and for excellence and variety the entertainment now presented at the Palace Amphitheatre, may well challenge competition. The performing elephant Princess Mollie, appears nightly in addition to the other attractions.

Platt's Hall.

Ye Olde Folkes' Concert will be given to-night. Madame Anna Bishop, Mrs. M. B. Blake, Mrs. C. B. Parsons, Mrs. H. D. Whittemore, Alfred Wilkie, Walter C. Campbell, Frank Gilder, M. A. Anderson, Sam Booth and a full chorus of male and female singers will take part in it, under the direction of George T. Evans. The vocalists will appear in the dresses of olden time, and will sing the songs and glees of a hundred years ago. An old fashioned quilting party, old furniture, etc. will also be introduced. The demand for seats since the opening of the box office has been very large, over 600 having been sold at 10 A. M. to-day, and a full and fashionable audience will certainly be present.

Bella Union Theatre.

The local extravaganza, "Naked Truth," with its attractive Amazon march and calcium light effects, ballads by H. R. Archer, dances by Jimmy Moore, songs by Miss Maggie Kelly, acts by Kelly Ritchie, Barton and others, and comic vocalisms by Miss Susie Robinson, will afford abundant amusement to those who visit this popular variety theatre to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Oil Black Joe," "Pawnbrokers in Trouble," "Scenes in Bradley & Rulofson's" and "Captain Blowhard's Troubles" are only a few of the attractions to be presented at this house to-night. Geo. C. Thompson, Johnny Price and others will appear.

Woodward's Gardens.

The aquarium, the conservatories, the seal pond the art gallery, the menagerie, the skating rink and other attractions, draw immense crowds of visitors to these gardens.

City Gardens.

The First Annual Picnic of the Harmonic Stamm, No. 160, U. O. B. M., will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday, April 26th. Racing for prizes, fat man's race, and other diversions will take place on the grounds, and a pleasant time may be expected.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 325.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here

Notes.

Robert M. Eberle, the efficient stage manager of the California Theatre, will take his first benefit on Tuesday next. An extra bill will be presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ray, have returned from Salt Lake, having finished their season at the theatre there. Just prior to their departure, they were the recipients of a complimentary benefit tendered to them by the leading citizens, which passed out very handsomely. Mr. Ray has not abandoned his projected new theatre, but is devoting his spare hours in seeking a good location for the structure.

Mr. William Hoskins, who is to make his first appearance on Saturday evening, at the California Theatre, as Dr. Pangloss, in the "Heir at Law," is a comedian of rare talent. Old stagers say, that he ranks next to the best Dr. Pangloss ever on the American Stage, the late uncle Billy Chapman.

"Charity" will be played for the matinee, at the Opera House, which was crowded to overflowing last Saturday; and "Camille," with Miss Florence Colville in the title role, will be performed at the California Theatre.

Music Hath Charms.

Pianos tuned and repaired, at moderate prices and satisfaction guaranteed, by one that understands the business. Also, will perform on Piano at Evening Parties, etc. Orders left at 754 Market or 54 Third street, will receive prompt attention by G. W. Morgan. 4-y

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. W. S. Boyle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

From one tooth to a full upper set, from $5 to $20. Filling reasonable. By Dr. Crowell, D. D. S., No. 40 Kearny street, near Market. 2-y

DR. BEERS, Patent Gold Crowns for broken

MARIE.

It chanced that I, in years gone by,
Sought out one day, I scarce know why,
The market of Aubette;
And I saw there a maiden fair,
With midnight eyes, and golden hair,
And fate and I had met.

I went again somehow, and then
I often went—for when, O, when,
Will heedless youth beware?
The sweet surprise within her eyes,
As when the morn lights up the skies,
Allured me unaware.

Her timid glance did so entrance,
That I, beguiled thereby perchance,
Deemed it a mere caprice;
Ah well-a-day! how quickly may
We fritter golden hours away,
Which promise joy and peace,

An attic high, against the sky—
Affaire d'amour—a fragile tie—
Two swallows' nest the eaves;
One hour ago I sought, and lo!
No birds were there; the one, I know
Has gone, the other grieves.

Dear lost Marie! I would not see
The heaven of love in store for me,
But turned with pride away;
So now I wear, and sadly keep
My mournful vigils o'er the sleep
Of her I spurned that day.

Could I forget, I would; and yet
Remorse is keener than regret,
Requiting pain with pain;
And when the bells ring solemn knells,
I hither bring sweet immortelles;
Dead birds come not again.

Very Rough.

The Grass Valley Union says: In San Francisco, the other night, a Dickens ball was had. At this ball each masker appeared in some character depicted by the great novelist. Only a few at San Francisco had read Dickens carefully enough to justify an attempt at enacting the characters of his novels. That would be no great matter had San Franciscans read, as a rule, anything else in the place of Dickens' novels. We do not hold to the idea that it is necessary to an accomplished education to read Dickens, but we do think people ought to read some books. The class of citizens of San Francisco so much befuffled by the papers as "our leading citizens," are not reading men to any great extent. We say this knowingly, for we packed the mud with which some of them were made. The Dickens ball was, as a display, a failure. And now the Bohemians of the press in that city are putting up another job on those "leading citizens" by proposing a Scott ball. The object is to get those "leading citizens" to read Scott's novels so that they may shine in a future ball room. It is well, perhaps, for the press to flatter the leading heels of San Francisco so that the leading heads may be cultivated by reading. If the system the Bohemians have invented is persisted in, the average leading citizens of San Francisco may soon grow to be interested in reading something else besides the reports of the mining stock market.

An Explanation.

"I fear," said a country minister to his flock, "when I explained to you in my last charity sermon that philanthropy was the love of our 'species,' you must have understood me to say 'specie,' which may account for the smallness of the collection."

The Worst of It.

A temperance advocate at the police station, asked a man who had been arrested on the charge of intoxication, if he, the arrested party, did not think it a bad thing to get drunk? "Yes," replied swell-head, "but it's not half so bad as getting sober."

An Irish Name.

A visitor from Star Island being questioned in regard to the new hotel there, replied that it "was called the Oceanic." "The O'Shannik," said the questioner, with some surprise, "why that's an Irish name, ain't it?"

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that he enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing what female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Feyer's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

An Unhappy Actress.

Aimee Desclee, the greatest actress in France, who died recently, wrote on one occasion to Dumas as follows:

I shall finish by entering a convent. That is certain. It is my fixed idea. What can I do here? Why this agitation, these combinations, this useless study, this vocation of mountebank, this existence at once empty, monotonous and noisy! To embellish one's poor features, compress one's frame, change the color of one's hair, rub one's nails to make them shining, and then with a studied manner recite certain things, not a word of which seldom expresses one's real thoughts; to lie, in fact, deceive the eyes and ears of the crowd, to amuse them for a few hours. Frankly, where is the purpose of all this? What's the use, and what comes of it afterwards? But why am I not happy or at least content? I have no person—nothing to complain of. How many women in my place would thank heaven. The house is filled every night; there are flowers and presents enough to satisfy all the minotaurs of the stage. But no! it is all the same to me. The recapitulation of all this, my friend, is, that I shall certainly finish by taking the veil. I never think of killing myself, but I should consent very willingly to die. In a convent I should become ecstatic. I should adore my crucifix. There only should I be content with my lot. No one has any interest in retaining me in the vocation I am in, and my absence would render a few persons happier. A place vacant—who is to succeed?

Cool headed Scientists.

Dr. Beke having made the assertion that what is now known as Mt. Sinai isn't Mt. Sinai at all, but an entirely different place, the other scientific and religious gentlemen who have visited the Holy Land deny his statement. Now, when scientific men fall foul of each other they are very emphatic in their remarks—as emphatic, in fact, as though they had edited papers in Arkansas, or driven horse cars in New York. One scientist informs Dr. Beke that "before he attempts to upset well-attested facts, he should bring to the consideration of his subject some more convincing proofs of his right to a hearing than besotted ignorance and preposterous vanity." This is strong language; but it is surpassed by another scientist, who says that "Dr. Beke knows as much about the geography of the Holy Land as an oyster does of the Darwinian Theory, and is as incapable of telling the truth as a cat is of resisting an invitation to lunch on a fat mouse. Dr. Beke is an ignorant, absurd, long-winded, vain-glorious idiot, and he should at once retire to the wilds of Africa and herd with gorillas. Though they may be stronger than he, it is impossible for them to be more utterly steeped in ignorance." We always read discussions between scientists. From them we learn that science improves a man's knowledge of strong language, and adds to the politeness of his manners, infuses pungency into his wit, and makes his humor irresistibly amusing.

After Jones.

The New York Dispatch says: Senator Jones, of Nevada, should be a happy man, if wealth brings happiness; he is said to have a yearly income of about six million dollars. He owns the most richly productive silver mine in the world, and is said to be a kind-hearted, generous gentleman. That he is a man of more than ordinary ability, he proved by his recent speech on the financial question, when he held the attention of the Senate throughout it, and received the congratulations of his fellow Senators on its conclusion. He is unmarried, and the way the Washington belles are trying to capture him, is a caution to the wiliest of strategists and diplomatists. What a proud boast it would be for any one to call herself the wife of the richest man in America! We hope Jones remains serene amid all the adulation of the fair sex.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-x

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-c

Joe Guista.

Everybody knows Joe Guista (if they do not it is not Joe's fault), who keeps the Oyster and Chop House, at 105 California Market, and caters for the appetites of his host of acquaintances. His place, heretofore, large as it was, was too small to accommodate the public, but Joe was equal to the occasion—he added an upper floor, which he fitted up and furnished beautifully. Part of the floor is used as a family restaurant, the rest is occupied by private rooms for ladies, and the result is, that he has got some of the neatest and pleasantest rooms to be found in the city. A ladies' toilet room is also provided, and, in fact, in fitting the place up Mr. Guista showed both judgment and taste. Mr. G. is a popular man, but the Oyster, Clam and Crab delicacies he serves up are still more popular. After the Theatre is out take your mother, wife or sweetheart to Joe's, and, our word for it, you will come away pleased. Remember the number—105 California Market. 4-x

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

"FIGARO."

THE JOURNAL OF AMUSEMENTS.

THURSDAY ..... APRIL 23, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed for four years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed from the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trip to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Jolliosville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. we found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'll
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whenever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servant smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 8-x

The Lowah Ordaws.

We sympathize from the bottom of our hearts with the sensitive young gentleman who writes to the London Atheneum. He is shocked that Dickens should have used in his books the language of the "lower orders." It disturbs his finely-strung nerves, when he reads the tales of Dickens, to have the brick-makers, and ostlers, and drivers, and low fellows generally, speaking the same language they do in the streets. This tender youth says: "Permit me to suggest that an edition of Dickens' works should be brought out in classical English. The words used in the author's are extremely disagreeable to read. I think that the language of the lower orders ought never to appear in print." What a pity it is that Dickens didn't know when he was shocking the sensibilities of the rising greatness of England. Had he but known it, he would have burned all that he had written, and taken to writing books as insipid and stupid as those of Tupper.

A Lost Love.

"She loved him for himself." Perhaps that wasn't her fault. But the fact was he had nothing else to be loved for. She married him. And still she loved him for himself. He gave her not so much as a single dollar to aid on her love. Last week he returned home full of whisky as a barrel, and undertook to assert his manly sway in too violent a way. In fact, he deliberately punched her in the eye. This was what turned her love to gall and made her take up the washboard, on which she earned her own and his support, and belabor him with it until there was very little of the board left, and his head looked like a pumpkin which boys had been using as a football. Now he earns a living for himself and wife, and she doesn't love him at all. Such are some of the inconsistencies of the human feminine.

Depraved Chicago Youths.

A Chicago parson, who is also a school teacher, handed a problem to a class in mathematics the other day. The first boy took it, looked at it awhile, and said "I pass." Second boy took it and said, "I turn it down." The third boy stared at it awhile, and drawled out, "I can't make it." "Very good, boys," said the parson, "we will proceed to out for a new deal," and, with this remark, the leather strap danced like lightning over the shoulders of those depraved young mathematicians.

A Martyr for the Law.

A young man in Indiana was about to shoot at some quail, a few week since. It is against the law to shoot quail yet. The young man didn't know it, but his brother did. And that devoted brother planted himself in front of the gun as the trigger was pulled. He nobly saved the quail, and the long grass and his native prairies sing hymns in praise of his noble heroism.

Detroit has lizards in its water pipes large enough to stop the flow of water.

Joe Guista.

Everybody knows Joe Guista (if they do not it is not Joe's fault), who keeps the Oyster and Chop House, at 105 California Market, and caters for the appetites of his host of acquaintances. His place, heretofore, large as it was, was too small to accommodate the public, but Joe was equal to the occasion—he added an upper floor, which he fitted up and furnished beautifully. Part of the floor is used as a family restaurant, the rest is occupied by private rooms for ladies, and the result is, that he has got some of the neatest and pleasantest rooms to be found in the city. A ladies' toilet room is also provided, and, in fact, in fitting the place up Mr. Guista showed both judgment and taste. Mr. G. is a popular man, but the Oyster, Clam and Crab delicacies he serves up are still more popular. After the Theatre is out take your mother, wife or sweetheart to Joe's, and, our word for it, you will come away pleased. Remember the number—105 California Market. 4-z

He Wasn't Ready.

Old Isaac was, or rather believed himself to be, a very devout Christian, "wrestled" much in prayer, and it was his custom at night when his work was over, to retire to his cabin, and devote himself to worship until bedtime. These exercises were carried on in so loud a tone as to be heard by all the persons on the farm, white and black, and old Isaac's earnest and frequent announcements that he was always ready to meet his "Lawd" had been so often heard that some rascally boys concluded to have a little fun, and at the same time test Isaac's faith. One night, therefore, while old Isaac was under full headway in his exercises:

"O Lawd! we know dy long suffrin fur dis benighted sinner, but we feel, O Lawd! dat in dy love we will be sparhed dy vengins and raf. We are always reddy, Lawd, at dy bidd'n' to cum to dee, and to meet dy angel Gabr'el. Send him, O Lawd! wid his shinin' trumpit, his robes ov glory, and his crown ov life, and take dy poh sahvant into dy vineyard ——"

"Is-a-ac! Is-a-ac!" came in a deep, sepulchral tone down the chimney.

"Amen!" softly said Isaac, closing his prayer abruptly, and rising with fear and trembling.

"Is-a-ac! Is-a-ac!" came the still dreadful tones.

"Who-ho-ho's dat?" stammered the awe-stricken negro.

"This—angel—of—the—Lord—has—come—for—Isaac!" came in slow, solemn tones, with the measured emphasis, from the darkness outside.

Isaac hesitated, and then, with a show of enforced courage, it came:

"De Lawd bless you, dat old nigger hain't been heah fur a week!"

A Powerful Musician.

Ole Bull was once seeing the sights at Donnybrook Fair, when he was attracted by the sound of a very loud violin in a tent. He entered and said to the player: My good friend, do you play by note?" "The deuce a note, sur." "Do you play by ear, then?" "Niver an ear, yer honor." "How do you play, then?" "Be main strength, be jabers."

A Dubuque, Iowa, confectioner uses seventy-five barrels of sugar per month in manufacturing the great American toothache promoter.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm recently from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast.
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14, 1874.

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR: On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake in January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about two years; although retaining my speaking faculty, had forgotten to modulate my voice, so it was that since I had heard myself speak, but now am able to carry on a conversation without difficulty, provided that my attention is not distracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

G. B. Densmore's dramatization of Mark Twain's latest satire, entitled "The Gilded Age," was produced at this house last night, and proved a decided success. The character of Col. Sellers played by John T. Raymond, should gain for him as much fame and money as Solon Shingle has for John Owens. "The Gilded Age" is a far better play than "The People's Lawyer," and the character of Col. Sellers, is one which is far more popular with people of the present day, than Solon Shingle. The prologue is a little talky, but the succeeding four acts of the play are as bright and interesting as could be desired. The plot is simple. Mr. Hawkins (Walter M. Leman), and Mrs. Hawkins (Mrs. Sophie Edwin), leave a farm in Tennessee, which they are advised to "hold on to" at all risks by Col. Sellers, an American projector of vast enterprises who has a friend in the Senate called Dilworthy. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins have adopted two children, Laura and Clay Hawkins, and for their sake they wish their land to turn out valuable. Laura Hawkins (Miss Ellie Wilton) is secretly married to Col. Selby (Henry Edwards), who unfortunately has a wife living. Clay Hawkins discovers this and vows vengeance on his sister's betrayer. Col. Sellers gets his friend Senator Doclittle, to introduce a bill which will have the effect of making the Hawkins estate very valuable. The bill is defeated and Senator Doolitte is ousted. Laura smarting under the wrong that Col. Selby has inflicted on her, shoots him, is tried by an intelligent jury, and is a quitted. She dies in the court room, and the Hawkins family return to work on their farm, all the schemes of their friend Col. Sellers, to dispose of it to the Government, having failed. John T. Raymond as Col. Sellers, presented one of the best bits of character acting ever seen on the American stage. He was before the audience in almost every scene, and the laughter was continual and hearty. If he does not make "The Gilded Age" his star piece he will miss the tide, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. Miss Ellie Wilton played the part of Laura, admirably, and carried the sympathy of the audience with the heroine to the last. Miss Kitty Pell as Emily, read and acted well, Lewis Morrison, was all that could be desired as Clay Hawkins, Henry Edwards gave a capital impersonation of the well-meaning, but unhappily-shackled Col. Selby, W. Harry did some good acting as Uncle Daniel, a negro servant, Walter Leman, and Mrs. Sophie Edwin, as the affectionate old couple, Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, were pleasing, and Henry Coad as the District Attorney in the trial scene, was particularly good, W. A. Mestayer as counsel for the defense, acquitted himself well, and E. J. Buckley as Washington Hawkins, did all that could be done with a somewhat uninteresting part. The play was capitally acted, and well put on the stage. The scene representing a steamboat race and blowing up of one of the boats, was most effectively represented "The Gilded Age," will be played again to-night. To-morrow night, Mr. Raymond, will take his benefit, when "Everybody's Friend," "A Regular Fix," and the fifth act of "Richard III.," with J. T. Raymond as Richard, and J. C. Williamson as Richmond, will be presented.

Opera House.

The great success which W. S. Gilbert's play of "Charity" has met with at this house speaks well for the public of San Francisco. It is a good play, excellently well acted. Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard, W. H. Lingard, Miss Mary Wells, A. D. Billings, John Howson, J. K. Mortimer and J. W. Norris, all have parts well suited to exhibit their talents to good advantage. The play is well mounted, and from the rise of the curtain until it falls on the final scene of the last act it is thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. "Charity" will be retained on the stage until further notice.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The reappearance of the wonderful equestrienne, Mlle. Dockrill, R. H. Dockrill in his great Shakesperian act, the Kenebels in new grotesque acts, the introduction of the talented performing elephant, Princess Mollie, and other attractions specified on our first page, draw immense crowds to this place of amusement. An extraordinary entertainment, comprising all there features and many more, will be given this evening. The benefit to Omar Kingsley will take place on Monday next.

Ye Olde Folke's Concert.

The fashion of San Francisco assembled in this hall last night, and the concert by Ye Olde Folke's was much enjoyed. The programme comprised many old songs and glees which are seldom heard now, and many others which are as popular at the present day as when they were first written. Mme. Anna Bishop, Mrs. M. R. Blake, Mrs. O. E. Parsons, Mrs. D. H. Whittemore, Alfred Wilkie Somers, Frank Gilder, M. A. Anderson, Walter C. [illegible] the members of the Orpheus, Sam Beeth, and [illegible] themselves admirable Singing Society, all acquitted [illegible] faithfully represented, and the stage presented an attractive appearance. The success of this concert has caused the managers to announce its repetition to-morrow evening, with entire change of programme.

Benefit to Charles Kohler.

On Tuesday, next, Charles Kohler will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit tendered him by numerous friends. A performance will be given consisting of a first part, interlude and farce. The beneficiary, Little May, Ned Kohler, Charles Morrell, Murphy and Mac, L. Hartnett, and many other popular amateurs will appear.

Bella Union Theatre.

"The Siamese Twins," H. E. Archer in ballads, Miss Susie Robinson in song and dance, Fred Ritchie in Dutch Blunders, Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Maggie Kelly, Miss Fanny Hooker and others in the extravaganza entitled "The Naked Truth," and a great variety of other entertainments will be offered this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Geo. C. Thompson in his great specialty of "Old Black Joe," Miss Irene Walters in ballads, Miss Maggie Brewer in dances, Mortimore in sketches and many other attractions will be presented at this house to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

The aquarium, the conservatories, the seal pond the art gallery, the menagerie, the skating rink and other attractions, draw immense crowds of visitors to these gardens.

City Gardens.

The First Annual Picnic of the Harmonie Stamm, No. 160, U. O. R. M., will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday, April 26th. Racing for prizes, fat men's race, and other diversions will take place on the grounds, and a pleasant time may be expected.

THE FATAL ARROW.

My father had a fair-haired harvester!
I glean'd behind him in the barley land,
And there he put a red rose in my hand;
O, cruel, killing leaves those rose leaves were!

He sung to me a little lovelorn lay,
Learned of some bird; and while his sickle swept
Athwart the shining stalks, my wild heart kept
Beating time up with him all the way.

One time we reached by the limpid stream,
O'er which the loose-tongued willows whispered low;
Ah, blessed hour! so long and long ago,
It cometh back on me like a dream.

And there he told me, blushing soft—ah me!
Of one that he could love—so young and fair,
Like mine the color of her eyes and hair;
O, foolish heart! I thought that I was she!

Full flowed his manly beard: his eyes so brown
Made sweet confession with their tender look;
A thousand times I kissed him in the brook,
Across the flowers—with bashful eyelids down.

And even yet I cannot hear the stir
Of willows by the water but I stop,
And down the warm waves all their length I drop
My empty arms to find my harvester.

In all his speech there was no word to mend;
Whate'er he said, or right or wrong was best,
Until at last an arrow pierced my breast,
Tipt with a fatal point—he called me friend.

Still next my heart the fading rose I wore,
But all so sad; full well I know, God wot,
That I had been in love and he had not.
And in the barley field I gleaned no more.

Ruth Tredgett, the Tramp.

Of the thousands who have seen Miss Mary Wells impersonation of Ruth Tredgett, the tramp at the Opera House, in Gilbert's great play of "Charity," we doubt if there is one who does not retain a vivid recollection of Ruth, as she appears for the first time, literally dragged before the audience by two servants. The mingled look of hate, fear and scorn is perfect—now eyeing her captors with a look like one would imagine a tigress would have when surrounded by the hunter and his dogs that have hunted her down—together with the look of mingled fear and scorn with which she greets the venerable doctor and the ladies, go to make up a picture that one will not soon forget. At Bradley & Rulofson's Photograph Gallery, 429 Montgomery street, can be seen (and we believe obtained by the public), a photograph of Miss Wells as she appears in her character of the tramp. It is most life like. The same wild look in the eyes, the dishevelled hair, the torn and bedraggled dress, all are in the photograph. In fact, so truthful a representation is it of her, that one who had seen her on the stage would almost think that she stood before him, and would listen for the sound of her voice.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Dancing and Fault-Finding.

Rev. Mr. Nightingale contributes to the Springfield Republican the following story of Rev. Dr. Lothrop, an eccentric parson who officiated in West Springfield: "A young lady, a member of Dr. Lothrop's church, went on a visit to a neighboring town, and while there attended a party and danced. Tidings of her sin reached home before her. On her return she was visited and called to a most severe account for the disgrace she had thus brought upon herself and upon the church, and which had been found out, notwithstanding it had been done among strangers. One staid maiden was specially earnest in her rebukes, and made the poor girl feel very bad. 'What shall I do?' she asked. 'You had better go and see Dr. Lothrop.' She did go, and told him all about it. 'And so, my dear, you went to the party and danced, did you?' he said. 'Yes, sir.' 'Well, I am glad of it, and I hope you will go again, and enjoy yourself. And now I want you to tell me the name of the woman who has been making you all this trouble.' She told. 'Go to that woman, and tell her for me that, if she wants to go to heaven she had better make more use of her feet, and less of her tongue.'"

Cremation Verses.

If cremation comes in the Philadelphia Ledger will have to produce a new style of obituary verse. The following has already been suggested:

"The boast of heraldry,
The pomp of power,
And all that beauty,
And all that wealth e'er knew,
Await alike the inevitable hour—
The path of glory leads out to the flue.
* * * * * * *
"And this is all that's left of thee,
Thou fairest of earth's daughters;
Only four pounds of ashes white
Out of one hundred and fourteen and three-quarters!"

The Only Reasons.

"I would marry you, Jacob," said a lady to an importunate lover, "were it not for three reasons." "Oh, tell me," he said, imploringly, "what they are, that I may remove them." "The first is," said she, "I don't love you; the second is, I don't want to love you, and the third is, I couldn't love you if I wanted to!"

Self-Made Men.

One of the New York Illustrated papers publishes a short history of the life of self-made men every week. California, although in its infancy yet, boasts of quite a number of that class of men, among whom is T. M. Antisell. Mr. Antisell came to this coast about ten years ago. He was young and just starting out in life; the passage here exhausted his funds but not his spirits or energies. His was one of those nervous, warm temperaments that scarcely ever become discouraged, no matter how adverse circumstances may be. Soon after his arrival he became interested in mines; the White Pine excitement was mainly due to the untiring energies of Mr. Antisell. He sold the Original Hidden Treasure Mine for $200,000, invested the bulk of the money in Oakland real estate, graded lots and built house after house, which were readily sold on the instalment plan. He then made a trip East, and while in New York became interested in the manufacture of pianos. To enable himself to defy rivalry from those who bought their stock from the makers, he bought the entire establishment of one of our standard piano manufacturers, so that he could sell pianos, organs, etc., at manufacturer's prices. He opened a branch house at 614 Washington, and is able to sell first-class pianos on the instalment plan (from $10 and upwards per month), cheaper than others sell for cash. Mr. Antisell also has on sale the Decker Brothers' pianos and the E. P. Needham & Sons' silver-toned organs.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, an learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-j

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, No. 233 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 327 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

"FIGARO."

THE JOURNAL OF AMUSEMENTS.

FRIDAY .....APRIL 24, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find and made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

The Womens' Crusade in Ohio.

During a ladies' prayer meeting, in front of a well-known saloon in Toledo, an incident of extraordinary interest is reported to have occurred. The ladies were engaged in singing the well-known hymn—

"Send down thine armies Lord to crush
The malt which whisky makes,
And cause the single men to blush,
And take us for our sakes."

At the conclusion of the fourth line a well-known elderly citizen, who had been dead broke for several weeks, emptied the contens of his pockets into the hat of the nearest lady, who, with a shout of "Glory hallelujah!" went for that fat philanthropist and announced that she was traveling agent for the celebrated G. X. brand of Kentucky whisky, quietly supplied to families in quantities to suit. The crusader movement is attracting much attention in Toledo, Ohio!

Elder Knapp's Conversion.

The late Elder Knapp is reported to have been very irreligious in his early days. His conversion was brought about in the following manner. In speaking of his tailor, to whom he was indebted for a suit of clothes, he is reported to have said: "I hate that ninth part of a man, and I would willingly bury him in six feet of rich clay, and having planted poison oak over his grave, I would dance a break down over his remains as a requiem. But the thought of meeting him below whilst he fizzles and emits an odor of German toasted cheese, is so unpleasant that it awakens in me, for the first time, a sincere desire to go to heaven."

Jones.

The Post is determined that the people of San Francisco shall know Jones. There really is something in Jones. He is not only very rich, but he is sound on the question of finance. Jones is a Welchman. He owns nearly all the Crown Point mine, and has a good hard head. There was some talk about Jones having spent money freely to get elected to the Senate, but, however he got there, there seems to be little doubt that he is the right man in the right place. In addition to his many other virtues, the Post says that Jones is "a master of the game" of seven up.

Improved.

The Call has much improved in its local department since the close of the Legislative session. As to its editorial columns, we never expect to see any improvement in them until it plesses the Lord in his infinite mercy to make a change in the proprietorship of the paper. "Why does not God kill the Call editors?" would be a good subject for a lecture.

A Worthy Successor.

It is understood that Frank G. Kenney, of this city, well-known in journalistic circles, is to succeed Minister Avery, as editor of the Overland. Mr. Kenney is also a clergyman.

The heart loves repose, and the soul contemplation, but the mind needs action.

Joe Guista.

Everybody knows Joe Guista (if they do not it is not Joe's fault), who keeps the Oyster and Chop House, at 105 California Market, and caters for the appetites of his host of acquaintances. His place, heretofore, large as it was, was too small to accommodate the public, but Joe was equal to the occasion—he added an upper floor, which he fitted up and furnished beautifully. Part of the floor is used as a family restaurant, the rest is occupied by private rooms for ladies, and the result is, that he has got some of the neatest and pleasantest rooms to be found in the city. A ladies' toilet room is also provided, and, in fact, in fitting the place up Mr. Guista showed both judgment and taste. Mr. G. is a popular man, but the Oyster, Clam and Crab delicacies he serves up are still more popular. After the Theatre is out take your mother, wife or sweetheart to Joe's, and, our word for it, you will come away pleased. Remember the number—105 California Market. 4-z

George Pauncefort.

At last accounts, George Pauncefort, the well-known English reader and elocutionist, was in Japan "doing" his Dickens, and occasionally appearing in the legitimate. In the Japan Gazette, of a recent date, we find an extended notice of a performance of which George was the leading attraction. The play was "Still Waters Run Deep," and this is what the Gazette thinks of George's personation of John Mildmay: "And it is a character in which he has gained considerable renown since its first production. It is not necessary to say more than that it was rendered with that easy grace which, as a rule, is only acquired by a lengthened experience on the stage."

Discouraged.

The Grass Valley Union says: We once thought that there was an eternal fitness of things in this world, and the fitness extended to everything in the world. Our mind has become disabused of that idea since we have observed that a man is writing poetry for the San Francisco Call. True there isn't much poetry about the thing, but the attempt even is out of all fitness. Those old saws are fast losing the respect they used to receive.

Too Bad.

A Baptist clergyman relates, as his early experience, that he engaged to preach for a society for fifty dollars a year. Upon a settlement at the end of the year, he found that the committee had an item of twenty dollars charged to him for the use of the pulpit to practice in. One of the deacons, however, by way of sympathy for the pastor, presented him a pair of boot-taps.

A Change for the Better.

A morning contemporary records the fact that a man named Laime jumped out of a window and sprained his ankle, without making a pun on his name. The tone of the press is improving. The local items who can resist such a temptation must be a gentleman.

A New View of the Case.

Rev. Mr. Alger is represented as saying at a recent dinner to Mr. Sothern, that jealousy of a rival was the reason for the antagonism manifested by the church to the stage.

Copyrighted.

Gen. D. D. Colton, has, at large expense, obtained a new smile.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The Opera House is doing good work at present. "Charity," has in it the essence of a thousand sermons, and the company engaged in its representation, have a forty-parson power. This admirable play has hitherto run to crowded houses and will, we have no doubt, run for many nights more. It will be played to-night, at the matinee to-morrow and until further notice. It is admirably acted, and is one of the greatest successes ever known. Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard, W. H. Lingard, Mrs Mary Wells, and all engaged in its representation, are liberally applauded every night.

California Theatre.

C B. Densmore's highly successful play entitled "The Gilded Age," was presented for the second time last night, and J. T. Raymond in the character of Col Sellers, received much applause. To-night this favorite comedian, who, by reason of a concatenation of circumstances over which he had no control, has not played as successful an engagement as his merits entitled him to, will take his benefit, and we hope on this occasion the public will crowd the California Theatre to overflowing. The bill announced for this occasion was "Everybody's Friend," "A Regular Fix" and the fifth act of "Richard III." with J. T. Raymond as the crook-backed tyrant, and that eminent tragedian, J. C. Williamson, as the hot-blooded Richmond. Mr. Raymond, however, now concludes that he cannot offer a more popular entertainment than "The Gilded Age," and that piece will be presented once more this evening, with the fifth act of "Richard III.," as an after piece. At the matinee to-morrow, Miss Florence Colville, from the Australian Theatres, will make her debut before a San Francisco audience as Camille, in the play of that name. John T. Raymond playing Gaston. In the evening, Oulman's fine old comedy of "The Heir at Law," will be presented with Mr. Hoskins, one of the best comedians of the day, as Dr. Pangloss, and John T. Raymond as Zekiel Homespun.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The great programme performed at this house through the week will be presented to-night and also at the matinee to-morrow. It comprises the wonderful equestrian act by Madame Bockrill, the performances of the trained elephant Princess Mollie, the gymnastic feats of the Carlos, the fancy acts of the Kenebels, the talented performing horses, M. Bockrill's Shakesperian act, the comic pantomime of "Les Modistes de Paris" and other entertainments.

Ye Olde Folke's Concert.

The very successful Olde Folke's Concert will be repeated this evening with entire change of programme. Mme. Anna Bishop, Mrs. M. R. Blake, Mrs. C. B. Parsons, Mrs. H. D. Whittemore, Alfred Wilkie, Walter C. Campbell, Frank Glider, Sam Booth and the Orpheus Singing Society will all appear and will sing a number of old time songs and glees. The demand for tickets has been very large and Platt's Hall will doubtless be thronged on this as on the former occasion. Those who miss hearing the good old music of a hundred years ago, rendered as it should be, will regret having lost an opportunity rarely offered. Seats can be secured at the hall to-day.

Benefit to Charles Kohler.

On Tuesday, next, Charles Kohler will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit tendered him by numerous friends. A performance will be given consisting of a first part, interlude and farce. The beneficiary, Little May, Ned Kohler, Charles Morgan, Murphy and Mac, L. Hartnett, and many other popular amateurs will appear.

Bella Union Theatre.

In consequence of the great success of the local extravaganza entitled "The Naked Truth," it will be repeated this evening. H. R. Archer will present vocal gems, Fred Ritchie will appear in song and dance, Matt Kelly, Tommy Barton and others in acts, Miss Maggie St. Clair, will sing "Twenty Years Ago," and the laughable sketch entitled "Coolie Labor" will be performed by the company.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his original specialties, Mortimore in his sketches, Miss Katie Zoe in songs, Miss Maggie Brewer in dances, Harry Devoy in acts, and others in attractive performances, will afford abundant amusement to those who visit this house to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

The aquarium, the conservatories, the seal pond the art gallery, the menagerie, the skating rink and other attractions, draw immense crowds of visitors to these gardens. Performance Saturday and Sunday. Balloon ascension on Sunday.

City Gardens.

The First Annual Picnic of the Harmonic Stamm, No. 160, U. O. B. M., will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday, April 26th. Racing for prizes, fat men's race, and other diversions will take place on the grounds, and a pleasant time may be expected.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 3:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Broadway Wharf, connecting with the cars of the North Pacific Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

Strawberries! Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice fresh Strawberries. Parties living us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-r

DR. BEERS, Patent Gold Crowns for broken or decayed Teeth, 230 Kearny st.

The Carson Boy.

The Carson Appeal says: There was a good deal of fight to the square inch of atmosphere here yesterday. Hal Clayton tells us a good one. He let his dog out for an airing in the morning, and the first thing he knew a chunk of a boy in the neighborhood "seeked on" his dog for a fight with Hal's. Pretty soon Clate's dog began to get the better of the controversy, and then the lad came to the rescue of his Towser with a hoe. Hal remonstrated against this unfair interference, whereupon the boy gave him an invitation he didn't relish, and Clayton threatened to cut a switch and go him some. At this the lad got his blood up, and says he: "You jest try it on, old Sand-bags, and I'll make a hole in you bigger'n a rat hole;" "and I looked at him a minute," said Clayton, "and called off my dog." There is a bright future ahead of that young gentleman.

"Easy Diggin'."

A good story is told of an old gentleman living not a thousand miles from the Hub, who now and then indulges in an eccentricity of speech. Some time since his sister died and was buried. A few days after, an acquaintance, condoling with him in his bereavement, inquired where she was buried.

"Down south of the village," said the bereaved. "I did think o' buryin' her in the middle o' the town, but I thought best to go down to the south side. It's a pleasant place down there, an' easy diggin'."

Conscience is the mirror in which we see the evil of many of our designs.

He is a man who believes with the whole power of his soul.

Self-Made Men.

One of the New York illustrated papers publishes a short history of the life of self-made men every week. California, although in its infancy yet, boasts of quite number of that class of men, among whom is T. M. Antisell. Mr. Antisell came to this coast about ten years ago. He was young and just starting out in life; the passage here exhausted his funds but not his spirits or energies. His was one of those nervous, warm temperaments that scarcely ever become discouraged, no matter how adverse circumstances may be. Soon after his arrival he became interested in mines; the White Pine excitement was mainly due to the untiring energies of Mr. Antisell. He sold the Original Hidden Treasure Mine for $200,000, invested the bulk of the money in Oakland real estate, graded lots and built house after house, which were readily sold on the installment plan. He then made a trip East, and while in New York became interested in the manufacture of pianos. To enable himself to defy rivalry from those who bought their stock from the makers, he bought the entire establishment of one of our standard piano manufacturers, so that he could sell pianos, organs, etc., at manufacturer's prices. He opened a branch house at 614 Washington, and is able to sell first-class pianos on the installment plan (from $10 and upwards per month), cheaper than others sell for cash. Mr. Antisell also has on sale the Decker Brothers' pianos and the E. P. Needham & Sons' silver-toned organs.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm Kahn & Hass are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 778 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-r

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-r

Don't Spoil a Sneeze.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican says: One may be pardoned for sneezing under any circumstances, in view of the experience of a woman from this city in Westfield recently. Being in company, and attempting to suppress a sneeze, she felt a queer sensation in the left side of her face, which soon began swelling and drawing out of shape. A physician was called, but by the time he arrived her mouth and the left side of her face had become drawn up, disfiguring her so that her most intimate friends could scarcely recognize her features, while she found it impossible to close her left eye. The physicians say it is a kind of paralysis, caused by the great effort she made in suppressing the sneeze, and give but faint hopes that her features will ever resume their natural appearance. She is now in this city seeking medical advice.

Willing to Compromise.

A colored boy twelve years old was arrested in New Haven for stealing diamonds. "I won't talk afore I see a lawyer," he said to the police captain; "but I'm willing to gib five dollars to square de job with you."

A Forgiving Man.

The champion forgiver lives in Terre Haute. His wife has eloped five times, and he has taken her back and tried to make home happy each time.

Maryland Doctors.

When a Maryland doctor spells it "accomfortas," is it any wonder that patients die on his hands? Another doctor spells corrosive sublimate "ceros of sublimate."

If slander be a snake, it is a winged one. It flies as well as creeps.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-r

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to E. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1s

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugaman, at his symposiac of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2r

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 215 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 327 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

Overheard.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Shopper doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed. Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

Strawberries! Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store, 109 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1x

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

VIRGINIA CITY NEV.—On Monday night, Little Mac had a benefit at Piper's Opera House, and on Tuesday night, Billy Sweatnam took his benefit, and Maguire's California Minstrels closed their season.

CARSON CITY.—Maguire's California Minstrels, under engagement to John Piper, commenced a season at the theatre here on Wednesday evening, and have since played to good business.

SAN JOSE.—Bishasha, of the Opera House, offers his theatre on liberal terms to companies.

HOLLISTER.—The Amateur Minstrels of Hollister will give an entertainment at Hesterly's Hall this evening.

MERCED.—The San Francisco Minstrels, "composed of the best minstrel talent to be had in the State," so the Argus says, performed here on Tuesday evening.

DENVER.—O. B. Bruce, comedian, appeared at the Cricket Varieties on the 16th. Miss Elie La-Rue continued to be an attraction.

SACRAMENTO.—George J. Gee, the pianist, had a complimentary benefit concert at the Metropolitan Theatre on Monday evening. It was a success in every way.

Joe Guista.

Everybody knows Joe Guista (if they do not it is not Joe's fault), who keeps the Oyster and Chop House, at 105 California Market, and oysters for the appetites of his host of acquaintances. His place, heretofore, large as it was, was too small to accommodate the public, but Joe was equal to the occasion—he added an upper floor, which he fitted up and furnished beautifully. Part of the floor is used as a family restaurant, the rest is occupied by private rooms for ladies, and the result is, that he has got some of the neatest and pleasantest rooms to be found in the city. A ladies' toilet room is also provided, and, in fact, in fitting the place up Mr. Guista showed both judgment and taste. Mr. G. is a popular man, but the Oyster, Clam and Crab delicacies he serves up are still more popular. After the Theatre is out take your mother, wife or sweetheart to Joe's, and, our word for it, you will come away pleased. Remember the number—105 California Market. 4-z

Do You Feel

Cross-grained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-j

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or fossil, resorts to E. E. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Clam Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1s

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that he enterprising firm Kahn & Hess are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-z

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 8-v

Hair Goods.

The cheapest place in the city to buy Human and Imitation hair goods, Toys, Dolls, Ribbons etc., is the New York store 110 Second street. Agency for hair silk goods, made of pure silk No branch stores. Goods sent, C. O. D. The New York store has been established for years, and is the leading one in the city. 1-bh

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Poyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Music Hath Charms.

Pianos tuned and repaired, at moderate prices and satisfaction guaranteed, by one that understands the business. Also, will perform on Piano at Evening Parties, etc. Orders left at 754 Market or 54 Third street, will receive prompt attention by G. W. Morgan. 4-v

Read this Once.

It is universally acknowledged that the Steinway Piano and the Burdett Organ are the best instruments in the world. M. Gray, Music Publisher, 623 Clay street, is the sole Agent. Brass and String Instruments of the best make only. 3-i

Half of the pain and annoyance of a dental operation is obviated by going to a thorough practitioner. We had occasion to call on H. H. Thrall, Surgeon Dentist, 305 Kearny street, and can cheerfully recommend him. 3-i

Special to Ladies.

For dressmaking in all its branches and the latest styles, call on Mrs. J. J. Walker, at 310 Post street. Terms reasonable. 3-v

RENOVAL.—Madame Clara Antonia, the Clairvoyant Physician and Independent Trance Medium, 20 Geary street, near Kearny. Consult

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California.—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchases, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 833 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 832 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices,—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The bill for J. T. Raymond's benefit last night, consisted of "The Gilded Age," and the last act of "Richard III." Messrs. Raymond and Williamson, were excessively amusing in the last named performance. At the matinee to-day, Miss Florence Colville, late of the Australian theatres, will make her first appearance in this city, in the play of "Jamile," J. T. Raymond playing Gaston. In the evening Colman's old comedy of "The Heir at Law," will be presented with William Hoskins, an English comedian of first-class reputation, as Dr. Pangloss, and J. T. Raymond as Zekiel Homespun, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, Mrs. C. R. Saunders, Miss Kitie Wilson and others, whose names appear on our first page, are included in the cast.

OPERA HOUSE.—At the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening, W. S. Gilbert's play of "Charity," one of the most remarkable productions of the present day, will be performed, and will, as a matter of course, crowd the house. "Coarl y" is an admirable play, but much of its success in this city is due to the perfect manner in which it is performed by the company at the Opera House. A better representative of Mrs. Van Brugh than Miss Alice Dunning, the author could scarcely desire, Miss Dickey Lingard is charming as Eve, and W. H. Lingard as Mr. Fitz Partington is excellent. Miss Mary Wells, whom we recognized at once as an actress of first-class ability, has made a decided hit in the strong character part of Ruth Tredgett. A. D. Billings as Dr. Athelney, is a perfect realization of the English clergyman of the old school. John Rowson gives an admirable representation of the hypocritical church member, too common in these days, in Mr. Smalley, and J. K. Mortimer as Ted Athelney, and J. W. Norris as Fred Smalley, perfectly carry out the idea the author had when he drew these two very dissimilar characters. To-night and to-morrow night are announced as the last but last occasions on which "Charity" will be played.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—At the matinee to-day and again this evening the rich entertainment, which has delighted thousands during the week, will be presented. The queen of the arena, Mlle. Dockrill, will appear in her unapproachable act, Fred O'Brien and company will present their wonderful leaps, the Carlo Brothers will appear in great gymnastic feats, the Kembels in screaming acts, M. Dockrill in his very attractive acrobatic act on horseback, Master Johnny Cooke in his wonderful hurdle act, the Lilliputian elephant Princess Mollie in her intelligent performances, and others in a great variety of feats, which will be found set forth on our first page. The pantomime of "Les Modistes de Paris," with the charming Mlle. Fanny Carlo as Mme. Fourban, will terminate the performance.

LEWIS MORRISON'S BENEFIT.—On Friday evening next, May 1st, Lewis Morrison, the popular leading man of the California Theatre company, will take his farewell benefit, and will produce Celia Logan's new and original play, of "Rose," which was written expressly for him. Mr. Morrison has made a good record in California, and the public will see to it that he has a splendid benefit.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," with its military evolutions by female soldiers, popular ballads by H. K. Archer, comic acts by Matt Kelly, Tommy Bree, Fred Ritchie and others, the screaming farce of "Cockie Labor," and a great variety of other performances will make up a great Saturday night's entertainment at this popular variety theatre.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—Geo. C. Thompson is a great favorite at this house. He appears nightly in his popular specialties. Miss Lotta Gray sings comic songs, Mortimore presents his bright and original sketches, Miss Fanny Webster, an old-time favorite, appears nightly, and a very varied and attractive programme is performed.

COMPLIMENTARY BENEFIT TO C. KOHLER.—On Tuesday, next, Charles Kohler will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit tendered him by numerous friends. A performance will be given consisting of a first part, interlude and farce. The beneficiary, Little May, Ned Kohler, Charles Morrell, Murphy and Mac. L. Hartsell, and many other popular amateurs will appear.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—All should see the aquarium, the conservatories, the seal pond the art gallery, the menagerie, skating rink and other attractions, which draw immense crowds of visitors to these gardens. Performance Saturday and Sunday. Balloon ascension on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS.—The first annual picnic of Harmonia Stamm, No. 109, U.O.R.M., will be held City Gardens, on Sunday, April 26th. Racing for prizes, fat man's race, and other diversions will take place on the grounds, and a pleasant time may be expected.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30. P. M. and on Sunday at 9 A. M. from Front Street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the S. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Long Mountain Railroad.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangerberg, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is on view at the Museum of Dr. Jordan, 632 Merchant street.

BENEFIT OF ROBERT EBERLE.—The hard-working actor every now and then makes a point and receives a proof of the appreciation of the public. Their applause gratifies and encourages him. The stage manager works, day after day, night after night, and the public enjoy the result of his labors. They very seldom see him, (they may occasionally hear him when things go altogether too wrong behind the stage), but if he were not at his post there would be no play. He is the man at the wheel. Robert M. Eberle, the indefatigable Manager of the California Theatre, is to have his first benefit on Tuesday evening next, and we think the public will show their appreciation of the manner in which he has fulfilled his important duties by "giving him a bumper." He will present an entertainment in every way worthy of their patronage. The performance will commence with the comedy entitled "A Ride to the Cliff," in which the beneficiary will appear as Frederick Flighty, an extravaganza written by Charles Matthews, and presented by him to Mr. Hoskins, entitled "Nothing to Wear," in which Mr. Hoskins will appear as Dickey Sharp, and Miss Florence Colville as Betsy Smart, "The Spectre Bridegroom," with John T. Raymond as Diggory, and the drama of "Dick Turpin and Tom King," with Lewis Morrison as Dick Turpin, and Barton Hill as Tom King. Such a bill as this ought to draw a house, apart from the merit of the beneficiary.

TESTIMONIAL BENEFIT TO W. A. MESTAYER.—By correspondence published in another column, it will be perceived that everyone wants W. A. Mestayer to have a bumper benefit before he starts on his starring tour. Though Mr. Mestayer is far too good an actor to be ranked with the common run of stars, not being a one-art actor, but a man who can play many parts and play them well, everyone hopes and trusts that he will make a grand hit in his new career. The people of San Francisco will turn out en masse on this occasion, and the California Theatre will not be nearly large enough to hold those who will desire to be present on this occasion. There is not a man in the dramatic profession who has done more to entitle him to a testimonial of this kind than has W. A. Mestayer. He has never slighted a part committed to him, has always been ready to volunteer for any worthy object, and has made a host of friends by his affable manners, and thoroughly consistent Christian deportment, on account of which latter trait in his character he has the endorsement of FIGARO.

BENEFIT TO OMAR KINGSLEY.—The benefit to Omar Kingsley, one of the most famous members of the equestrian profession, to take place on Monday at the Palace Amphitheatre promises to be a grand affair. John Wilson tenders free use of the Amphitheatre, and entire stud of horses, W. H. L. Barnes, W. W. Lent, Alex. Austin, and other prominent citizens have taken the matter in hand and promise their co-operation, and a worthy ovation to a great artiste will be the result. Mr. Kingsley will, on this occasion, appear in his world renowned character of Ella Zoyara, in which he created such a sensation in this country and Europe.

YE OLDE FOLKE'S CONCERT.—An excellent programme was performed by the old folkes at Platt's Hall, last night, and was much enjoyed by a fashionable audience.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York, the New Park Theatre was opened on the 13th with a play entitled "Love's Penance," adapted by Mr. Fechter from Le Mariage des Enfants. Mr. Fechter acted splendidly and was frequently recalled. The play is a success.... "Mr. Alphonse" was produced by Mr. Daly at Fifth Avenue Theatre on the 16th, and proved a success, though the papers say the plot is "im proper"..... "Led Astray," at Union Square Theatre..... Miss Neilson is playing at Booth's Theatre, to be followed on the 27th proximo, by John McCullough..... "The Veteran", at Wallack's..... At Niblo's, Mayo, in "Davy Crockett," was to be followed by the variety company from the Lyceum on the 27th.....Max Strakosch, commenced a season of Italian opera, at the Academy of Music on the 20th, with Miliesse, Lucca, Torriani and Marcel. "Lohengrin," was the first opera of the season.....At Tony Pastor's, John Ward, Add Ryman, John Allen and company draw well..... "Humpty Dumpty," at the Broadway .....Grand ballet with Mlle. Bonfanti and M. Espinosa as principals and other attractions are presented at the Lyceum.....At the Bowery Theatre, the Georgia Minstrels were added to the bill.....At the Grand Opera House the Ellsworths have closed a most successful engagement.....At Wood's Museum, "The Hidden Hand" and Davis, the Ventriloquist, drew well.....At the Metropolitan, Cassim and Fitz Ham Richard, C. F. Ketchum and other favorites appeared.....At the Olympic, the Rigl Sisters, the Marteau Family and a party of French gymnasts were performed.....At Bryant's, the burlesque of "Ill-treated Il Trovatore" was the attraction.

L. J. Vincent, stage manager of Mlle's Gardens was to have a benefit on the 20th. The following artistes had volunteered: The Orrin Brothers and Mlle. Lucia, George Fawcett Rowe, Harry Seymour, E. Lamb, C. T. Parslee, Edith Challis, Cora Adriana, M. Nevissimo, Master Barney, Sam Rickey, and Prof. O'Reardon.

It seems that Ada Clare, the Queen of Bohemia, litterateur and actress, left some money; her will gives one-third of the income of her estate, which is said to be valued at $20,000, to her husband, for three years; and, at the expiration of that time, one-third of the principal. The income of the other two-thirds is to be paid to her son Aubrey, now 14 years of age, until he arrives at the age of 21 years, and then he is to be paid two thirds of the principal.

The Clipper says:

Miss Minnie Loder, serio-comic vocalist, who has been for the past two weeks under medical treatment in this city, is rapidly improving, and has fully recovered the use of her voice, which was seriously affected by a malady of the throat.

Her voice was never particularly brilliant.

It is probable that Miss Jane Coombs will soon begin an engagement at the Lyceum, New York, appearing as Lady Teazle.

Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre Company will occupy Hooley's Chicago Opera-house during the month of June.

J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong, Hurley and Marr, and Cellini's ballet, are the principal attractions at the Theatre Comique, St. Louis.

Charles A. Chizzola, late manager of the Aimee Bouffe Troupe, left for Europe with his wife 4th.

Philip Phillips, nasal sweet singer of Israel, has been singing on Long Island to Valley Stream, Pearsalls, Rockville Centre, Baldwins and Freeport audiences.

Little Nell and troupe, Grand Rapids, Mich., 13th, 14th. She was recently thrown from a carriage, and prevented from playing for several nights.

J. B. Booth's company, with Mrs. J. B. Booth as star, Easton, 11th.

The Kellogg English Opera Troupe commenced their Washington season on the 20th.

Miss Marietta Ravel opened in Rochester, N. Y., on the 20th.

Salvini will play in Hartford, Conn., on May 11th.

Baker and Farron were last week in Memphis.

Maggie Mitchell has purchased a new play.

Ristori will shortly return to New York, and Miss Carlotta Le Clercq has purchased, from Miss Bateman the right to play "Mary Warner."

Mr. H. S. Murdock of the Boston Theatre, goes to Hooley's Opera House, Chicago, next season. Mr. Jas. O'Neill, now of McVicker's, is to be the leading man.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett played in Minneapolis, 20th, 21st and 22d.

Miss Lucille Western commenced an engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 20th.

The Fall season at Union Square Theatre will probably be opened with a new play by G. F. Rowe, Esq.

Mr. Joseph Jefferson commenced an engagement at Pike's Opera House, Cincinnati, on the 13th.

Byron's Comedy of "Old Soldiers" will probably follow "Love's Penance," at the new Park Theatre.

Miss Ada Gray has been playing in "Charity" at Rochester, New York.

Jacquey, the celebrated French Hercules, who, while hanging by his feet to a trapeze, lifts two horses from the ground, arrived 9th to fulfill his engagement with P. T. Barnum.

At Philadelphia, on the evening of the 8th, about 9 o'clock, an accident occurred at Mortimer's Variation, which resulted in an injury to a trapeze performer, known as Mme. Leola. She had been on the trapeze for a few minutes, and was hanging, head downward, outside the edge of the footlights, and about twenty feet from the floor, when she slipped and fell head foremost, striking the edge of the piano, over the key-board, and injuring the fingers of the performer. As she struck, she turned over and fell into the orchestra, injuring both knees considerably. She was assisted to the stage, and, going to the green-room, reappeared. The accident caused a good deal of excitement, but she made an attempt to again go on the trapeze, when parties in the audience objected, and she retired, being subsequently taken to her home. Her injuries are said not to be serious. There was no net under the trapeze to break the fall in case an accident occurred.

Mr. Barrett has been playing "Richelieu," in Detroit. One of the critics of that city says:

It is wonderful how near perfection Mr. B. has brought this difficult role. The play was somewhat marred by badly-managed calcium lights. The audience honored Mr. Barrett with a call after each act, and with a double call after the fourth act.

We are sorry about those calcium lights.

This is the sort of idiocy the New York Clipper publishes: "It's nice to be a favorite actor, or a popular actress, or an indefatigable treasurer, for gold-headed canes, and goblets and sets of silver pour in upon them like it was the reign of specie payments. Sometimes it is alleged—although the alleged may not be a well-balanced 'LEDGER'—houses and lands are cast at their feet in a moment of enthusiastic insanity, so to speak; and sometimes its but an untried pipe! Recently the manager of the California Theatre was the recipient of a fine meerschaum. We hope that John may color it soon.

Miss Neilson, in accordance with a promise made several months ago, gave a matinee performance at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, on the 9th instant, for the benefit of the Philadelphia Fountain Society. The programme consisted of "As You Like It," with Miss Neilson as Rosalind instead of "The Lady of Lyons," which had been previously announced. A large audience was present. Mr. W. E. Sheridan came from Washington to appear as Orlando. The other parts were filled by the members of the company at the Walnut-street Theatre, Mr. Thomas A. Hall, manager of that theatre, deserving praise for his efforts to make the benefit a success. At the conclusion of the play Miss Neilson was presented with a magnificent floral offering, in the shape of a Fountain. Dr. W. G. Swann, President of the Fountain Society, in tendering this compliment to the lady made a neat address, which was appropriately responded to by Miss Neilson, who was subsequently entertained at the residence of Dr. Swann, and there presented with a beautiful basket.

NEW YORK, April 8, 1874.

MRS. MATILDA HERON—MY DEAR FRIEND:—I have been told that you desire to consecrate your charming little daughter, Bijou, to our grand art, which your own genius has already so brilliantly adorned. If this be true, send Bijou to me. I have grant the opportunity for her. The child of "Alphonse" will give her a glorious debut. This little nameless being whom Alexander Dumas has created for the pity and the admiration of the world is a revelation of child life, and I feel that your pretty Bijou was born to give it breath and being in this country. Little Gerlande, whom I have always relied upon to perform the children of my plays, has suddenly fallen sick, and ill fly to you, not alone because the emergency urges it, but because I am prompted by another feeling, which convinces me that the part of Adrienne in "Alphonse" will be most naively developed by your little girl. Ever Sincerely,

AUGUSTIN DALY.

AUGUSTIN DALY, ESQ—MY DEAR SIR:—In your lofty, noble little note to me I half recognize what many years ago I fully confided in—your enthusiasm for dramatic art—and I confide my little girl to your care with gratefully, and with full conviction that she will develop under your care all that is within her. As a child, it is beyond mere names to express her goodness. I have travelled the world over and never have I seen her equal for nobility of candor, truth, and simplicity of manner, yet profundity of wisdom. I bequeath her, my dear friend, Daly, to your care. No praise could go further; and I beg you will give my heartfelt thanks to every member of your Corporation company for all the sweet, endearing kindness bestowed upon my beloved Bijou.

April 9, 1874. MATILDA HERON.

The New York Mercury says: Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, will inaugurate the ensuing fall and winter season, at the California Theatre, San Francisco Sept 7, with Mr. Clifton W. Tayleure's successful play of "A Woman's Wrong."

Carlotta Le Clercq, Boston Theatre, 20th, Wallack's, New York, June 1.

Mr. Charles Majilton, while at Columbus, Ohio, on the 3d, stepped in the darkness into the basement of the City Hall, around which no railing existed. He fell among broken bottles and pieces of broken glass, and laid stunned for some time. Though having a badly sprained ankle, hand and arm, together with many bruises, he managed to dress for the stage, but, when before the footlights, found he could not perform. He was laid up for the rest of the week. Majilton claims to have been the sixth unfortunate who had tumbled down the hole, and talks of suing the city for damages.

The New York Mercury says:

Jennie Lee and a new troupe were to leave San Francisco, 6th, for an interior trip under Genesee.

How were they to leave? In a balloon? We have not yet heard of Genesee's exodus.

Miss Adelaide Neilson arrived in New York from San Francisco on the 10th.

Joe. Jefferson and new troupe, opened a travelling season at Evansville, Ind., 13th; Indianapolis, 16th; Cincinnati, 20th, one week; Oil City, Pa., 29th.

Academy of Music, Galveston, closed for season, March 28, with a benefit to Manager Scoles. The Wheeler troupe will soon start on a tour through the interior, as the New York and California Combination, with Bud Wheeler, Elise De Conrcey, Master Benny, Joe Taylor, John De Angelis, proprietor and manager, La Petite Sallie De Angelis, Master Jeff De Angelis, John Fisher, Dora Darrah, Tybel Cassiar and Prof. Obey.

The Opera-house, late Dominion Theatre, Montreal, Mr. Alf. Cambridge, business manager, has engaged for the summer season, opening 20th: Frank Hussey, Australian and Californie, comedian; Blanche Clifton, vocalist; Mlle. Bertha, The famous Majiltons will terminate their present season on the 25th, at the Academy of Music, Chicago, after which they will go to London, for the summer months.

OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, April 15, 1874.

MY DEAR WILL: I understand that the company of the California Theatre propose tendering you a Complimentary Benefit previous to your departure from San Francisco. This is as it should be, for no one deserves it more than yourself. Always ready to assist your brother professionals, it is now their turn to compliment you upon the eve of your "new departure." Permit me, for "Auld Lang Syne," to offer my services for the proposed testimonial, with my best wishes for your future success, and that the affair may be worthy of you.

Believe me, your Friend,

JOHN T. RAYMOND.

From the Lingards.

LICK HOUSE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER: It gives us great pleasure to add our names to the list for your testimonial, which you so well deserve. That it may be a bumper, is the sincere wish, of

Yours very truly,

WM. HORACE LINGARD,
ALICE DUNNING LINGARD,
DICKIE LINGARD.

TO W. BARTON HILL, MANAGER—DEAR SIR:—A very unexpected and complimentary letter was handed to me this morning signed by every member of your company, including the attaches, also a very flattering note from my old and esteemed friend, John T. Raymond, also present star, in consequence of which I would respectfully solicit a night at the California Theatre to further their kind intention and put myself under lasting obligations to its worthy manager,

I am, sir, very truly,

W. A. MESTAYER.

Mr. Hill's Answer.

MANAGER'S OFFICE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER:—In reply to your favor, let me say that I shall be glad if you will add my name to the list of those who have very properly offered you this testimonial of the esteem in which you are held among us, and that with the consent of Mr. Raymond, I have the pleasure of selecting the evening of Saturday, May 2d, for the proposed complimentary benefit to you; wishing you a bumper on that occasion, and good fortune through life, I am

Yours Sincerely, BARTON HILL.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—It was with no small pleasure I can assure you, that I received your letters as unexpected, as they were gratifying, and sensible as I am of the undeserved honor you have tendered me, still I cannot but regret my inability to express in adequate terms, the sincere appreciation and deep sense of gratitude I feel, not only at its flattering nature, but the generous and liberal spirit that dictated it. Thanking you for your kindness, and your good wishes for my success, in the new career I have chosen, I have selected through the gracious permission of Mr. Raymond and Mr. Hill, Saturday, May 2d, for the testimonial. Very Gratefully Yours,

W. A. MESTAYER.

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included.

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance led stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen:
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The success of Mrs. John Wood in the new comedy of "An American Lady," at the Criterion Theatre, London, has been very great. The Hornet, by the way, the liveliest and most reliable theatrical journal in England, says: "As Georgiana, Mrs. John Wood had a most difficult part. An American lady is supposed to be different from other ladies—as chic as a French lady, as sensible as an English lady, and yet with a touch of provincial wildness, and the abandon of the prairie. To play the part with a Yankee accent, like Mrs. Barney Williams, would have been fatal. To play it simply as a lady, without a hint of Americanism, would have been equally unsatisfactory. There was a golden middle course, an artistic o menos, and Mrs. John Wood achieved a histrionic triumph. The English audience cheered the American; the large deputation from the Langham Hotel cheered the lady. Mrs. Wood secured the French chic by her costumes, she gave the American abandon by her manner, which can only be described as brilliant; and under all were the solid sense, gay esprit, and refined power which ladies of all nations claim as their prerogatives. The critical audience, quick to appreciate the art which many of them were quite competent to analyse, cheered Mrs. John Wood throughout the play, and at its close she was buried in bouquets. There has never been an actress who more steadily labored to supplement extraordinary natural genius by conscientious devotion to her art and thoughful study of the subtleties of the characters she creates; and it is a positively intellectual pleasure to watch the development of an artist, who seizing the popular favor in "La Belle Sauvage," and in Poll, shows herself a greater actress the greater the parts which she is called upon to fill.

Mr. H. J. Byron, at the New Criterion Theatre, London, has achieved a triple success as manager, author and actor, in his new piece of "An American Lady." The Hornet says: "He more than replaces Mr. Sothern in a part in which Mr. Sothern would be accepted, but which he could never realize so thoroughly."

It is just possible that Mr. John Clarke and his wife, who is professionally known as Miss Furtado, will visit the United States next year. Mr. John Clarke is one of the soundest actors on the English stage. He is sometimes confused with the American J. S. Clarke, but they are widely different in style. Miss Furtardo, before her marriage, was a great favorite at the Adelphi and Princess. She is a charming actress, and one of the belles of the London stage. She and Adelaide Neilson used to share the honors between them, as far as personal beauty was concerned. Miss Furtardo, in style and temperament is not unlike poor Deeclee, whom all dramatic Paris mourns.

A Market Report.

The Chicago Sun has the following market report: Frogs and fresh radishes have appeared. They are red and handsome. (We mean the radishes.) They also "sing" melodiously. (We mean the frogs.)

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. What Zaccheus Did.

A story is told of a certain newspaper proprietor who relieved his dishonesty by a spice of humor.

The agent of a large manufacturing house went to him to protest against frequent assaults in the editorial columns.

"What the devil is the matter?" asked the latter. "All you say is an infernal lie! But, then, we feel that we can't afford to have this thing go on. What shall we do to stop it?"

The proprietor appeared abstracted for a few moments, and then remarked: "I was thinking about a character in the Bible. Let me see; his name was—was Zaccheus. What did he do? Oh, yes; he climbed a tree to see the Lord; and he didn't see Him, either. What did he do then? Do you remember Mr. Agent, what he did then?"

"He came down, I suppose."

"Ah, yes?—thank you—that's it! He came down, sensible fellow; he came down."

The parable was fitting. The agent imitated the example of Zaccheus, and the journalistic batteries were instantaneously spiked.

Nevada Candidate.

The editor of the Reno Cresent, the ancient Pistol of the Profession, says the editor of the Journal is a candidate for the State Senate; of the Appeal for the State Printership; the editor of the Chronicle for State Mineralogist; of the Tribune for the Insane Asylum; of the News for the Penitentiary, of the Enterprise for perdition."

A Touching Light.

If there is anything more impressive than than the manner in which an inebriated individual confides the secrets of his heart to a sympathetic lamp-post, it is the sight of a bevy of young ladies as they offer their adoration at the shrine of an unmarried clergyman.

Numerous Titles.

The editor of a Wisconsin papdr says: "Wednesday's mail brought to us a letter addressed, 'Rev.,' another the 'Hon.,' another 'Col.,' one 'Mr.,' and the last 'Esq.' On the way to dinner we accidently stopped on a woman's trail, and she addressed us thus: 'You brute.'"

Too Bad.

A Baptist clergyman relates, as his early experience, that he engaged to preach for a society for fifty dollars a year. Upon a settlement at the end of the year, he found that the committee had an item of twenty dollars charged to him for the use of the pulpit to practice in. One of the deacons, however, by way of sympathy for the pastor, presented him a pair of boot-taps.

A Complaisant Man.

At Bangor, Me., a saloon keeper made the ladies happy by informing them that as soon as he sold the whisky he had on hand, he would stop; but they were not so happy when he told them he had seventeen barrels on hand.

A Great Attraction.

A Georgia paper has discarded chromos as agencies wherewith to lure the unsophisticated subscriber, and now holds out the tempting promise of a "thrilling cereal." This is probably to catch the Grangers.

Music Hath Charms.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2d, 1874.

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR:—On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about nine years; although retaining my speaking faculties I had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long was it since I had heard myself speak, but now I am able to carry on a conversation without trouble, provided that my attention is not detracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,
DAVID O. HASKINS.

The above is one more testimonial added to Dr. ABORN'S large number, which is constantly augmenting. The letter speaks for itself.

AN OPEN LETTER
From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 235 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

A constant succession of novelties produced at this house will certainly keep up its popularity. Ever since the first appearance of the Lingards, crowded houses have been the rule, and before a piece has begun to lose its attractiveness it is succeeded by another. To-night Augustin Daly's great society play of "Alixe," which was played in New York over six hundred times, will be produced for the first time in San Francisco. Miss Alice Dunning will appear as Alixe, Miss Dickey Lingard as Lucienne, Miss Josie Batchelder, who will make her first appearance in San Francisco on this occasion as the Marquise de Osseranne, W. B. Lingard as the Duke de Mirandol, Miss Mary Wells as Madame Valery, John Howson as the Marquis de Osseranne, A. D. B Hinge as the Count de Somerive, and J. W. Norris as Henri de Kerdran.

California Theatre.

Miss Florence Colville, from Australia, made her first appearance before a California audience, at the matinee on Saturday, in the character of "Camille." She played the role artistically and received a call at the end of the fourth act. Barton Hill presented a capital impersonation of "Armand." In the evening, "The Heir at Law" was produced, and Mr. Hoskins, a comedian of the old school, made his appearance as "D. Pangloss." His rendition of the part was endorsed by the audience, who recalled him after his second exit. John T. Raymond played the part of Zekiel Homespun, admirably. Barton Hill did some capital acting as Dick Dowlas, and Henry Edwards, Walter Leman, Mrs. C. R. Saunders, Miss Kitie Wilton and Miss Maggie Moore, were good in their respective parts To-night Goldsmith's comedy of "She Stoops to Conquer," will be presented with John T. Raymond as "Tony Lumpkin," Mr. Hoskins as "Young Marlow," Miss Florence Colville as "Miss Hardcastle," and a generally strong cast which is published in full on our first page. To-morrow night, Robert M. Eberle, the efficient stage manager, will take his benefit. A great bill will be presented.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The grand complimentary benefit tendered to Omar Kingsley, by his personal and professional friends and John Wilson will take place this evening. A very attractive programme will be performed. Young Leo will make his first appearance in a pony hurdle act, E. H. Dockrill will present his great Shakespearian act, Mlle. Dockrill will appear in her unapproachable act of equestrianism, the Carlos, the Kenebles and others will appear, and the beneficiary will present his charmingly graceful equestrian act, in his original character of Kila Zoyara. The Palace Amphitheatre will be crowded to overflowing to-night, and Mr. Kingsley will receive an ovation to which his record in the profession justly entitles him.

Bella Union Theatre.

"The Naked Truth," a great olio of songs, acts and dances, "Going to the Ball," by Jimmy Moore, Miss Somers and Tommy Bree, the laughable Sketch of "Cockle Labor," and other entertainments will be offered to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his specialties, Morlimore in sketches, "Struck Oil," by Hugney Morton, Johnny Price, Harry Devoy and others, and many other amusing acts will be performed to-night.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 122.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Lewis Morrison is billing his benefit handsomely. It is to come off on Friday next.

Fred Lyster is due here shortly, as advance agent of Mr. Sothern.

"A Ride to the Cliff," "Nothing to Wear," "The Spectre Bridegroom" and "Dick Turpin" and "Tom King" will be played at the California Theatre to-morrow night for the benefit of Robert M. Eberle.

A Mr. Parsons, of this city, imagines that he is going to make a fortune out of what the Call terms "a new invention." This new invention is "fire-proof scenery." Fire-proof scenery is used in many theatres in Europe now, and we think Mr. Parsons will have some difficulty in securing a patent for scenery painted on wire screens instead of canvas.

The Alhambra, reconstructed and re-named "Maguire's New Theatre" will be opened on Monday next by the Lingard Troupe. It presents a very attractive appearance, and the seating capacity has been increased to 600. On Monday next the Opera House will be occupied by Maguire's California Minstrels augmented by Lester and Allen, Ethiopian comedians and song and dance men, Sanford and Wilson, character performers, and the great Lulu, who will appear in the sensation of the age.

On Tuesday, next, Charles Kohler will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit tendered him by numerous friends. A performance will be given consisting of a first part, interlude and farce. The beneficiary, Little May, Ned Kohler, Charles Morrell, Murphy and Mac, L. Hartnett, and many other popular amateurs will appear.

T. W. Keene, has been engaged as leading juvenile, at the California Theatre next season, Miss Bell Pateman, leading lady, Robert Pateman, low comedian, J. P. Burnett, character parts and light comedy Miss Jennie Lee, soubrette. Miss Bell Chapman, second soubrette. These artists with Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, Mrs. Judah, Miss Kitie Wilton, Mrs. Saunders, F. J. Buckley, Walter Leman, Miss Neilie Cummins, Miss Carrie Wyatt, Mrs. Sophie Edwin, John Wilson, W. Barry, and others who remain, will make up a strong company.

J. T. M., is informed that the last record we have of the Frank Wilton dramatic troupe, is a performance at Merced, in San Joaquin valley, on the 14th inst.

Miss Sally Hinckley, will leave to-morrow for Eureka, Humboldt county, with a strong company for the purpose of giving performances in Pratt's Opera House, during the spring season. Miss Carrie Lewis, W. J. Cogswell, Miss Ella Stockton, R. Lewis, Miss Louise Osborne, D. Belasco, W. G. Dudley, G. Osborne and Charles Bowman Dress Reform.

The St. Louis Republican has a lady correspondent in New York, who writes as follows: "Then we have low-cut shoes with fancy stockings, and oh! another sweet thing. Pantalettes. You can show 'em in the spring. There's so many muddy places. They must be wide, elaborately trimmed with lace frills and embroidery, and reach the ankle. They are touching, and when worn with thin and queer foot-handles very becoming. To be sure the irreverent youth who enjoyed the privilege of taking me to the charity ball beheld these pantalettes for the first time beneath the raised train of a belle. I was too late to interfere. He rushed forward, and in the most mysterious and anxious manner whispered to her that she was 'losing 'em off.' No words can describe the look she rewarded him with. Poor dear, he fell back discomfitted, and let two or three couples pass him, when he exclaimed, 'Why, they are all losing 'em off,' and that's the effect of the pantalette.'"

A Voice from the Bench.

"How much better it would have been to have shaken hands and allow it was all a mistake," said a Detroit judge. "Then the lion and the lamb would have lain down together, and white-robed peace would have fanned you with her wings and elevated you with her smiles of approbation. But no; you went clawing and biting and rolling in the mud, and here you are. It's $5 apiece."

Trials of a Benedict.

We are despondent, we have quarrelled with the wife of our bosom, and we have nothing but frowns and cross looks, we tried to appease her, a pair of kids, still a frown, a new hat, still unrelenting. The promise of a new dress yet she was not satisfied. Almost discouraged, we called into Libby & Swett's at 634 Market street, and ordered a package o their Rep Note Paper and Envelopes, when we reached home that night our wife greeted us with smiles, and we were happy, we had found the balm to sooth her, she wanted something to do, and the note paper was so beautiful that she could not rest easy until she had written half a dozen notes to as many dear friends. We determined there should be no more frowns and the next day called on Libby & Sweet again and ordered a quire each of half a dozen different styles sent home. Reader, beware of Libby & Sweet, shun 634 Market street, for we are weary of life, and L. & S. are the cause. They sent home the paper, our wife liked it and felt at once that she must write to her Marie, but she can not decide what paper to use. The Rep is splendid, but then that lilac shade is so handsome, and the vergonstein is so delicate a color, and so she goes on until we are distracted, (one satisfaction is that she lies awake nights thinking of the paper) Our regret is that we did not go to some store where they keep only the ordinary paper, but fate willed that Libby & Sweet should have our custom, and as they pride themselves on being the Fashionable Stationer of the city they would not send out anything but the latest styles. 4 bg

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corvillie keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

What Cheer Laundry

JUDGE NOT.

How do we know what hearts have wilted sin?
How do we know?
Many, like sepulchres, are foul within,
Whose outward garb is spotless as the snow,
And many may be pure we think not so.
How near to God the souls of such have been,
What mercy secret penitence may win—
How do we know?

How can we tell who sinned more than we?
How can we tell?
We think our brother walked guiltily,
Judging him in self-righteousness. Ah, well!
Perhaps had we been driven through the hell
Of his untold temptations, we might be Less upright in our daily walk than he—
How can we tell?

Dare we condemn the ills that others do?
Dare we condemn?
Their strength is small their trials not a few,
The tide of wrong is difficult to stem.
And if to us more clearly than to them
Is given knowledge of the good and true,
More do they need our help, and pity, too—
Dare we condemn?

God help us all, and lead us day by day,
God help us all!
We cannot walk alone the perfect way,
Evil allures us, tempts us, and we fall.
We are but human and our power is small;
Not one of us may boast, and not a day
Rolls o'er our heads but each hath need to say,
God bless us all?

A Prejudiced Fishmonger.

In Marysville, Cal., the other day, a Newfoundland dog walked into a market, dropped a ten cent piece out of his mouth, and walked off with a whole salmon. The fishmonger says some folks may call that dog intelligent, but he thinks that a dog that can't distinguish between a ten cent slice and a $5 fish hasn't got even common sense.

Alas! for the Drama.

"Decline of the drama" is an odd phrase, when there are 166 theatres in Great Britain, exclusive of forty-eight of all kinds in London alone, to say nothing of 295 music halls, employing 1,410 professionals, including 148 comic vocalists!

New and Appropriate.

The latest contribution to the lexicography of the future is the following from the New York World: Butlle, v. a.; to connive at black-mailing merchants and plundering the treasury. Butler, n.; one who butlles.

Excursion to the Yo Semite.

The Yo Semite has long been an attractive theme for writers to dilate on, for artists to paint from, for tourists to visit. One of the first parties of this season was sent through to the Yo Semite Valley, the Big Trees, and the Geysers, a few days since, by Houseworth & Co., of this city. The Messrs. Houseworth, furnish guides and conveyances for all who purchase tickets through them. They have guides in their employ, throughout the season, have a branch Photograph establishment at the Big Trees and in the Yo Semite Valley, the first party of the season (three gentlemen and four ladies) were taken en-groupe, and is now on exhibition at their Art Rooms, 9 and 12 Montgomery street. We understand that the Messrs. Houston & Co., are making arrangements for an excursion party to the Yo Semite and Big Trees. Nearly every party that have visited the valley for the last year or two, have been Photographed by Houseworth & Co., and added to their gallery of celebrities. 4 bg

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 8-J

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line, Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Letter from John T. Raymond.

OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, April 15, 1874.

MY DEAR WILL: I understand that the company of the California Theatre propose tendering you a Complimentary Benefit previous to your departure from San Francisco. This is as it should be, for no one deserves it more than yourself. Always ready to assist your brother professionals, it is now their turn to compliment you upon the eve of your "new departure." Permit me, for "Auld Lang Syne," to offer my services for the proposed testimonial, with my best wishes for your future success, and that the affair may be worthy of you.

Believe me, your Friend,

JOHN T. RAYMOND.

From the Lingards.

TO MR. BARTON HILL, MANAGER—DEAR SIR:—A very unexpected and complimentary letter was handed to me this morning signed by every member of your company, including the attaches, also, a very flattering note from my old and esteemed friend, John T. Raymond, the present star, in consequence of which I would respectfully solicit a night at the California Theatre to further their kind intention and put myself under lasting obligations to its worthy manager,

I am, sir, very truly,

W. A. MESTAYER.

Mr. Hill's Answer.

MANAGER'S OFFICE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER:—In reply to your favor, let me say that I shall be glad if you will add my name to the list of those who have very properly offered you this testimonial of the esteem in which you are held among us, and that with the consent of Mr. Raymond, I have the pleasure of selecting the evening of Saturday, May 2d, for the proposed complimentary benefit to you; wishing you a bumper on that occasion, and good fortune through life, I am

Yours Sincerely, BARTON HILL.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—It was with no small pleasure I can assure you, that I received your letters as unexpected, as they were gratifying, and sensible as I am of the undeserved honor you have tendered me; still, I cannot but regret my inability to express in adequate terms, the sincere appreciation and deep sense of gratitude I feel, not only at its flattering nature, but the generous and liberal spirit that dictated it. Thanking you for your kindness, and your good wishes for my success, in the new career I have chosen, I have selected through the gracious permission of Mr. Raymond and Mr. Hill, Saturday, May 2d, for the testimonial. Very Gratefully Yours,

W. A. MESTAYER

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by its light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen:
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins[1]
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name.
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain!
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

A Queer Sermon.

Highlanders have the habit, when talking their English, such as it is, of interjecting the personal pronoun "he" where not required, such as "The king has come." Often, in consequence, a sentence or an expression is rendered sufficiently ludicrous, as the sequel will show. A gentleman says he has had the pleasure of listening to a clever man, the Rev. Mr.——, let his locality be a secret, and recently he began his discourse thus: "My friends, you will find the subject of discourse this afternoon in the first Epistle general of the Apostle Peter, chapter 5th and verse 8th, in the words, 'The Devil he goeth about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour.' Now, my friends, with your leave, we will divide the subject of our text to-day into four heads. Firstly, we shall endeavor to ascertain 'Who the Devil he was;' Secondly, we shall inquire into his geographical position — namely, 'Where the Devil he was going?' Thirdly, and this of a personal character, 'Who the Devil he was seeking?' And fourthly and lastly, we shall endeavor to solve a question which has never been solved yet, 'What the Devil he was roaring about?"

A Good Suggestion.

The Marysville Appeal says:

Butler will be fifty-six years old next November. The proposal to make the anniversary of his birthday one of national fasting and prayer, excites much enthusiasm. Butler has more influence, considering his unpopularity, than any man in Congress, and it is a mystery to many how the man holds up against such a pressure of unfriendly public opinion. His constitution must be of iron and his will of steel. His audacity is of satanic sublimity.

We wonder Gerald Massey didn't say anything about Butler in his second lecture. A casual allusion to him would not have been out of place in a lecture entitled "Why Does not God kill the Devil?"

A Trap.

We wrote a very pretty little religious story the other day, and to show that it was original we prefaced it thus:

We did not find the following story in an exchange, but any religious paper that likes to copy it, can credit it to "an exchange."

One of the Virginia City papers coolly copies the story and has the cheek to preface it just as we did. Any editor who does this runs the risk incurred by Ananias. We shouldn't at all object to hearing of a few editors being struck dead, and, we are looking forward to something of that kind happening.

Complimentary.

The Washington Star says: "It has been stated that no clergyman was present at the death of Senator Sumner. It appears, however, that Dr. Sunderland, the Chaplain of the Senate, was there." On which the Louisville Courier-Journal comments: "Well, he was not much of a clergyman—not enough to hurt."

The Oakland Mystery.

Every one we meet is asking us what we think of the Oakland furniture rumpus. We have had no doubt since that trunk came waltzing down stairs, but all the commotion was the work of a party of jolly "baggage-smashers" on a spree in spirito.

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

Imperial Milk Punch.

Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

[From the Danbury News.]

A carman is an individual who wants you to have your furniture all ready to load at 7 A. M., and comes around in the afternoon to see if you have done it.

A fortune-teller has predicted that Mark Twain will die this year—but he is only going to start a paper, which is fitting pretty close for a fortune-teller.

A father writes to the Brooklyn Argus inquiring what recreation he can employ to keep his boys at home, and that amiable paper proposes "a camel in the back yard."

A North street lady says she does not like to have it rain. It depresses her, and makes her feel like "shaking the stuffing out of somebody." She says she doesn't think it is right to feel that way.

An enterprising boy living on Balmforth avenue made a very good kite with the aid of his aunt's tooth brush. She didn't discover his artifice until she got her mouth full of sour paste.

A Danbury man, somewhat dissatisfied with his last ton of coal, sends us the following communication: "What is the difference between Dick Turpin and a coal dealer? One is a highwayman, and the other isn't."

The Danbury man's vermifuge, "The Early Bird," is forestalled by a Pennsylvania man's power of the same name, in consequence of which, the Danbury man has changed the nature of his article by changing its name, and it now bids fair to become popular as a hair dye.

It was an unfortunate idea making the new ten-cent scrip so much like the fifty-cent scrip. It is no pleasant sensation, after hurrying from a store and all the way home under the impression that you have beaten somebody out of forty cents, to find that you have the right change after all. We may be a little prejudiced, but it strikes us this is taking an ungenerous advantage of a trusting nature.

There is nothing a woman is more deeply concerned in than her whitewashing, or nothing she is so conceited about as her own efforts in that line, if it doesn't "streak." To keep it from "streaking" is her highest ambition, and when she has succeeded, every woman within a mile is dragged in to see it, and her unfortunate husband is forced to admire it until he hurts his neck. Every woman has a natural desire to see her husband whitewash. When she has a job of it on hand she invariably proffers it to him with a strong expression of doubt in his ability to perform it, a distrust he hastens to confirm with cheerful alacrity. Man's antipathy to whitewashing arises mainly from having at some time or another stepped on the handle of a full brush reposing across a pail, and throws about two quarts of the mixture over himself and the furniture, besides tipping over the pail and emptying its contents in his shoes.

No condition is too low to admit of hope.

How to Get into the Theatre Free.

Relaxation and amusement is necessary for every man, and although the theatre is a favorite place of amusement, one cannot always afford to go as often as they might wish, but if when they are in want of coal, they purchase of Berryman & Doyle, at their retail place, 413 and 415 Pacific street, they can save money enough on every load to buy a reserved seat in the theatre. Messrs. Berryman & Doyle guarantee full weight. Their wholesale office is on the Bulkhead, between Jackson and Pacific streets. 4-bh

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company [office 304 Pine street], are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-r

Half of the pain and annoyance of a dental operation is obviated by going to a thorough practitioner. We had occasion to call on H. H. Thrall, Surgeon Dentist, 305 Kearny street, and can cheerfully recommend him. 3-r

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Boyle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2d, 1874.

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR:—On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about nine years; although retaining my speaking faculties I had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long was it since I had heard myself speak, but now I am able to carry on a conversation without trouble, provided that my attention is not detracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,
DAVID O. HASKINS.

The above is one more testimonial added to Dr. ABORN'S large number, which is constantly augmenting. The letter speaks for itself.

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 283 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 287 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"She Stoops to Conquer," was capitally played last night. John T. Raymond as Tony Lumpkin, Miss Florence Colville as Miss Hardcastle, Mr. Hoskins as Young Marlowe, Henry Edwards as Mr. Hardcastle, Mrs. C. R. Saunders as Mrs. Hardcastle, Miss Ellie Wilton as Mary Neville, and W. Barry as Diggory, acquitted themselves admirably. To-night Robert M. Eberle, the stage manager, whose skill in mounting the pieces produced at the California Theatre, is generally recognized, and who is, moreover, a capital fellow who drives his stage with an easy rein when the road is smooth, will take his benefit. He will appear himself in the sketch entitled "A Ride to the Cliff," Mrs. Charles Bliss, will make her first appearance, and will deliver a recitation, Mr. Hoskins and Miss Florence Colville, will play "Nothing to Wear," an original extravaganza by Charles Mathews, Henry Edwards will recite a poem, J. T. Raymond will appear as "Diggory," in "The Spectre Bridegroom," and the performances will terminate with the two-act drama of "Dick Turpin and Tom King," with Lewis Morrison and Barton Hill, as the heroes of the road.

Opera House.

Augustin Daly's great success entitled "Alixe," was splendidly put on the stage at this house and splendidly played. The manner in which the piece was mounted was the subject of general remark. The many beautiful statues and ornaments with which the drawing-room was adorned, did credit to the good taste of John Sherman, the property man. The plot of the play is as follows: Alixe, (Miss Alice Dunning,) the daughter of Madame Valery, (Miss Mary Wells) is at the time the play opens staying with the Marquis and Marquise de Ceseranne, (John Howson and Miss Josie Batcholder.) She is in love with Henri de Kerdran, J. W. Norris) he is also in love with her, but is betrothed to Lucienne, the daughter of the Count de Somerive. Madame de Valery is really the Countess de Somerive, who twenty years before eloped from her husband's house. On coming to the house of the Marquis de Ceseranne to take Alixe away, she recognizes her other daughter Lucienne. Alixe is jealous of Lucienne in every way, and tries to win Henri from her. The Duke de Morandol (W. H. Lingard,) a nobleman of free and easy manners, but good heart, proposes marriage to Alixe. She half accepts him, but on Henri breaking off his engagement with Lucienne, and offering to marry her thinks no more of her titled lover. The Count de Somerive arrives, and receives Henri's letter in which he declines to marry Lucienne. A meeting takes place between the Count de Somerive and his wife, now Madame de Valery. He reproaches her with her former misbehavior to him, and taunts her with the fact that her daughter now stands in the way of the happiness of his daughter. Madame Valery attempts to persuade Alixe to give up her love but fails. In the last act, Alixe having discovered her history, imagines she is in the way and commits suicide. There are some very strong situations in "Alixe" and the play will doubtless be popular. It is admirably acted throughout. Miss Alice Dunning Lingard gives a very clever impersonation of the willful, spoiled Alixe, unhappy in the thought that she is not loved as much as Lucienne. Miss Dickey Lingard is very pleasing as Lucienne, and W. H. Lingard as the brusque Duke de Mirandol is very effective. Miss Josie Batcholder who made her first appearance at this theatre last night, acted the role of the Marquise de Ceseranne, in a quiet lady-like manner. She has a pleasing and expressive face, an easy carriage and a good style of acting. Miss Mary Wells did some splendid acting as Madame Valery, John Howson delighted the audience by his admirable make-up and clever acting in the character of the Marquis de Ceseranne, A. D. Billings gave a capital representation of the Count de Somerive, and J. W. Norris as the ardent lover Henri de Kerdan, read and acted his part with much skill. There is some impassioned love-making between Alixe and Henri de Kerdran, which is not the least attraction to the play. "Alixe" will be performed every night until further notice.

Palace Amphitheatre.

This house was crammed to overflowing last night when the popular equestrian, Omar Kingsley, took his benefit and appeared in his world renowned characterization of Ella Zoyara. B. H. Dockrill, Madame Dockrill, the Kenebels, the Carlo Family, El Nino Willie, Fred O'Brien, Dorr, Worland, Johnny Cooke, the Princess Mollie, and a host of other performers appeared in a great bill. The same splendid entertainment, with some variations, will be given this evening. There will be a matinee performance to-morrow.

Platt's Hall.

To-night, a benefit will be given to Charles Kohler by his numerous friends. The performance will consist of a first part, interlude and farce, and a ball will close the evening's amusement. The programme is printed in full on our first page. Charles Morrell, Ned Kohler, Charles Kohler Little May, and many other popular amateurs will appear.

Bella Union Theatre.

A capital first part, amusing acts, popular ballads by H. R. Archer, dance by Jimmy Moore, the sensational extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," with Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Susie Robinson, Miss Maggie Kelly and others in the cast, and many other performances will be presented this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George O. Thompson in his specialties, "The Fellow that Looks Like Me," by Miss Maggie Brewer, Hughey Morton and Johnny Price, and sketches by Mortimore, and a great variety performance will be given this evening.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Charles Pope, who is to make his appearance at the California Theatre on Monday next in "Belphegor the Mountebank," will arrive from St. Louis to-night. Mr. Pope will receive a hearty welcome from his many friends.

W. A. Mestayer who is to have one of the biggest benefits ever known in this city, on Saturday next at the California Theatre, will appear on that occasion as a rival of Nelson. He has had some pictures taken in which he looks his prettiest. Some people object to them as too decollete, but what is the use of having a bust unless you show it?

Frank Wilton is in San Francisco reorganizing his dramatic company for the summer campaign.

Frank Rea has chosen another site for his new theatre.

Sothern's Movement.

The New York Tribune, of April 14th, denies that Mr. Sothern will proceed to Australia immediately after his San Francisco engagement at the California Theatre, a statement to which effect has been frequently made lately. His visit there is in the distant future as he has to appear at the Haymarket Theatre, London, at Christmas, to commence an engagement of six months.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Friday, May Day there will be a grand olden time May Day festivities by several hundred children in costume. Raising the May pole, crowning the May Queen, and the May pole dance. There will be a balloon ascension on Sunday, and performance Saturday and Sunday.

Trials of a Benedict.

We are despondent, we have quarrelled with the wife of our bosom, and we have nothing but frowns and cross looks, we tried to appease her, a pair of kids, still a frown, a new hat, still unrelenting. The promise of a new dress yet she was not satisfied. Almost discouraged, we called into Libby & Swett's at 634 Market street, and ordered a package to their Rep Note Paper and Envelopes, when we reached home that night our wife greeted us with smiles, and we were happy, we had found the balm to sooth her, she wanted something to do, and the note paper was so beautiful that she could not rest easy until she had written half a dozen notes to as many dear friends. We determined there should be no more frowns and the next day called on Libby & Swett again and ordered a quire each of half a dozen different styles sent home. Reader, beware of Libby & Swett, shun 634 Market street, for we are weary of life, and L. & S. are the cause. They sent home the paper, our wife liked it and felt at once that she must write to her Marie, but she can not decide what paper to use. The Rep is splendid, but then that lilac shade is so handsome, and the vergonstein is so delicate a color, and so she goes on until we are distracted, (one satisfaction is that she lies awake nights thinking of the paper.) Our regret is that we did not go to some store where they keep only the ordinary paper, but fate willed that Libby & Swett should have our custom, and as they pride themselves on being the Fashionable Stationers of the city they would not send out anything but the latest styles. 4 bg

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow,
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-ej

LOVE.

Love is not made of kisses, or of sighs,
Of clinging hands, or of the sorceries
And subtle witchcrafts of alluring eyes.

Love is not made of broken whispers; no!
Nor of the blushing cheek, whose answering glow
Tells that the ear has heard the accents low.

Love is not made of tears, nor yet of smiles;
Of quivering lips or of enticing wiles;
Love is not tempted; he himself beguiles.

This is Love's language, but this is not Love:

If we knew aught of Love, how shall we dare?
To say that this is Love, when well aware
That these are common things, and love is rare

As separate streams may, blending, ever roll
In course, united, so, of soul to soul,
Love is the union into one sweet whole.

As molten metals mingle; as a chord
Swells sweet in harmony; when Love is lord,
Two hearts are one, as letters form a word.

One heart, one mind, one soul, and one desire,
A kindred fancy, and a sister fire
Of thought and passion; these can Love inspire.

This makes a heaven of earth; for this Love.

The First Balloon.

The honor of preparing and sending up the first balloon belongs to the brothers Stephen and Joseph Montgolfier, paper manufacturers, at Annanay, near Lyons, who, however, at the outset of their experiments, knew nothing of hydrogen gas, and employed heated air to inflate their machine without apparently being aware of its superior buoyancy to the atmosphere. Their balloon was constructed of linen cloth lined with paper, under which a fire was kindled, fed with bundles of chopped straw. By this means dense volumes of smoke were produced, which filled the balloon; and it raised by the ascending power of the smoke, instead of its true cause, the rarification of the heated air. On June 1st, 1783, their balloon, weighing five hundred pounds, first rose into the atmosphere. It reached an altitude of nearly a mile, remained suspended a few minutes, and, as the air, escaped, gradually reached to the earth. The event singularly impressed all classes of society, and the most extravagant notions were entertained of the uses to which balloons might be applied.

The Horrors of New York.

The New York Dispatch says: A young man from Cincinnati visited this city last week. In his perambulations round town to see the sights, he grew hungry. Noticing a modest-looking eating house in the upper part of the Eighth Ward, he entered. On the wall there hung a sign, which bore this legend:

IRISH STEW,
ALWAYS FRESH AND GOOD,
Fifteen Cents a Plate.

He ordered a plate, and pitched into the stew. It was savory, and he enjoyed it. When he had eaten about half of it, he bit on something hard. Thinking it might be a bone, he stuck his fingers into his mouth and pulled out the hard substance. He looked at it. It was a horn button, with a piece of blue overall attached to it. He immediately lost all taste for Irish stew. He proceeded to the counter, laid down his fifteen cents, and then, holding the button and piece of overall close to the face of the proprietor, said: "I like Irish stew; but d—n me if I like it to be made of Irishmen!" As he walked out of the place the proprietor remarked: "For a blasted country galoot, you're mighty particular."

Excursion to the Yo Semite.

The Yo Semite has long been an attractive theme for writers to dilate on, for artists to paint from, for tourists to visit. One of the first parties of this season was sent through to the Yo Semite Valley, the Big Trees, and the Geysers, a few days since, by Houseworth & Co., of this city. The Messrs. Houseworth furnish guides and conveyances for all who purchase tickets through them. They have guides in their employ, throughout the season, have a branch Photograph establishment at the Big Trees and in the Yo Semite Valley, the first party of the season (three gentlemen and four ladies) were taken en-groupe, and is now on exhibition at their Art Rooms, 9 and 12 Montgomery street. We understand that the Messrs. Houston & Co., are making arrangements for an excursion party to the Yo Semite and Big Trees. Nearly every party that have visited the valley for the last year or two, have been Photographed by Houseworth & Co., and added to their gallery of celebrities. 4 bg

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1r

Letter from John T. Raymond.

OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, April 15, 1874.

MY DEAR WILL: I understand that the company of the California Theatre propose tendering you a Complimentary Benefit previous to your departure from San Francisco. This is as it should be, for no one deserves it more than yourself. Always ready to assist your brother professionals, it is now their turn to compliment you upon the eve of your "new departure." Permit me, for "Auld Lang Syne," to offer my services for the proposed testimonial, with my best wishes for your future success, and that the affair may be worthy of you.

Believe me, your Friend.

JOHN T. RAYMOND.

From the Lingards.

LICK HOUSE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER: It gives us great pleasure to add our names to the list for your testimonial, which you so well deserve. That it may be a bumper, is the sincere wish, of

Yours very truly,

WM. HORACE LINGARD,
ALICE DUNNING LINGARD,
DICKIE LINGARD.

TO MR. BARTON HILL, MANAGER—DEAR SIR:—A very unexpected and complimentary letter was handed to me this morning signed by every member of your company, including the attaches, also, a very flattering note from my old and esteemed friend, John T. Raymond, the present star, in consequence of which I would respectfully solicit a night at the California Theatre to further their kind intention and put myself under lasting obligations to its worthy manager.

I am, sir, very truly,

W. A. MESTAYER.

Mr. Hill's Answer.

MANAGER'S OFFICE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER:—In reply to your favor, let me say that I shall be glad if you will add my name to the list of those who have very properly offered you this testimonial of the esteem in which you are held among us, and that with the consent of Mr. Raymond, I have the pleasure of selecting the evening of Saturday, May 2d, for the proposed complimentary benefit to you; wishing you a bumper on that occasion, and good fortune through life, I am

Yours Sincerely, BARTON HILL.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—It was with no small pleasure I can assure you, that I received your letters as unexpected, as they were gratifying, and sensible as I am of the undeserved honor you have tendered me; still, I cannot but regret my inability to express in adequate terms, the sincere appreciation and deep sense of gratitude I feel, not only at its flattering nature, but the generous and liberal spirit that dictated it. Thanking you for your kindness, and your good wishes for my success, in the new career I have chosen, I have selected through the gracious permission of Mr. Raymond and Mr. Hill, Saturday, May 2d, for the testimonial. Very Gratefully Yours,

W. A. MESTAYER

Macready Perplexed.

When Macready, the actor, visited this country, he found many things to puzzle and perplex him, for he was as precise and angular as Grewgious. The idioms and the eccentricities of the Yankee were beyond his comprehension. At one of our theatres, where he was performing an engagement, he had occasion to find fault with the supporting actors, who were a particularly free-and-easy set. Going to the manager one day, he said:

"Mr. Manager, you have deceived me, sir. You have told me that which was not true, sir!"

"Bless me!" cried the manager, in surprise, "how so?"

"About your actors, sir. Did you not tell me that Mr. A —— was on a high?"

"Yes."

"And that Mr. S—— had a touch of the tangle foot?"

"Yes."

"And that Mr. P—— had a brick in his hat?"

"Aye—that was what I said."

"And in explanation of the conduct of Mr. B—— you told me that he had a snake in his boot?"

"Certainly—I did."

"Well, sir," announced the great tragedian, in his most stern and indignant manner, "I find, upon critical examination, that these men are all drunk, sir! Aye—all drunk!"

A Polite Community.

In St. Louis everybody is considerate, and therefore a daily paper remarks. "Two gentlemen and a lady left for the penitentiary last evening."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen:
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

At It Again.

Mr. Pickering is writing editorials for the Call again:

The tendency to immorality is not confined to office-holding and the ordinary transactions of life. It has extended to the pulpit. The history of the past year has been marked by the suspension of a number of preachers from the ministry, on account of immoral conduct in private life and the utterances of profane and indecent expressions from the sacred desk. Such action is to be commended. Where shall we look for lessons of piety and good conduct if not to the pulpit?

That moral conundrum. "Where shall we look for lessons of piety and good conduct, if not to the pulpit?" has the old ring—the Pickering—to it.

A Sad Exhibition.

The hypercritical critic employed on the Chronicle to "write up" the dramatic notices, having been hauled over the coals by the Al's, attempted a defense in yesterday's paper. After running over a list of articles of wearing apparel he says:

Not one of these articles were worn when the play was performed three week ago.

Any man who will write such English as that ought to tie a brick to his neck and go and jump off Meigg's wharf at once. If not one "were" worn three weeks ago, perhaps all "was" worn four weeks ago. Has this extraordinary being any excuse to offer for his existence?

Decent Business.

Mrs. Howden having sued the De Youngs for damages for libel, they having asserted as she states that she was suspected of having murdered her husband, their counsel claims the right to endeavor to show the "bad moral character of the plaintiff." With this end in view, Mr. Campbell endeavored to prove that Mrs. Howden went to lunch with Michael De Young, but failed to do so. It seems a little hard that when the question is simply how much damage a woman's character has received by her being charged with murder, minor crimes should be charged against her.

A Fellow Feeling.

The Call has a fellow feeling for General Butler. It thus states the reason for it:

He would, though a man of strong affections, yield his nearest and dearest to the stake, if necessary, to make the people of Salem again believe in witchcraft, and would spends a day at the crisis of his fortunes to convince a schoolboy that the Atlantic Ocean emptied into the Hudson River.

B. Butler would prove an invaluable addition to the editorial force of the San Francisco morning Call.

A Good Idea.

A distinguished French physician suggests that the annoyance of hiring wet nurses may be happily obviated by making infants take their nourishment direct from the cow, without the intervention of a bottle. The trifling inconvenience of keeping a cow in the nursery, especially if one has an apartment on the fourth floor, is of course, scarcely worthy of mention.

The Open Letter.

The second number of "The Open Letter" which appeared last Saturday is a decidedly good one. It is embellished with an admirable likeness of one of the most active members of the bar of whom a complimentary biographical sketch is given.

A Mere Pretence.

The American Regisier, of Paris, informs us that dancing is going out of fashion in Europe, and says: "If men and women could flirt as conveniently and as pleasantly without its protection, it would be given up altogether in civilized countries."

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugaman, at his symposium of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2x

The Cincinnati Times commenting on the abuse showered on a contemporary by the Commercial says:

This stuff gets sickening after awhile. It is Horace Greeley's argument without its force. It has neither the merit of originality truth, nor decency. It is, as we have before remarked, another sample of the interesting Judas Iscariot denouncing the rest of the disciples as thieves, liars, and villains. The commercial should mend its ways and its character or cease defaming that of other papers.

We have no doubt that Judas had his opinion as to the rest of the crowd, and we maintained that he had a right to it.

How to Get Into the Theatre Free.

Relaxation and amusement is necessary for every man, and although, the theatre is a favorite place of amusement, one cannot always afford to go as often as they might wish, but if when they are in want of coal, they purchase of Berryman & Doyle, at their retail place, 413 and 415 Pacific street, they can save money enough on every load to buy a reserved seat in the theatre. Messrs. Berryman & Doyle guarantee full weight. Their wholesale office is on the Sulkhead, between Jackson and Pacific streets. 4-bh

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2d, 1874.

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR:—On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about nine years; although retaining my speaking faculties I had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long was it since I had heard myself speak, but now I am able to carry on a conversation without trouble, provided that my attention is not detracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,
DAVID O. HASKINS.

The above is one more testimonial added to Dr. ABORN'S large number, which is constantly augmenting. The letter speaks for itself.

Opera House.

"Alixe" is the attraction at this house at present. Miss Alice Dunning by her beauty and the intensity of feeling which she displays in every part, gains the sympathy of the audience for the character which she acts, without regard to justice. Alixe is not really such a miserable girl as she imagines, and there is no absolute necessity for her drowning herself, yet Miss Alice Dunning agonizes the audience and drowns them in tears. In the final scene of the third act, Miss Dunning's acting could scarcely be surpassed. "Alixe" will be played to-night and every night.

California Theatre.

The attendance at this theatre last night was a well-deserved tribute to the efficient stage manager, Robert M. Eberle. The beneficiary acquitted himself capitally in the role of Frederick Fl ghty, in the sketch entitled for the occasion "A Ride to the Old." Mr. Hoskins and Miss Florence Colville caused much amusement in the laughable extravaganza entitled "Nothing to Wear," and altogether a very attractive bill was presented. To-night, Shakespeare's comedy of "Much Ado About Nothing," will be played, with Mr. Hoskins as Benedick, Miss Florence Colville as Beatrice and J. C. Raymond as Dogberry. To-morrow night, "London Assurance" will be produced, with a great cast.

Palace Amphitheatre.

At the matinee to-day and again this evening, the great bill of the season, which has made such a tremendous hit will be repeated. It comprises R. H. Dockrill in his sensational act, the Kenebels in comic acts, Madame Dockrill in her wonderful equestrian performance, the Carlo Brothers in their great gymnastic feats, and others in specialties set forth on our first page.

Platt's Hall.

The complimentary benefit given to Charles Kohler, at this hall last night, was well attended, and the amateurs who took part in the performance all acquitted themselves well.

Bella Union Theatre.

H. R. Archer in vocal gems, Tommy Barton' Matt Kelly, Fred Ritchie and others in "School," Jimmy Moore in song and dance, Miss Jennie Johnson and the whole company in the spectacular extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," and other attractions will be offered at this house to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

At this favorite place of amusement an entertaining programme is offered this evening, consisting in part of the act entitled "Every one for Himself," specialties by George C. Thompson "The Two Pompeys," dances by Miss Maggie Brewer, Mortimore in sketches, and many others in songs, dances and amusing acts.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 137.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Friday, May Day there will be a grand olden time May Day festivities by several hundred children in costume. Raising the May pole, crowning the May Queen, and the May pole dance. There will be a balloon ascension on Sunday, and performance Saturday and Sunday.

Notes.

Mlle. Bonfanti, the famous danseuse, will arrive to-night, under engagement to appear at the California Theatre, next Monday.

Lewis Morrison will take his farewell benefit at the California Theatre, on Friday evening, when he will produce the new and original comedy of "Rose."

At the grand farewell testimonial to W. A Mestayer, on Saturday evening next, John T. Raymond will make his last appearance. 'Dust in the Eyes," "Bad Whisky," and "The Nelson Fever," will be among the attractions.

Horace W. Lingard, will take his benefit at the Opera House, on Friday evening, when the bill will consist of twelve new Lingard sketches. Byron's new comedy of "War to the Knife," and the farce of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White."

The annual picnic of the B'nai B'rith Association, which is always one of the most fashionably attended of the season, will take place on Sunday next, at Fassknngs' Park, Alameda. The proceeds will be devoted to the Library Fund of the Association. There will be a most attractive gathering of fair women and brave men, and all who join in the festivities will enjoy themselves.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corwille keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast.
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

THE LADY-BUG AND THE ANT.

The lady-bug sat in the rose's heart
And smiled with pride and scorn
As she saw a plain-dressed ant go by
With a heavy grain of corn;
So she drew the curtain of damask round,
And adjusted her silken vest,
Making her grass of a drop of dew
That lay in the rose's breast.

Then she laughed so hard that the ant looked up,
And seeing her haughty face,
Took no more notice, but traveled on
At the same industrious pace;
But a sudden blast of autumn came
And rudely swept the ground,
And now the rose with the lady-bug bent
And scattered its leaves around.

Then the houseless lady was much amazed,
For she knew not where to go,
And hoarse November's early blast
Had brought with it rain and snow;
Her wings were chilled, her feet were cold,
And she wished for the ant's warm cell;
And what she did in the wint y storm
I'm sure I cannot tell,

But the careful ant was in her nest,
With the little ones by her side;
She taught them all like herself to toil,
Nor mind the sneer of pride;
And I thought as I sat at the close of day
Eating my bread and milk,
That 'twas wiser to work and improve the time
Than be idle and dress in silk.

Clara Louise Kellogg's Lover.

The following comes from a very gracefully written sketch of the great American prima donna from the pen of Lucy Hamilton Hooper:

A singular and mournful little romance is connected with the earlier portion of the fair singer's career. During the last year of the war, and after one of the last great battles, the chaplain of one of the Massachusetts regiments has engaged in rendering the last service to the dying, when he came across a young lieutenant lying by the roads die, and evidently desperately wounded.

The chaplain proposed to summon medical aid, but the young man declined the offer, saying that he was dying, and that he preferred to be left to pass away without further suffering. After doing what he could to make the sufferer more comfortable in his last moments, the chaplain asked the dying man if he wished to send any messages to his friends or relatives.

"No; he had neither—he was alone in the world."

"Was there no one," persisted the chaplain, "to whom he would like to send a word of farewell?"

The young officer hesitated.

"Yes," he answered, "there is one—Miss Clara Louise Kellogg; she does not know me, nor have I ever met or seen off the stage. But she is the one, the only woman that I ever loved. I saw her in the opera repeatedly when I was last in Boston, and the effect she produced on me was instantaneous and ineffaceable. And I should die happier did I know that she would one day learn that I had once existed and that I had loved her."

A few brief lines were penciled by the falling hand on a leaf of the chaplain's note book, a single dark curl was severed from the locks already growing damp with the dews of death, a word or two of thanks were faintly spoken, and then the dim eyes closed, and the brief romance and the young soldier ended together. In due course of time the letter and the lock of hair were placed in Miss Kellogg's hands, and if the spirit of the sender at the moment of receiving them was hovering near, he had at least the joy of knowing that, though unknown to his fair lady-love, he had not died unwept by her.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. A Warning.

Bottlebury, of Camden, will never dive into a creek to save another woman from drowning. He saw a red-haired girl named Sparks tumble in the other day off a boat, and he instantly plunged in after her, caught her by her dress, and swam to the shore with her. As soon as they were on dry land, Miss Sparks gave a hysterical scream, flung her arms around Bottlebury's neck, and fainted. Just then the father came up, with the rest of the family, and, perceiving the situation, he dashed up to Bottlebury, grasped his hand and said: "Take her, my boy; take her! It is hard to give her up; it wrenches her old father's heart; but she is yours. Bless you my children—bless you!" Then Mrs Sparks cried, and said she hoped Harriet would be happy. The little Sparks manifested their emotion by climbing up Bottlebury's legs and pulling his coat tails. Then Harriet came to, and laying her head on his shoulder, whispered, "Kiss me, darling." Bottlebury, amazed and indignant, tore himself away and fly. He was arrested that afternoon on charge of breach of promise, and on the trial the jury gave the broken-hearted Miss Sparks two hundred dollars damages. Bottlebury has intimated to his confidential friends that if any other warm-haired woman intends to fall overboard near him she will find it to her advantage to learn to swim.

A Queer Fish.

He was a quaint old fisherman. One day, along toward dusk, he was fishing in a trout stream, and, as he swung his fly over the water it was suddenly snapped by a large bat. The strange-looking thing dangled and flapped its wings at the end of the line. The fisherman's companion called out: "Say, Sam, got anything?" "Ye-as," looking at the bat on the hook. "What is it?" "I dunno, unless it's a cherubim!"

Barely Enough.

This is what may be called sympathetic: Imaginative Undergraduate—My uncle has just died, sir, and I should be much obliged for a few days' leave to attend his funeral. President (who thinks the case scarcely sufficiently urgent)—Very well, Mr. Blank, you may go—you may go—but I wish it was nearer relative!

Trials of a Benedict.

We are despondent, we have quarrelled with the wife of our bosom, and we have nothing but frowns and cross looks, we tried to appease her, a pair of kids, still a frown, a new hat, still unrelenting. The promise of a new dress yet she was not satisfied. Almost discouraged, we called into Libby & Swett's at 634 Market street, and ordered a package to their Rep Note Paper and Envelopes, when we reached home that night our wife greeted us with smiles, and we were happy, we had found the balm to sooth her, she wanted something to do, and the note paper was so beautiful that she could not rest easy until she had written half a dozen notes to as many dear friends. We determined there should be no more frowns and the next day called on Libby & Swett again and ordered a quire each of half a dozen different styles sent home. Reader, beware of Libby & Swett, shun 634 Market street, for we are weary of life, and L. & S. are the cause. They sent home the paper, our wife liked it and felt at once that she must write to her Marie, but she can not decide what paper to use. The Rep is splendid, but then that lilac shade is so handsome, and the vergonstein is so delicate a color, and so she goes on until we are distracted, (one satisfaction is that she lies awake nights thinking of the paper) Our regret is that we did not go to some store where they keep only the ordinary paper, but fate willed that Libby & Swett should have our custom, and as they pride themselves on being the Fashionable Stationers of the city they would not send out anything but the latest styles. 4 bg

Excursion to the Yo Semite.

The Yo Semite has long been an attractive theme for writers to dilate on, for artists to paint from, for tourists to visit. One of the first parties of this season was sent through to the Yo Semite Valley, the Big Trees, and the Geysers, a few days since, by Houseworth & Co., of this city. The Messrs. Houseworth, furnish guides and conveyances for all who purchase tickets through them. They have guides in their employ, throughout the season, have a branch Photograph establishment at the Big Trees and in the Yo Semite Valley. the first party of the season (three gentlemen and four ladies) were taken on-groune, and is now on exhibition at their Art Rooms, 9 and 12 Montgomery street. We understand that the Messrs. Houstos & Co., are making arrangements for an excursion party to the Yo Semite and Big Trees. Nearly every party that have visited the valley for the last year or two, have been Photographed by Houseworth & Co., and added to their gallery of celebrities. 4 bg

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cent. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line, Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, April 15, 1874.

MY DEAR WILL: I understand that the company of the California Theatre propose tendering you a Complimentary Benefit previous to your departure from San Francisco. This is as it should be, for no one deserves it more than yourself. Always ready to assist your brother professionals, it is now their turn to compliment you upon the eve of your new departure." Permit me, for "Auld Lang Syne," to offer my services for the proposed testimonial, with my best wishes for your future success, and that the affair may be worthy of you.

Believe me, your Friend.

TO MR. BARTON HILL, MANAGER—DEAR SIR:—A very unexpected and complimentary letter was handed to me this morning signed by every member of your company, including the attaches, also, a very flattering note from my old and esteemed friend, John T. Raymond, the present star, in consequence of which I would respectfully solicit a night at the California Theatre to further their kind intention and put myself under lasting obligations to its worthy manager.

I am, sir, very truly,

W. A. MESTAYER.

Mr. Hill's Answer.

MANAGER'S OFFICE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER:—In reply to your favor, let me say that I shall be glad if you will add my name to the list of those who have very properly offered you this testimonial of the esteem in which you are held among us, and that with the consent of Mr. Raymond, I have the pleasure of selecting the evening of Saturday, May 2d, for the proposed complimentary benefit to you; wishing you a bumper on that occasion, and good fortune through life, I am

Yours Sincerely, BARTON HILL.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—It was with no small pleasure I can assure you, that I received your letters as unexpected, as they were gratifying, and sensible as I am of the undeserved honor you have tendered me; still, I cannot but regret my inability to express in adequate terms, the sincere appreciation and deep sense of gratitude I feel, not only at its flattering nature, but the generous and liberal spirit that dictated it. Thanking you for your kindness, and your good wishes for my success, in the new career I have chosen, I have selected through the gracious permission of Mr. Raymond and Mr. Hill, Saturday, May 2d, for the testimonial. Very Gratefully Yours,

Something Like a Pension Agent.

The Chicago Times says of the new Pension Agent in that city: "Miss Sweet, is, perhaps, twenty-two years of age—of course the reporter could not be accurate as to that—and a pronounced blonde. She is not handsome, yet there is something handsome about her; if not, say that she is very attractive, with one of those faces that impress you so pleasantly you do not stop to inquire if the features are just so regular, or after this or that model. Better far than an insipidly pretty face is that which sparkles with intelligence and bears the impress of purpose and resolution. Miss Sweet is an unassuming, cultivated lady, not at all of the harsh-outlined, angular, "rights" women, and will undoubtedly have the best wishes of the public in her new field."

Rather a different looking person is this from our Pension Agent, who lately absquatulated with Government funds. He wasn't a blonde, he was a sort of cross between a gingerbread nut and a Jew. There was nothing handsome about Bennett, nothing Sweet about him. A more villainous expression of countenance than he had we never saw. FIGARO expressed its opinion of him on every fitting occasion, but the Government would not be warned. They said the man was "loyal" and must be rewarded. Now we hope some pleasant, intelligent blonde young lady, will be sent to fill the position so unceremoniously vacated by the dark, diabolically hideous Bennett, for whom no one has a good word.

Simple Enough.

It is the easiest thing in the world to get rich if you only start right. Any man may become a millionaire in less than thirty days if he saves one cent the first day, doubles it the second day, doubles the second days amount the third day, and so on. If you stick to this faithfully the sum you will save on the twenty-eighth day will amount to just $1 341,777 28. The trouble, however, is that it is a little too much like keeping a diary, and grows tedious after the tenth day.

Fashion Notes.

Flesh-colored boots for ladies' wear, labeled "Paradise Boots," in allusion probably to the kind Eve wore, are displayed as a pleasing novelty by a westside Crispin.

Pendent ear-rings are coming into fashion again. Many new fashions are exhibited in Roman Gold, some of which are very pretty. The lobe ear-ring was a fashion of comparatively short duration.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that he enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-T

John McCullough's Hamlet.

When Mr. John McCullough last played "Hamlet" in San Francisco, we pointed out the various excellencies of his impersonation of the role and showed in what particulars it surpassed the conventional "Hamlet." The Chicago Tribune devotes a column of its space to a criticism of Mr. McCullough in this role. We make the following extracts:

His "Hamlet" considered as a whole, is a novelty, and a grand, loveable conception. It is not surprising that an actor like Mr. McCullough, whose young blood pulses through his veins with the freshness and buoyancy of youth, should portray a "Hamlet" of like passion with ourselves. If there is anything to wonder at in it, it is that he should dare, in the face of conventionality, to exhibit it in the full strength of his conception. He does not pale it to the puny weakling of the modern stage. He presents it in the flood-tide of exuberant, healthful youth. His ideal is superior in that it is healthy, compelling admiration for its strength as for its purity. It is not the pale, intellectual "Hamlet" of Booth, bloodless, cold, and cynical. It is ideal youth in full possession of its hopes and ambitions, dashed by no fear of failure, unspotted by care. This is the "Hamlet" who appears in the first act, joyous, free, and wholesome. Such an ideal seizes on the sympathies at once. It is ourselves we see in the play from the first. All that is strong and manly in our natures responds to such a picture, and echoes its doubts and fears with quick sympathy. This is the key-note of McCullough's "Hamlet," and with it we can follow his firm portraiture to the end with all our sympathies alive.

This is, we consider, a very fair criticism of Mr. McCullough's "Hamlet," as a whole. Proceeding to particularize, the Tribune says:

In his advice to the players Mr. McCullough read the lines with the air of a man who disdained the shallow trickeries of the stage, and coming from him, whose whole career is a rebuke to them, they came with the force of conscientious contempt. No actor has ever read those lines with more feeling, more perfect purpose than did Mr. McCullough. Modeling his idea of an actor upon his own genuine and sincere assumptions, he, above all others, could warn an actor against affectation. The caution was as truly his as "Hamlet's," and the audience, impelled to a recognition of the coincidence, burst into a round of applause.

St. Louis and Chicago have been heard from, now we are awaiting the verdict of New York. When this is pronounced then he critics of the daily press of San Francisco, Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart will not be afraid to say that Mr. McCullough's "Hamlet" stands second to none on the American stage, and FIGARO said this before Mr. McCullough started from this city, and gave reasons for the assertion.

Beecher's Independence.

In his lecture the other night, Mr. Beecher presented a new declaration of independence, and one that will exactly please a good many other clergymen. "People ask me," he said, "why I don't attend to my business of preaching the gospel, and not go off talking about politics and temperance, etc. Well, the reason is this. I am a free man in a free country. I ask nobody for my rights; I take them. I am perfectly willing that God should tax me for the future; but the devil shan't tax me for vice without hearing of it. When men have become so religious they can't touch the ground they ought to go up; and one of the great evils of society is a religious man whose duties to God are so many that he has no time for his duties toward his fellowmen."

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

Nibbs Favors Cremation.

Aye, we hugely favor it, not from personal experience but from preconceived ideas of the benefits it would bestow on mankind. We have a mother-in-law! To us there exists a source of perpetual delight—of perennial spring, so to speak—in the exhilarating idea. We have a mother-by-law! Then again those who have been unprofitable servants during life could thus be turned to account in the way of "bone dust and ashes fertilizer," and when speaking of some reprehensible scallawag through life one could truly say "he made a good end on't." Then again, all men are bound to be burnt sooner or later if we may endorse the total depravity doctrine, and we would infinitely prefer that some persons of our acquaintance should be the "sooner" ones. Again, if "the burnt child dreads the fire" it would be a wholesale example; for after having seen a relative or two fade from earth in a smuch of nasty charcoal one would naturally abstain from the practice of dying and the race of man would thus be perpetuated—a thing of joy forever, except to certain impecunious nephews. Again: the vast lots and plats of earth now squandered on cemetery uses could be profitably employed in raising rye, from which we distill the genial whiskey which maketh the heart of man rejoice;—thus would happiness be prodigally disseminated o'er the land.—Again: we have a mother-in-law, (and she's a ripper!) Nothing under the wide canopy of heaven could so exhilarate our drooping spirits as to stand, with a couple of yards of crape on our hat and, forming a glorious minority in the mournful pageant, sorrowfully observe the dear old soul fry and frizzle and sizzle and bake! for hath she not kept us in hot water from "that time whence the memory of man runneth not back?" Oh yes; next to ice cream, cremation is the crowning effort of man's inventive genius, for—(Heaven save the mark) we have a mother-in-law!

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2d, 1874.

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR:—On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about nine years; although retaining my speaking faculties I had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long was it since I had heard myself speak, but now I am able to carry on a conversation without trouble, provided that my attention is not detracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,
DAVID O. HASKINS.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The combination of artists engaged at this theatre, present standard plays in very pleasing style The performance of "Much Ado About Nothing," last night, with John T. Raymond as Dogberry, William Hoskins as Benedick, Miss Florence Colville as Beatrice, Lewis Morrison as Don Pedro, Miss Ellie Wilton as Hero, J. C. Williamson as Verges, and E. J. Buckley as Claudio, was a very good one in every respect. Mr. Hoskins as Benedick won much applause, John T. Raymond was an excellent Dogberry, and Miss Florence Colville presented a very clever impersonation of Beatrice. To-night, "London Assurance," will be performed with the very strong cast which is published on our first page. To-morrow night, the new comedy of "Rose," will be played for the farewell benefit of Lewis Morrison, the popular leading man of the theatre.

Opera House.

Miss Alice Dunning's charming impersonation of the impetuous, warm-hearted Alice, delights all who witness it, Wm Horace Lingard is very successful in the character of the Duke de Mirandole, Miss Dickey Lingard is very pleasing as Lucienne, John Howson's capital make-up and clever acting as the Marquis de Ceserance, leave nothing to be desired, and Miss Josie Batchelder, J. W. Norris, Miss Mary Wells, A. D. Billings and others engaged in its representation perform their respective parts excellently. To-morrow night, W. H. Lingard will take his benefit, and will, in addition to other attractions present twelve new Lingard sketches.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Everything will be in complete order for the opening of this theatre on Monday night. The magnificent Glass Drop Chandelier is in place, and a lighted-up reception to the press will be given on Friday night. The box office will be opened to-morrow morning, when a great rush for reserved seats may be expected.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The programme at present being performed at this place of amusement excels in attractions any that has preceded it. Omar Kingsley in his great character of Ella Zorara, fairly rivals the wonderful Mme. Dockrill, the Kenebels are exceedingly amusing, the Carlo Brothers are unapproachable in their acts, the Princess Mollie is the pet of the arena, and altogether a splendid performance is given.

Bella Union Theatre.

The extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," with its beautiful tableaux and calcium light effects, "Twenty Years Ago," by H R. Archer and Tommy Bree, "The Artful Dodge," by Miss Jennie Johnson, Matt Kelly, Tommy Barton and others, the sketch of "Coolie Labor," and a variety of other performances will be given at this theatre to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George O. Thompson, Johnny Price, Frank Mordimore, Mlle. Blanche, Miss Maggie Brewer, Miss Lotta Gray and a host of other favorite artistes will appear in a great bill to-night.

Passking's Garden.

The annual picnic of the B'nai B'rith Association, which is always one of the most fashionably attended of the season, will take place on Sunday next, at Passkings' Park, Alameda. The proceeds will be devoted to the Library Fund of the Association. There will be a most attractive gathering of fair women and brave men, and all who join in the festivities will enjoy themselves.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Woodward's Gardens.

On Friday, May Day there will be a grand olden time May Day festivities by several hundred children in costume. Raising the May pole, crowning the May Queen, and the May pole dance. There will be a balloon ascension on Sunday, and performance Saturday and Sunday.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

How to Get Into the Theatre Free.

Relaxation and amusement is necessary for every man, and although the theatre is a favorite place of amusement, one cannot always afford to go as often as they might wish, but if when they are in want of coal, they purchase of Berryman & Doyle, at their retail place, 413 and 415 Pacific street, they can save money enough on every load to buy a reserved seat in the theatre. Messrs. Berryman & Doyle guarantee full weight. Their wholesale office is on the Bulkhead, between Jackson and Pacific streets. 4-bh

THE SHORTEST WAY HOME.

"The shortest way by half a mile—
I come so very often by it—
Is up the road, across the stile,
And through the meadow. Shall we try it?"
The days were not without a charm
When talking soft and looking silly,
My love and I walked arm-in-arm,
And lanes were lone and fields were stilly.

We found so many things to say
That always, in the shiny weather,
We took the—well, the shorter way,
To be a longer time together.
We spoke about (but, goodness knows
Our topics of confabulation)—
About the weather, I suppose,
The crops, the harvest and the nation.

At all events, although the talk
Was neither wise nor witty,
We ended each successive walk
With "Home already—what a pity!"
We might have lost a little ground
Through coming by the road selected.
But both agreed that we had found
The journey shorter than expected.

Can Life's experiment support
The paradox that Love proposes?
Does any path seem very short,
Unless it be a path of roses?
We seldom find the nearer way;
And if we hit upon and take it,
By creeping on from day to day
It seems as long as length can make it.

The road to fame is never brief,
The way to wealth is dull and dreary;
All earthly routes, in my belief,
Are very long and very weary.
Nay—one that leads through care and strife
In short, when mortals once begin it;
We take the "near cut" out of life,
Although we take the longest in it.

The Poet's Wife.

When Sir Walter Scott and his wife were walking out together, they came across a flock of lambs frisking in a meadow. "Ah," said Sir Walter, "it is no wonder that poets from the earliest ages have made the lamb the emblem of peace and innocence." "They are, indeed, delightful animals," answered her ladyship, "especially with mint sauce."

Practical Men.

The wholesale liquor dealers are a little afraid that their business may be interfered with. They have not organized a praying band, but they are holding meetings and subscribing money to carry out the war against prohibition.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

How to Seek Recreation.

A magazine writer complains that very few people really study the philosophy of amusements. Many literary men, after hard day's work, sit down for the evening over a game of chess, which requires the closest kind of study. An actor "out of the bill" for a night is almost sure to visit a rival theatre, an artist will visit a friend's studio, and a clergyman away from home is certain to officiate in every pulpit within a reasonable distance of the place he has selected for his holiday sojourn. The writer argues that the proper way is to select amusements as unlike our work as possible.

Exactly. We have often thought of that. When a man wants to amuse himself he should seek something as unlike his daily occupation as he can find. A clergyman, by way of change, might tend bar. A painter, desirous of a few weeks' vacation, should work in a factory where canvas is made—making canvas would be an agreeable change from spoiling it. On the same principle let the over-worked editor employ his vacation in a paper mill. When an actor becomes tired of playing, let him go to work. The stage would be vastly improved if about half our actors would quit playing and work. "All work and no play" would be better than so many poor players.

If you are a lawyer, and desire recreation, try telling the truth a little while. You have no idea how it would rest you. When a butcher wants a holiday, let him take a position on Bergh's staff. Street car conductors should spend their vacations in a gymnasium. Lifting things would be a beneficial change from "knocking down." The doctor can do almost anything to fill in a vacation, if he will only keep away from his patients. While this is recuperative to the doctor, it is equally beneficial for his patients. When the milkman wants a rest, he should never be seen hanging around a pump. Let the farmer superintend the cash box in a store. Instead of tilling the soil, he can be soiling the till. A sailor should not think of taking his recreation on the sea. He rather should take it on the D, or E, or F, or any other letter of the alphabet.

What can the saloon-keeper do by way of recreation? Let us see. His daily occupation is damning souls. Suppose he turns revivalist for a season and try and save them. That would be a change, certainly. Let the shoemaker leave off soleing shoes for a time, bid at mock-auctions and get "sold" himself. When seeking recreation he should beware of "cobblers." The tailor might find enjoyment in the society of people who have fits. Few of his own customers are subject to them. Hotel clerks would do well to spend their entire vacation in some school of politeness. We could hardly imagine a greater contrast from their daily life. Let the politician practice honesty, let the stockbroker swear off gambling, and the lecturer attend lectures, as being bored must be a relief from boring others so constantly.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

Letter from John T. Raymond.

OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, April 15, 1874.

MY DEAR WILL: I understand that the company of the California Theatre propose tendering you a Complimentary Benefit previous to your departure from San Francisco. This is as it should be, for no one deserves it more than yourself. Always ready to assist your brother professionals, it is now their turn to compliment you upon the eve of your "new departure." Permit me, for "Auld Lang Syne," to offer my services for the proposed testimonial, with my best wishes for your future success, and that the affair may be worthy of you.

Believe me, your Friend.

TO MR. BARTON HILL, MANAGER—DEAR SIR:—A very unexpected and complimentary letter was handed to me this morning signed by every member of your company, including the attaches, also, a very flattering note from my old and esteemed friend, John T. Raymond, the present star, in consequence of which I would respectfully solicit a night at the California Theatre to further their kind intention and put myself under lasting obligations to its worthy manager,

I am, sir, very truly,

W. A. MESTAYER.

Mr. Hill's Answer.

MANAGER'S OFFICE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER:—In reply to your favor, let me say that I shall be glad if you will add my name to the list of those who have very properly offered you this testimonial of the esteem in which you are held among us, and that with the consent of Mr. Raymond, I have the pleasure of selecting the evening of Saturday, May 2d, for the proposed complimentary benefit to you; wishing you a bumper on that occasion, and good fortune through life, I am

Yours Sincerely, BARTON HILL.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—It was with no small pleasure I can assure you, that I received your letters as unexpected, as they were gratifying, and sensible as I am of the undeserved honor you have tendered me; still, I cannot but regret my inability to express in adequate terms, the sincere appreciation and deep sense of gratitude I feel, not only at its flattering nature, but the generous and liberal spirit that dictated it. Thanking you for your kindness, and your good wishes for my success, in the new career I have chosen, I have selected through the gracious permission of Mr. Raymond and Mr. Hill, Saturday, May 2d, for the testimonial. Very Gratefully Yours,

W. A. MESTAYER

LIFE OF
EDWIN FORREST.
....BY....
JAMES REES,
(COLLEY CIBBER).

THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, WITH REMINISCENCES AND PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN TRAGEDIAN.—Every copy of the work contains a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which he pronounced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his Autograph, his Last Will in Full, and the Charter of the "Edwin Forrest Home," which he endowed. The work is bound in Morocco cloth, gilt back and is sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy

A New Comic Paper.

Smith, D. G. Smith—is going to start a comic paper called Quip. He does not mean to obtrude it on the public by publishing it in New York or Boston, or any where in the United States. He is about to start it in St John, New Brunswick. We wish he would come out here and set a comic paper going in San Jose, but still we must encourage Smith by publishing the following very sensible extract from his prospectus: The subscriber is aware that the undertaking requires experience, good taste and money to ensure its success. His connection with the Press, both in St. John and elsewhere, has supplied the first; he assumes that he always possessed the second, and he hopes so to combine the two in the Editorial management of Quip as to deserve and secure the third.

The Effect of that Verdict.

The Coronicle has a very sore head this morning. It calls Judge Sharpstein's charge an "extraordinary" one, "directly contrary to law," and is going to get a new trial, when "very different results will ensue." It pitches into the Bulletin, Post, Alta and Call, and calls them "grinning ghouls," "journalistic jackals" and other pet names, and alludes to the Call's court reporter as a "person hired to misrepresent and distort the proceedings during the trial." All of which is in very bad taste, and may be libelous—aye there's the rub. Go slow boys.

A Society Item.

The Mendocino Dispatch is responsible for the following: "At a ball recently given at Little River, introduction not being freely given, a stranger was obliged to seek a partner for himself. So he meandered up to a lady and in dulcet tones begged the pleasure of a waltz with her. The fair one was naturally somewhat surprised, and said: 'Why, sir, I don't know you!' To which he coolly replied: 'Well, it's a stand-off, for I don't know you." They danced.

Cool.

The Alta, the other day, had the cheek to find fault with the English of the Chronicle's critic. It is atrocious, but the Alta is not the sort of paper to find fault. In yesterday's issue it said something about "a gentleman who was trying to learn his dog a trick." We wish the Alta people could be taught to write English, but they won't learn.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that he enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 778 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-r

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it, Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugaman, at his symposiac of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon, 2x

The Ambitious Pipeman.

Our new steam fire engine, the first we ever had, arrived in New Castle the other day, and of course the entire population of the village turned out to witness the trial of the machine. Mr. Bob Parker secured the post of honor as holder of the service pipe; and he was mighty proud of it. The engine was down at the wharf getting ready to pump water from the river, and Parker stood almost four hundred yards off, at the end of a line of hose, waiting for the stream to come, so that he could squirt it over the court-house steeple.

There was a great deal of delay while the men were fixing the engine, and Parker incautiously held the muzzle of the pipe toward his waistcoat while he discussed the question of a third term for Grant with Rev. Dr. Hopkins. At the most interesting moment of the debate the engine suddenly began to work, and the next instant a two-inch stream struck Parker in the stomach with terrific force, and rolled him over in the gutter. He felt as if the gulf stream had been shot through him from front to back. Then the pipe gave a couple of eccentric jerks, smashed Dr. Hopkins' hat into black silk chaos and emptied a hogshead of water into his open mouth.

It concluded the exercises by getting into such a position that it could play a million gallons a minute up the trouser leg of the prostrate Mr. Parker. Parker seemed to lose all interest in the capacity of that engine. He went home for his Sunday clothes, and he has since intimated to his confidential friends that if Grant should spend the whole of his third term squirting a stream fifty thousand feet high with that diabolical fire extinguisher, he, Parker, would not go around the corner to witness the spectacle. —Max Adeler.

A Good Repartee.

"Nothing," said an impatient husband, "reminds me so much of Balaam and his ass as two women stopping in church and obstructing the way to indulge in their everlasting talk." "But you forget, my dear," returned the wife meekly, "that it was the angel who stopped the way, and Balaam and his ass who complained of it."

Another Change of Base.

Mrs. Dunniway, editress, politicianess and general lecturess, has dropped "Temperance" for the present, and taken up "Woman Suffrage." In the meantime her Oregon newspaper edits itself. Next election Mrs. Dunniway will drop "Woman Suffrage" and will stump Oregon for anyone who will pay her to do it.

A Last Resource.

A Paris correspondent says it is a current joke there that no titled person may be too old or ugly or impoverished but that he may hope to pick up an American girl who will give heaps of dollars to become Madame la Duchesse or Madame la Baronne.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-y

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 333 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2d, 1874.

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR:—On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about nine years; although retaining my speaking faculties I had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long was it since I had heard myself speak, but now I am able to carry on a conversation without trouble, provided that my attention is not detracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,

DAVID O. HASKINS.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Last night the comedy of "London Assurance," was performed with a capital cast. John T. Raymond caused much amusement in the character of Mark Meddle, Miss Florence Colville made a dashing Lady Gay Spanker, W. Hoskins gave a clever impersonation of Dazzle, Barton Hill presented one of the best renditions of the character of Charles Courtley ever seen on the California stage. Henry Edwards was excellent as Sir Harcourt Courtley. Miss Ellie Wilton as Miss Grace Harkaway acted admirably, and J. C. Williamson was very funny as Dolly Spanker. To-night, Lewis Morrison, who during his engagement at this theatre, has won favor in the eyes of the California public, by his earnest efforts to please, and has in many parts acquitted himself in a manner which has left but little to be desired, will take his farewell benefit and make his last appearance. On this occasion he will produce one of the star pieces which he has had written especially for him. The title is "Rose," the author Miss Celia Logan, sister of Olive Logan. Mr. Morrison will appear as George Bentham, and John T. Raymond as Diggory, in "The Spectre Bridegroom," with which the entertainment concludes. Mr. Morrison deserves a good benefit, and we doubt not, will have a good one. At the matinee, to-morrow, G. B. Densmore's very successful play "The Gilded Age," will be played. The evening will be devoted to the complimetary farewell testimonial to W. A. Mestayer. An immense bill will be performed, and an immense house is a certainty. The California public is famous for the heartiness it displays in welcoming the coming, and speeding the parting guest, and both these testimonials will, we are sure, be worthy of San Francisco.

Opera House.

The very popular play of "Alixe," drew another large and fashionable audience last night. To-night, William Horace Lingard, who is a great favorite with the public, will take his first benefi , and will signalize the occasion by a varied and entertaining bill The performance will commence with Byron's new society comedy entitled "War to the Knife." this will be followed by Gilbert's new fairy tale "Creature of Impulse," then William Horace will appear in twelve new Lingard sketches, and the performance will conclude with "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," by Mr. Lingard and Miss Alice Dunning. In the course of the piece these artists will sing a grand scena and duet. At the matinee to-morrow the highly successful play of "Alixe" will be performed.

Palace Amphitheatre.

This evening and at the matinee to-morrow, the immense equestrian and gymnastic performance which has drawn such crowds during the week will be repeated. Omar Kingsley will appear in his wonderful Zoyara act, Mme. Dockrill in her great equestrian act, Mr. Dockrill in his character impersonations, W. Carlo in his bottle act, the Kanebels in their grotesque funny scene, Fred O'Brien and company in leaps, and others in specialties, The Princess Mollie appears every evening.

Bella Union Theatre.

In consequence of the great success of the extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," it will be retained on the bill for one week longer. The march of the Female Crusaders, "Laughing Gas," "Broker's Help," "Review of Stocks" and a great number of other performances will be given. "The Hoodoo Picnic" will terminate the evening's fun.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson, Frank Mortimore, Miss Lotta Gray, Johnny Price, Hughey Morton and a host of others, will appear this evening, in a very attractive olio of songs, acts and dances. The programme is published on our first page.

HORTICULTURAL HALL.—The San Francisco Minstrels, consisting of Messrs. Hatton, Stetson, Sheridan, Mestayer, Christy, Welch, Pierson and the White Brothers, will make their first appearance here on Sunday evening, and will give a performance, consisting of Ethiopean acts and minstrelsy, which is specified in the programme on our first page. The whole will conclude with a Grand Ball.

Woodward's Gardens.

To-day there will be a grand May-Day Festival at these gardens. Hundreds of performers will appear in costumes of the olden time, under the direction of B. McCarthy. There will be a grand entree and march, raising the May Pole, crowning the May Queen, a May Pole Dance, and other performances. On Saturday, there will be a great entertainment, including the wonderful Frog Act and the thrilling feat of "The Spiral Mountain." On Sunday, there will be a balloon ascension, at 4 o'clock, and the Turner's May Festival will commence.

Knight's of Pythias.

The fourth annual celebration and picnic of the order of the Knights of Pythias, will take place at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Friday, May 8th. The Fourth Artillery band of twenty-five pieces will be in attendance, and during the day there will be dancing in the pavilion. A great variety of amusements and games will be open for the members of the Order and their guests, and a number of valuable prizes will be given. Among the prizes will be two for babies, one for the handsomest boy baby, the other for the handsomest girl baby. Tickets for the round trip, including admission to the Park, are set at the low price of seventy-five cents.

Fassking's Garden.

The annual picnic of the B'nai B'rith Association, which is always one of the most fashionably attended of the season, will take place on Sunday next, at Fassings' Park, Alameda. The proceeds will be devoted to the Library Fund of the Association. There will be a most attractive gathering of fair women and brave men, and all who join in the festivities will enjoy themselves.

CITY GARDENS.—The Haight Light Cavalry will hold their picnic at these gardens on Sunday May 3rd. The Haight Cavalry will be escorted to the gardens by deputations from the different cavalry companies of the city, and on the grounds will award prizes for various games and diversions. They will also give a grand ball both day and evening. Certainly enough for fifty cents, the price of tickets.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC.—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 137.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

EXCURSION TO FRENCH MAN-OF-WAR.—The new French Iron-clad Frigate, and Ram "Atalanti," on her cruise around the World, is now moored in port. She was built two years ago, is provided with a thirty-foot ram, has two monitor turrets on deck, and is the most formidable war vessel that ever entered this harbor. The Admiral having given permission, the Neptune, the fleetest of our harbor boats, will make half-hourly trips after 12 30 on Sunday from Vallejo street wharf to the "Atalanti." Our citizens should inspect this frigate and see how formidable a vessel she really is.

Platt's Hall.

Miss Marian Singer, who has a musical name at least, gave a concert here last night which was but poorly attended.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Klint, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Klint has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410. below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

WHO KNOWS?

A baby into existence grows
Out of the dark; couleur de rose
Its future seems as it lies in dreams,
For life can bring no cruel thing
To a bud that into a blossom blows;
Ah well-a-day! who knows? who knows?

A man with a maid to the altar goes;
Cares have come, but couleur de rose
The future seems to the lover's schemes,
For care must fly when love is nigh,
And his heart is happy—there are no woes;
Ah well-a-day! who knows? who knows?

An old man out of existence goes;
Life was woe, but couleur de rose
The future seems, for the vision gleams
Of peaceful rest for aye possessed,
By a soul that back to the darkness goes;
Ah well-a-day! who knows? who knows?

A Strong Case.

Charlotte Cushman, having been praised by some of the papers for her "unostentations" charity, the Philadelphia All Day City Item says: We have nothing against Miss Cushman, personally, but so long as misinformed writers see fit to praise her heartless selfishness, we are determined to oppose such dangerous argument. Up to our knowledge Miss Cushman never relieved a poor actor, never subscribed to a charitable cause, never in her life played for anybody's benefit, never bought a play, never had a play written, but has always extracted as much money as she could from the pockets of managers and public, by her impersonation of such weak and stupid characters (weak and stupid to any actress of ability), as "Meg Merrilles"—her favorite piece, nearly her only one—a piece that any one can play for nothing.

This is the charity of Miss Cushman, so far as we can judge—vague expressions crediting her with a generous heart, cannot overcome the absence of testimony to the contrary.

Fashion Notes.

They used to tie the sash on the left side in a pretty bow, but now, as they are worn of such wide and handsome ribbon, the ladies put them wherever there is a "break in their dress."

Scarfs of Spanish or of guipure net lace, from three to four yards long, and half a yard wide, are worn around the neck instead of the fur boas used during the winter. Those who can afford it prefer the real guipure or thread-lace scarf.

A new freak of fashion consists of birth announcement cards. They are very small, and the announcement reads: "Compliments of Mr. and Mrs. —— and son (or daughter, whichever the case may be), Feb. 30, 3 P. M."

For all cotton and linen fabrics, washable laces, such as cotton and guipure, etc., will rival English embroidery as a trimming; but as the embroidery is newer, it will doubtless be the more popular.

For summer wraps will be worn daintily embroidered mantelets of lawn, nainsook and gauze. Of course, they are the merest pretence of a covering, forming, nevertheless, very graceful drapery, which few figures can afford to spare.

Those large and awkward-looking fans will not be fashionable next summer, we hear. The substitutes are very pretty, and also serviceable—not usually a combination in these days. The shape is Pompadour, and there is ample space for crest, monogram, initials, or "scribbling" on either side. "Scribbling," en passant, is quite as fashionable now as it was twenty years ago.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen.
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to E. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Letter from John T. Raymond.

OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, April 15, 1874.

MY DEAR WILL: I understand that the company of the California Theatre propose tendering you a Complimentary Benefit previous to your departure from San Francisco. This is as it should be, for no one deserves it more than yourself. Always ready to assist your brother professionals, it is now their turn to compliment you upon the eve of your "new departure." Permit me, for "Auld Lang Syne," to offer my services for the proposed testimonial, with my best wishes for your future success, and that the affair may be worthy of you.

Believe me, your Friend.
JOHN T. RAYMOND.

From the Lingards.

LICK HOUSE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER: It gives us great pleasure to add our names to the list for your testimonial, which you so well deserve. That it may be a bumper, is the sincere wish, of

Yours very truly,
WM. HORACE LINGARD,
ALICE DUNNING LINGARD,
DICKIE LINGARD.

TO MR. BARTON HILL, MANAGER—DEAR SIR:—A very unexpected and complimentary letter was handed to me this morning signed by every member of your company, including the attaches, also, a very flattering note from my old and esteemed friend, John T. Raymond, the present star, in consequence of which I would respectfully solicit a night at the California Theatre to further their kind intention and put myself under lasting obligations to its worthy manager.

I am, sir, very truly,
W. A. MESTAYER.

Mr. Hill's Answer.

MANAGER'S OFFICE, April 21, 1874.

MY DEAR MESTAYER:—In reply to your favor, let me say that I shall be glad if you will add my name to the list of those who have very properly offered you this testimonial of the esteem in which you are held among us, and that with the consent of Mr. Raymond, I have the pleasure of selecting the evening of Saturday, May 2d, for the proposed complimentary benefit to you; wishing you a bumper on that occasion, and good fortune through life, I am

Yours Sincerely, BARTON HILL.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—It was with no small pleasure I can assure you, that I received your letters as unexpected, as they were gratifying, and sensible as I am of the undeserved honor you have tendered me; still, I cannot but regret my inability to express in adequate terms, the sincere appreciation and deep sense of gratitude I feel, not only at its flattering nature, but the generous and liberal spirit that dictated it. Thanking you for your kindness, and your good wishes for my success, in the new career I have chosen, I have selected through the gracious permission of Mr. Raymond and Mr Hill, Saturday, May 23, for the testimonial. Very Gratefully Yours,

W. A. MESTAYER.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that he enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-z

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugaman, at his symposium of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2x

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance and stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. S-J

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Strawberries! Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-P

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Music Hath Charms.

Pianos tuned and repaired, at moderate prices and satisfaction guaranteed, by one that understands the business. Also, will perform on Piano at Evening Parties, etc. Orders left at 754 Market or 54 Third street, will receive prompt attention by G. W. Morgan. 4-v

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated. •

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Boyle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

Special to Ladies.

For dressmaking in all its branches and the latest styles, call on Mrs. J. J. Walker, at 310 Post street. Terms reasonable. 3-0

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 238 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2d, 1874.

DR. ABORN, 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR:—On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about nine years; although retaining my speaking faculties I had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long was it since I had heard myself speak, but now I am able to carry on a conversation without trouble, provided that my attention is not detracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,

DAVID O. HASKINS.

The above is one more testimonial added to Dr. ABORN'S large number, which is constantly augmenting. The latter speaks for itself.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

OPERA HOUSE.—This house was crowded with fashionable people last night when Wm. Horace Lingard took his benefit. The entertainment given was an admirable one. It commenced with a delightful dramatic fairy tale by W. S. Gilbert entitled "Creatures of Impulse," in which Miss Dickie Lingard, John Howson and Miss Josie Batchelder appeared to great advantage. This was followed by a new series of Lingard Sketches in which the versatile William Horace astonished and delighted the spectators by the quickness of his changes and the infinite variety of his impersonations. After this "War to the Knife," one of the most delightful works of that admirable playwright Henry J. Byron, was performed by Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard, W. H Lingard, Miss Josie Batchelder, J. K. Mortimore, J. W. Norris and others. This rich and varied evening's entertainment terminated with the farce of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White" in which the Lingards acted and sang capitally, and were well supported by A. D. Billings, Miss Fanny Young and J. W. Norris. We hope the public will ere long have another opportunity of enjoying this extraordinarily attractive bill. The ever popular "Alixe" will be performed at the matinee to-day and again this evening.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE. Lewis Morrison was honored by the presence of a large and fashionable audience last night, when he took his farewell benefit and made his last appearance in San Francisco. Mr. Morrison intends to go starring but it appears to us that he is altogether too modest for a star. Stars have pieces written for them in which they are the objects of interest from the time the curtain rises until it falls. Morrison's part is, in neither of his new plays, "Field and Fireside" and "Rose" the best part in the piece and does not give him a good opportunity of displaying his talents and gaining the sympathy of the audience. Mr. Morrison played the part of George Bentham in "Rose," very well, but it is not at all a good star part. Mr. Bentham is in love with the daughter of his wife by a former husband, his wife being still alive. No audience can be expected to sympathize with such a passion as this. He wishes to prevent his daughter from marrying a man unworthy of her and in order to do so attempts to murder him. The play closes on a scene in which he is expressing remorse and demanding forgiveness for his intended crime. E. J. Buckley's part—Robert Ellwood—is a much stronger one than that of George Bentham, and we would suggest to Mr. Morrison, that he make that his star part and make George Bentham into a villain instead of a well-meaning man distracted by love. Miss Ellie Wilton as "Rose," played admirably, and we much doubt if any better representation of the role will ever be given than was presented by her last night. The character is a difficult one to play, presenting many phases of feminine nature and requiring considerable versatility. "Rose" has some good points in it, but it is not a good bit of dramatic work. There are too many loose ends in it. "Nettie" and "Joe Bragg," two of the best characters in the play were admirably acted by Miss Maggie Moore and W. A. Mestayer, are dropped out after second act. The third act is inconsequential. At the end of the second act we find "Robert Ellwood" desperately in love with "Rose," and determined to marry her, and in the succeeding act "George Bentham" tries to kill him because he won't give up his design of marrying his step-daughter "Alice Merrill." There is a great deal of talk and far too little action in the play, and it will bear a good deal of cutting and remodeling. The character of "Rose" is a good one. "George Bentham," is unpleasant and will always be unpopular. "Joe Bragg" is too soon dropped out of the play, as is also "Nettie," and the rest of the characters amount to nothing at all. "Rose" appears to us very much like a good French play diluted and Americanized until the original motive is so obscure that it becomes wearisome and objectless. We are grieved to differ with the Call, but the truth must be told, and we are sure that Mr. Morrison if he will have the "home-made portion of "Rose" picked out, can make it a very strong and acceptable play. At the conclusion of "Rose," the beneficiary was called before the curtain and expressed his gratitude for the generous encouragement his efforts to please the public had always met with. At the matinee to-day, G. B. Densmore's play of "The Gilded Age" will be performed with J. T. Raymond as Col. Sellers. This evening the farewell complimentary testimonial to that admirable actor and thoroughly good fellow W. A. Mestayer, will come off. The demand for seats has been so large that the house will probably be sold before the curtain rises. Mr. Mestayer will present a splendid entertainment for the delectation of his many friends who will be present on this occasion. Everyone belonging to the California Theatre has volunteered, and in addition W. H. Lingard, Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickie Lingard, Alfred Kelleher, Miss Susan Galton, J. P. Burnett and Miss Jennie Lee join in the testimonial. The programme is printed in full on our first page, and comprises among other attractions a farce adapted to the occasion entitled "The Neilson Fever," in which the beneficiary will appear as even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed. There will be any amount of fun and an immense crowd to enjoy it. Mr. Mestayer has during his long engagement in California, gained the good will of the public, and the estimation of all who have been brought in contact with him, and will to-night receive an ovation of which any actor might be proud.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—At the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening all the great stars of the arena will appear in a programme which cannot be equalled in any other hippodrome in existence. Mlle. Dockrill the unapproachable comic brothers, the Kenebels, Fred O'Brien and many others will appear. Among the four-legged performers are the Princess Mollie and the horses Billy and Beauty.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The extravaganza of "The Naked Truth," with its march of Female Crusaders, has made a great hit at this popular variety theatre. It will be presented to-night in conjunction with a splendid olio, rattling first part and laughable afterpiece. All the popular performers whose names are mentioned on our first page will appear.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—A great Saturday night's bill will be performed at this house by Geo. O. Thompson, Miss Fanny Webster, Johnny Price, Frank Mortimore, Miss Irene Walters, and others whose names are published in our first page.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE, which he has at a great outlay created on the site of the old Alhambra, is worthy of the pioneer manager of the Pacific Coast in every way. It is roomy, handsome and well ventilated. Its seating capacity is such as will admit of the engagement of the most expensive stars on the continent. It has ample accommodations for 1,500 persons. The ceiling is beautifully frescoed by F. Pellegrini, beautiful chrystal chandeliers by Thomas Day, adorn the proscenium, and a magnificent drop curtain representing "The Golden Age" adds to the attractions of the new theatre. The seats are upholstered with deep blue plush, and present a very handsome appearance. The new stage is of sufficient size to admit of the effective production of any class of plays. The dress circle and orchestra seats are now separated only by a rail as in the Opera House, and the balcony seats are as comfortable and command as good a view of the stage as the lower portion of the house. On our first page will be found the names of the contractors who have so well accomplished the different portions of the work which make up such a complete whole. Maguire's New Theatre will be opened to the public on Monday evening by the Lingard Troupe, and the excellent dramatic company from the Opera House. An attractive entertainment will be given, probably the same which caused so much delight when presented last night on the occasion of Mr. Lingard's benefit. Mr. Maguire now has a theatre of which he may well be proud, and one which we are sure the public will be glad to patronize.

EXCURSION TO FRENCH MAN-OF-WAR.—The new French Iron-clad Frigate, and Ram "Atalanti," on her cruise around the World, is now moored in port. She was built two years ago, is provided with a thirty-foot ram, has two monitor turrets on deck, and is the most formidable war vessel that ever entered this harbor. The Admiral having given permission, the Neptune, the fleetest of our harbor boats, will make half-hourly trips after 12 30 on Sunday from Vallejo street wharf to the "Atalanti." Our citizens should inspect this frigate and see how formidable a vessel she really is.

KNIGHT'S OF PYTHIAS PIONIC. — The fourth annual celebration and picnic of the order of the Knights of Pythias, will take place at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Friday, May 8th. The Fourth Artillery band of twenty-five pieces will be in attendance, and during the day there will be dancing in the pavilion. A great variety of amusements and games will be open for the members of the Order and their guests, and a number of valuable prizes will be given. Among the prizes will be two for babies, one for the handsomest boy baby, the other for the handsomest girl baby. Tickets for the round trip, including admission to the Park, are set at the low price of seventy-five cents.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

FASSKING'S GARDEN.—GRAND PICNIC.—The annual picnic of the B'nai B'rith Association, which is always one of the most fashionably attended of the season, will take place on Sunday next, at Fasskings' Park, Alameda. The proceeds will be devoted to the Library Fund of the Association. There will be a most attractive gathering of fair women and brave men, and all who join in the festivities will enjoy themselves.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS. — A grand performances on Saturday, there will be a great entertainment, including the wonderful Frog Act and the thrilling feat of "The Spiral Mountain." On Sunday, there will be a balloon ascension, at 4 o'clock, and the Turner's May Festival will commence.

CITY GARDENS—The Haight Light Cavalry will hold their picnic at these gardens on Sunday May 3rd. The Haight Cavalry will be escorted to the gardens by deputations from the different cavalry companies of the city, and on the grounds will award prizes for various games and diversions. They will also give a grand ball both day and evening. Certainly enough for fifty cents, the price of tickets.

HORTICULTURAL HALL. — The San Francisco Minstrels, consisting of Messrs. Hutton, Stetson, Sheridan, Mestayer, Christy, Welch, Pierson and the White Brothers, will make their first appearance here on Sunday evening, and will give a performance, consisting of Ethiopean acts and minstrelsy, which is specified in the programme on our first page. The whole will conclude with a Grand Ball.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

NOTES.—John Connell, of the San Francisco Minstrels is to be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at Platt's Hall on May 14th. when a very strong force of amateur and professional talent will appear.

Prof. Mulder Labbri, will, on May 11th, produce at Platt's Hall, for the first time in San Francisco, Mozart's great opera of "Il Flauto Magico." This opera requires nine soprano and mezzo soprano voices, two tenors, the baritones and two bassos, all of which Prof. Fabbri has found among his pupils. He has already had forty-seven rehearsals of the opera and he promises that it shall perfectly produced. The orchestra will consist of thirty-two of the best instrumental performers in the city, and a chorus of thirty-six voices has been engaged. The production of "The Magic Flute," is looked forward to with great interest in many social circles, and an immense audience will be present.

Johnny Herman, Dutch comic singer, has been tendered a benefit by the San Francisco Minstrels. It will come off at Platt's Hall on May 20th. A number of popular amateurs and professionals will appear, and in addition to other attractions the holder of a certain lucky ticket will be presented with a handsome gold watch.

A number of the friends of J. T. Raymond and and his estimable wife, are preparing a little surprise for them before they leave for the East, in the shape of a complimentary farewell benefit. Miss M. E. Gordon (Mrs. Raymond,) will be invited to let the light of her countenance beam upon the public who appreciate her so well, on that occasion. Time and place will be announced shortly.

The Opera House will be closed after the performance to-morrow night for the purpose of constructing proscenium boxes and other improvements. Maguire's California Minstrels, augmented by artistes mentioned in FIGARO last week will make their appearance on Monday, May 11th.

The first piece to be played at the benefit of W. A. Mestayer this evening is "Dust in the Eyes," an adaptation from the French made by J. N. Long and W. A. Mestayer.

On Monday evening, Charles Pope, an old-time California actor will commence an engagement at the California Theatre, appearing in the title role of "Belphegor, the Mountebank." The piece will be produced with a strong cast, new and magnificent scenery by Pooter, new costumes by Bonfanti, who will be assisted by the ever popular Mlle. Marie Gaugain and a full corps of coryphees and figurantes. Much money has been lavished on the production of this play and it will doubtless have an extended run.

Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett are to be the recipients of a complimentary benefit at the Opera House on Saturday evening next, when a host of volunteers will appear.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Philadelphia All Day City Item has the following just criticism of Miss Lucille Western in "East Lynne:" In the early portion of the play which is tedious, Miss Western shows her worst points. Her attempts to play the part of a lady are not successful—they are mere amusing than anything else. The startling wail of "Lady Isabel," the manner in which she replies, "Something to roast and something to boil," when "Miss Corney" asks her what she shall order for dinner, as well as the majestic sweep of her drapery, and the decidedly unpleasant display of her neck and arms, all show that Miss Western's ideas of an English lady are rather vague.

But, it Miss Western fails in the opening acts, she certainly redeems herself in the third and fourth acts. Few scenes have made so deep, so positively thrilling impressions, as the interview between the mother and her dying child.

From the same paper we learn that the Chestnut Street Theatre will at last be altered by the owner according to the designs of the architect, Mr Rush. The lower portion of the house remains as at present, but the balcony will be lowered, all the offices on that floor removed and run to the Chestnut street wall, thus adding four hundred and twenty seats. As yet no one has leased the theatre for next season, the price demanded being too heavy. All the other theatres are under low rents. The Arch $7,500. The Walnut, owned by John S. Clark, interest on money invested, and taxes, about $8,000. For the Chestnut $ 8,000 is asked. The difference in the rent alone is very often the profit of a season to Philadelphia managers, so that it is exceedingly doubtful whether Mr. Cochran will obtain $18,000 for the Chestnut. The theatre has an excellent location, but such a rent is $18,000 too much?

The Baltimore Academy of Music is reported as being nearly two-thirds completed, and promises to be one of the finest structures of its kind. The Board of Managers hope to see its completion by next Fall. About $ 60,000 has already been expended upon the building. The general opinion of the knowing ones is that the venture will prove a flat failure, since Baltimore cannot furnish sufficient support to the small number of theatres which are now running there.

Within the last two years Mr. Sothern has donated over $4,900 to the British Royal General Theatrical Fund. He recently wrote to a London friend, saying, "I shall soon come back, and again play for the Fund: and if I and other artists cannot do something to double the income of the Fund, I will eat my head, as the saying is in America."

Mr. Augustin Daly has purchased the American right to H. J. Byron's new play of "An American Lady."

Miss Rose Wood will play in Cleveland next month in her new play of "Rose" and "Field and Fireside." Her husband, Lewis Morrison, will play in the same pieces with her.

The All Day City Item of Philadelphia, copies a third of a column of theatrical notes with the following preface:

The San Francisco FIGARO (an excellent theatrical authority) gives the following latest California theatrical news.

We prefer being called "the only dramatic authority on the Pacific Coast," but the Item meant well.

An exchange says:

Gentlemen actors are becoming numerous in London. At the Haymarket there is Mr. Kendal alias Grimstone; Mr. Fernyl alias Frost. At the Prince of Wales, Mr. Hare alias Fairs; Mr. Bancroft, Mr. Coghlen (late Third Dragoons), Mr. Collette (late Sixth Dragoons,) At the Lyceum, Mr. Conway alias Coulson; Mr. Clayton alias Calthrope. At the Globe, Mr. Montague. And there are several others under assumed names, were they only known.

We think San Francisco can boast a fair number of "gentlemen actors." We are not going to particularize as that would be invidious, but we could, and if we would, mention quite a number who always have been gentlemen and whose fathers and grandfathers before them were so also.

Miss Carlotta LeClercq commenced an engagement at Wallack's Theatre on June 1st. She will probably produce Tom Taylor's play of "Mary Warner," the right of which she has purchased from Miss Bateman.

The Boston Herald, speaking of her performances of "The New Magdalen" at the Boston Theatre on the 20th says:

The character of Mercy Merrick, strongly drawn as it is, painfully intense as the dramatist intended it, would be of little account in the hands of a common actress, but as portrayed by Miss LeClercq it rises to a beautiful and majestic creation. She has given the character much study and the result is one of the finest exhibitions of real acting ever seen in Boston. The marked features of the characterization are its naturalness, its striking illustrations of the emotions of the heart, its entire freedom of any attempt to overact, or to produce effects by any stage tricks or artifices. It is beautiful in its symmetry, artistic in its coloring, and exact in its results.

This was the character our wonderful San Francisco critics thought Miss LeClercq couldn't play.

Mr. Maurice Pike and Miss Millie Sackett (Mrs. Pike) have arrived in New York from San Francisco. Mrs. Pike is in excellent health despite recent rumors to the contrary.

The Lydia Thompson troupe play their farewell engagement in Philadelphia at Mrs. John Drew's Arch Street Theatre, commencing April 20th.

Miss Neilson will probably play a short engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia during the latter part of May.

Mr. Daly has secured the American right to Meilhac and Halevy's latest Parisian production "The Little Marquise."

Mr. Maurice Grau has become the new manager of the Lyceum Theatre, and will enter into possession on August 1.

Baker and Farron are underlined in Cleveland for May 4th.

Aimee and bouffers, McVicker's, Chicago, 20th.

Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell, Dayton, Ohio, 21st 22d; Richmond, Ind., 23d, 24th. W. W. Fowler, business manager, as usual.

A Philadelphia genius, Elmer Ruan Coates by name, recently addressed the following note to Madame Janauschek, while she was playing in that city: "1,437 North Seventeenth street, City of Brotherly Love, 4th mo., 2d, 1874. Madame Janauschek, Lady, Friend, and Genius: I am a strange man, with a strange, emotional history; one that would entertain thee! Am a nervo-asthmatic invalid, or I would call and give my aims in full. I dedicate my life to stage elevation, and my passion and safety-valve is the high-toned, blank-verse drama. Madame, I would love to infuse my soul in some grand theme for thy powers. Would love to submit specimens. Am well known here as a poet, but have had no chance to fully show my Thespian plea. Am now working to publish the literary fruit of my tomb-bound career. May I hear from thee? Poetry, dramatic, and other, is my necessity, I wish sympathy of the masters and mistresses of the stage. Have undertaken a gigantic role, and hope for full support. Thine (signed), Elmer Ruan Coates." Coates has, in past years, undertaken tragedy in Philadelphia.

T. W. Keane has been compelled to cancel his engagement as leading man at Wood's Museum, Philadelphia, next season, on account of delicate health.

He is coming to California, where he will soon recover.

Forepaugh's Aggregation. Washington, 20th, 21st, 22d, and 23d; Pittsburgh, 27th and 28th; Alleghany, 29th and 30th and May 1st; Birmingham, 2d; Logansport, Ind., 11th. On the 14th, at Baltimore, as the circus procession was passing through the streets, Henry Herning, aged twelve years, was pushed by a companion toward the uncovered cage of a lion and lioness. The latter sprang at him and caught his head with her paws. And the boy was dragged away with the greatest difficulty. His skull bone was broken, part of his scalp torn away, and several gashes made in his face. Meanwhile the lions were furiously roaring and rearing their paws covered with blood, and great excitement prevailed. It was thought that the boy was fatally injured; but he is out of danger. Later on the same day a fight occurred in one of the cages between two tigers and a lion. The tigers began the combat, and bit and tore each other so furiously that the lion in the next apartment, who was separated from them by a gate of iron bars, broke its doors and dashed in among the fighters. Presently all three were engaged in battle. The keepers had the greatest trouble in restoring order among the beasts; but before they did so the people in the tent ran from it in great fright. The last of the accidents of the day was the mysterious spiriting away of a little colored boy who had visited the show "wid de ole woman." The boy had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot.

An omnibus leaves Broadway station, Oakland, every Sunday and Wednesday at 9 A. M. and again at noon, taking intending purchasers free of charge to the beautiful lands of the Berkely Villa Association, adjoining the State University at Berkeley. A few half-acre lots can still be had at $150 each, in monthly payments. Maps and further particulars can be had on application to William Stuart, Real Estate Agent, 113 Leidesdorff street. 5-B

At intermission, and after the play is over, if you are thirsty go to the nearest saloon and call for a glass of "Star Ale or Porter," and our word for it, you will come away satisfied.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Klunt, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Klunt has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

John McCullough Interviewed.

Wilkes New York Spirit of the Times, deputed a San Francisco critic to interview John McCullough prior to his departure in his second starring tour. The result is published in the last number of that paper, which has reached this city. We make a few extracts, premising that Barton Hill was present at the interview:

Critic—I have been asked to interview you, Mr. McCullough, now present, on the 'State of the drama in California." What do you say to first considering the subject under the heads of legitimate, sensational, spectacular, and Irish?

Mr. McCullough—A very good division. Suppose we begin with the legitimate.

Mr. Barton Hill—As an example of what position [illegible] legitimate holds in San Francisco—I [illegible]

Critic [illegible]pre, interrupting rudely)—which is Californ[illegible]roe

Mr. B. H.—(with dignity)—Which is California—you might instance the present engagement of yours, John.

Mr. McC.—I should like to but my natural modesty—(a mocking laugh from some one not yet discovered)——

Mr. B. H.—Well then let me do it for you. The engagement has lasted three weeks, and has been one of the most successful ever played here, during which, as you know, Mr. Critic, "Spartacus" "Hamlet," "Othello," "King Lear," "Virginius," "Richelieu," and "Jack Cade," have been produced and received the best support.

Mr. McC.—Yes, I think it but a fair statement to make, that the present condition of the legitimate drama was never so favorable as now. The support given Shakespeare's plays here has always been of the best, and it is a fact that his dramas have been produced at the California Theatre oftener than in other theatre in America, not even excepting Booth's. Altogether, eighteen Shakespearian plays have been given from "Richard III." to "The Comedy of Errors," from "Hamlet" to "The Taming of the Shrew," and from "King Lear" to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," the total number of performances being one hundred and sixty-three.

Critic—In what Shakespearian characters have you appeared, Mr. McCullough?

Mr. McC.—In every one, I believe, from the Ghost to Lear, from Othello to Malvolio, from Brutus to Benedick, and from Hotspur to Romeo—in all twenty-seven characters.

Critic—Now, then, a word or two as to sensational plays.

Mr. Mc.—They are, to a large extent, tabooed. "Poverty Flat," "Across the Continent," and Ben McCullough" are decided failures.

Mr. B. H.—John, in fact, is the only one of that name who has succeeded.

Mr. McC.—Heed not Bartonio when he is funny, Mr. Critic. Such plays as I have mentioned people won't go to see. They never run over two nights. Anything so so execrably stupid as "Poverty Flat," is damned at once here, and audibly.

Critic—Shall we pass now to the Irish drama?

Mr. McC.—Arrah, yis, an' so plaze yez. Bedad; there's shmall doubt but that sich plays as them of Boucicault's receive sich patronage here as in no other city of the world at all, at all. The poor article falls as flat as dishwater.

Mr. B. H.—Oh, for pity's sake, John, stop that frightfully bad Dutch.

Critic—What do you think of San Franciscans as audiences, Mr. McCullough?

Mr. McC—San Francisans are quite as critical as Eastern audiences. They are cold, terribly cold, but patient, exacting, and generous—remarkably quick to discover frauds, but equally ready to acknowledge a point. Old favorites are invariably received with warmth.

Mr. B. H.—I don't know if you ever noticed it or not, John, but it seems to me that directly I go on the stage here, the people look at one in a manner that says as plainly as the words do: "Now, what the devil are you going to do? Come now, if you have any talent, trot it out!"

Mr. McC.—Yes, San Francisco audiences certainly do take time to warm up; but then, on the other hand, they don't cool rapidly.

Critic—What do you think of the California stage at a school, Mr. McCullough?

Mr. McC.—As a school, I do honestly think it up to and in many respects above the recognized standard. Of course our theatrical college here is hardly old enough to have produced much talent, but when you think that it has materially helped to develop such actors and actresses as Edwin Booth, Frank Mayo, Mrs. J. B. Booth, Matilda Heron, and Lotta, while we have among us such men and women as Mrs. Judah, Walter Leman, William Barry, D. C. Anderson, Harry Edwards, Mrs. Edwin, Mrs. Saunders, and Miss Margaret Chambers, a most excellent Irish character actress, now in New York, with a passing and quieter mention of poor Seeley Smith, whose dust is elsewhere, and H. A. Perry, who sleeps on the side of Lone Mountain. When you remember these names, I think you will has done something toward making the fame roll a fairer and brighter document.

Mr. B. H.—You will perceive, Mr. Critic, that John has omitted his own name. And I would like to say that our stock company to-day has resources which Eastern people perhaps would scarcely credit. For instance, we have produced "Coriolanus" on Saturday and "The American Cousin" on the succeeding Monday, and both so well that the people didn't know which was which.

Mr. McC.—Of course you won't say that, Mr. Critic. But I would like to say that when Edwin Booth does come to California, he will play the biggest engagement on record. In fact, no man can come to California without being a great deal the better—or worse—for it.

Mr. McCullough being asked what he thought of the critics the following ensued:

Mr. McC.—Present company, etc., nothing if not critical.

Critic (hastening to destruction)—Which of the two?

Mr. McC. (with a demoniac relish of his revenge)—Nothing!

Critic—But, Mr. Hill, they have sometimes favored you.

Mr. McC.—There lies the proof.

Mr. B. H.—And they have always praised you, John.

Mr. McC.—Then are they less critical than I thought.

The Scold.

We suppose that unfortunate young woman, Miss Anna Dickinson, knows her cue—at least, she thinks she does.

Scold—scold—scold!—Miss Dickinson scolds the newspapers, the Legislature, the clergy, the public.

She has the querulous tone of a slighted, unhappy, sick woman.

But, the worst of it is, she scolds in bad English.

Does Miss Dickinson never smile? Is life all gloom to her?

A Last Resource.

A Paris correspondent says it is a current joke there that no titled person can be too old or ugly or impoverished but that he may hope to pick up an American girl who will give heaps of dollars to become Madame la Duchesse or Madame la Baronne.

Practical Men.

The wholesale liquor dealers are a little afraid that their business may be interfered with. They have not organized a praying band, but they are holding meetings and subscribing money to carry out the war against prohibition.

A Distinction.

A strong-minded female, who was arguing the other day that the condition of a married woman was slavish, was effectually silenced by her opponent, who said, "It is not slavish, but high menial."

A Sad Mistake.

Some singers at a concert were somewhat startled the other evening by finding that the selection, "when wearied wretches sink to sleep," had been printed on the programmes. "When married wretches," &c.

The New Phase.

Instead of saying "It's a long time between drinks, San Jose men now remark, "It's a long time since I signed my last pledge.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-y

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 235 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 327 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24, 1874.

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR:—On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about nine years; although retaining my speaking faculties I had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long was it since I had heard myself speak, but now I am able to carry on a conversation without trouble, provided that my attention is not detracted by surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,

Maguire's New Theatre.

This beautiful new theatre which occupies the site of the former Alhambra, will be opened this evening by the Lingard Combination, and the popular comedy company from the Opera House. The entertainment on this occasion will present the chief features of that which was such a success when given on the occasion of the benefit of Mr. Lingard. It will commence with W. S. Gilbert's new fairy tale entitled "Creatures of Impulse," after this W. H. Lingard, will appear in twelve new sketches, and will execute a drawing before the audience after the style of the French caricaturists. The performances will conclude with the farce of Mr. and Mrs. Peter White, in which Miss Alice Dunning, W. H. Lingard, Miss Dickey Lingard, A. H. Hillings, J. W. Norris, and Miss Fanny Young will appear. There will be an immense rush on the occasion of the opening of the new theatre, and those who wish to obtain admission will do well to go early.

California Theatre.

W. A. Mestayer had a bumper benefit on Saturday night. A very large and fashionable audience was present and the entertainment was worthy of the occasion. "Dust in the Eyes," an adaptation from the French, by J. M. Long, a very promising young member of the California Theatre company, was quite a success, and the beneficiary created a perfect furore of applause by his appearance in gorgeous feminine apparel in "The Neilson Fever." To-night Charles Pope will commence a new engagement at this theatre, in "Belphegor the Mountebank." The play will be produced with new scenery, magnificent costumes, a strong cast and a full corps de ballet with Mlle. Bonfanti and Mlle Marie Gaugain, as premieres danseuses. "Belphegor," is put on for a run and will doubtless achieve it. It is some time since the public have enjoyed spectacle and ballet in connection with a good piece and a first-class actor.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The present week will be the last of the magnificent season of equestrian and gymnastic performances given at this house. R. H. Deckrill, Madame Deckrill, the comic Kenebels, Leon and Laiscelles, the performing elephant and a host of other stars will appear. The price of admission has been reduced. Family chairs will be for this week, fifty cents only, and parquet seats twenty five cents. Reserved chairs will be one dollar. Such an entertainment at such prices of admission should draw crowds to the Amphitheatre.

Complimentary Benefit to John T. Raymond.

The complimentary benefit tendered to John T. Raymond by his many friends, which we mentioned on Saturday, is to come off at the Opera House on Wednesday evening next, when Miss M. E. Gordon will make her first and only appearance taking the character of Esther Eccles in "Caste." Mr. Raymond will play Eccles. After this, Miss Susan Galton will sing "Who's at the Window," H. Edwards will recite "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and J. C. Williamson his new Dutch version entitled "The Charge of the Rum Crusade." The performance will conclude with "A Conjugal Lesson" by Miss M. E. Gordon and J. T. Raymond, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, Mrs Sophie Edwin, Miss Eberle and others whose names appear on our first page have volunteered for this occasion.

Horticultural Hall.

There was a very good attendance here last evening, notwithstanding the counter attractions of the Turner's Annual Festival at Woodward's Gardens, which drew away a large portion of the regular German patronage. The performances by the San Francisco Minstrels were well received, and many acts were encored. The duet by the White Brothers and the clog by Morris Welch, were noteworthy. The performances by the Minstrels, will probably be repeated next Sunday evening.

Platt's Hall.

A grand Spanish Ball in commemoration of the battle of Saragossa, will take place at the above named Hall, to-morrow night. Our Spanish citizens get up their affairs in good style.

Bella Union Theatre.

The local extravaganza, "The Naked Truth," ballads by H. R. Archer, song and dance by Jimmy Moore, a variety of amusing acts, a good first-part and a langouable afterpiece, make up a capital entertainment at this house.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his specialties, Mortimore in his sketches, Miss Lotta Gray in comic songs, and a number of others in various specialities, will give a good performance to-night.

KNIGHT'S OF PYTHIAS PICNIC.—The fourth annual celebration and picnic of the order of the Knights of Pythias, will take place at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Friday, May 8th The Fourth Artillery band of twenty-five pieces will be in attendance and during the day there will be dancing in the pavilion. A great variety of amusements and games will be open for the members of the Order and their guests, and a number of valuable prizes will be given. Among the prizes will be two for babies, one for the handsomest boy baby, the other for the handsomest girl baby. Tickets for the round trip, including admission to the Park, are set at the low price of seventy-five cents.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

The California Theatre company will appear at the Opera House, San Jose, May 18th, 19th and 20th.

Lewis Morrison leading man of the California Theatre, went East yesterday morning.

Fred Lyster will not act as Mr. Sothern's advance agent as was anticipated, that actor having given up his idea of going to Australia.

Maguire's California Minstrels will perform at the Stockton theatre on Monday, Tuesday and

GRAND TESTIMONIAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1, 1874.—JOHN T. RAYMOND, ESQ.—DEAR SIR: Many of your friends, having understood that you anticipate a long absence from the State, are desirous of testifying their appreciation of your talents as an actor and your qualities as a gentleman, and would inquire if your plans would admit of your acceptance of a complimentary testimonial at an early day previous to your departure. The friends and admirers of Mrs. Raymond, who have been disappointed at her non-appearance during your late engagement, would respectfully inquire if it is not possible to induce her to gratify them by assisting you upon this occasion.

OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, May 3d.—Gentlemen: In reply to your kind note of May 1st, I beg to state that I accept your proffered testimonial, and am enabled, through the courtesy of Thos. Maguire Esq., to name WEDNESDAY EVENING, May 6th, at the Opera House, when, I am pleased to say, Mrs. Raymond will appear, and who requests me to convey her acknowledgments for the kind expressions contained in your letter. Again thanking you, I am yours, etc.,

JOHN T. RAYMOND.

More Honors for California Photographs.

A Gold Medal was offered a short time since by the proprietors of "The Philadelphia Photographer" Philadelphia, Pa, for the three best negatives furnished by one establishment. The medal was contended for by nearly all the leading photographers of the world. The result of the contest is shown by the following letter:

OFFICE OF THE "PHILADELPHIA PHOTOGRAPHER," PHILADELPHIA, April 20, 1874.

MESSRS BRADLEY & RULOFSON—Dear Sirs: It gives me pleasure to announce to you that the Judges have awarded the Gold Medal offered by me for the best three negatives, to you. Among your competitors for the prize were several of the leading photographers of the country, east and west: but your very superior work drove them all behind you. Your medal will be sent you shortly.

Truly yours,

EDWARD L. WILSON.
Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town;
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Our Family Troubles.

Our wife is something of a "Blue Stocking." Her thoughts and speech find vent in half a dozen different languages and we cannot understand half she says. The other day she said to us "Aller chez Libby & Swett pour macheter un paquet de papier a lettre et des enveloppes couleur de rose."

Not wishing to expose our ignorance we answered at random, that we would consult our lawyer about the matter. With a withering look she said "Kauffe mir rosen—fabriges Schribe papier bei Libby & Swett." Seeing our mistake we took another field and said that we thought Flannel wrung out in hot vinegar would be the best thing to do. There was a look of scorn in her eyes that started the perspiration on our forehead as she said "Hagame Vd el favor de comprar, Papel color de rose, en casa de Libby & Swett."

We meekly answered that we would do our best, but suggested to her that she had better write the directions in our note book for fear that we might forget. She took the book (with a look that made us wish we had never been born or else that fate had brought us into the world as a girl baby) and wrote what she wanted, and we took the book to our friend Trisins (who revels in modern languages) and from him we learned the literal translation, (our wife aims to be fashionable and everything must be the latest style) to into (she had written) Libby & Swett's, the fashionable stationers, and order some of their beautiful tinted note paper and envelopes. With a sigh of relief we hurried to 634 Market street, where Libby & Swett hold forth, and executed our commission, and started for home with a mind free from apprehension, for had we not with us some of the Vergonstein tinted paper just introduced to the public by Libby & Swett, and as that tint is the very latest we knew the partner of our joys would be satisfied. 5-D

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-r

Strawberries! Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-F

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

An omnibus leaves Broadway station, Oakland, every Sunday and Wednesday at 9 A.M. and again at noon, taking intending purchasers free of charge to the beautiful lands of the Berkely Villa Association, adjoining the State University at Berkeley. A few half-acre lots can still be had at $350 each, in monthly payments. Maps and further particulars can be had on application to William Stuart, Real Estate Agent, 113 Leidesdorff street. 5-B

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm Kahn & Hahs are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-T

At intermission, and after the play is over, if you are thirsty go to the nearest saloon and call for a glass of "Star Ale or Porter," and our word for it, you will come away satisfied.

From one tooth to a full upper set, from $5 to $20. Filling reasonable. By Dr. Crowell, D. D. S., No. 30 Kearny street, near Market. 2-J

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry. No Chinamen employed.

A Custom-house man writes that he has heard ladies of refinement, wealth, position and education lie a customs' officer out of countenance.

"What's the use of trying to be honest?" asked a young man of a friend. "Try it, and see," was the reply.

Ministers of the interior—The cook and the doctor.

A Great Disappointment.

The most disappointed woman is the lady who had a lot of sarcasm for her son-in-law elect, and couldn't use it because the match was broken off on the day before that appointed for the wedding.

Something about Photography

Few people are aware of the amount of work that is required to complete a good Photograph—we are speaking of first-class work—not the specimens that are advertised on some cross street at a slight cost. In a first-class establishment, like Houseworth & Co., No. 12 Montgomery street, where we called for information, we learned that an ordinary Cameo Photograph, (cabinet size) passes through the hands of ten different persons, of course the whole can be, and in some cases is, done by one person, but in such a case the careful study of every small detail is not so carefully attended to. The Messrs. Houseworth & Co., have a workman for each branch, who have nothing do but to attend to the part they make a specialty of, and who have by years of labor attained a degree of perfection that cannot be reached by those who have to produce a Photograph with the aid of perhaps one assistant. The Messrs. Houseworth & Co., carry on besides their city custom, which is very large, quite a business in taking open air pictures of the Big Trees, Geysers and Yo Semite Valley. Their facilities for the last named work is probably better than any other house are owing to their being the agents for the sale of tickets to the above named place. They not only sell tickets to single parties, but offer unusual inducements to excursion parties. They have guides hired by the season, whose sole duty it is to conduct and guide every one holding tickets issued by Houseworth & Co. For full particulars concerning the Yo Semite Valley, call or address Houseworth & Co., 9 and 12 Montgomery street.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kluit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kluit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 338 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell being cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

The Bogus Butter Company.

The California Bogus Butter Company is busted. Figaro was the only paper that pitched into it when it first started under the title of the Oleomargarine Company. The Bulletin, Alta, Call, Chronicle, News Letter and all the rest of the papers puffed up the fraud, and sent reporters to swallow bogus butter. The New York Dispatch says of this stuff:

"Oleomargarine," or butter made from grease and fat, doesn't seem a very popular article. A great deal of it has been sent among the Pennsylvania miners, and they are swearing at it in all the languages from English to Chinese. We don't blame them one bit. We rather think that if we discovered that we had been eating butter which we supposed to be made from the milk of cows, and afterwards discovered that our bread had been buttered with the oleaginous properties of deceased dog, or worn out horse, or diseased hog, we'd take a hand in the swearing ourselves. The Butter and Cheese Exchange of this city has been denouncing the fraud, and the health authorities will, some of these days, "go for" the makers of the stuff. While there can't be the least objection to anyone eating "oleomargarine" or any other disgusting stuff, who wishes to do so, there is a decided objection to having "oleomargarine" sold for prime butter. If a man likes to take poison intentionally, we don't object; but think the party who sells him poison as good, healthy food, is guilty of a swindle, and amenable to the law. The "oleomargarinists" will find this out before long, as the Butter and Cheese Exchange is going for them red-hot.

Reason Enough.

The San Jose Mercury says that while the Local Option question is much agitated in that city the Good Templars do not seem to enter into the contest with much earnestness. If all the liquor saloons in San Jose are shut up then the Good Templars there might as well shut up also. Where there is no liquor to be had there is no need for a Temperance Society. Can't the Mercury see?

New Music.

We have received from the publisher M. Gray, "I Shouldn't Like to Say," one of the Lingard sketches, a sero-comic song, words by W. H. Lingard, music by Charles Schultz. The title page is embellished by a photographic likeness of Mr. Lingard in character, executed by Bradley & Rulofson.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Theatrical in New York.

In New York at Wallack's, "The Veteran" was still running...."Mons. Alphonse" was a success at Fifth Avenue Theatre, and the child actress, Bijou Heron, daughter of Matilda, had made a tremendous hit...."Humpty Dumpty," at Fox's Broadway Theatre.....At the Metropolitan Theatre, Sam Rickey continued a great favorite, and "The California Golden Quartette," the Willing Brothers and J. W. Freeth, whom we never heard of in California made a success....At the Grand Opera House, Oliver Doud Byron was acting in his new play "Donald McKay"...."Love's Penance" was running at the Park Theatre....Union Square was crowded every night, "Led Astray" the attraction....Booth's Theatre filled every night, Miss Neilson playing Julia in "The Hunchback"....At the Academy of Music the Strakosch Italian Opera Combination were drawing good houses....At the Lyceum a romantic drama of the French Revolution entitled "La Marjolaine" with Miss Fanny Foster as the heroine, was produced on the 27th.....E. Eddy appeared at the Bowery on the 27th ult....Kitty Henderson the Devere Brothers and George Moore were the latest additions to the company at Tony Pastor's....At Bryant's Opera House, Senator Bob Hart, had introduced a highly successful sketch entitled "Go West".....A new variety theatre entitled ei the Columbia Opear House was opened on the 10th ult....At the Theatre Comique Cool Burgess and a new Irish drama entitled "Oushla Macree" were the attractions....Jarrett & Palmer were to have a great benefit at Niblo's on the 30th....At Wood's Museum Miss Sophie Miles, from the London Theatres, was playing in "Lady Audley's Secret"....All three of the Worrell Sisters were at the Brooklyn Opera House....Barnum's Hippodrome was opened on the 23d ult.

The Very Early Days.

The Bulletin describing Maguire's New Theatre says:

"The drop curtain represents a tableau in the palmy days of California."

The Bulletin people came to California before we did, they must have done so. The picture in question represents a woman leading a tame lion and a lot of people without too much clothing, riding in a rude chariot. We said the picture represented "The Golden Age," and the Bulletin jumped at the conclusion that it had something to do with California. It might have known better if it had taken the trouble to send a reporter on the night the theatre was opened for the inspection of members of the Press.

Creeds.

Creeds cannot rise above the age in which they are born and live. They dawn upon mankind, just when mankind are prepared to receive them. They die, when the human mind passes the land-marks that make them possible. But, as in every age there is a diversity of mind and mental culture, an ignorant and cultivated class, it follows that old traditions and dogmas are still attracting the unlearned, when the more thoughtful have already passed to a higher plane.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Juvenile Philosopher.

A greater amount of juvenile philosophy we never witnessed than yesterday occurred on First street. A little urchin was abstractedly wending his way with a pitcher of milk from the corner grocery; of a sudden his foot slipped, and in an instant the streets "were flowing with milk and"—water. The boy gathered himself up, still grasping the handle of the shattered pitcher, and contemplated the ruins in thoughtful silence. A gentleman, commiserating his misfortune, said: "Well, sonny, ain't you sorry?" To which the boy slowly replied: "No, I ain't sorry"—and reflecting a second—"I can't say that I am glad, either."

Cheap Enough.

The value of a husband has been discovered in Kentucky. A year ago a man named Gudgell was killed by a man who bore the romantic name of Smoot. Gudgell's widow sued Smoot for damages, and last week the jury adjudged that Smoot must pay the widow $85. Whenever we feel homicidally inclined, we'll save up $85, go to Kentucky, and kill somebody, and give his nearest relative the money. Who would not enjoy such exhilarating amusement when it can be had at so low a price?

The Panic in New York.

About eleven o'clock one night a policeman met a negro carrying a trunk along the street, and thinking he had discovered an item, he collared the negro and told him to drop that trunk and explain. "I kin do it, sah," replied the stranger, as he put the trunk down. "De family what was boarding me has been axing for money, and as dey was gwine out to-night, I thought I'd git into some family whar dey respected de panic." He was allowed to go on.

We would call the attention of all who enjoy smoking a good cigar to the advertisement of W. L. Eppinger, to be found in another column.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town;
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast.
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kluit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kluit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

More Honors for California Photographs.

A Gold Medal was offered a short time since by the proprietors of "The Philadelphia Photographer" Philadelphia, Pa, for the three best negatives furnished by one establishment. The medal was contended for by nearly all the leading photographers of the world. The result of the contest is shown by the following letter:

OFFICE OF THE "PHILADELPHIA PHOTOGRAPHER," PHILADELPHIA, April 20, 1874.

MESSRS BRADLEY & RULOFSON—Dear Sirs: It gives me pleasure to announce to you that the Judges have awarded the Gold Medal offered by me for the best three negatives, to you. Among your competitors for the prize were several of the leading photographers of the country, east and west; but your very superior work drove them all behind you. Your medal will be sent you shortly. Truly yours,

EDWARD L. WILSON,
Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Charles Pope received a doubly hearty welcome on making his appearance last night. First, he received the welcome always accorded by a California audience to a new comer, and then a round of greeting for old times sake, for Mr. Pope was here when the drama was notso flourishing as it is at present. This being over the audience tried Mr. Pope on his merits and their verdict was a highly favorable one. He has a fine stage presence, carries himself splendidly and has a magnificent voice which he uses with good effect. During his performance of the role of "Belphegor," the applause was frequent and he was repeatedly called before the curtain. Miss Ellie Wilton played the part of Madelaine charmingly, as she does every character in which she has to enlist the sympathies of the audience for a wronged and grief-torn woman. J. C. Williamson was excellent as "Fanfarronade," "Belphegor's" chief assistant, Miss Carrie Wyatt played the role of "Henri," capitally, and was brought before the curtain at the close of the third act by Mr. Pope. John Wilson as the villainous "Lavarennes," was effective, Miss Maggie Moore played the part of "Zephyrina," with delightful abandon. J. N. Long was easy and graceful in the character of "Viscount Hercule." E. J. Buckley was excellent as the "Count de Castel Blangy," and the other characters were generally well played. The ballet was very good and the audience seemed more inclined to applaud than they generally are, though they were by no means too liberal in their encouragement of the talents of Mlle. Bonfanti and Mlle. Gaugain. The latter, who appeared in the first act, received a pleasant greeting, and was applauded for her performance of a pas seul in the Ballet of the Garlands. Mlle. Bonfanti appeared between the second and third acts in an extremely beautiful Pas de Combre or Shadow Dance, and by the beauty of her movements awakened the audience to something like enthusiasm. The piece was well put on the stage with new scenery and splendid costumes. With its three ballets and comic pantomime, it presents variety enough to please all taste, and the pathetic portions of the drama are relieved by the introduction of these divertisements. Mr. Pope made a decided success and will doubtless draw a large audience to enjoy his acting to-night.

Maguire's New Theatre.

As we prophesied would be the case, every seat in this theatre was occupied last night before the curtain rose on the first piece, and people still poured in. The New Theatre presented a most brilliant appearance, and the audience were evidently delighted with this new house of the drama. W. S. Gilbert's charming fairy tale entitled "Creatures of Impulse," was capitally performed by Miss Dickey Lingard, John Howson, Miss Mary Wells, Miss Josie Batchelder, and others. A magnificent scene, one of the most attractive ever placed upon the California stage, served as a setting for W. H. Lingard's famous sketches, all of which were received with much applause and laughter. The evening's entertainment concluded with the musical farce of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," in which Miss Alice Dunning, W. H. Lingard, Miss Dickey Lingard, A. D. Billings, the able stage manager of the New Theatre, J. W. Norris and Miss Fannie Young appeared. The music performed during the evening by the newly-organized and increased orchestra, under the direction of Geo. T. Evans, was much enjoyed by the audience, and was quite a feature in the evening's entertainment. Fifteen hundred FIGAROS were distributed in the New Theatre last night, and doubtless as many more will be required this evening, when the same excellent bill will be performed.

Palace Amphitheatre.

A splendid entertainment, at reduced prices of admission, was given at this popular place of amusement last night. B. H. Dockrill in "Scenes from Pickwick," the Leopold Brothers in "The Ladder in the Air," Leaps by Fred O'Brien and company, a great bareback equestrian act by Madame Dockrill, a new comic act by the Kenebels, and other performances were given. The same excellent bill will be performed to-night. The present week is announced as the last of the season.

Complimentary Benefit to John T. Raymond.

The complimentary benefit tendered to John T. Raymond by his many friends, which we mentioned on Saturday, is to come off at the Opera House on Wednesday evening next, when Miss M. E. Gordon will make her first and only appearance taking the character of Esther Eccles in "Caste." Mr. Raymond will play Eccles. After this, Miss Susan Galten will sing "Who's at the Window," H. Edwards will recite "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and J. O. Williamson his new Dutch version entitled "The Charge of the Rum Crusade." The performance will conclude with "A Conjugal Lesson" by Miss M. E. Gordon and J. T. Raymond, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, Mrs Sophie Edwin, Miss Jennie Lee, J. B. Barnett and others, whose names appear on our first page, have volunteered for this occasion.

Platt's Hall.

A grand Spanish Ball in commemoration of the victory gained by the Mexicans over the French at the battle of Puebla, will take place at the above named Hall, this evening. Our Spanish citizens get up their affairs in good style.

KNIGHT'S OF PYTHIAS PICNIC.—The fourth annual celebration and picnic of the order of the Knights of Pythias, will take place at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Friday, May 8th The Fourth Artillery band of twenty-five pieces will be in attendance, and during the day there will be dancing in the pavilion. A great variety of amusements and games will be open for the members of the Order and their guests, and a number of valuable prizes will be given. Among the prizes will be two for babies, one for the handsomest boy baby, the other for the handsomest girl baby. Tickets for the round trip, including admission to the Park, are set at the low price of seventy-five cents.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. As

Benefit of Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Barnett.

The public have not seen Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Barnett on the stage for a considerable time, and will give them a hearty welcome when they make their reappearance at the Opera House on Saturday evening next, when they will be the recipients of a complimentary benefit. The performance will commence with the farce of "The Two Pots" in which J. P. Barnett will play Peter Pelt, after this a well-known amateur will sing a comic song, the comedy of "The Little Treasure" will be performed by Miss Jennie Lee, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, J. P. Barnett, Miss Julia Melville and Mrs. Edmunds, there will be a musical interlude by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with an original sketch arranged expressly for Miss Jennie Lee by Sam Gensee from "Oliver Twist," entitled "Dickens' Dodger." In this Miss Jennie Lee will appear as The Artful Dodger. Such a bill as this ought to draw an overflowing house. The box sheet is now open.

Platt's Hall.

Dr. Paul M. Brennan, will lecture in this Hall, on Friday evening, May 8th, on "The Human Mind: Its Development and Influence on the Body." The Doctor is a good and easy speaker, and his lecture will undoubtedly be found both entertaining and instructing.

Bella Union Theatre.

H. R. Archer in vocal gems, Jimmy Moore in song and dance, J. W. Summers and Tommy Barton in "Weep Little Children," Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Maggie St. Clair, Miss Susie Robinson, J. W. Summers and others in "The Naked Truth," and a great variety of other attractions will be offered this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Frank Mortimore and Harry Devoy in "Hard Cheek," Miss Lotta Gray in comic songs, Geo. C. Thompson in his specialties, and others in songs acts and dances, will afford amusement to those who pay this house a visit to-night.

City Gardens.

The California Jagers will hold their May Festival and picnic here on Sunday, May 10th. The Jagers will be escorted to the Gardens by delegations from several military companies. Prizes will be awarded for children's races, and other diversions, and the festivities will wind up with a grand ball and concert in the pavilion in the evening. The supervision of Capt. Schneider and his associates has much improved the morals of the place, in proof of which it may be mentioned, that not a single disturbance of any kind has occurred on the grounds this season. These gardens are now largely patronized by our German citizens.

Notes.

A band of Warm Spring Indians, who took part in the Modoc War, will with their leader, Donald McKay, shortly commence an exhibition of their military tactics at the Palace Amphitheatre.

Harry Estinge has returned from New York and does not want to go back again. He gives a sad account of that panic-stricken city.

The Aimee Troupe will commence a season of French Opera Bouffe at the California Theatre on the 18th. Charles Pope, and the dramatic company, will perform in some of the towns in the interior.

John McCullough, opened at Booth's Theatre, New York, last night in "The Gladiator," and of course made a hit.

A novel trial of horsemanship is shortly to come off, originating in this way: A rancho owner was boasting that he had a dozen wild horses so viciously bad, and such good buckers, that no vaquero in the county could ride them without being thrown. A prominent butcher took up the banter, and a $300 bet was made on the following terms. The rancho man is to place nine horses in a corral, the butcher is to produce a vaquero from Butchertown, to at will ride each of the nine horses around the enclosure without being thrown, with the proviso that three vaqueros shall be permitted to enter the trial list. The match will come off shortly. The time and place are not yet fixed, but the trial will probably be a public one.

GRAND TESTIMONIAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1, 1874.—JOHN T. RAYMOND, Esq.—DEAR SIR: Many of your friends, having understood that you anticipate a long absence from the State, are desirous of testifying their appreciation of your talents as an actor and your qualities as a gentleman, and would inquire if your plans would admit of your acceptance of a complimentary testimonial at an early day previous to your departure. The friends and admirers of Mrs. Raymond, who have been disappointed at her non-appearance during your late engagement, would respectfully inquire if it is not possible to induce her to gratify them by assisting you upon this occasion.

TIMES AND SEASONS.

Spring is green,
Birds are seen
Tales of love relating;
After showers
Bloom the flowers,
Every bud dilating;
Everywhere
Birds must pair;
Happy be their mating!
Living, loving—
All the world is loving!

Summer glow
Lieth low
In the fields before us;
Hear just there,
In the glare,
Katy-did sonorous;
Up on high
Laughs the sky
At the Earth's dull chorus,
Living, loving—
All the world is loving!

Autumn sad
We have had,
All the leaves are yellow;
One and all
Let them fall,
Death's a jolly fellow!
Summer dead,
Earth is red,
Every sunbeam's mellow.
Living, loving—
All the world is loving!

Winter's here,
Bright and clear,
Pleasant test of weather;
See him stand.
Tall and grand,
With his icy feather!
Young and old
Feel the cold,
Closely cling together.
Living, loving—
All the world is loving!

Our Family Troubles.

Our wife is somthing of a "Blue Stocking." Her thoughts and speech find vent in half a dozen different languages and we cannot understand half she says. The other day she said to us "Allez chez Libby & Swett pour macheter un paquet de papier a lettrie el des envelopes couleur de rose."

Not wishing to expose our ignorance we answered at random, that we would consult our lawyer about the matter. With a withering look she said "Kaufe mir rosen—fabriges Schribe papier bei Libby & Sweet." Seeing our mistake we took another field and said that we thought Flannel wrung out in hot vinegar would be the best thing to do. There was a look of scorn in her eyes that started the perspiration on our forehead as she said "Hagame Vd el favor de comprar, Papel color de rose, en casa de Libby & Swett."

We meekly answered that we would do our best, but suggested to her that she had better write the directions in our note book for fear that we might forget She took the book (with a look that made us wish we had never been born or else that fate had brought us into the world as a girl baby) and wrote what she wanted, and we took the book to our friend Frisus (who revels in modern languages) and from him we learned the literal translation, (our wife aims to be fashionable and everything must be the latest style) Go into (she had written) Libby & Swett's, the fashionable stationers, and order some of their beautiful tinted note paper and envelopes. With a sigh of relief we hurried to 634 Market street, where Libby & Swett hold forth, and executed our commission, and started for home with a mind free from apprehension, for had we not with us some of the Vergonstein tinted paper just introduced to the public by Libby & Swett, and as that tint is the very latest we knew the partner of our joys would be satisfied. 5-p

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

This house was crowded again last night. Everything in the bill was applauded, and a more thoroughly satisfied audience we never saw. "Creatures of Impulse," the Lingard sketches, and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," make up a performance hard to beat, and serves to show off the talents of the Lingards and the comedy company to advantage. The same entertainment will be given to-night. "Naval Engagements" is announced for to-morrow night.

California Theatre.

Another large audience last night enjoyed the pathetic acting of Charles Pope in "Belphegor, the Mountebank," and the beautiful dancing of M'lle Bonfanti and M'lle Gangain. This piece was put on the stage regardless of expense, and should have a long run. Mr. Pope has achieved a decided success and both the old and the new Californians will flock to the theatre to enjoy his acting.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The great combination of equestrian and gymnastic stars will appear at the matinee and again this evening. The reduction of the prices of admission has caused a rush to this house. M. and Mme. Dockrill, the Kenebels, Omar Kingsley and his wonderful horses, and other attractions set forth on our first page, are presented.

Complimentary Benefit to John T. Raymond.

The complimentary benefit tendered to John T. Raymond by his many friends, which we mentioned on Saturday, is to come off at the Opera House, this evening, when Miss M. E. Gordon will make her first and only appearance taking the character of Esther Eccles in "Caste." Mr. Raymond will play Eccles. After this, Miss Susan Galton will sing "Who's at the Window," H. Edwards will recite "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and J. C. Williamson his new Dutch version entitled "The Charge of the Rum Crusade." The performance will conclude with "A Conjugal Lesson" by Miss M. E. Gordon and J. T. Raymond, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, Mrs Sophie Edwin, Miss Jennie Lee, J. B. Burnett and others, whose names appear on our first page, have volunteered for this occasion.

Benefit of Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett.

The public have not seen Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett on the stage for a considerable time, and will give them a hearty welcome when they make their reappearance at the Opera House on Saturday evening next, when they will be the recipients of a complimentary benefit. The performance will commence with the farce of "The Two Poets" in which J. P. Burnett will play Peter Polt, after this a well-known amateur will sing a comic song, the comedy of "The Little Treasure" will be performed by Miss Jennie Lee, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, J. P. Burnett, Miss Julia Melville and Mrs. Edmunds, there will be a musical interlude by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with an original sketch arranged expressly for Miss Jennie Lee by Sam Genese from "Oliver Twist," entitled "Dickens' Dodger." In this Miss Jennie Lee will appear as The Artful Dodger. Such a bill as this ought to draw an overflowing house. The box sheet is now open.

Bella Union Theatre.

"Weep Little Children," "The Naked Truth," "Review of Stocks," "Laughing Gas," and "The Hoodoo Picnic," are only a few of the attractions presented at this house. Miss Jennie Johnson, H. E. Archer, Fred Ritchie, Susie Robinson and a host of other favorite artists appear nightly.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Geo. O. Thompson, Frank Mortimore, Miss Katie Zoe, Miss Maggie Brewer, Johnny Price and a score of other clever variety performers appear at this house every evening.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 122.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

John McCullough in New York.

We have always asserted that our California tragedian was the best actor on the stage, in heavy tragedy, and Roman characters, and in certain Shakespearian parts, and we are not in the least surprised at the reception he has met with in St. Louis, Chicago and New York. John McCullough opened at Booth's Theatre, New York, on Monday evening last in the character of Spartacus in the "Gladiator." Dispatches inform us that his audience was "large, appreciative and discriminating. His reception was an ovation, and second to none at this house during the past season except, perhaps, that accorded to Miss Neilson. Mr. McCullough was frequently called before the curtain, and his success as a true representative of tragedy was secured."

The Herald of yesterday, after stating that "the theatre is the scene of the greatest achievements of the living Booth, and the part he assumed was one of the most striking and difficult representations of the illustrious Forrest," adds: "Mr. McCullough achieved a triumph worthy his illustrious predecessor. He rose to the requirements of his arduous task, and, if public acclamation has any value, his success was of the most gratifying character."

The Tribune says: "It is long since what may be called a new actor has impressed us as profoundly as we were impressed by Mr. McCullough. Alike in thought and emotion, he carried Spartacus through at fully the height of the Brutus of Shakspeare. The test that an intellectual man meets and bears who does this, with such reminiscence of past renown, is immeasurably severe. There must be great art-power and great integrity of mind and heart in the person who can accomplish so brilliant a success under such an ordeal."

The Evening Mail says: "His performance possesses the sterling quality of unforced excellence, which renders the personation natural and affecting."

The Post says: If the fame of Forrest may not be eclipsed by the Spartacus of Mr. McCullough, still to the latter must certainly be conceded keen intelligence, good stage presence, and genuine dramatic power.

The Herald of this morning, congratulates the California stage, which McCullough represents upon a success such as has not been achieved in New York by any tragedian for a long time.

In fact, John McCullough, has achieved a most decided triumph in New York, and in a character, too, which we here all know is by no means adapted to show him at his best.

The "Gladiator" will be followed by "Richelieu," "Hamlet" and "Jack Cade."

Woodward's Gardens.

The Warm Spring Indians, who did such valuable scouting under the command of Donald McKay, during the Modoc war, will be on exhibition at Woodward's Gardens for a few days. Captain McKay will explain their method of warfare, manner of scouting and mode of living to all visitors.

KNIGHT'S OF PYTHIAS PICNIC.—The fourth annual celebration and picnic of the order of the Knights of Pythias, will take place at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Friday, May 8th The Fourth Artillery band of twenty-five pieces will be in attendance, and during the day there will be dancing in the pavilion. A great variety of amusements and games will be open for the members of the Order and their guests, and a number of valuable prizes will be given. Among the prizes will be two for babies, one for the handsomest boy baby, the other for the handsomest girl baby. Tickets for the round trip, including admission to the Park, are set at the low price of seventy-five cents.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here

The Ashes of the Dead.

It is said that the cremationist can burn up the body of your beloved wife and hand you the ashes neatly done up in a paper package for the small sum of two dollars. It would be pleasant to have this package in the house, for when you felt sentimental and low-spirited and melancholy, you could take it out of your bureau drawer, and sigh and weep over it, and bombard the ashes with bits of poetry, and enjoy your sorrow hugely. But it would be a little uncomfortable when you began to think what pretty blue eyes that girl you met at church had. And when you got better acquainted with her, and got to thinking that there were as good women as ever went into a cremation furnace, you'd feel uncomfortable every time you looked at that neatly done-up package, and you'd hide it away in some corner, and forget all about it, and when you'd brought the second Mrs. W. home, she'd commence to fix things up, and dust away the cobwebs, and she'd be sure to find the ashes, and, thinking them the ashes of your cigar, would take them out and sling them into the dust bin. It would be embarrassing when you came home in the evening, and were told by Mrs. W. No. Two that she had found a package of neatly done-up cigar ashes, and what she had done with it. You could'nt tell her that that package contained all that was earthly of the beloved No. One. And you couldn't go out and pick the ashes from the rest of the dust. So you would have to let the ashes of the once dearly beloved go with the stove ashes and clinkers to grade a street or fill up a fever and ague pond. There is a dark as well as bright side to the cremation question.

A Serious Granger.

A Minnesota Granger protests that if dancing is to be allowed in Granges after business, it will kill the order in one year. He calls dancing the flowery entrance gate to hell.

LEFT BEHIND.

The twilight deepens round me
All alone for evermore,
Still clinging to a clay-cold hand,
Ne'er cold to me before,
As I hear my children's voices
Pass laughing by the door.

God help me! I am wicked,
But I cannot bear their mirth!
They all innocent of sorrow,
I the saddest soul on earth.
O my husband, was it only
The wife who knew your worth?

Love, try to look upon me,
Clasp my fingers once again,
For my woman's heart is breaking
With its bitter load of pain,
As I lay my head beside you
And call you—all in vain.

Never more to nestle by you,
Never more to hear you laugh,
Never more to run to meet you
Coming up the garden path!
Was the Hand that took you from me
Raised in mercy or in wrath?

Did I love you all too dearly?
Am I punished for my sin?
But I cannot live without you
Who my strength have ever been;
And you did not want to leave me—
Darling, tell me once again!

Must your little ones forget you?
Will they wonder when they see
Their widowed mother weeping as
She lifts them on her knee,
Their little cherub faces each
The counterpart of thee?

O my darling, I am weary
With my weeping here below,
While the moonlight through the curtains
Glimmers faintly on your brow;
I am half afraid to kiss it,
For it strikes so coldly now.

Yet I cannot bear to leave you
Lying there so still and white,
Though I hear my baby's wailing
Pierce the silence of the night.
And I know that, while I sorrow,
You have passed into the light.

Labelling the Ashes.

The St. Louis Globe speculates concerning the obituary of the future. We append one or two specimens:

Little Tommy. Burnt up Sept. 16, 1862.

Jane Matilda Perkins. Oct. 3, 1869. Put up by the Alden Corpse Cremating Company. None genuine without signature.

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kluit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kluit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Gollyn, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5A

How to Make Friends with a Man.

Different men require different modes of treatment in order to gain their respect. With a certain class of men, kindly treatment has a bad effect. You are good natured and forbearing to one of this class and he takes your good nature for weakness and your forbearance for cowardice, and will never have a good word for you behind your back. The best way to make friends with a man of this description is to pull his nose and give him one or two severe kicks with the toe of your boot. Then release him and tell him if he ever expresses other than a favorable opinion of you, and it comes to your hearing, you will repeat the operation. He will respect you after this and really feel friendly towards you. He will think it better to be friends with you than to leave you for an evening. This isn't exactly Christian doctrine, but there are so few now-a-days who follow the doctrines of Christianity, that it is a more practical way of getting along.

A Boston Item.

The Boston Courier is responsible for the following: The other night a weak-eyed youth was sitting in Ames' Church, wholly forgetful of his surroundings, and lost in beatific contemplation of a certain young woman, touching whom he cherished violent designs, when suddenly a hand was laid upon his shoulder, and a deep contralto voice thundered in his ear: "Young man, you look as though you wanted to go to Jesus! Won't you come to Jesus?" Whereupon he was struck all of a heap, as it were, and stammered: "I would—I want—that it is I should like to go, you know, but not this evening, thank you; I have an engagement." And then he lapsed into a state of mild imbecility, from which it was plainly impossible to arouse him.

A Threatened Infliction.

Speaking of the possibility of Martin Farquhar Tupper coming to this country as a lecturer, the Boston correspondent of the Danbury News says: He himself is bad enough, but after the example of Kingsley and McDonald, he will probably bring some of his children with him, and, Heaven protect us! they all write, each one worse than the other. Think of Martin Farquhar placidly beaming across Music Hall with Mary Francis, and Ellen Isabelle, and Margaret Elenora sitting in a row behind him! Think of that charming trio giving readings from their own poems! The anticipation is fearful enough to make the legislature adjourn.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Fechter.

A New York correspondent says:—As for Fechter, he went off red hot a week ago. I suppose you have heard about his letters to the owner of the theatre. One version, and I don't vouch for it, read as follows:—

SIR,—
You work for money,
I for fame.
I have looked into your house:
It contains neither.
Sacre!
I go.
FECHTER.

When the adieux were all settled, and the eyes wiped—Presto! another letter:

SIR,—
There is no fame in your house—
But there is money.
I return.
Behold me!
FECHTER.

This is what the managers call a misunderstanding.

The lawyers call it a default.

Stewart was just about making up his mind that it was a godsend, when Fechter reappeared and insisted upon going on with the thing. So the Park Theatre opened on Tuesday night, as the advertisements say, with all the modern improvements. Stewart in the office, Fechter on the stage, stationary tubs, marble mantels, ushers in kids, a French adaptation, critics in the front seats, and the orchestra in the English basement. Everybody was there. The play, which is called "Love's Penance," is an improbable melodramatic comedy, with two good situations, an enormous amount of dull dialogue, no character, plenty of fine pictures, and Ed. Lamb and J. B. Studley in every act.

A Literary Dust Bin.

The New York Dispatch says: The following advice may be good for Western words jinglers, but it wouldn't work a nickel here: 'The way to kill off poets who offer to write pieces gratuitously is to accept their efforts, hand them to the worst compositor, and let a proof-reader equally as vile, correct them according to his own ideas of prosody. This is warranted to destroy the strongest poetical fever in three weeks." We have tried it on and it didn't work. The poets of the West are of a tenderer material than the male and female word butchers who inhabit this part of the globe. The Waverley Magazine is proof of this statement. That paper has been published for years, it inserts all the drivel that the school boys and girls of America write, yet the poets live, the paper makes money, the proprietor builds hotels, and Boston is proud of possessing the most idiotic paper that ever afforded fitting mental food for the two-legged donkeys of America.

New Music from Gray.

We have received from the publisher M. Gray, the following new music: Alice Dunning Lingard's "Sailing in the Moonlight," written and composed by W. H. Lingard, and Lingard Sketch "Col Plantagenet N. G. S. N. Y.," by the same author. These pieces of music are embellished with photographs of Miss Alice Dunning and W. H. Lingard, by Bradley & Rulofson.

Very Green.

Jane Green of the Commonwealth does not "understand just what good use Mark Twain is in the world." We do not wish to be ungallant, but her nom de plume is certainly very suggestive.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Nutmegs.

[From the Danbury News.]

A Danbury man with his fourth wife, nineteen children, three mothers-in-law, and eight grandmothers, are in Boston looking for quiet board.

All that is needed to make Colorado a paradise is water, good society, and an agreeable climate. This is what land agents there tell emigrants.

A Danbury father boasts of a boy fifteen years old, who never smoked or chewed tobacco, or told a lie, and a girl of thirteen years who never used musk.

There was a meditating gentleman sauntering down the depot stairs at 11 A. M., Friday. At the same time a tinner's apprentice was to work on Applegate's shed roof. The thoughtful gentleman, carpet-bag in hand, had got just half down the stairs when the apprentice, by an unlucky slip, lost his footing and came down with vehemence upon the man with the carpet-bag, driving him headlong to the foot of the stairs, and going himself over the bank and from sight. When our intelligent friend got on his feet, which he speedily did, he turned to a bystander, and, carefully rubbing the back of his head, anxiously inquired: "What on earth did he jump on me like that for?" "Why, he didn't jump on you; he fell from that roof," said the bystander. "Oh! an accident, eh?" said the rumpled individual, gathering up his carpet-bag, "it's odd he didn't say something about it. I thought he was doing it a purpose." And feeling greatly relieved he got aboard the train, as the very lame and much frightened apprentice crawled up the bank.

We say a great deal which is not complimentary of hotel clerks. But after all we are submissive enough before them. There is a something in the office they hold which has an independent influence of its own that takes us in its meshes and holds us unresistingly. Before him we are subject to his humor, abashed by his sternness, awed by his dignity, amused by his wit, and entertained by his conversation. At his back we despise him, jab him with sarcasm, prick him with satire, and roast him with burning indignation. In following, admiration, and interest, he is ranked by the bartender only. The presiding genius of the bar stands at the head. There are no stories that are relished as are his stories; there are no jokes with such pith and point to them, and which win such appreciation as his jokes. His going and coming are matters of engrossing interest to his admirers. If he buys a new garment it is closely examined in every particular, and his taste in selecting it and his judgment in buying it are commmended with bated breath as being but little short, if any, of the supernatural. If he rips his boot the extent of the damage is subjected to the closest scrutiny, and he is obliged to narrate with strict minuteness where, when and how it was done, which he does with an easy condescension that is considered phenomenal, and received accordingly. Everything about his person or pertaining to his possession has an interest in the eyes of his admirers that is difficult to express. We only hope he realises and is thankful for his blessings.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. A Circus in Berlin.

A Berlin letter says: The circus mania here is now on the wane, for a mania indeed has Manager Salamonsky caused. The engagement of a troupe of French wrestlers proved a great success. One hundred thalers were offered to any German who could throw them, and then all Berlin took an interest in their proceedings. Night after night sturdy Germans of immense weight and size came to contend with them, and were all conquered. The excitement reached fever heat, and the circus was more like an ancient arena where the rival combatants were struggling for life or death. Salamonsky, by this stroke of fortune, was making much money, when the authorities stepped in and forbade the wrestling, being afraid of serious disturbances. This circus can boast of a very large company, including the best talent of the day, and numbering in all 200 persons and 150 horses.

Some of the new French flowers are made of tinfoil, colored and tinted in the most perfect style. They are very frail and delicate, and on that account, it is to be presumed, are so expensive. Tinfoil wreaths around the front of your new spring bonnet will be the "tip of the fashion."

Lying for a Living.

AN OPEN LETTER
From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 533 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 537 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. The same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

The Pathology of the Passions.

Fernand Papillon, who died two or three months ago, published in the Revue des Deux Mondes, an article with the above title:

Papillion's counsel is: Avoid all passion. Live moderately—calmly. Eat, drink and feel sparingly, and thus secure, if not happiness, at least serenity. This is the moral of the essay in half a dozen sentences. The passions, he says, are contagious—bad passions more so than the good. A fit of anger injures a man far more than a transport of love, and it is far more infectious. So a murder will find imitations where a good deed will stand alone. M. Prosper Despine has clearly shown that when an account of a high crime, possessing dramatic accessories, is widely published, a certain number of similar crimes will follow with mathematical certainty; and for this reason he wishes that all popular journals would forbear to print circumstantial accounts of criminal deeds.

The late "carnival of crime" in San Francisco, was no doubt stimulated by the sensational writers of the daily press.

A Missionary Arrived.

Rev. Edwin Arthur McArthur, "English missionary to Central America and the United States," has arrived, and lectured last night at Young Men's Hall on Pacific Street. The subject of his lecture was "The Colored Man Abroad." We think this colored man is considerably abroad if he thinks that English missionaries can do any good in the United States. He won't make any money at this business. On the contrary he will be out of pocket. Donald McKay might perhaps let him try to save the souls of his Warm Spring Indians at Woodward's Gardens, but he'd probably charge him for the privilege of making the experiment.

Sad Times.

An exchange says:

The Mississippi Legislature adjourned, last Tuesday, in considerable hurry and confusion. The same evening there was an indignation meeting of washerwomen held on the steps of the State House.

Almost a parallel case is afforded in the bankruptcy of the proprietor of the Golden Eagle Hotel, Sacramento, immediately on the adjournment of the last Legislature.

The Reason.

A morning paper is anxious to know why the spirits of the departed should take the trouble to ring bells and upset furniture. Perhaps they are tired of "loafing round the throne" and play such pranks as a relaxation from inactivity.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special departure for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1x

Crowner's Quest Law.

At the inquest on the body of Abraham Soloman, a boy named Henry Bremer was called, when the following colloguy ensued between him and the Coroner:

"Do you know what the nature of an oath is?" asked the Coroner.

"I don't know," replied the boy.

"Do you go to school?" asked the Coroner.

"I go to the Cosmpolitan School," replied the boy.

"Well, do you know what will happen to you after you die?" inquired the Coroner.

"No, sir," was the reply.

"And you don't know the nature of an oath?" continued the Coroner.

"No sir," replied the boy.

"Well, then, I can't take your testimony," said the Coroner.

We don't think the Coroner had any right to refuse to take that boy's testimony because he didn't know what would happen to him after he died, and think also that had the nature of an oath been explained to him he might have given as truthful testimony as the other boys. However, Crowner's Quest Law in San Francisco is rather puzzling. Does the Coroner know what will happen to him after he dies? We'll bet two and a half he doesn't.

It Serves them Right.

Messrs. Gleeson & Fell sometime ago withdrew their advertising patronage from the Chronicle, whereupon that paper pitched into them, said they had a big barn of a store, sold worthless goods, and otherwise abused them. FIGARO thought this was a little rough and took up the cudgels for the linen drapers. Now, lo! and behold, after all this, Gleeson & Fell put a two column advertisement in the paper which called them everything but gentlemen. The result of it is, they are arrested for illegal enterprise in starting a lottery and are in trouble generally. This time we have no pity for them, but think it serves them just right for not having more pluck than to be coerced into advertising in a sheet in which they were foully abused.

Unprofessional Conduct.

The following item, which we find in an exchange, shocks and grieves us:

A brother of ex-Governor Throckmorton, a physician practicing in Houston, Texas, was recently murdered by another physician, Dr. O. C. Thomas, in that city, who cut his throat. Both stood high in the community. Dr. Thomas surrendered himself to the police authorities.

Has it come to this, that the doctors are turning on each other? Can't they find something else to do? Is Houston such a healthy place that doctors residing there lose their reason? There's matter in't indeed when doctors cut doctors' throats. Indeed, but they are poor in patience.

Love of Lucre.

We are shocked at the local reporter of the Post. He said on Wednesday:

The number of persons present at the services in Trinity Church, this morning, could have been nearly ascertained by counting the half dollars in the contribution plates. Almost every person present put in four bits.

Is that what he went to church for? Far better would it have been for him if instead of counting, and coveting, those four bit pieces, he had been thinking about saving his wretched soul—if he has such a thing about him.

Provoking.

"Doctor," said a nephew, on settling the fee question for his uncle's illness, and from whose death he entertained great expectations, "I beg for the future you will not interfere in family matters."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

Strange Indeed.

Recently, near Hartford, a woman was scooped up by the cow-catcher of a locomotive. The train couldn't be stopped until it had run half a mile. The woman was unhurt. When the story of her escape was told to her husband, he said, sadly: "Well, I'll be darned if wimen ain't hard to kill. There was my finest Durham. He got on the track and the locomotive struck him, and there wasn't enough life left in him to supply animation to a fly. And my horse ran away with the gig, and the train came along and hit him and it, and the horse was killed, and there wasn't a piece of the gig left big enough to make a plug for the spigot hole of a barrel. Now, that wife of mine is of no account, and she escapes. It's always the same. If you have two eggs in your hand, and one is bad and the other good, and you let them drop, it's invariably the good one that breaks." And he looked sad, and turned his chew of tobacco in his mouth, and cogitated on the strange inconsistencies of accidents.

Driven to Desperation.

Jones is a man of many acquaintances. He recently married a widow who had a young baby. Jones' friends flocked to see him on his marriage, and none of them failed to praise the beauty of the baby, and say "the very image of you Jones, should have known it was your child if I had seen it anywhere." Jones became desperate, and had a placard printed and nailed to his door, on which were the following words in big letters: "THE BABY IS NOT MINE."

Confusing Her.

A gentleman attended a fair recently and fell in love (as gentlemen sometimes do) with a demoiselle in the floral temple. He bought a ten dollar basket of flowers, and handing her a fifty dollar bill, said: "If you don't give me the exact change, I'll marry you." The blushing maiden handed him back thirty dollars (she was probably confused), and he remarked: "I thought so!" Cards will be out early next week!

Unfair.

The Grass Valley Union, a usually fair paper, says:

The San Francisco Grand Jury have ignored the bill against Napthaly and Fitzgerald, editor and publisher of the Sun, for libeling the De Youngs, proprietors of the Chronicle.

It should in fairness state that the Grand Jury also refused to bring in a bill of indictment against the De Youngs for libeling Napthaly.

A Mourner.

The Nevada Transcript says: "The dog belonging to the late M. S. Deal is in the habit of going to the cemetery and lying down near the grave of his deceased master. He makes the journey alone. He used to come to this office very frequently, but since Mr. Deal's death he has never made his appearance here."

If the late M. S. Deal had been cremated instead of buried, that poor dorg would be saved many a weary tramp.

Elderly ladies, and young ladies to whom it is becoming, will wear Spanish veils depending from high combs, as a substitute for bonnets on midsummer evenings. It seems strange that women have not long ago learned the comfort and appropriateness of abandoning hats on summer nights.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. What Cheer Laundry

Is the best Laundry in San Francisco

Miss Neilson in New York.

Of Adelaide Neilson, the Arcadian says: Artfully though she may hide it under a mask of beauty, confidence, fine dresses, and bewitching smiles, she has not the ars celare artem, and from the moment she steps on the stage to when she leaves it, the practised eye detects the artifice, the self-consciousness, the constant effort to keep before the audience, and to glorify and interpret—not Shakspeare, but Adelaide Neilson. One sees it in her persistent smiling; the whining, affected rising inflection of voice with which, when she wishes to be sentimental, she delivers the final words of her sentences; in her elaborately studied attitudes, and in her refined, but easily perceptible rant. In seeing her one never forgets the actress in the character; it is Adelaide Neilson, not Juliet, who is ever before us. When she aims at being unusually tender, as in the balcony scene, she becomes affected; and when she attempts the tragic, her hands clutch in front with a spasmodic, angular jerk, and she shrieks out her words with hoarsely feeble energy. Contrast her acting in the poisoning and death scenes with that of any real tragedienne, and mark the difference. Miss Neilson masters herself too perfectly ever to master her part; she sights, but cannot touch, the impassioned heights of tragedy.

A Hard Case.

The Placer Argus says: You can arrest a man for libel, and pay costs too if you choose, but you cannot imprison him for boring you. It is a crime for a man to steal your pocket-book, even if it is trash; but he may steal out of your working day three hours' worth perhaps, ten dollars in money and double that in discipline, with perfect impunity. It is called murder for one man to destroy another's life, but when Mr. S—— drops in and kills the choicest hours of your day, throttling your best ideas, and throws your whole train of thought off the track, there is nothing to be said, save that he "just thought he'd run in a moment and sit awhile and have a friendly chat." No penalty in law, no fine, no imprisonment, no gallows.

An Exemplar.

Brother Owen, of the San Jose Mercury, says in his issue of Saturday last: "Bascality doesn't pay. It is the poorest business that any man can engage in. Like gambling, it may have its temporary successes; but in the long run it is pretty sure to bring to grief whoever engages in it. Indeed, it doesn't pay to be dishonest. As a matter of dollars and cents, there is more profit in dealing fairly and honestly with all—in short, in living by the Golden Rule. We commend this lesson to the young."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

A large and fashionable audience was present last night on the occasion of a complimentary benefit to John T. Raymond and first appearance of Miss M. E. Gordon. Robertson's admirable play of "Caste" was, in some respects, splendidly performed. Miss M. E. Gordon acted the role of Esther Eccles capitally, John T. Raymond was immensely funny as Eccles, Henry Edwards with the exception that he did not make up young enough for the character and was rather shaky in his lines, gave a good impersonation of the frank, manly D'Alroy, and Barton Hill as Capt. Hawtree, presented one of the best realizations of the English heavy swell ever seen on the California stage. J. P. Burnett was a little "fogy," as the Call would say, as Sam Gerridge, the gay young cockney, but made some good points, Miss Jennie Lee as Polly Eccles was the life of the piece; she played the part with a spirit and abandon that perfectly delighted the audience and called forth storms of applause. At the conclusion of the play Mr. Raymond and Miss M. E. Gordon appeared before the curtain. The former thanked those who had got up the benefit and those who attended, said he might perhaps never visit San Francisco again, but should always carry with him many pleasant recollections of friends he had made here. The evening's entertainment ended with a song by Miss Susan Galton, recitations by Harry Edwards and J. C. Williamson, and "A Conjugal Lesson," by J. T. Raymond and Miss M. E. Gordon. Williamson's comic recitation "The Charge of the Rom Crusade," was a great hit. The next performance at this house will be on Saturday, when the admirable programme published on our first page will be performed for the benefit of Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett.

California Theatre.

Charles Pope continues his success at this house in the character of Belphegor, and the ballet by Mlle. Boofanti, Mlle. Marie Gangain and others is very popular; Miss Ellie Wilton, J. C. Williamson, Miss Maggie Moore, E. J. Buckley, J. N. Long and others engaged in the representation of the play perform their respective parts with much skill.

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night the performance at this popular place of amusement will consist of the ever-popular play entitled "Naval Engagements," the famous Lingard sketches, and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," in which Miss Alice Dunning, Dickey Lingard, W. H. Lingard and others will appear. On Monday, the very successful play entitled "Fine Feathers" will be produced for the first time in California.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The season of equestrian and gymnastic performances by the great combination of stars engaged at this place of amusement, is fast drawing to a close. The reduction of prices enables every one to see the great Lockhills, the Kenebels and the other stars in an entertainment never equalled on this coast, at a small cost. The baby elephant appears every night.

Benefit of Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett.

The public have not seen Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett on the stage for a considerable time, and will give them a hearty welcome when they make their reappearance at the Opera House on Saturday evening next, when they will be the recipients of a complimentary benefit. The performance will commence with the farce of "The Two Poets" in which J. P. Burnett will play Peter Pelt, after this a well-known amateur will sing a comic song, the comedy of "The Little Treasure" will be performed by Miss Jennie Lee, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, J. P. Burnett, Miss Julia Melville and Mrs. Edmonds, there will be a musical interlude by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with an original sketch arranged expressly for Miss Jennie Lee by Sam Gerusse from "Oliver Twist," entitled "Dickens' Dodger." In this Miss Jennie Lee will appear as The Artful Dodger. Such a bill as this ought to draw an overflowing house. The box sheet is now open.

Bella Union Theatre.

"The Quiet Hotel," Jimmy Moore in a champion clog dance, Fred Ritchie in "Dutch Blunders," Miss Jennie Johnson in "The Naked World," and a great variety of other performances will be presented this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Professor Fowler Outdone," "Hard Cheek," Mortimore's Sketches, and George C. Thompson's specialties, are among the features of this evening's entertainment.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Warm Spring Indians, who did such valuable scouting under the command of Donald McKay, during the Modoc war, will be on exhibition at Woodward's Gardens for a few days. Captain McKay will explain their method of warfare, manner of scouting and mode of living to all visitors.

City Gardens.

The California Jagers will hold their May Festival and picnic here on Sunday, May 10th. The Jagers will be escorted to the Gardens by delegations from several military companies. Prizes will be awarded for children's races, and other diversions, and the festivities will wind up with a grand ball and concert in the pavilion in the evening. The supervision of Capt. Schneider and his associates has much improved the morals of the place, in proof of which it may be mentioned, that not a single disturbance of any kind has occurred on the grounds this season. These gardens are now largely patronized by our German citizens.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS PICNIC.—The fourth annual celebration and picnic of the order of the Knights of Pythias, will take place at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Friday, May 8th. The Fourth Artillery band of twenty-five pieces will be in attendance, and during the day there will be dancing in the pavilion. A great variety of amusements and games will be open for the members of the Order and their guests, and a number of valuable prizes will be given. Among the prizes will be two for babies, one for the handsomest boy baby, the other for the handsomest girl baby. Tickets for the round trip, including admission to the Park, are set at the low price of seventy-five cents.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

John McCullough in New York.

The following telegram, received this morning, affords gratifying evidence that our Californian actor and manager is meeting with the appreciation to which his undoubted talent justly entitles him:

NEW YORK, May 6th.—The third appearance of John McCullough in this city to-night, was before a very large and enthusiastic audience, including many members of the histrionic profession. At each representation of the "Gladiator" Mr. McCullough grows more in favor with the general public, and it is safe to say that he is destined to reach the fame of the late Forrest and eclipse the living Booth. Great anxiety is manifested to see him in other parts.

Behind the Scenes.

Sothern, in an interview in "After Dinner," says:

Does acting tell on me? Yes, indeed, it does. Until within the last two years I have never given myself more than four weeks' rest in a year. I have noticed the wear and tear on my constitution because my labors are heavier than the public know anything about. I will give the work of one day, when there is a matinee.

I perhaps have a scenic and property rehearsal at nine o'clock; a company rehearsal at ten o'clock, and this rehearsal lasts until one o'clock; I have half an hour for lunch; go on the stage at two o'clock, and act till half-past four; I dine at five; from six till seven rest; at eight o'clock on the stage again; the performance is over at ten and a half or quarter to eleven; and then I am so weary that after a light supper I am compelled to go at once to bed.

In my early days, when the star actor had to write out his own part, instead of buying printed books, I have frequently written and studied twelve long parts a week, and each of these were seven lengths, making an aggregate of twelve times 308 lines of fresh matter per week. This was to arrive at the mere question of getting the words into my head—the analyzation of the character being another thing to do afterward.

I have had to study all day when I was not rehearsing or eating, and go straight home from the theatre at night and stay up till three and four and five in the morning; I have been obliged to get up at eight o'clock the same morning, read my parts over again and go to a rehearsal at ten o'clock.

I got my memory so well cultivated that I at last would get my wife to read through a long farce, just repeating the long speeches twice without ever having seen the words myself, and got through it actually every word.

"Led Astray."

The following is the criticism of the Philadelphia All Day City Item on "Led Astray" now running to crowded houses at the Chestnut Street Theatre: The piece should convey a moral lesson. If that stupid fellow, the Count Rudolph Chandoce, had thought it necessary to give his wife a little of his society instead of hunting and gaming and getting into questionable company, or if Armande had sought her husband's sympathy, De Lesparre would have been cold-shouldered in the first act instead of in the fourth. As it is, we are in doubt whether the Count is a brute or an idiot, while the state of mind of the heroine is verging upon imbecility.

Even More.

The Alta says: "The man who will sneer at women is capable of doubting the purity of the ballot box." We think such a man is quite capable of selling his vote for a dollar and a half, and a drink of whiskey.

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art,—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kluit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kluit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

GRANDMOTHER GREY.

Grandmother Grey by the window sat,
And looked at the setting sun,
And watched the cows as they slowly came
From the pasture one by one;
And back again to the "long ago"
Her memory traveled fast,
While the dim eyes closed as she lived again
'Mid scenes of the happy past.

"Let me see," she murmured; "ah, yes, I know;
It was there by the pasture gate
That Robin with milking pail and stool
For my coming used to wait.
It was just a week of our wedding day
That he fell so sick and died:
And I laid my heart in the grave with him,
And loved none other beside.

"But, ah! it was for my father's sake
That I wedded Farmer Grey,
And we've both been tender and true and kind
As the years have slipped away.
But I wonder much when the hour doth come
That my soul be called above,
Shall I, as the wife of Farmer Grey,
Seek Robin, my only love?"

And the sun went down in the golden West,
And the cows came safely home,
And Grandmother Grey at the window sat,
While her thoughts seemed yet to roam.
But the angels came for her waiting soul
While the twilight shadows fell,
And Grandmother Grey, the farmer's wife,
With Robin has gone to dwell

A Shallow Nation.

We are called a nation of readers; we are a superficial nation. True, we read; but what? Trashy novels and current news—little else. True we educate; but how? With the veneer and varnish of superficiality. As the Philadelphia Age justly remarks: We smear our young intellect over the vast surface of universal knowledge, and hence have the coating over all this as skim-milk. Our education—our reading, our thinking, lack system and concentration. Our thinkers and profound statesmen officiated at the birth of the nation. They dropped off one by one; we had only a Webster left; after him, a gang o babblers, to whom the great secrets of statesmanship were a book sealed with impracticable wax. They, like all our people, are well informed, but not educated. Our youth, male and female, read nothing but fiction—novels of the most sensational and intellectually demoralizing character. Librarians of six of our largest cities inform us: "The young readers, and many of the elder, take out nothing but novels. They do not choose Dickens, Thackeray or even Walter Scott, but the most nonsensical sentimental trash. Our shelves of good books are untouched from year to year. The backs are worn from our trashy books; their leaves are dog-eared, and their pages stained with the tears of sentimental maids, who weep over the sufferings of an imaginary brigand one minute, and pass with a laugh a starving woman incarnate the next."

Carlotta LeClercq.

Carlotta LeClercq recently took part in a French performance at Niblo's, for a benefit, playing Madame de Lery in "La Caprice." Le Courrier des Etats Unis says: "she proved herself in French as in English, a consummate, artist giving to every shade of feeling its due value, exhibiting delicate irony, deep sentiment, and gushing affection with as much skill as if she had been playing the rule for years."

AN OPEN LETTER
From a Known Business House of this City.
TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, where you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 825 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 827 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

FRIDAY .....MAY 8, 1874

Car Conductors.

The people of Washington are beginning to realize that street railroad conductors are overworked, and are writing to the papers about it. Mr. Phillips, President of the Washington and Georgetown street railroad, thinks the extreme healthfulness of the employment of conductors and drivers is demonstrated "by the universal good health and strong appearance that all the men have who have been engaged any length of time."

The Critic, says: We should think so, since only men of iron constitutions would undertake to remain on their feet and at work in all sorts of weather for fifteen or sixteen hours out of twenty-four. In such an employment persons in feeble health must quickly obtain their transfer tickets for another world.

The street railroad companies of San Francisco have not yet learned that in order to get good work they must pay decently for it, and treat their employees like men. Cowdery's bill would not have mended matters, but common sense might teach the railroad people to lessen the hours.

A Sad Disagreement.

We with the critics of the Chronicle and Post could agree. The first, speaking of the performance of "Caste," said:

Mrs. Melvelle's Marquise de St. Maur was just as good as it could be.

In the evening the Post said:

The only weak point was the unnatural, constrained rendering of the Marquise de St. Maur.

In consequence of the extreme similarity in style of these critics, leading people to suppose that the "criticisms" in the Post and Chronicle are written by the same hand, one of them, every now and then, feels it incumbent on him to make a statement directly opposed to one before made by the other. We don't see any other reason for their not always agreeing.

A Mean Remark.

A young lady of Indiana shot a saloon-keeper the other day because he persisted in selling whiskey to her lover; and then catching the lover sober, married him; whereupon the wounded saloon-keeper said he considered himself the luckier man of the two.

Unkind.

A workingman who saw J. T. Raymond as Eccles, in "Caste," said it was "a good take off on Gen. A. M. Winn," the workingman's advocate. This is all a man gets for sticking up for the right (of others) to labor. A cruel world!

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
So sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam-a and crabs and terrapins'll
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's, 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating these sausages. 1s

Joaquin Miller in Italy.

The Florence correspondent of the Courier Journal writes:

At an evening reception I observed a man who had neglected both broadcloth and gloves; his hair hung over his forehead and his thin boots had no polish.

"That's Joaquin Miller," said my mother; "he is living down in the theatre of Marcellus, among the old iron and scrap shops, studying the people and neglecting the forms and ceremony which society imposes on all but its pet lions." I was seated with him later when he was invited by a lady to dance. He declined with the excuse that he had retired from the carpet since he got a bullet in his leg. "Perhaps Mr. Miller would give us the war dance," suggested a gentleman near. "Oh, do! Mr. Miller," pleaded several young ladies at once. "Well, now," said he, "it was only two or three evenings ago when, after being begged for an hour and a half, I agreed to try the war dance, but I had scarcely begun preliminaries when the ladies objected, and of course I had to give it up." "Why, how strange, Mr. Miller; what did you do?" "Naturally," said he, "I was going to dance it in costume, but I hadn't gone any further than taking off my coat and vest, when the people objected as I told you."

He doesn't write any more letters now, for if he attempts it the person fills his thoughts the whole day, and that is too great a sacrifice of time; and as for reading any he lets them accumulate awhile and then presents the bundle to a friend.

A Cruel Parient.

A papa in Greenville, Kentucky, has a daughter Kate, and Kate has a liver distasteful to papa. On the lover's birthday, Kate bought a nice gilt-edged box of perfumery for a gift, and put into it "The contents are as delicate and innocent as your love." Papa got hold of the box before it was sent, and changed the contents for bottles of soothing syrup. Kate is now heart-broken by the continued and unexplained absence of her lover.

A Good Part.

A well-known author was about to read a new piece in the green-room of a West-End theatre, when, before commencing, a young and charming actress, who is always remarkable for the elegance of her toilettes, smirking, said, "My dear Mr. ——, is the part you have written for me well within my power?" "Perfectly," replied the author. "You have to change your dress seven times!"

Bad for the Churches.

Mrs. Stanton is altogether too radical. She advises the women to visit no church where they do not admit a woman preacher. We fear that Mrs. Stanton is an enemy of the clergy. If the women stop going to church there'll be few churches open. If the women do the preaching, the other women will stop away, so the churches are bound to suffer either way.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Madame Fabbri.

The Boston Courier, in the History of the Boston Stage, which it is now publishing, mentions the first appearance of Madame Inez Fabbri, "the great prima donna, fresh from her triumphs in South America and New York." It says: Fabbri made her debut on the opening night of the season as Abigail, in Verdi's opera of "Nabuco" its first production in Boston since 1848, and when the curtain fell on the last act the unanimous verdict was that she was one of the most consummate lyric artists that have ever appeared upon the Boston stage. Not only was her voice an organ of marvellous range, purity and volume, but her dramatic talents were of the highest order. She was called out several times, and more unqualified success was never registered in our operatic annals. In addition to her altogether exceptional ability as a singer and an actress, Mlle. Fabbri had the advantages of youth and a fine person.

Fulton's Fulminations.

Rev. Dr. Fulton says that at the Judgment Day Elder Knapp will stand higher in glory and honor than Lincoln, Stanton or Sumner. But, remarks the Christian Register the doctor will then be before the bar instead of on the bench, and his premature and unauthorized decision may be reversed by the Supreme Court. At a revival meeting not long ago a young son of his, a lad just in his teens, publicly expressed his discouragement in his efforts to be converted—at which the father knelt immediately by his side and prayed as follows: "O Lord! Thou knowest that this boy has been brought up in a Christian family, under the best of Christian influences; but help him to remember that this will only make hell the hotter."

A Society Item.

An Austin City (Nevada) reporter thus speaks of the belle of a masquerade ball given in that city at the close of last month: "The most gorgeous, stunning, high-toned, richest, firstest-classest, nicest, or any other adjective costume in the outfit, was that worn by Miss Frankie Clark. She was the stunningest, gayest, and gallusest dressed gal in the room. She appeared as a page, and both costume and action were as perfect as a big sunflower.

An Accidental Libel.

Type-setters should be careful to dip their fingers into the right boxes. An editor has been sued for libel, in having published that a certain Mr. Harrison was a well known house-breaker. The defense of the editor is that he wrote horse-breaker, which the plaintiff is by occupation.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town;
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Strawberries! Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. A Model Jury.

An action for libel brought by M. Mousseau against the Montreal Daily Witness, has brought to light one of the most remarkable juries of modern times. The trial occupied a long time and, although the evidence was very full and the addresses of the counsel on both sides, and of the Judge, very long and elaborate, the jury—six of whom were English and six French—seems to have profitted little by their eloquence. The jury came in after being out for some time and informed the Judge that the six Englishmen could not communicate with the six Frenchmen. An interpreter was given them, and the jury returned into Court for the last time. The Court demanded their verdict, in response to which one Frenchman said: "Mons. Mousseau est non coupable." Another said: "Le verdict est pour Mons. Mousseau." One Englishman said: "Guilty, we find them guilty." It was then discovered that the jury were ignorant as to whether the Messrs. Dougall were the accused or Mr. Mousseau. His Honor then demanded of the jury whether they found the defendants, the Messrs. Dougall, guilty or not guilty of the charge brought against them. All the English jurymen said in reply, "We are all agreed as to our verdict, that they are 'guilty,' but there is one man who believes they are 'not guilty.'" The dissenting juryman then said: "Your Honor, if you allow me I'll settle this thing in one minute; eleven of the jury find the Witness 'guilty,' but I don't think they are; however, I acquiesce." A verdict of "Guilty" was accordingly entered.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night, and also at the matinee to-morrow Charles Pope will appear in his great impersonation of Belphegor, in which he is so ably supported by Miss Ellie Wilton, Miss Carrie Wyatt, J. C. Williamson, and the other members of the California Theatre included in the cast. The public of San Francisco, though lacking in appreciation of the ballet, cannot fail to admire the charmingly graceful and artistic dancing of Miles Bonfant, and Gaugain, and are more than usually liberal in their applause. After the second act, Mons. Citre will make his debut with his new musical instrument, the Saxophon, and play several fantasias, with orchestral accompaniment. Mons. Citre brings with him the endorsement of the Parisian Academy of Music, and those who have heard the Saxophon at rehearsal, speak highly of its qualities.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The charming Miss Dickey Lingard has appeared in no character in which she displayed her talent to better advantage than in that of Miss Mary Mortimer in "Naval Engagements," produced at this house. A. D. Billings as Admiral Kingston, J. K. Mortimore as Lieut Kingston, John Howson as Dennis, Miss Mary Wells as Mrs. Pontifax, and John Robinson as Sharp, played their respective parts capitally, and the performance gave general satisfaction. This piece, with the Lingard sketches and the musical farce of Mr. and Mrs. Peter White, in which Miss Alice Dunning, W. H. Lingard and Miss Dickey Lingard appear, will constitute the entertainment this evening and at the matinee to-morrow.

Palace Amphitheatre.

E. H. Dockrill in his great equestrian character act, Mlle. Dockrill in her unequalled bareback ride, the Brothers Kenebel in their new comic act, Leon and Laiscelles in their wonderful horizontal bar act, the Princess Mollie in her intelligent performances, and many other attractions will be presented this evening and at the matinee entertainment to-morrow.

Benefit of Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett.

The public have not seen Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett on the stage for a considerable time, and will give them a hearty welcome when they make their reappearance at the Opera House on Saturday evening next, when they will be the recipients of a complimentary benefit. The performance will commence with the farce of "The Two Poets" in which J. P. Burnett will play Peter Pelt, after this a well-known amateur will sing a comic song, the comedy of "The Little Treasure" will be performed by Miss Jennie Lee, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, J. P. Burnett, Miss Julia Melville and Mrs. Edmunds, there will be a musical interlude by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with an original sketch arranged expressly for Miss Jennie Lee by Sam Genese from "Oliver Twist," entitled "Dickens' Dodger." In this Miss Jennie Lee will appear as The Artful Dodger. Such a bill as this ought to draw an overflowing house. The box sheet is now open.

Bella Union Theatre.

Among other attractions at this popular variety theatre, the management announce the engagement of a troupe of Japanese male and female performers, the reappearance of Miss Alice Ross and Ed. Murray, and the local sketch entitled "After Night" in which Miss Jennie Johnson, H. R. Archer, Matt. Kelly, Miss Fanny Hooker and others will appear.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Boring for Treasure," George O. Thompson in his specialties, Hughey Morton in local hits, Harry Devoy in Dutch songs, Mortimore in sketches and Miss Fanny Webster in comic songs, are among the attractive features of the entertainment to be given this evening.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Warm Spring Indians, who did such valuable scouting under the command of Donald McKay, during the Modoc war, will be on exhibition at Woodward's Gardens for a few days. Captain McKay will explain their method of warfare, manner of scouting and mode of living to all visitors.

City Gardens.

The California Jagers will hold their May Festival and picnic here on Sunday, May 10th. The Jagers will be escorted to the Gardens by delegations from several military companies. Prizes will be awarded for children's races, and other diversions, and the festivities will wind up with a grand ball and concert in the pavilion in the evening. The supervision of Capt. Schneider and his associates has much improved the morals of the place, in proof of which it may be mentioned, that not a single disturbance of any kind has occurred on the grounds this season. These gardens are now largely patronized by our German citizens.

KNIGHT'S OF PYTHIAS PICNIC.—The fourth annual celebration and picnic of the order of the Knights of Pythias, will take place at Badger's Park, Oakland, to-day, May 8th. The Fourth Artillery band of twenty-five pieces will be in attendance, and during the day there will be dancing in the pavilion. A great variety of amusements and games will be open for the members of the Order and their guests, and a number of valuable prizes will be given. Among the prizes will be two for babies, one for the handsomest boy baby, the other for the handsomest girl baby. Tickets for the round trip, including admission to the Park, are set at the low price of seventy-five cents.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

John McCullough in New York.

The telegraph brings more pleasing tidings of the success our California tragedian is meeting with in New York. Verily the prophecies of FIGARO, "the only dramatic authority on the Pacific Coast," are realized, and its criticisms sustained in the city of Gotham:

NEW YORK, May 7th.—Booth's theatre was again crowded by a fashionable audience to witness the fourth appearance of McCullough as Spartacus in the "Gladiator," which improves on each representation. The success which has attended McCullough on his first engagement in this city is so brilliant that the management have already concluded an engagement whereby he is to play four weeks instead of two. "The Gladiator" will, meantime, hold the boards throughout all next week, after which there will be a change of pro-

WANTED—A MORAL.

I've heard about the faded flower,
To lovers' memories ever dear;
I've heard about the ivied tower,
And moonlight meetings by the weir.
In thoughts that breathe and words that burn,
Our lyric writers come out strong,
But, still, I never could yet learn
The simple moral of a song.

The old, familiar busy mill
Has done some service in the cause.
Though why it should be always still
Is unexplained by Ivric laws.
Sheet after sheet in vain I turn
To search for lesson right or wrong,
But never in my life could learn
The simple moral of a song.

The ill effect of such a quest
Is fully instanced in my rhyme:
For even poets, and the best,
Write nonsense up to time and time,
This milk and water you discern
Is all the fruit of study long,
Striving from verses weak to learn
The simple moral of a song.

Strakosch and Miss Neilson.

One of the New York papers says: "Manager Max Strakosch, the other morning, much to our critic's astonishment, informed him that he had engaged Miss Neilson for an entire year. Our critic at first thought, from the way in which Max pronounced the name, that he had re-engaged Christine Nilsson for that period; but he discovered it was Miss Neilsen, the charming and beautiful English actress. Recovering from his astonishment, our critic naively said: 'Engaged Miss Neilson for a year? What on earth are you going to do with her, friend Max? cultivate her voice and make a prima donna of her?' To which he replied. 'No; nothing of the sort. I have simply engaged her to act. I think she is a good actress, and I know she is a remarkably handsome woman, which goes a great way with the public, and I am sure she has not as yet been properly placed before it, or been properly supported—both of which things I intend to do, and see if there is not money it. If it's a success, well; if my scheme is a failure, well, no matter; it's only the loss of so much money, and I am willing to stand the racket just for the gratification of my whim."

Engaged Young Ladies.

"Engaged Young Ladies" are done by a writer in the Jewish Messenger, who says: "So nice, is it not, to be engaged? Every morning her young man calls upon her on his way to his office, kisses her and presents her with a fresh rose, so emblematic of herself; and every evening he calls again, kisses her, and bestows upon her a new novel and a dainty bouquet. He takes tea with her folks, and admires the way in which she presides over the table, and whispers to her so softly how delightful it will be when she pours out tea and butters the toast for him alone! Then those heavenly evenings in the parlor, with the gas dimly burning, the old folks asleep, that horrid brother in the theatre or the club, the teasing sister studying her lessons in her bed-room—they two alone in their happiness; was ever such bliss expected when she used to talk to her schoolmates about her future?"

The Warm Spring Indians.

Among the band of Warm Spring Indians now in this city in charge of Donald McKay, the noted scout, is Cappolas, who captured Captain Jack, and Eshayakan, Histoo and Weyatothan, the three noted braves who entered the cave and discovered the escape of Captain Jack. Weyatothan, whose wife is with him, was shot in the arm, and when told by the army surgeon that amputation was necessary to save his life, replied that he could die but would not lose his arm. Fortunately, both life and arm were saved. The whole band, numbering, all told, eighteen souls, visited Houseworth & Co's Photograph Gallery, No. 12 Montgomery street, for the purpose of having their photographs taken. They were first taken en groupe, and then Cappolas, the capturer of Captain Jack, was taken alone, and then photographs of two and three at a time until all were served as they served the Modocs—taken (no bloodshed). All of the photographs will be placed on exhibition as soon as finished at No. 9 Montgomery street (under the Lick House), and at No. 12 Montgomery street, directly opposite. Photographs of the whole band, or in groups of different sizes, can be obtained of Houseworth & Co., at 9 Montgomery street. 5 H

Cremation.

Proverb of the future: "A cremated child dreads the incineration."

With the approach of Summer we may expect to hear of ice-cremation.

"A long farewell to all our greatness." Cremated edition of Shakspeare.

Cremation obituaries are to be punctuated only with coal-ons.

We will soon hear of the introduction of new creamatic perfumes.

Cremation makes light of a grave subject.

The path of glory leads but to the flue. (Cremation poem.)

If dead bodies were burned it would be a good thing for poisoners. There would be none of that troublesome disinterring of bodies, which so often upsets all their plans.

Miss Emma Winner, is the first incrematonist in Philadelphia. She succeeded in nearly burning herself to death by upsetting a coal oil lamp.

"De mortuis nil nisi burn 'em" is the way the Richmond Enquirer looks at the new mortuary movement.

This world is all a fleeting show;
How sweet from it to pass,
To vanish up the chimney as
Carbonic acid gas.

If the use of coal oil for lighting kitchen fires is persevered in, there will be no need of forming a female servant's cremation society.

Suppose we cremate instead of burying, what will become of such touching lines as these? "Dust to dust," "Ashes to ashes," "Rattle his bones, over the stones," etc.

The advocates of cremation are in dead urn-est, to say the least.

An anti-cremation philosopher living near Lake Erie thinks the dead should be drowned.

The Brutes.

A ruffianly Ohio husband said to his wife, "I won't give you a cent towards buying a new dress." In one hour that poor downtrodden wife, who had nothing to wear, was a corpse, hanging by a rope in the barn.

Alas, how many wives are daily driven to moral, if not physical, suicide by a niggardly husband, who will one moment deny them a cent to buy twenty-seven yards of silk, and the next, squander ten cents on a paper of fine-cut.

It is time that woman should assert her married rights.

Where are all the mothers-in-law? Let them come to the front, broom in hand.

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kluit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kluit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, No. 625 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—The Mac-Fish and Laura A. and Harry Clark will perform at Agricultural Park on Sunday.

SAN JOSE.—Maguire's California Minstrels commenced an engagement at Brohaska's Opera House on Thursday evening, performed last night and will close their engagement this evening. A Floral Concert was given last night for the benefit of the Library.

OAKLAND.—The Old Folk's Concert given in San Francisco by Madame Anna Bishop, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Wilkie, Mrs. Campbell and others was repeated at Brayton Hall, last night.

STOCKTON.—Maguire's California Minstrels performed at the theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings to good houses.

PORTLAND, O.—The Oregonian of the 30 h ult., says: Mr. C. W. Knowles informs us that he is in receipt of a letter from Madame Fanny Morgan Phelps, to the effect that that lady, accompanied by her troupe, will leave Victoria one week from to-day en route for Portland. Arriving here, a short theatrical season will be inaugurated at once. The measure of patronage and encouragement which this public shall choose to accord Madame Phelps and her troupe, will determine the length of her professional visit to Portland. In addition we learn that Madame Duret, a lady of well established histrionic reputation, who played in Portland years ago, and a good company, will leave San Francisco in about two weeks. She proposes to proceed directly overland to this city, playing along the route. That being the case we shall have two theatrical companies to contribute to public amusement within one short month.

SALT LAKE.—At a benefit recently given to Miss A. A. Adams, a new and original drama by Benham Fabian, entitled "Ebains, the Cuban Heiress," was performed. The Tribune said of it: "The plot of the piece is laid in Cuba during the struggle for freedom, in which General Ryan and his associates met their disastrous fate. The play was well received, and the manner in which it was rendered reflected credit both upon the author and the stock company. It abounds in effective situations and thrilling incidents. Taken altogether, the play is fully equal to the majority of the dramas of the day, and we understand that it will soon be presented again. Miss Amy Stone and husband commenced an engagement on the 29th ult., in "Cigarette." They will shortly leave for San Francisco en route to Australia.

DENVER, COL.—Waldron and company are performing at the theatre. At the Cricket, Miss Fanny Garretson was delighting the people with her ballad singing. La Belle Blanche and Johnny Nichols appeared on the 4th.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Say," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
We never doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. Toole's farewell performances at the Globe Theatre, London, prior to his departure to America have commenced.

M. Gounod has made his first appearance in London as a pianist, at his own concert, when he played his "Funeral March of a Marionette," which is one of the most clever pieces of musical burlesque that was ever written. The distinguished composer's playing is said to have been very effective, and he was, of course, vociferously applauded.

Rose Hersee is drawing audiences numbering from 8,000 to 10,000 to her English performances at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham.

The Theatre Chaue, at Marseilles, witnessed a scene not on the bills on the night of the 20th of March. The play was Mons. Beauvallett's patriotic drama, "La Prise de Chateaudun" The stirring evects in the play excited great enthusiasm. In a scene where Prussian troops were to fire on a French soldier, the squad from the town garrison, who had with difficulty been prevailed upon to assume the roles of Prussian soldiers, refused to fire, and the management with difficulty, and at the risk of mutiny, convinced the pseudo Prussians that matters were not to be considered in so serious a light.

The new play of Cromwell, by Col. Alfred Bates Richards, has been produced at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England, with James Bennett in the title role. His performance of the character is said to be full of intelligence and spirit, and the great Protector lives again in impersonation.

Victor Hugo has just finished a drama, "Torquemada," the first reading of which was offered to his intimate friends, especially invited to hear it. This work, it is said, contains objectionable features, which make its representation at Paris impossible.

Easter has long since ceased to be the great season for theatrical novelties it once was in London; and, indeed, the growing custom of producing novelties on Saturday evening has still further deprived Easter Monday of all prominence. The only event of any interest this year was the production of the "School for Scandal," at the Prince of Wales. Lavishly set on the stage, and played with the spirit and ability which the excellent actors at this favorite theatre could hardly fail to display, it will no doubt have a considerable run. But it has not met with great favor from those older playgoers whose recollections go back to the time when we had a really great school of actors in genteel comedy. It is very amusing; they say, but it is not Sheridan; and indeed the art of interpreting the refined but highly artificial comedy of the last century is lost to an age whose tastes have not until very lately lain in that direction, and to actors whose training has been very different from those on whose perfections Charles Lamb dilates in those most charming of all theatrical notices in the "Essays of Elia."

The Warm Spring Indians.

Among the band of Warm Spring Indians now in this city in charge of Donald McKay, the noted scout, is Cappolas, who captured Captain Jack, and Kobayakan, Histoo and Weyatothan, the three noted braves who entered the cave and discovered the escape of Captain Jack. Weyatothan, whose wife is with him, was shot in the arm, and when told by the army surgeon that amputation was necessary to save his life, replied that he could die but would not lose his arm. Fortunately, both life and arm were saved. The whole band, numbering, all told, eighteen souls, visited Houseworth & Co's Photograph Gallery, No. 12 Montgomery street, for the purpose of having their photographs taken. They were first taken en groupe, and then Coppolas, the capturer of Captain Jack, was taken alone, and then photographs of two and three at a time until all were served as they served the Modocs—taken (no bloodshed). All of the photographs will be placed on exhibition as soon as finished at No. 9 Montgomery street (under the Lick House), and at No. 12 Montgomery street, directly opposite. Photographs of the whole band, or in groups of different sizes, can be obtained of Houseworth & Co., at 9 Montgomery street. 5 z

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kluit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kluit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. E. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—The capital two-act comedy of "Naval Engagements," in which Miss Dickey Lingard, A. D. Billings, J. K. Mortimore, John Howson and others act so well, has made quite a hit at this house. With Lingard in his wonderful sketches, comprising the Emperor of Russia, the Shah of Persia, Horace Greeley, President Grant and many others, and the charming musical farce of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," it constitutes an entertainment which cannot fail to please all tastes. Large and fashionable audiences are the rule at Maguire's New Theatre, and novelties are in preparation which will ensure a continuance of the public patronage. The bill for the matinee to-day and this evening's entertainment is published in full on our first page.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The admirable acting of Charles Pope in the difficult role of Belphegor, has established him as a great favorite with the San Francisco public. An actor who can move an audience to tears is not seen every day. The drama is relieved by the bright scenes in which Miss Maggie Moore appears as Zephyrina, the beautiful ballets performed by M'lle Bonfanti and M'lle Marie Gaugain, and the corps de ballet of the theatre. "Belphegor" will be performed at the matinee to-day and again this evening. It should run to good houses all next week.

OPERA HOUSE.—This favorite place of amusement, which has undergone some alterations and improvements during this week, notably in the addition of four private boxes, will be reopened to the public on Monday evening, when Maguire's California Minstrels, Con. Murphy, Billy Sweetnam, Little Mac and all the other San Francisco favorites will appear, and the great Carlo Family will commence an engagement and present their attractive parlor entertainment of groupings, posturing and gymnastic feats. The Minstrels will receive a hearty welcome on their return.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—There are but a few more opportunities to see this wonderful combination of equestrian and gymnastic stars at this place of amusement. Soon the peerless Mme. Dockrill, the graceful and artistic M. Dockrill, the funny Kenebels, the agile Fred O'Brien the precocious Johnny Cooke, the wonderful Princess Mollie and all the stars, must go to delight the people of the interior. A performance will be given this afternoon and another this evening. The reduced prices make it easy for all to attend and enjoy an entertainment such as has never before been given in this city.

BENEFIT OF JENNIE LEE AND J. P. BURNETT.—The public have not seen Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett on the stage for a considerable time and will give them a hearty welcome when they make their reappearance at the Opera House, this evening, when they will be the recipients of a complimentary benefit. The performance will commence with the farce of "The Two Poets" in which J. P. Burnett will play Peter Polt, after this a well-known amateur will sing a comic song, the comedy of "The Little Treasure" will be performed by Miss Jennie Lee, Barton Hill, Henry Edwards, J. P. Burnett, Miss Julia Melville and Mrs Edmunds, there will be a musical interlude by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with an original sketch arranged expressly for Miss Jennie Lee by Sam Genese from "Oliver Twist," entitled "Dickens' Dodger." In this Miss Jennie Lee will appear as The Artful Dodger. Such a bill as this ought to draw an overflowing house. The box sheet is now open.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—A great bill will be presented this evening, comprising the wonderful performances of the Japanese troupe of male and female artistes, Miss Alice Ross and Ed Murray in "Barney's Courtship," Miss Jennie Johnson and others in "After Night," Tommy Barton and Miss Susie Robinson in "Protean Sketches," H. R. Archer in "One Hundred Years Ago," and others in a varied olio of songs, acts and farces.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—Fun is the prevailing feature of the performance given at this house, and a splendid bill is always prepared for Saturday night. George C. Thompson, Frank Mortimore, Miss Fanny Webster, Miss Maggie Brewer, Miss Irene Walters, M'lle Blanche and a host of other favorite artistes will appear this evening.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—LIVE INDIANS.—The Warm Spring Indians, who did such valuable scouting under the command of Donald McKay, during the Modoc war, will be on exhibition at Woodward's Gardens for a few days. Captain McKay will explain their method of warfare, manner of scouting and mode of living to all visitors. The Indians will also exhibit on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS—A GRAND MAY FESTIVAL.—The California Jagers will hold their May Festival and picnic here on Sunday, May 10th. The Jagers will be escorted to the Gardens by delegations from several military companies. Prizes will be awarded for children's races, and other diversions, and the festivities will wind up with a grand ball and concert in the pavilion in the evening. The supervision of Capt. Schneider and his associates has much improved the morals of the place, in proof of which it may be mentioned, that not a single disturbance of any kind has occurred on the grounds this season. These gardens are now largely patronized by our German citizens.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30. P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Front street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the S. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

NOTES.—The telegraph has informed us of the great success which John McCullough has achieved at Booth's Theatre, New York, in the character of Spartacus in "the Gladiator." He is unanimously accepted by the critics as the only successor of Forrest, and the greatest living actor in Roman characters. So far so good. It is not very long ago that John McCullough himself thought that in Roman impersonations lay his strength. If it were so, then he could never hope to reach the eminence in the profession which he will surely gain, for the public will not go to see Roman plays, however well they are acted—they prefer Barnum's Roman hippodrome. John McCullough is far more than a successful impersonator of Roman characters—he is the new Hamlet, for whom the world is now ready. Whether he will be accepted by New York in this character remains to be seen, but whether this be so or not, the fact none the less remains that his impersonation of Hamlet is the most natural and genuine ever seen on the stage. It is a new departure from the conventional Hamlet. If New York, accustomed as it is to consider Edwin Booth's Hamlet the very perfection of acting, will accept the Hamlet of John McCullough which is utterly unlike it, we shall be satisfied. If it does not, then we shall simply regret that New York cannot free itself of old prejudices, and pity the public, not John McCullough. If the new Hamlet is a success, then, indeed, will the triumph of our California tragedian be one of the greatest ever known in the history of the drama.

Next week the "Magic Flute," the most difficult of all operas to sing, will be produced at Platt's Hall by Prof. Mulder's pupils, who are wrestling with it very assiduously. Drills and rehearsals are being daily held to master the musical intricacies of its trying roles. An amateur performance of this opera, if not a failure, will be a wonder, as it is the opera above all others that professional singers, even of the highest grade, most fear to attempt. Therefore we are sure the public will be lenient with Prof. Mulder's pupils' rendering of "the Magic Flute." A circular with a big advertisement of a piano on the back of it, elegantly entitled "A Monograph of the Magic Flute," in place of an advertising circular, has been published, and everything is being done to make the amateur performance of this opera a success.

Madame Agatha States and Signor Orlandini left for New York this morning, to fill an engagement in that city.

The telegraph yesterday corrected the statement sent abroad by the New York papers of Thursday, that the New Park Theatre, New York, was closed by Sheriff's execution the night previous. The management announce that it was closed "because the receipts did not meet expenses."

The New York Spirit of the Times says: Mr. Wm. Nelson Decker, a young actor of sterling ability, now playing at Booth's Theatre, has been engaged by Messrs. Simmonds & Wall for the California Theatre.

For the telegrams recording the success of John McCullough in New York, which we have published during the week, we are indebted to the Alta. We shall continue to avail ourselves of any news it may publish concerning our California actor and manager.

H. J. Byron's capital comedy of "Fine Feathers," the exclusive right to produce which is held by Mr. Lingard, will be presented for the first time in California at Maguire's New Theatre, on Monday evening.

The reason why the "critic" of the Chronicle was "instructed" to write a savage and unjust criticism of Miss Miller, the Hawaiian vocalist, threatens to find its way into print. Miss Miller owes it to herself to explain why this attack was made on her at the outset of her professional career.

Bobby Newcomb, one of the most popular song and dance men in the world, will make his first appearance in California, at the Opera House on the 18th.

The Aimee French Opera Bouffe Troupe will commence an engagement at the California Theatre on the 18th: Mr. Levi, the conductor, and Mr. Von Ghele, the musical director of the troupe, arrived last night. Aimee and the other members of the troupe will be here on Friday next.

J. C. Williamson and Miss Maggie Moore will leave on the 23d inst, for Melbourne, Australia, under engagement to George Coppin.

"Belphegor" will be played at the California Theatre up to Friday of next week, when Charles Pope will take his farewell benefit and appear as Alfred Evlyn in "Money."

John T. Raymond and his charming wife, (Miss M. E. Gordon,) left for New York this morning by the early train. They bear with them the good wishes of everyone who knows them.

On Saturday, the 16th inst., that particular pet of the San Francisco public Miss Maggie Moore, will take her first benefit at the California Theatre and make her last appearance prior to starting on a trip round the world with her husband, J. C. Williamson. "Grif" a dramatization of Farjeon's novel of that name will be presented, for the first time on any stage, on this occasion. The scene is laid in Australia, and the novel affords material for a stirring drama.

Harry Eytinge, whose talents are varied, has attached himself to Mile's Art Gallery, 223 and 225 Kearny street, and will give that establishment the advantage of his talent as a connoisseur of paintings. Artists will be sure to receive every encouragement at the hands of Mr. Eytinge, who is a devotee of Art in every form.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York "Led Astray" is still running at Union Square Theatre. Charles R. Thorne, the leading man had a benefit on the 29th ult. The Spirit of the Times says: Mr. Thorne possesses every quality requisite to make him one of the representative actors of the American stage. He has youth, a fine stage presence, a soft voice capable of expressing every phase of passion, an excellent method of elocution which rarely oversteps the bounds of modesty, to which he unites a dramatic intelligence and appreciation that is as rare as it is valuable to the actor. As an exponent of high comedy characters, or those of the romantic school of the drama, Mr. Thorne takes high rank. .....At Wallack's Robertson's "School," followed "The Veteran." magical entertainment.....At the Lyceum, Miss Jane Coombs commenced an engagement on the 4th, in the "School for Scandal" ... Niblo's is closed. Rumor says it is to be converted into a German theatre....Barnum's Hippodrome opened on the 27th ult. A description of the performance will be found elsewhere.....At the Olympic Theatre, the Worrell Sisters, Sheridan and Mack, Miss Angelique Schott and others appeared....Edwin Eddy was the star at the Bowery Theatre.....The Park Theatre is closed. Perhaps the sheriff did it, perhaps he didn't.....At Tony Pastor's, Hart, Allen and Ryman with a good company were giving an entertainment..... At the Metropolitan Sam Rickey's new drama "An Irish Home," was the attraction.....At Wood's Museum, T. W. Keene took a benefit on the 28th ult., prior to his departure for California. "Escaped from Sing Sing" was the matinee piece.....At the Theatre Comique, Miss Lina Edwin and Mrs. Bland Holt, were playing in a burlesque, entitled "Was She Led Astray"...The Colosseum was drawing crowds to see the great pictures of London and Paris.

The Boston Courier of the 26th says: Tomaso Salvini, the great Italian tragedian, will give five farewell performances at the Boston Theatre, beginning Monday evening, May 4. During this brief engagement he will appear in four characters new to our theatre-goers, in which he has met with distinguished success in other cities.

At the Museum, Halliday's "Heart's Delight," a dramatic version of Dombey and Son, was to be produced on May 4th, with Mr. Warren as Captain Edward Cuttle, mariner.

Mrs. James Oates and troupe will be in St. Louis May 4th, one week.

Willie Edouin, Miss Alice Atherton, (Mrs. Edouin), and Miss Eliza Weathersby are engaged for a summer season at the Boston Museum.

The Lydia Thompson troupe will appear at the Howard Atheneum, Boston, for two weeks, commencing May 12th.

Mr. John E Owens has leased the Varieties Theatre, New Orleans, and will enter into possession on November 1.

Miss Charlotte Nickerson is to be manager of the new opera house at present being erected in Toronto, Canada.

Long Branch is to have a theatre, and Munroe Dempster, formerly of Bryant's Minstrels, is to be the manager.

Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett will appear in "Julius Cæsar," at Hartford, Conn., on the 6th of June.

Mlle. Beloces, the new prima donna, is engaged by Mr. Strakosch for his spring season of 1875, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walcot were playing in "Charity," at Wood's Museum, Philadelphia.

Petrolia, Pa., will have an opera house to hold 1500 people. Benjamin Hogan will be manager.

Professor Herrmann, the great prestidigitateur, opens at the Academy of Music, May 11th.

Mr. G. C. Jordon, of the Brooklyn Theatre, goes to the Boston Museum next season.

The Pittsburg Dispatch, thus comments upon "Led Astray" and Mrs. D. P. Bowers: "It would be very creditable to Mr. Boucicault's literary ability if he could claim the authorship of "Led Astray." It is a story of natural life, cleverly dressed for stage presentation, and one that obtains attention from its opening to its close. Probably the interest of the piece is really due the gentlemen who claims its authorship, for adapting it to the American stage. Mr. Boucicault has grafted into the play certain neat situations, and pruned it of considerable dialogue which, literally translated, would have been tiresome to average audiences. To the creation of the characters and the plot, however, Mr. Boucicault has no legitimate claim. It is being well given at the Opera House the present week. Though the part of Armande is better adapted to an actress of the Charlotte Thompson or Clara Morris stripe, Mrs. Bowers plays it with force and discretion."

The theatrical man of the Galveston Civilian in noticing an "elfin star" in the play of "Fanchon," conscientiously remarks that "we omit reference to the whole of the third and the larger portion of the fourth acts, being at the time engaged at the prayer meeting."

The New York Courier says:

All rumors to the contrary, "Love's Penance" will hold the stage at the Park Theatre during the coming week. This is gratifying intelligence, for it proves that Mr. Fechter's admirable acting has met with the appreciation it deserves, and that the excellence of the play has been recognized. Success has always perched upon Mr. Stuart's banner, and seems to find it a familiar resting place in the case of the Park Theatre.

A dispatch dated May 7th, informed us on Thursday that the Sheriff had seized the theatre, and that the red flag of the auctioneer threatened to supplant Mr. Stuart's banner, and topple success from its resting place.

Mr. H. S. Murdock joins the forces of Hooley's Opera House, Chicago, next season.

Mr. H. F. Daly, of Booth's Theatre, goes to the Boston Museum next season.

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau appeared in Washington on the 27th.

Miss Lillie Eldridge opened in St. Louis on the 27th ult.

Miss Josephine Orton goes to the Boston Museum next season.

The following description is given of the opening of P. T. Barnum's Roman Hippodrome and Zoological Institute: The programme was opened with the spectacle of the "Congress of Monarchs." A fine military band, brilliantly arrayed in scarlet costumes, having taken up position on a stand in the centre, the signal was given, and from the grand entrance issued forth symbolic representatives of the monarchs of the various principal nations of the earth. First came the Queen of England, elevated on a magnificent chariot, drawn by twelve horses and accompanied by beefeaters, dragoons, life guardsmen, Highlanders, and grenadiers. Next followed France, represented by the first Napoleon, with his generals, imperial guard, zouaves, and a body of cavalry. Then came Germany, with Bismarck, Von Moltke, and the Emperor William, followed by the Imperial guard of Austria and a troupe of Hungarians. Mounted on another beautiful chariot came Pope Pius, headed by his Swiss guards, and accompanied by cardinals, acolytes, and priests, and followed by Italian sharpshooters, Garibaldians, and other representatives of sunny Italy. The Sultan of Turkey, followed, with his representative harem in attendance; and then came the Egyptians, with ladies mounted on camels and a guard of Egyptian soldiers. The Czar of Russia came next, with his brilliant staff, and in turn gave way to the Son of the Moon, with his Chinese attendants. India follows, with a detachment of elephants, and bringing up the rear is America, with Washington, Morgan, Putnam, Lee, Gates, Lafayette, Continentals, United States infantry, and a tribe of Indians, completing the grandest pagant ever seen in a place of amusement. The procession having passed several times in full view of the spectators, gradually disappeared, and then followed a series of delightfully exciting sports and exercises.

Fiat and hurdle races by well-trained lady jockeys, ostrich herding and monkey chases, elephant races and chariot driving contests, feats of strength by the modern Samson, M. Joigney, gymnastic acts by M. Loyal, Edwin Marsden, and the Brothers Levanion, Roman standing race on two horses by elegantly attired gladiators, and

WEDNESDAY..... ....MAY 13, 1874

How Is This?

The Golden Era of Sunday says:

Maguire's California Minstrels, after a week's sojourn in Stockton and San Jose, open again at the Opera House, on Monday evening, May 11th, with Tommy Newcombe and a host of new-comers, besides the accession of the Carlo Brothers, the best gymnasts and acrobats in the world.

Tommy Newcomb has not yet made his appearance at the Opera House, but still continues to represent in his own individual self, all the brains employed on the Morning Call. We have no doubt that the Newcomb, whose name is Bobby, not Tommy, who is to appear at the Opera House, on Monday next, receives from Manager Maguire just three times the salary which the intellectual, but uneducated - as - to - his-heels Newcomb draws weekly from Manager Pickering. We can't all be song and dance men, but then again, we wouldn't if we could.

Good Gracious!

An exchange says:

London society is considerably excited by the announcement that Holman Hunt, the eminent artist, is about to marry the sister of his deceased wife. As the laws of England forbid such a marriage the ceremony will be performed in some other country. It is understood that they intend to make Jerusalem their future residence.

Hadn't they better go to Jerico to escape being sent to Coventry by London society?

Easy Marriage.

In a volume just issued in Calcutta on Mahometan laws, it is stated that a girl may marry herself by a smile, unless it is complicated with a sneer. Silence or a laugh when an offer of marriage is made is taken for consent. Strangely enough, the request to marry or the reply, to make the contract valid, must be in the preterite tense.

Too Bad.

The proprietors of the Chronicle complain that they "frequently receive threatening letters." This is very sad, and it is at the same time very extraordinary. Somehow or other, the DeYoungs don't seem to be appreciated in this city. We would advise them to go West—off Meigg's Wharf.

Sensible Beecher.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher makes this comprehensive reply to an anxious questioner who is desirous of knowing whether a man can love his second wife as well as the first: "That depends on what sort of a wife the first was, and what kind of a life the second leads him."

At Last.

We have been looking in our exchanges for an announcement of how Waltz, the murderer "waltzed into eternity," but we suppose we must be satisfied with the New York Courier's calling his execution "the dance of death."

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kinit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kinit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

Taking a Stand.

A Vermont editor has determined to take a manly, independent and dignified stand before the world. He declares that hereafter his very lowest charge for marriage notices will be fifteen pounds of dried apples, and that notices with poetry will cost twelve pounds of onions additional. This we call sustaining the dignity of the press, which has too often been degraded by puny souled wretches who would take ten pounds of dried apples for a marriage, and who would throw in a hunk of poetry without extra charge. With such men as this Vermonter in control of all the papers in the country, the position of editor will become every day more elevated, and of more commanding influence. We expect to live to see the day when no man will dare approach an editorial room without carrying a box of cigars under one arm, and a bottle of the best brandy under the other. When that time arrives, the press of America will have attained a position which will make it the envy of the civilized world, and even the unlettered savage will respect it. The Vermonter should at once be called to New York. He is the only man in the country (with the exception of E. Ludwig Kurtz) that we are willing to regard as great. The man who can origin te so noble and soul-thrilling a battle cry as, "Fifteen pounds of dried apples, or no marriage notices!" possesses the true elements of greatness.

Sun Struck.

There is not a drunkard in the Texas Legislature. Not one. Though the members do occasionally fall over chairs when they rise to debate, and are often slightly incoherent in their remarks. The other day one of them said: "Misser Speaksir, there's no question before this 'ere body, so I move we go out and take a drink. If any man votes agin the motion I'll blow his blasted head off." Yet the members insisted that he wasn't drunk. One said he "guessed the General had been standing in the sun too long." The sun has a peculiar effect on some people, especially when they carry revolvers, and don't like to be told they're drunk.

Scene at a Christening.

"What name, ma'm?"

"Peter."

"Bad name; Peter denied his Master."

"What would you suggest?"

"Joseph."

"Not much. Joseph denied his mistress!"

A Mild Paper.

The Meat Ax is the name of a new paper published in Marshall, Iowa. From the contents, we judge it is edited by A. Muttenhed.

An Enterprising Paper.

For enterprise the Call beats any paper in the world. In Sunday's issue it published an account of "The Seven Wonders of the World." Next Sunday a history of "The Seven Wise Men of Greece," will delight its readers.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Strawberries! Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-r

Brignoli in Paris.

Olive Logan writes this from Paris: "I can't help laughing, though, when I read funny things; and if you want to laugh with me you may read the following bit of French criticism on Brignoli, now singing at the Italian; but we don't believe a word of it about our good old fat Brig. And there is a new generation now growing up in America to fall in love with him just the same as ever, when he returns across the briny. It It is from the Figaro: 'Oh, who will rid us of Brignoli. It is all very well to go to the Italian to chat, look around, and pay visits; but there are moments when despite oneself, one glances on the stage; there are airs to which one listens mechanically. And then ones sees this tenor who, in opening his large mouth, seems as if he wanted to eat his nose; one hears lamentable sounds of amorous cats, and strange gurglings peel one's ears, and one longs to fly far, very far, into a country where Brignoli never has penetrated and never will. Oh, Strakosch, thou who art director of Ventadour, deliver us of Brignoli!"

The Warm Spring Indians.

Among the band of Warm Spring Indians now in this city in charge of Donald McKay, the noted scout, is Cappolas, who captured Captain Jack, and Kobayakan, Histoo and Weyatotaan, the three noted braves who entered the cave and discovered the escape of Captain Jack. Weyatotaan, whose wife is with him, was shot in the arm, and when told by the army surgeon that amputation was necessary to save his life, replied that he could die but would not lose his arm. Fortunately, both life and arm were saved. The whole band, numbering, all told, eighteen souls, visited Houseworth & Co's Photograph Gallery, No. 12 Montgomery street, for the purpose of having their photographs taken. They were first taken en groupe, and then Coppolas, the captorer of Captain Jack, was taken alone, and then photographs of two and three at a time until all were served as they served the Modocs—taken (no bloodshed). All of the photographs will be placed on exhibition as soon as finished at No. 9 Montgomery street (under the Lick House), and at No. 12 Montgomery street, directly opposite. Photographs of the whole band, or in groups of different sizes, can be obtained of Houseworth & Co., at 9 Montgomery street. 5 H

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The engagement of Charles Pope at this theatre is fast drawing to a close, and those who have not yet seen him in his remarkably clever impersonation of Belphegor should not delay. The new ballet by M'lles Bonfanti and Gangain, and corypheus and figurantes of the California Theatre company, is quite a success, and adds much to the attractiveness of the entertainment. On Friday, Mr. Pope will take his farewell benefit, and appear as Alfred Evelyn in "Money." To-night will be the last night of "Belphegor," Mlle. Bonfanti and the ballet. To-morrow night "The Robbers" will be performed, Mr Pope playing Charles De Moore.

Opera House.

The performance given at this house can scarcely be surpassed, and it is thoroughly appreciated by the San Francisco public. A capital first-part in which G. W. Harley, W. F. Baker, J. G. Russell, Billy Sweatnam, Billy Welch and Con. T. Murphy appear, is followed by performances by the Great Carlo Family Welch and Rice, Geo. T. Knight and others, and the screaming farce of a "Quiet Life," winds up the evening's entertainment.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The capital bill presented at this house last night, gave great satisfaction to all present. "Naval Engagements" was splendidly performed by Miss Dickey Lingard, A. D Billings, Miss Mary Wells, and others, the Lingard sketches were received with the usual amount of applause, and "Mr. and Mrs Peter White," with all the stars in the cast terminated the entertainment. To-night W. S. Gilbert's admirable play of "Charity," will be performed; to-morrow night, "La Tentation" will be presented for the last time; on Friday, W. H. Lingard's new play entitled "A Life's Dream," will be produced, and "Alize" will be played at the matinee, and in the evening on Saturday. Remember this is the last week of the engagement of the Lingards. On Monday "The Streets of New York" will be produced with J. K. Mortimer in his great character of Badger.

Palace Amphitheatre.

This house was thronged last night. After an admirable programme, the most attractive feature of which were the performances of M. and Madame Dockrill, the Kenebels, the great "Ladder in the Air," by the Leopold Brothers, and the remarkably intelligent performances of the trick horse Napoleon, introduced by Omar Kingsley, the Warm Spring Indians, headed by Donald McKay, made their appearance in the ring and were greeted with the most enthusiastic applause. The spectators were delighted with the novelty of their performance and listened with much attention to a speech by Cappolas who captured Capt. Jack, which was interpreted by Donald McKay. The same novel and attractive entertainment will be given this evening and will doubtless attract an equally large crowd. The benefit to William Thomson, the Treasurer, will take place to-morrow evening, and extra attractions will be presented. Mr. Thomson has been connected with Wilson's circus, for sixteen years, and has won the esteem of all who know him for his sterling integrity, and his modest and gentlemanly deportment, as well as for business capacity. His friends are legion, and we are sure his benefit will be a worthy testimonial in point of numbers. The full programme is published on our first page.

Platt's Hall.

The performance of Mozart's opera of "The Magic Flute" at this hall, last night by the pupils of Prof. Mulder Fabbri's Conservatory of Music assisted by the regular Italian Opera Chorus was a grand success in every way. The audience was one of the largest and most fashionable ever present on any similar occasion, and the amateurs acquitted themselves extremely well. The music was correctly sung, and several of the amateurs displayed considerable dramatic talent. Madame Fabbri, Miss Anna Eizer, Miss Ivy Wandesforde, O Makin and Mrs. Babcock were especially good. This opera will be repeated this evening with the following distribution of characters: Pamina, daughter of the Queen of Night, Miss Ivy Wandesforde; Astriflammente, Queen of Night, Mrs. Babcock; Papagena, an old woman, Mme. Fabbri; Three Genii, Misses Anna Eizer, Miss A. B. Sawyer (soprano), and Miss E. Hill (mezzo soprano): three attendants on the Queen of Night—Mrs. Storer (soprano), Miss J. Bowles (soprano), Mrs. M. Daniels, (prima contralto); Tamino, Egyptian prince, Nathaniel Cohen; Sarastro, Priest of Isis' O. Makin; Papageno, bird-catcher, E. O. Mastic; Monostatos, Chief of Guards, Herman Adler. The speaker, two priests and guardians, Messrs. O. ungan, Browne and others On Friday evening "Stradella" will be produced, and Mr. George Voges will make his debut.

Miss Dickey Lingard's Benefit.

This popular young actress will be the recipient of a benefit at Maguire's New Theatre, on Friday evening, when Mr. Lingard's new three act comedy, 'A Life's Dream," will be produced here for the first time. It has been played with great success at both the Olympic and Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatres, New York, and in the principal cities in the East. As this will be the only opportunity the public will have to see this comedy, its production alone will insure a crowded house to say nothing of the additional attractions of the personal popularity of the fair young beneficiary. Mr. Lingard will also give his inimitable Sketches, on this occasion, for the last time.

Farewell Benefit of Miss Maggie Moore.

On Saturday evening next, that universal favorite, Miss Maggie Moore, will take her farewell benefit at the California Theatre, and will appear in several of her most admired performances. The bill will comprise the first act of "The Colleen Bawn," in which Miss Maggie Moore will appear as Ely O'Connor, and sing "Pretty Girl Milking Her Cow," and the "Cruiskeen Lawn," the farce of "The Fool of the Family," in which the beneficiary will sing Yankee songs. The Grasette Polka by Mlle Bonfanti, and the drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with Miss Maggie Moore in her famous character of Topsy.

Bella Union Theatre.

Protean Sketches by Tommy Barton and Miss Susie Robinson, 'Barney's Courtship" by Miss Alice Boss and Ed Murray, wonderful feats by the great Japanese troupe, and a variety of other performances will be given to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

An entire new programme this evening. Mortimore in his sketches, George C. Thompson's specialities, and a capital olio of songs and dances will be presented at this house to-night.

City Gardens.

The colored people will celebrate the Festive month by holding a picnic and ball here on May 14th.

Woodward's Gardens.

There will be the usual performance in the Pavilion on Saturday and Sunday, with some new features. Natator, the Man Fish, has been re-engaged, and will perform the Monte Christo feat which consists of his first being tied hand foot with ropes, then wrapped in a canvass which is also tied around him. After he is bound up a la mummy, he will be thrown into the tank of water. A new pantomime by the Buslays and assistants, performances of the trained animals, etc.

Good Templar's Picnic.

The Good Templars picnic at Badger's Park, Oakland, has been postponed from May 6th to May 22d. Friends of the Temperance cause are expected to make a grand rally on this occasion.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

"Monsieur Alphonse."

This adaptation by Augustin Daly, of a new play in three acts by Dumas, was performed for the first time at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, April 14th. The point illustrates the efforts of Raymonde, the young wife of an old sea-captain, to conceal from her husband the knowledge of a previous intimacy with Octave, known to her by the name of Alphonse, who deserts her and leaves Adrienne, their child, in the hands of peasants. Captain Montaglin, a bluff, honest sailor, found Raymonde in poverty, and, ignorant of her previous career, married her. Both sincerely love each other, and it is at this point that the curtain rises and discovers their happy home, with an old sea-dog, Remy, as their only attendant. Their happiness is disturbed by the appearance of the captain's old friend, Octave, who is engaged to marry a rich, coarse and jealous widow, Madame Guichard. In the presence of the trembling Raymonde he prevails on the captain to let Adrienne live in his house, as his intended wife will annul their engagement if she should learn their relationship. With the captain's consent, the little girl is brought to the house, and, in the absence of the two men, a singularly affecting scene is enacted between mother and child. Jovin, a spy, having tracked Adrienne to the captain's residence, Madame Guichard arrives shortly after, at a moment when the mother and daughter believe they are again united never to part. Octave compelled by his intended wife, demands that the child shall be given up to her, and Raymonde's emotional appeals to her husband betray her secret. In her anguish she implores his mercy, and, after slight hesitation, his noble nature triumps, and he forgives his wife, and adopts her child. The curtain thus descends on a happy finale.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Great Bargains in Clothing:

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Special to Ladies.

For dressmaking in all its branches and the latest styles, call on Mrs. J. J. Walker, at 310 Post street. Terms reasonable. 3-ox

A CREMATION ELEGY.

De mortuis nost even bones.

"Where is thy grave, my love? I want to weep."—Festus.

The chimney-stack through which my love has flown
Be sacred now with all perpetual fires;
Her ashes, shrouded in this hollow urn,
Are all that's left of dead love's fond desires.

How oft, when wandering near this hallowed spot,
And thinking of the days that are no more,
My yearning eyes shall seek your chimney-pot,
Through which sweet Ellen's volatiles did pour.

Sweet carbon loved ammonia, water fine,
HO, CO, NH, of dainties mold,
Are all she was. Ah! wherefore then repine,
Since not for aye the chemic forces hold,

Ye powers that hold above the silent dead,
Your everlasting speechless watch and ward;
That thaw the frost that binds so dear a head;
That melt the golden bowl, the silver chord.

To you, the viewless spirits of the air,
Cohesion, chemical affinity,
Straight have I yielded up my Ellen fair,
To act upon her sweet divinity.

And you, my brothers, when my days are ended
I pray you this last favor for me do;
Ah! lay my body there, whence, she ascended,
To fly up through the flue up which she flew.

A Veteran Actor.

Olive Logan, writing from Paris, to the New York Spirit of the Times, describes Frederick Lemaitre, the Charles Mathews of the French stage, whom Dickens, writing twenty years ago, even then, called "Old Lemaitre." Olive says: What this man must have been in his prime we can have some faint idea of, by seeing the grand old wreck, with its flaming eyes set in the wrinkled face, its eloquent arms prodigal of thrilling gesture, one of which alone would almost serve an imitator to make a fortune on. His voice is nearly gone; like Peter Richings, he is h'arse to-night. But he treads the stage like a king, and men whom I have seen in other pieces at the Ambigu, and thought them good actors, dwindle into such paltry insignificance beside him, that I find myself wondering how they can be tolerated. The thing that surprises me most about Frederick, is—not his pathos, nor his statuesqueness, nor his dignity; but his liveliness, his friskiness, his regular old-boy humor. He draws a pail of water and hoists it around a good deal more lightly than I could, and smashes the villain's hat on his head with a sort of backhanded gesture, at once thrilling and laughable. I observe that, like your last men and your Rollas, your Lears and the rest, Lemaitre is perfectly regardless of other people's feelings on the stage. He rasps the heroine's head on his vest buttons, like Blake; he rains elocutionary saliva in her face, like Lear; he pommels her in the strength of his fondness, like Forrest and the other Rollas. I enjoy it better from the orchestra chairs, but I'd be willing to bet something that the young girl who plays with him don't like old men on the stage.

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Port House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant 5-M

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 335 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

Social War in Waukon.

The young ladies of Waukon, Iowa, having formed a society to find out and record the young men who visit saloons to imbibe, the young men have revenged themselves by a rival society to find out and record the females who visit the drug stores to get paint. The women are pledged to marry no man who drinks, and the men are pledged to pass on the woman who paints. There isn't much likelihood of any marriages or births in Waukon during the year. The ministers and doctors are not the happiest men in Waukon. Marriages and christenings pay pretty well.

Interested Motives.

The reason why the people of Philadelphia are opposed to cremation, is because it would cut off councilmen's black kid gloves and carriage rides. The people of Philadelphia are altogether too sensitive. Their councilmen's hands wouldn't be much dirtier than they are now if they were never to have another pair of kids. Beside, the dirtier the hands the better the stamps will stick to them when they dive them into the public treasury.

A Fair Guess.

At an infant Sunday school, the teacher gave the Bible story of the "Prodigal Son." When he came to the place where the poor, ragged son reached his former home, and his father saw him a "great way off," he inquired what his father probably did. One of the smallest boys, with his fist clenched, said: "I dunno, but I dessay he set the dog on him."

A Job for Some One.

A philosophical writer states that it is a sure sign of an early Spring to see a cat watching intently a small hole in the wall. Won't some of our readers go hunting round for a cat watching a small hole in a wall? We want to know when Spring is coming, so that we can announce it among our items of news.

Those Villainous Bootmakers.

Not in this world of sorrow need we expect to find entire happiness, especially when we have a bootmaker who believes that a No. 10 foot can be crushed into a No. 7 boot. And still the bootmakers look as innocent as though they were not the most atrocious villains that ever had aught to do with souls.

A Bad State of Things.

A Chicago pork packer, whose pew rent was raised to $25, exclaimed: "Great Cæsar! here's a nice state of affairs—the gospel going up, and pork going down. What's to become of us?"

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Hinit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Hinit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golby's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE ON JOHN McCULLOUGH.

William Winters, of the New York Tribune, has the following criticism of John McCullough: Mr. John McCullough came before the public last night, in Booth's Theatre, and acted Spartacus. The crowd that saw him thronged all parts of the house; received him with kindness; watched him with an eager interest that soon deepened into fervent sympathy; yielded, little by little, to the spell of rare and sweet earnestness; and by such vociferous plaudits as are seldom heard, called him five times before the curtain, and crowned him with all the honors of popular admiration. There was no claque. There was no fictitious applause. There was no floricultural demonstration. There was no trickery of management to mar the plainness of a simple intellectual appeal to knowledge, taste and emotion. That the actor had a triumph with the people will therefore be inferred, and must in justice be accorded. That he deserved this—and much more than this—we are deeply convinced. It is long since what may be called a new actor has impressed us as profoundly as we were impressed last night by Mr. McCullough, alike in thought and emotion. Mr. McCullough does not resemble Mr. Forrest at all. He does not spend half an hour in saying the word "boy," so that his auditors may spend another half an hour in applauding him for saying it. He does not use his fist as a trip hammer, and his chest as an anvil. And he neither snorts nor howls. The basis of Mr. McCullough's acting is, first of all, a splendid physique, in perfect health, and to that he adds a temperament in spontaneous sympathy with simplicity and goodness. His defects are in an occasional hardness of voice, a certain inflexibility of facial expression, and at times a repression of feeling—as if the artist possessed the character, and the character had not fully possessed the artist. His merits are many—a splendid poise and carriage of the body, a perfect intelligence, a sense of symmetry that acts spontaneously, and that, nevertheless, a touching tenderness of feeling, a grandeur of repose upon the hight of manliness, an imaginative exaltation, and a refined taste may be named at once as attributes of his personation last night. He carried Spartacus through at fully the hight of the Brutus of Shakspeare. The test that an intellectual man meets and bears who does this—with such a past, and under the shadow of such a reminiscence of past renown—is immeasurably severe. There must be great art powers, and great integrity of mind and heart in the personage who can accomplish brilliant success under such an ordeal.

A Sensible Man.

An Irishman in London was holding forth to some boon companions on the advantages of his native country. "It is the cheapest country in the world to live in," said he. "You will buy a fine salmon for sixpence, and a dozen herring for twopence." "And, Paddy, why did you leave that blessed and cheap country?" "I left it because I didn't happen to have either the sixpence or the twopence about me."

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corvillo keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Strawberries: Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. Old Mose.

The Mariposa Gazette has the following: The residents and occasional visitors of Sacramento will remember an old colored citizen of that city who answered to the name of "Mose," and had a little boot-black stand on Second street, in front of the Union Hotel. Mose was good-humored, accommodating, honest, and had many friends. During our recent visit to the Capital we noticed that his former place of business was occupied by a stranger of the same race and color. "How's this," we queried, "Where's Mose?" The old darkey reverently raised his hat and rolled his eyes upward, and in a solemn voice replied, "Mose is in Heaven. "What! Mose dead?" "Yes, sah," he responded, "he's done gone dead more'n a year ago. He had the biggest funeral you ever seen—de boys all turned out, sah, to Mose's funeral. Everybody went. You oughter been here; Mose he know'd you mighty well; he's a good man sah; yes, sah, Mose is in Heaven, shure." "What was the matter?" "Well, you see, Mose tuck cold one day; he never got 'over it; it car'd him off in less than a week; he died of ammonia, sah. Nex gentleman."

The Warm Spring Indians.

Among the band of Warm Spring Indians now in this city in charge of Donald McKay, the noted scout, is Cappolas, who captured Captain Jack, and Ki-hayakan, Histoo and Weyatothan, the three noted braves who entered the cave and discovered the escape of Captain Jack. Weyatothan, whose wife is with him, was shot in the arm, and when told by the army surgeon that amputation was necessary to save his life, replied that he could die but would not lose his arm. Fortunately, both life and arm were saved. The whole band, numbering, all told, eighteen souls, visited Houseworth & Co's Photograph Gallery, No. 12 Montgomery street, for the purpose of having their photographs taken. They were first taken en groupe, and then Coppolas, the capturer of Captain Jack, was taken alone, and then photographs of two and three at a time until all were served as they served the Modocs—taken (no bloodshed). All of the photographs will be placed on exhibition as soon as finished at No. 9 Montgomery street (under the Lick House), and at No. 12 Montgomery street, directly opposite. Photographs of the whole band, or in groups of different sizes, can be obtained of Houseworth & Co., at 9 Montgomery street. 5 B

STRADELLA

(Second to MARTHA,) and
DEBUT OF THE CALIFORNIA TENOR,
MR. GEO. VOGES.
Full Chorus of 30 Voices & Orchestra

ARGUMENT.

Stradella, a famous singer, is in love with and beloved by Leonora, the ward of Delfino, a Patrician and Senator of Venice. Delfino plans the assassination of Stradella, but the bravos hired for the purpose of his murder happen to arrive when he is rehearsing a hymn to the virgin, and they are so much affected by his devotional fervor and the beauty of his voice, that they are unable to carry out their guilty intentions. The scene of the first act is laid in Venice, in the Spring of 1676; the last two acts occur three months later, in Rome. The music is in Flotow's earlier and better manner, and the opera, first produced in 1844, has always been popular in France and Germany. Its best numbers are a duo in the first act for Stradella and Leonora, and a solo and trio in the last for the tenor and his would-be-murderers.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The performance given at this house suits the public taste exactly. In the first part there is sweet music, and excellent singing, and that trio of funny fellows Billy Sweatnam, Billy Welch and Con. T. Murphy, keep the audience in a roar by their witty sayings. After this the Carlos, who have in their lines no equals, appear in a most attractive series of gymnastic feats and statuesque groupings. Little Mac, Reed and Richards, perform the act entitled "A Good's Night's Rest", George S. Knight, the Dutch comedian, sings new songs, "The Serenade" is performed by Billy Sweatnam, Welch and Reed, and the screaming farce of "A Quiet Life" terminates one of the best performances of the season. Fun is always popular, and fun is the prevailing feature of the entertainment given at the Opera House.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Last night W. S. Gilbert's admirable play of "Charity" was performed to an excellent house, and all thoroughly enjoyed the capital acting of Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard, W. H. Lingard, Miss Mary Wells, A. D. Billings, John Howson, and others who took part in the representation. To-night, the great success of the season "La Tentation" will be performed for the last time with the same excellent cast as before. It is published on our first page. To-morrow evening a new drama entitled "A Life's Dream" will be performed, and that pet of the public Miss Dickey Lingard will take her farewell benefit. On Saturday evening "Alixe" will be performed. Sunday and Monday will be the last nights of the Lingard season.

California Theatre.

To-night, Charles Pope, who has delighted so many by his talented impersonation of Bulpegor will appear in the character of Charles de Moor in Schiller's great play of "The Robbers." John Wilson will play Francis de Moor, and Charles Edmonds Count de Moor. Miss Ellie Wilton will assume the role of Amelia. Between the first and second acts Mlle. Bonfanti, Mlle. Gougain and corps de ballet, will appear in a grand ballet. To-morrow night, Mr. Pope will take his farewell benefit, and will appear as Alfred Evelyn, in "Money." On Saturday evening the universally popular Miss Maggie Moore will take her farewell benefit, and will make her last appearance before the public who have watched her progress in the profession with such interest and delight. The demand for seats for the Aimee season, which commences on Monday, is very large.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The public of San Francisco will prove this evening that it is their opinion that "old acquaintance" should not be forgot, by crowding the house on the occasion of the benefit of the worthy Treasurer an old-time circus man, William Thomson. Extraordinary attractions will be offered. They will include an exhibition of the champion California race horse, Thad Stevens, which won the great race against Joe Daniels and True Blue. R. H. Dockrill's great North American Indian Act, funny scenes by the Kenebels, Madame Dockrill in her unapproachable equestrian act, a Scotch Sword Dance by a lady amateur. The last appearance of the Princess Mollie, the last performance of the butterfly act by the Kenebels, dances by the Warm Spring Indians under Donald McKay and a number of other attractive performances which will be found set forth in the programme on our first page. Prior to the entertainment in the Amphitheatre, there will be a free exhibition outside. Mons. Eugene will make an ascension on a single wire from the street to the top of the Amphitheatre.

Bella Union Theatre.

A performance of extraordinary variety and excellence is given at this popular theatre. After a capital first part by the male and female minstrels Miss Louise Somers sings popular ballads. Jimmy Moore appears in song and dance, Tommy Barton and Miss Susie Robinson present their popular protean sketches, Miss Alice Ross and Ed. Murray the amusing Irish act entitled "Barney's Courtship," the wonderful Japanese Troupe of gymnasts perform a great variety of extraordinary feats, Miss Jennie Johnson, John Woodard, H. B. Archer, Matt Kelly, Tommy Bree and others appear in the local sketch of "After Dark," and a number of acts, songs and dances, the titles of which are given on our first page are performed. A new bill is in preparation for to-morrow night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The capital act of "Happy Uncle John" has been revived at this house with Geo. C. Thompson in the title role, and Miss Katie Zoe as Miss Sally. A great number of amusing acts, a good first part, and an olio of songs and dances, make up a first-rate entertainment.

Miss Dickey Lingard's Benefit.

This popular young actress will be the recipient of a benefit at Maguire's New Theatre, on Friday evening, when Mr. Lingard's new three act comedy, 'A Life's Dream," will be produced here for the first time. It has been played with great success at both the Olympic and Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatres, New York, and in the principal cities in the East. As this will be the only opportunity the public will have to see this comedy, its production alone will insure a crowded house' to say nothing of the additional attractions of the personal popularity of the fair young beneficiary, Mr. Lingard will also give his inimitable Sketches, on this occasion, for the last time.

Farewell Benefit of Miss Maggie Moore.

On Saturday evening next, that universal favorite, Miss Maggie Moore, will take her farewell benefit at the California Theatre, and will appear in several of her most admired performances. The bill will comprise the first act of "The Colleen Bawn," in which Miss Maggie Moore will appear as Eily O'Connor, and sing "Pretty Girl Milking Her Cow," and the "Cruiskeen Lawn," the farce of "The Fool of the Family," in which the beneficiary will sing Yankee songs. The Grasette Polka by Mlle Bonfanti, and the drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with Miss Maggie Moore in her famous character of Topsy.

Woodward's Gardens.

There will be the usual performance in the Pavilion on Saturday and Sunday, with some new features. Natator, the Man-Fish, has been re-engaged, and will appear in his wonderful feats, eating, drinking and smoking under water in a glass tank in sight of all. A new pantomime by the Bunlays and assistants, performances of the trained animals, etc.

Good Templar's Picnic.

The Good Templars picnic at Badger's Park, Oakland, has been postponed from May 6th to

Platt's Hall.

A very large and fashionable audience enjoyed the second performance of "The Magic Flute," at Platt's Hall, by Madame Fabbri, Miss Anna Eichorn, and the pupils of Prof. Maider-Fabbri's Conservatory of Music. The Opera was sung with more spirit than on the preceding evening, and the orchestra was more efficient. To-morrow evening Flotow's celebrated opera of "Stradella," will be performed for the first time in San Francisco, and Mr. George Voges, a California tenor, will make his debut before the public in the character of Alessandro Stradella; Madame Ines Fabbri will appear as Leonora, E. Scherer as Basso, and E. Rothwisch and B. Hirsch as Malvolia and Barbarino, respectively. The opera will be produced with a chorus of thirty voices. During the first act, in the masquerade scene, new and extraordinary costumes will be introduced. The box sheet is now open.

Benefit to John Connell.

This evening, John Connell, will be the recipient of a grand complimentary benefit, at Platt's Hall, tendered him by the San Francisco Minstrel Troupe, who have been acquiring reputation and money in the interior, and recently returned to this city. The performance will commence with a first-part, in which Johnny Mortell and Johnny Hutton, will appear on the ends, and M. Sheridan will act as interrogator. This will be followed by an interlude in which the Little Jewel, Mestayer and White, Willie and Frank Sheridan, Charlie Morrell, F. Christy, Johnny Williams, James Coyne, John Connell, Fred Monell, W. Stetson Alf. Williams, W. Sheridan, Cook and Hart, Morris Welch, W. G. Harley and Kidd Jr's. Band will appear, and the performance will terminate with the screaming farce of "Bad Whisky" by Charles Bailey, Johnny Mortell and W. Stetson. The full programme is published on our first page. The evening's fun will wind up with a ball.

Farewell Benefit to Signor Baccei.

Signor Baccei, the favorite tenor, will take a farewell benefit at Platt's Hall, on Friday evening, 22d inst, prior to his departure for London to fulfill an engagement there. A concert will be given on this occasion when Signor Marra, late baritone of the Nilsson Opera Troupe, will make his first appearance and other talent will appear. Signor Baccei has made such an extended stay in this city, and has rendered such valuable service during several opera seasons, that the musical world owe it to themselves to make this testimonial a substantial one.

The Aimee Opera Bouffe Season.

There was an immense rush for seats at the California Theatre this morning for Monday night, the opening of the Opera Bouffe season. The line extended to Kearny street. Many parties had representatives awaiting in the lobby of the theatre all night to get first places in the line in the morning. The stage boxes were sold for the season, and about three-quarters of the seats in the dress circle and orchestra were taken for Monday night. Many were secured for the season also.

City Gardens.

The colored people will celebrate the Festival month by holding a picnic and ball here on May 14th.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

STEMMER & ISRAEL, at No 111 Leidesdorff street, will open to-day one of the most elegant and well-appointed saloons to be found in the city. Both of these gentlemen are well known in the community, and their many friends will undoubtedly be present at their house-warming. Finest wines and liquors will always be kept on hand.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

THE DRIFTING BOAT.

It had floated away from the beach and bay,
Out of sight of tower and town,
An empty and a battered boat;
But that boat would not go down.
The morning rose on the waters wide,
And the night fell cold and dark,
Yet ever on with the wind and tide,
Drifted that battered bark.

The sail had passed from the broken mast,
And its painted pride was dim;
The salt seaweed clung around its bows,
Which had been so neat and trim.
Where were the merry mates and free,
Who had gone with it afloat?
We never learned; but the world's wide sea
Hath lives like that drifting boat—

Lives that in early storms have lost
Anchor, and sail, and oar,
And never, except on Lethe's shore,
Can come to moorings more.
Out of whose loveless, trustless days,
The hope and the heart have gone—
Good ships go down in the stormy seas,
But those empty boats drift on.

They had hearts to sail in wind's eye once,
They had hands to reef and steer,
With strength that would not stoop to chance,
And a faith that knew no fear;
But the years were long, the storms were strong
And the rainbow flag was furled,
And they that launched for the skies have grown
But the driftwood of the world.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 634 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Nelleon, the Vergonetsin, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket-book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

THE CLIFF HOUSE,—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Poyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Porter House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 235 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 327 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Miss Mary Watson, J. P. Adams, Eddie Fontenean and Wm. Everton, will give a theatrical entertainment at Turner Hall this afternoon and evening. Charles Kingsley Cazon, of Westminster Abbey, will lecture at the Metropolitan Theatre on Thursday evening next.

SAN JOSE.—The Deaves Combination, consisting of Miss Ada Deaves, and Miss Reilie Deaves, in songs, dances and sketches, and Mr. Deaves' exhibition of dioramic views appeared at the Opera House last night, and will perform again this evening. Charles Pope, Mlle. Bonfanti and a company from the California Theatre, will perform at the Opera House on the 18th, 19th and 20th. "Blphegor," "Much Ado About Nothing," and "Money" will be played on the respective evenings. Miss Ellie Wilton will support Mr. Pope as leading lady.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Miss Amy Stone, and her husband, are performing at Piper's Opera House. Victoria Woodhull is announced to lecture on Monday on "the Naked Truth, and Social and Political Revolution."

VENTURA.—Stephen Massett gave his entertainment at Henning's Hall, last week, to a good audience.

GRASS VALLEY.—The Choral Club will give their second concert at Hamilton Hall, this evening. Grantchouc, the hairless horse, has been on exhibition during the week.

NEVADA.—Grantchouc, the hairless horse, is being exhibited here.

DENVER.—G. B. Waldron and company are performing at the theatre. Le Belle Blanche and Johnny Nichols continue the stars at the Cricket.

EUGENE CITY, O.—Charles Vivian, Mme. Reiffarth and Mme. Mase gave entertainments on the 20th, 21st and 23d ult. A. P. Bailey is business manager of the company, and also appears in comedettas.

PLACERVILLE.—The last amusement the public of Placerville had was an entertainment given by the San Francisco Minstrels. The Mountain Democrat speaks very highly of the performance.

SONORA.—Charles Morrell's troupe of San Francisco Minstrels performed here recently to good houses.

If you are thirsty and want a cooling drink go into the nearest saloon and call for a tank,' and of "Star Ale or Porter" on draught, or for family use, ask your grocer to send you up a dozen bottles.

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Klunt, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Klunt has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 31 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 26 Third street. 5 A

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.

Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T,'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam s and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 634 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Neilson, the Vergonnesin, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the best publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

The Warm Spring Indians.

Among the band of Warm Spring Indians now in this city in charge of Donald McKay, the noted scout, is Cappolas, who captured Captain Jack, and Schayakan, Histoo and Weyatothan, the three noted braves who entered the cave and discovered the escape of Captain Jack. Weyatothan, whose wife is with him, was shot in the arm, and when told by the army surgeon that amputation was necessary to save his life, replied that he could die but would not lose his arm. Fortunately, both life and arm were saved. The whole band, numbering, all told, eighteen souls, visited Houseworth & Co's Photograph Gallery, No. 12 Montgomery street, for the purpose of having their photographs taken. They were first taken en groupe, and then Coppolas, the capturer of Captain Jack, was taken alone, and then photographs of two and three at a time until all were served as they served the Modocs—taken (no bloodshed). All of the photographs will be placed on exhibition as soon as finished at No. 9 Montgomery street (under the Lick House), and at No. 12 Montgomery street, directly opposite. Photographs of the whole band, or in groups of different sizes, can be obtained of Houseworth & Co., at 9 Montgomery street. 5 H

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Money" was performed at this theatre last night for the benefit of Charles Pope. The beneficiary appeared as Alfred Evelyn and read and acted the role in a manner which gained for him much applause from an appreciative audience. Mr. Pope will make his last appearance at the matinee to-day, when "Belphegor" will be performed for the last time, and Miles. Bonfanti and Gangain and corps de ballet will execute a ballet. To-night Miss Maggie Moore, a great a favorite, whose departure will be regretted by both the public and the profession, will take her farewell benefit and make her last appearance prior to starting on her starring tour with her husband, J. C. Williamson. A bill has been arranged which will enable the beneficiary to appear to excellent advantage. The performance will commence with the first act of "The Colleen Bawn," with Miss Maggie Moore in her charming impersonation of Eily O'Connor, supported by the full strength of the company cast. This will be followed by the screaming farce of the "Fool of the Family," in which Miss Maggie Moore will appear as Betty Saunders, with song, "Riding in a Railroad Keer," Mlle. Bonfanti will make her last appearance in the "Grisette Polka," and the entertainment will terminate with the favorite drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in which Miss Maggie Moore will appear in her great impersonation of Topsy, and J. C. Williamson will take the character of Uncle Tom. The demand for seats has been very great during the week, and it is certain that the California Theatre will be crowded to overflowing with friends of the young California actress, who is about to leave us with the good wishes of all who know her.

OPERA HOUSE.—At the matinee to-day, to-night and Sunday night, the great entertainment which has been presented during the week will be repeated. After an excellent first part, the Carlo Family, comprising some of the most talented gymnasts living, will appear in daring and graceful acts. Welch and Rice will appear in double song and dance, the wonderful Little Mac and Reed and Richards in "A Good Night's Rest," George S. Knight in selections from his large repertory of Dutch songs and recitations, and Billy Welch, Charles Reed, Billy Sweatnam and Miss Jennie Sherman in the comical farce entitled "A Quiet Life." On Monday evening, Bobby Newcomb, the celebrated Ethiopian Comedian and song and dance man will make his first appearance and an entire new bill will be given.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—The popularity of Miss Dickey Lingard was proved by the immense audience present at this theatre last night, on the occasion of her benefit. W. H. Lingard's comedy of "A Life's Dream," was performed for the first time in San Francisco. The plot is as follows: Lady Mabel Chandoos (Miss Alice Dunning), engaged to the Hon. Frederick Danby, during his absence in India marries Charles Page, a wealthy man of low extraction, who has a good-hearted, but very uncouth half-brother, Scarle. Page (W. H. Lingard). Danby returns from India on the day of the wedding. The first act concludes with the wedding ball. The second act and the first and second scene in the third act are, we are told, "supposed to be a dream." They represent what might have happened but didn't. Frederick Danby (in the dream), makes advances to Mrs. Page, and threatens to give her husband love-letters written by her four years before her marriage. In the end, one of these letters falls into the hands of Mr. Page, and Mrs. Page is driven from home. In the supposed dream Scarlet Page marries Grace du Plait (Miss Dickey Lingard), Mabel's cousin, and takes to drink. He is cured in an "incantation bedroom." There the supposed dream comes to an end. Frederick Danby goes back to India and leaves Mr and Mrs. Page to be happy together. Mr. Lingard as the country bumpkin, did some very amusing acting. Miss Alice Dunning acted and sang capitally in the part of Lady Mabel Chandoos, which she dressed magnificently, and Miss Dickey Lingard was particularly charming as Grace. A. D. Billings did some splendid old-man acting as John Sabyback, a rustic, aged ninety-two, and John Howson made up for, and acted the part of Battery Bill, an old sea captain, with much skill. The play caused a good deal of laughter and the beautiful dresses of Miss Alice Dunning and Miss Dickey Lingard, were generally admired. "A Life's Dream," will be played at the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening in conjunction with the Lingard Sketches. On Monday evening, Mr. J. K. Mortimore, will appear in his great character of Badger, in "The Streets of New York." Mr. Mortimer is the original Badger, and has great reputation in the part. He has played the character over five hundred times in New York city alone.

PLATT'S HALL.—The postponed performance of Flotow's opera of "Stradella" will take place to-morrow night, when the California tenor George Voges, will make his debut as Alessandro Stradella. Madame Inez Fabbri will appear as Leonora, E. Scheer as Bassi, and E. Rothwisch, and S. Hirsch as Malvolio and Barbarino respectively. The opera will be produced under the direction of Prof. Mulder-Fabbri. In the masquerade scene in the first act, a number of new and attractive costumes will be introduced. This opera has never before been performed in this city, and will doubtless attract a large audience.

SIGNOR BACCHI'S FAREWELL BENEFIT.—Signor Bacchi, the favorite tenor, will take a farewell benefit at Platt's Hall, on Friday evening, 22d inst, prior to his departure for London to fulfil an engagement there. A concert will be given on this occasion when Signor Marra, late bar tone of the Nilsson Opera Troupe, will make his first appearance and other talent will appear. Signor Bacchi has made such an extended stay in this city, and has rendered such valuable service during several opera seasons, that the musical world owe it to themselves to make this testimonial a substantial one. In addition to the new baritone, Mme Inez Fabbri, Miss Anna Bishop, Miss Marian Singer, Prof. J. B. Hirler, Prof. Mulder Fabbri, and Signor L. Contini will appear in an excellent programme which is published on our first page. The box sheet will be opened at Gray's music store on Monday.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30. P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Front Street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the S. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion offers.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—At the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening, all the star attractions engaged at this place of amusement, will appear in a great programme. Leon and Laiscelles, R. H. Dockrill in his great North American Indian act, Fred O'Brien, Johnny Cooke, the peerless Mme. Dockrill, Young Ducrow, the comical Kensels and the great sensation of the day, the Warm Spring Indians, under their leader, Donald McKay, will afford an entertainment which Barnum himself would find hard to beat.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The new bill presented at this house, last night, proved very popular. It will be repeated to-night. It comprises the great performance of the Japanese Troupe, the laughable sketches of the "The Artist's Studio" and "City Life," the comic acts entitled "Photographs," "The Artful Dodger" and "Brown's Chickens," H. R. Archer's beautiful ballads, Miss Maggie Kelly's comic songs, Ed. Murray's Budget of Fun, Miss Alice Ross, Irish comedy and many other attractions. Same bill for Sunday evening.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—"Who Laughs Now!" by Mortimore, Devoy and Morton, song and dance by Johnny Price, specialties by Geo. C. Thompson, who will also appear in "Happy Uncle John," sketches by Mortimore and a great variety of performances will be presented at this house to-night and to-morrow night.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—There will be the usual attractive performance in the Pavilion to-day and to-morrow, with some new features. Natater, the Man-Fish, has been re-engaged, and will appear in his wonderful feats, eating, drinking and smoking under water in a glass tank in sight of all. A new pantomime by the Baislays and assistants, performances of the trained animals, etc.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

NOTES.—The Alta of this morning has the following dispatch:

NEW YORK, May 15th.—John McCullough appeared last night as Richelieu. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather a large audience came to witness it. The Herald says Mr. McCullough's conception of the part is marked throughout by a strength that is well in keeping with our notions of the great Cardinal. His declamation is finished and he improves every opportunity for oratorical display. The impersonation gives evidence of careful study and presents the most satisfactory picture of the great French ruler. The forcible interpretation of the role had a favorable effect on a large and intelligent audience, who gave repeated evidences of their satisfaction. Mr. McCullough, after every act, was called before the curtain.

The Aimee Opera Bouffe Troupe arrived last night, and will open at the California Theatre on Monday evening next. Besides the charming and and piquant Mlle. Aimee, the troupe embraces the following artists: Mlle. Rosine Stani, Mlle. Marie Boland (first appearance), Mlles. Cantrelle, Briot, Vandame, Gersay, Deschamps, Ferrant, Juteau, etc., Mons. Emile Juteau, tenor (first appearance) Mons. Duchesne, Mons. Lecuyer (first appearance) Mons. Duplan (first appearance), Messrs. Benedick, Bragg, Salvator, Ruffino, Perrault, Davalis and Victor. They will appear in the great success of the day, "La Fille de Madame Angot," which has had a tremendous run wherever it has been produced. Besides the operas which are such favorites with the San Francisco public, the Aimee repertoire comprises several which have never been produced here.

The complimentary benefit tendered to Johnny Herman, at Platt's Hall, takes place Wednesday evening, May 20th. The programme is well arranged Miss Annie Higgs, the little favorite, will appear in her specialties, Johnny Herman, the beneficiary, in his Dutch characters. Morris Welch in clog dance, Charles Morrell, George Foster and others will aid to make up a good bill. The whole will conclude with a grand ball.

Mark Twain warns G. B. Densmore, that in dramatizing "The Gilded Age," he has infringed a dramatic copyright held by him. Densmore has probably written a better play than Mark could, and the latter should come to an amicable arrangement with him.

The New York Graphic publishes a full page picture which purports to be a "likeness" of John McCullough. It does not bear the slightest resemblance to the popular tragedian.

The first picnic and festival of the S. F. Teachers Mutual Aid Society, will be held at Woodward's Gardens on June 1st, when a most pleasant time may be expected. The objects of the Society are of the usual benevolent and protective order, and the proceeds will go towards furnishing the nucleus of a fund.

On Monday evening of next week, J. K. Mortimer will appear at Maguire's New Theatre, in his great original character of Badger, in "The Streets of New York,"

Bobby Newcomb, the great song and dance man and Ethiopian Comedian, will make his first appearance in San Francisco at the Opera House on Monday night.

The Committee of the Louisiana Relief Fund have accepted John Wilson's generous offer of the gross receipts of one performance at the Palace Amphitheatre during the coming week.

Rev. Chas. Kingsley, the Canon of Westminster Abbey, will arrive next week, and about the close of the month will give a series of lectures under the management of the Pacific Lyceum Bureau, at Platt's Hall.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Emma Webb, who is now residing in Brooklyn, has written a play called "Margaret." It was recently performed before the Philothea Society, by Miss Webb, and others. Jacob Kaster, the old wardrobe man, long connected with the Chestnut Theatre, under Burton, and recently wardrobe man of the Grand Opera House, New York, is dead. He was 74 years of age.

A divorce was decreed on May 2d, by the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia between Lizzie Winkle, nee Lizzie Price, the well-known actress, and Willie H. Winkle of New York.

The New York Clipper says: C. W. Couldock appeared at the Brooklyn Theatre, during the week ending May 2d, to rather poor business. It was brains vs. legs between the two houses, and Couldock's fine acting had to succumb to the greater influence of the show of legs by Lydia's company.

Eliza Weathersby, now one of the features of "Led Astray," at the Union Square, will begin a stellar engagement of two months at the Boston Museum, July 6, in a new grand spectacle.

John E. Owens and wife and Mrr W. M. Connor (formerly Ada Webb) and child, have arrived in New York from New Orleans.

Lydia Thompson will return to England on the 23d. Alexander Henderson, her husband, arrived in New York recently.

The New York Mercury says: With reference to the report that a woman connected with a recent divorce case in this city had sold her side of the story to be made into a play. It is said that should such a thing be attempted, the full testimony of the case, which was magnanimously suppressed by the husband, will be published, that the true state of the affair may be known.

This is too bad. We suppose under these circumstances a "society play" will be lost to the public.

The Opera House at Galveston, closed April 25, after an indifferent season, owing to the financial crisis, the fever, the quarantine, and the neglect of several stars in not keeping dates. The season was, however, continued to the date intended. Manager Greenwall was to leave for New York about May 15th, to engage next season's company.

Miss Adelaide Neilson, (Mrs. Lee) is announced to sail for Europe 16th. She is, however, engaged at the Walnut, Philadelphia, 25th.

The act authorizing the executors of the will of the late Edwin Forrest to agree with Catharine N. Forrest in regard to her dowry, has passed the New York Assembly.

E. A. Sothern, McVicker's, Chicago, June 1st, three weeks.

An emotional play for a single actress, by the author of "Davy Crockett," written expressly for Miss Emma Howson, is advertised for sale.

H. Harrison, late treasurer of the Globe, Chicago, which was burned 27th, was arrested at that date, on a charge of having set fire to the building, but proved his innocence, and was entirely exonerated. The Globe was insured for $8,000, and is asserted by the owner to have been worth $18,000.

The Washington Chronicle says of Mrs. J. B. Booth, (Agnes Perry of the late Maguire's Opera House,) who has been playing at Ford's Opera House: "Yesterday Mrs. Booth was a stranger here, and to-day she stands high in the estimation of our people. She is a fine actress, possessing all the attributes necessary to the character. She is a fine figure, deep, expressive eyes, and a queenly presence. She has a rich and correct taste in dress. Her intelligence is keen, supple, and refined by the best culture. Her voice is of pure quality; her elocution is accurate, and her tone and style natural, impassioned, and unaffected. It is a matter of surprise that she did not earlier assume the metropolitan position which of right belongs to her. She is sure of a brilliant future.

The N. Y. Dispatch says: A talented and popular New York comedian had recently a new play offered him by a modest young author, who held out as an inducement of its acceptance that the character intended for him was of the Bob Acres' style, but much better drawn, and more cleverly written. Dramatic authors have no gall.

Baker and Farron commence an engagement at Wood's Museum on June 1st.

Johnny Thompson was last heard of at Columbus. We thought he was dead.

Mr. Edwin Booth opened in Baltimore on May 11th.

The daily expenses of Barnum's Hippodrome are over $5,000.

The New Holiday Street Theatre, Baltimore, is to be completed by July 1st, and the season will commence there early in August.

The New York Metropolitan Theatre Company will commence a season of four weeks at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, on May 18th.

The New York Dispatch says: Mr. Nelson Decker, of Booth's Theatre, a singularly refined and talented young actor, will shortly leave for San Francisco. The city of the Golden State is drawing heavy on New York dramatic talent this year.

Miss Carlotta LeClercq is to open the Summer season at Wallack's Theatre, on June 1st, with Mr. Bartley Campbell's "Fate."

Lewis Morrison and Miss Rose Wood commence their starring tour in Cleveland, on the 18th, in Celia Logan's bad play of "Rose."

The New York Post of April 18th, in a notice of "The Hunchback" at Booth's said:

The Helen of Miss Pateman was positively bewitching, and her scenes with Modus (Mr. Pateman) were the hits of the evening.

The same paper chronicles the departure of these artists for England on the Egypt. It says: Mr. and Mrs. Pateman received many attentions from friends, both floral and otherwise. They visit England to place their nephew—Luke Fosterwell known for his fine child impersonations of Richard III. and Enoch Arden—at school. After a short vacation in England they return to this country to begin a long engagement at McCullough's California Theatre in San Francisco, on the 29th of June.

Geo. D. Chaplin is at De Bar's Grand Opera House, St. Louis, and is very popular.

Miss Minnie Loder, was at the Front Street Theatre, Baltimore, on the 4th. She is on her way back to San Francisco.

Little Nell, the California Diamond, was in Richmond on the 4th.

Jacob Berry, proprietor of the Thirty-fourth street Theatre, gave bail recently in $1,000 to answer in a suit for damages instituted by Sarah A. Cluney, the mother of Sylvester, the trapeze performer, who was killed in Mr. Berry's theatre.

In Philadelphia, "Charity," with Mr. Walcot in the leading role, was played for the last time at Wood's Museum, on the 9th. At the Walnut street theatre, Miss Ada Gray opened on the 11th, in "Follino." "Led Astray" with Mrs. Conway as the heroine was a failure at the Arch-street theatre. Cool Burgess and King Larbre, were the stars at the New American Theatre. Harry Josephs was to have a benefit at the Museum. "London Assurance" was to be played with Charles E. Thorne and Miss Eliza Weathersby in the cast. The All-Day City Item contains a very full account of theatrical doings in Philadelphia and criticises fairly and independently.

Max Strakosch paid Nilsson $330,000 during the American engagements, in addition to having expended between $30,000 and $40,000 in contingent expenses on her account. During the past season she received $37,500 for her services, but declined to sing for his benefit on the 5th.

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 235 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 237 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

Another Bogus Butter Concern Busted

The New York Mail, of the 30th, ult, says: One of the new-fashioned soap-fat butter factories has come to grief. Yesterday Judge Donohue, of the Supreme Court, granted a motion for the appointment of a receiver for the Oleomargarine Manufacturing Company. As the weather grows warmer, there will be more of this going down hill. Those sanguine anglers for fortune in this sensational speculation will now have an opportunity to flop over into the cremation absurdity.

A Cruel Imputation.

Just because we advised the Chronicle publishers to "Go West—off Meigg's wharf," a correspondent insinuates that we intended that they should drown themselves. While our advice may be open to that construction we protest that we hadn't the slightest idea that either of these ornaments of the profession of journalism will follow it. Even if they did, they wouldn't run any risk of drowning. We don't like to be misunderstood when we make a genial remark about anyone.

Unfair.

Dave Long, who used to be a clown, but has for many years been engaged in the ice business, is charged with insanity, and the papers speak of him as a circus clown. Circus clowns don't get crazy. Many of them are wildly idiotic. It was the chill of the ice business that affected poor Dave's brain. He used to be always taking something to thaw him, and the continual freezing and thawing of his brain has softened it somewhat.

A Lively Corpse.

The New York Mercury says:

Patrick S. Quinn, private detective of the Brooklyn Park Theatre, fell dead, of heart disease, in the theatre building, April 28, and seekers of pleasure, as they ascended to the auditorium, were greeted by his corpse.

We hope the pleasure seekers were not too much in a hurry to return the greeting of the corpse.

Perfectly True.

"The day is not far distant," says a Raleigh paper, when the world will begin to look on death as a journey to another country." The Louisville Courier-Journal assents to this, and naively adds that the journey will be one on which we can go as deadheads.

More than this, after death one can travel as a deadhead, and can deadhead into theatres without being asked for a ticket at the door.

A Sweet Morsel.

The Call critic after much search at length succeeded in finding one adverse criticism of John McCullough's Spartacus, and gleefully reproduced it in Monday's issue. He does not of course do this from any unkind motive, he is only afraid of Mr. McCullough's becoming "intoxicated" with praise.

Next to paintings rank photo-crayons as works of art—with many, indeed, photo-crayon portraits are preferred to paintings, although the latter may have emanated from the brush of a noted artist—still, it is hardly possible to obtain as lifelike portraits with the brush alone as can be obtained in photo-crayons. A. Provo Kinit, 28 Third street, has made crayon portraits a specialty, and he has secured an artist whose work will compare favorably with that of any one. Mr. Kinit has a beautiful crayon now on exhibition, at J. B. Golly's, 51 Kearny street. The portrait is the most natural and lifelike work we have ever seen. It shows the work of a careful and untiring, as well as artistic hand, and it is almost a marvel how a work of such excellence can be furnished for the low figure that Mr. K. asks. Other specimens of crayons, as well as every kind and size of photographs, can be seen at the Florence Art Gallery, 28 Third street. 5 A

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Play-making in Paris.

Olive Logan, in her last letter from Paris to the New York Spirit of the Times tells how plays are made: To give a MS. play into a prompter's hands and trust to the old theatrical fallacy of everything being "all right at night," is a form of insanity whose damning effects I have never fully realized till I came here this time and studied thoroughly the intricate machinery with which these French turn out the greatest plays in the world. A French author is master of all he surveys on the stage when his piece is in rehearsal. Dumas, Sardou, D'Ennery, in fact all of these successful authors, direct every rehearsal from the first to last. They cut, change, write in, alter, indeed, the piece at the first and at the last is often like the jack-knife we are all acquainted with, which got first a new blade and then a new handle. D'Ennery was at the Porte St. Martin every morning at eight o'clock during the rehearsals of the Deux Orphelines; rehearsals were going on for three months before the piece was produced: and after the great success of the first night the artists still had to go on rehearsing daily for a week or more, to arrange cuts and alterations. One part was entirely rewritten, after the piece had been played and was running. This was the valet, who proved an insufferable nuisance the first night. It was the fault of the actor, I am sure; but still, as it was proved that he couldn't fit the part, the part had to be made to fit him. After the Odeon was closed for rehearsals (another thing never heard of in our country, but invariably done here) Dumas withdrew his Jeunesse de Louis XIV., took it home, and rewrote the last act entirely, the artists had to study it afresh, and meantime the Odeon reopened its doors and resumed playing its old pieces until Dumas was ready. A piece I wrote you about week before last, an operette at the Bouffes, called Les Parisiennes, whose first night was the most ignominious failure not only that I ever saw, but that I ever dreamed of—the effort to announce the names of whose authors being received with such hisses, yells, umbrella-bangings, and savage expostulation in every shape, that it reminded me of an excited political meeting at home in war times—has now become by virtue of cuts, changes, and strenuous and dignified endeavors on the part of the artists, a success, and the house is filled nightly by pleased and applauding audiences.

He Didn't Desire Knowledge.

Farmer (concealing a whip)—Come here, Charlie, I want to tell you something. Charles—Tell it to somebody else. My pa says there are some things that little boys ought not to know.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Colville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1860, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Circus Talk.

"Ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Madigan, the thriced famed virchchewoee of Her Majesty's Royl Sirk will now attempt the difficult ak of leaping many feet into the surrounding atmisphear from yonder spring board and turning two complete revertiuns in the air previous to reaching the solid earth. This gergantic feet, ladies and gentlemen, becomes, in the hands of an artist like Mr. Madigan, one of the most beouterful and fassenating moral aks ever vouchsafed by human indurents to the gratification of an admiring worrld. Observe if you please that in accomplishing this ak Mr. Madigan involves his entire body twice in the upper air before eclighting; twice, ladies and gentlemen; n'more, n'less. This way, Mr. Modigan!"

A Kind Remonstrance.

Hosea Jones says in the Norwich, Conn., Advertiser:

It will be of no object for the person to keep the thermometer he feloniously took from our front door. The sale thereof is not adapted to the climate whither he is hastening and where the altitude of heat is beyond thermometrical reckoning. Steal from us if you must, misguided friend, but take a fan or a duster or a refrigerator, anything that will be of practical service to you in that locality where the watermelon breedeth not, and the cucumber is a greenness of the gone by time.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

To-night in addition to other attractions specified on our first page, Bobby Newcomb, the famous song and dance man and excellent Ethiopian comedian, will make his first appearance at this house. Manager Maguire when he goes East in search of talent, engages the best without regard to its cost. In securing Bobby Newcomb for California, he interfered considerably with the plans of managers of the Eastern variety theatres, and if Bobby Newcomb likes San Francisco as well as we imagine the public will like him it will be a long time before he returns to the East. A crowded house will greet him to-night and accord him a true Californian welcome.

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night, after a pleasant season of comedies and society plays we are to have something different. J. K. Mortimer will make an appearance in his original character of Badger in "The Streets of New York" which he played over three hundred nights in the principal theatres of New York. He will be supported by A. D. Billings, J. W. Norris, John Howson, Miss Josie Batchelder, Miss Mary Wells, Miss Fanny Young, and others whose names appear on our first page. Little Mac will play the part of the bootblack.

California Theatre.

To-night a season of French Opera Bouffe will be inaugurated by the Aimee Troupe and "La Fille de Madame Angot," the most popular opera of the day, will be presented for the first time in San Francisco. The ever charming Aimee will appear as Clairette Angot, Mons Emile Jatean will play the role of her lover, Ange Piton, the old favorite and inimitable buffo, Mons Duchesne, will appear as Larivandiere, and Mlle. Rosine Stani, Mlle. Cintrelle, Mons. Deschamps and Mons. Louchard, all new in this city, will play the characters set opposite their names in the programme on our first page. The demand for seats has been very large, and the probability is that the house will be taken long before the hour set for the commencement of the performance. In the first act Mlle. Roland will make her appearance with M. Leouyer, and all the chorus in "La Frica-see," a national dance of 1792.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The Warm Spring Indians and Donald McKay have created a perfect furore, and the Palace Amphitheatre is crowded nightly. The Dockrills, the Kenebels and all the stars appear nightly presenting an entertainment which cannot be equalled in the United States. The reduced prices of admission permit all to attend.

Bella Union Theatre.

The very attractive play of "The Actor's Studio" in which all the ladies appear, H. R. Archer in choice selections, Ed. Murray in his Budget of Fun, the Japanese in their thrilling feats, Miss Alice Ross in "Terence's Return," and a great number of others in brilliant specialties make up a very popular entertainment.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Old Black Joe" by Geo. C. Thompson, sketches by Mortimore, comic songs by Miss Fanny Webster, and a variety of other entertainments will be presented this evening.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Fechter Coming to San Francisco.

We announce with great pleasure that Manager Maguire has effected an engagement with Charles Fechter, the great tragedian—the embodiment of the Genius of the Stage of the present day. The Fechter season will commence at Maguire's New Theatre, on Monday, June 1st, and will be for four weeks only. Mr. Fechter will bring a leading lady to support him, and the company will be judiciously strengthened in the meantime with an eye to Mr. Fechter's business. It is hardly necessary to say that the engagement will be a very expensive one on the part of Manager Maguire and one that will add much to his reputation as a daring and enterprising manager; though we do not look upon it as a really risky one, for we believe Charles Fechter to be the best dramatic star on the stage to-day, and have no fears of his lack of success in this city. Mr. Charles Fechter will create a furore in San Francisco, and his engagement will be a triumphant success.

Notes.

An immense audience was present at the farewell benefit of Miss Maggie Moore, at the California Theatre, on Saturday night, and many were unable to obtain admission. An excellent programme was performed, and the beneficiary was called before the curtain several times. In response to loud calls for a speech, she thanked the audience for their kindly encouragement of her efforts and promised to do her best always to deserve their good opinion whatever part of the world she was in.

Manager Maguire has offered the use of both his houses—Opera House and New Theatre—for matinee performances for the Louisana Relief Fund, on Wednesday, the 27th inst.

Little Mac will be drum major to-morrow at the Plumbers, and Gas Fitters parade, and picnic.

Signor Carmini Morley, the popular tenor and excellent teacher, is to have a benefit shortly when he will introduce one of his pupils in opera.

Miss Sallie Hinckley returned from Eureka, last week.

The Chronicle critic says:

"The Aimee Troupe opens their campaign to-night."

Yes, and they sings and they acts and they dances, as they does.

The Chronicle of Saturday noticing the Sacred Heart College Bazar says: "The orchestral, vocal and instrumental concert last evening, was the great feature of the entertainment. It was well rendered and the large audience was delighted." It then gives the programme which it says "was carried out." As the concert does not take place till this evening, the Chronicle can boast of being ahead of all its contemporaries. The Post of Saturday, in place of its usual column of misunderstood nonsense about theatricals in San Francisco, as compared with Paris and London, had some dramatic news. This is a change for the better.

On Friday evening, Miss Alice Dunning will take her farewell benefit at Maguire's New Theatre, and will appear in Dumas' play of "Diane, or the Prey of the Gods," which will be presented for the first time in this city.

A matinee performance will be given at the Bal-orality of John Wilson, for the benefit of the Louisiana Relief Fund. The gross receipts will be given to the Fund.

Platt's Hall.

The performance of "Stradella" at this hall last night delighted the audience present, and they appeared more than satisfied with George Voges, the California tenor, who made his debut on this occasion. Mr. Voges certainly acquitted himself very well indeed for a novice. He has a fine powerful voice, (San Francisco dotes on a tenor robusto,) and he carried himself on the stage with ease and self-possession. He occasionally sang out of tune, but recovered himself in a remarkably cool manner. Madame Fabbri sang delightfully, and Messrs. Rothwisch and Hirsch did some capital acting as the two brigands. The opera is a very pleasing one and would bear repetition.

Absurdly Cheap.

The New York World, speaking of cremation, gives the following instance of the neatness of the thing: "In the Vienna Exposition this matter was practically exemplified. On one of the mysterious shelves was a bottle marked No. 19, containing three and three-quarter pounds of fertilizing material, the gross result of an Italian gentleman, who had evidently never been in such reduced circumstances before. The entire cost of putting him into a glass case was just two shillings and fourpence, English money. This of itself is an item of sufficient importance to carry conviction to any sane man. It only takes three hours and about half a cord of wood to put a millionaire into a very small glass bottle. The only difficulty to be apprehended is this inevitable increase of family jars. However, after death, it will be always possible to put a stopper in, which, during life, is sometimes difficult."

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Hair-cutter (who has been eating onions)—"S'moil on your hair, sir?" (blowing fiercely down customer's neck).

Customer—"Phew! what's that?"

Hair-cutter—S'moil, sir."

Customer—"Then I won't have any."

Vasquez's Photograph on Exhibition.

Mr. A. Provo Kluit, proprietor of the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has now on exhibition at Hyde & Sherman's music store, corner Kearny and Sutter streets, the photograph of the famous Vasquez. Copies in all sizes for sale at the Gallery.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 634 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Neilson, the Vergonstein, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket-book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

THE JILTED.

There lives in this city a lady
Whose face is as sweet and as pretty
As ever a poet belauded
In madrigal, sonnet or ditty;
Her hair is as soft as a baby's,
Her breath is like otto of roses,
And a glance of her eye sends a tremor
From the crown of one's head to his toes.

The charm of this lady exceedeth
The charms of the loveliest goddess;
Her figure is that of a Juno
Improved by the stays of a boddice;
Her foot and her ankle are perfect—
Eye never yet rested on neater;
With the grace of a Queen of the Fairies,
In dancing the "dip" she could beat her.

The mind of the learned Minerva,
The face of the blushing Aurora,
The soul of unsullied Diana—
Great Jove! is it strange I adore her?
Adore her? Adore her! I worship
And yearn with unspeakable yearning.
Ah me! I am growing distracted,
Because of no passion's returning.

She knows I am loving and longing,
She knows I am moaning and sighing—
In a word, to express it exactly,
She knows I am fainting and dying.
But yet it don's seem to disturb her;
My anguish amuses her rather.
Well, well, if she does marry,
What a treasure some fellow will gather!

The Great Showman.

Barnum was in his New York Hippodrome at the performance on the evening of April 30th, and during the entertainment was driven round the arena. The reception which was accorded to the veteran showman was tremendous, and the entire audience rose to their feet in their enthusiasm. Such a welcome has never been accorded, says a local paper, to any private individual, but Mr. Barnum well deserves the honor accorded so him.

A Practical Parson.

The minister of a rural parish, having, in a season of protracted drought neglected to pray for rain, was waited upon by a deputation to remonstrate with him on the omission. "Weel, a weel," he replied, after hearing what they had to say; "I'll pray for it to please ye; but the feit a drap ye'll get till the change o' the moon!"

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 335 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 337 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city. the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

TUESDAY.....MAY 19, 1874

News.

The Bulletin of Monday has the following:

Tennie C. Claflin and mother have arrived at Virginia City.

Tennie C. Claflin and mother were in Virginia City the greater portion of last week and Mrs. Woodhull lectured there on Monday.

Good Boy!

Fred Lyster's name appeared in the passenger list yesterday as coming from New York. It was set down "Fred Lyster, San Francisco," not Fred Lyster, New York. No one who has ever made San Francisco his abiding place, ever wishes to claim any other city as his home. We are glad Fred is at "home" again.

A Good Ticket.

The New York Dispatch says:

The Chicago Journal wants to know how this would do for a ticket: "For President, John A. Dix, of New York; for Vice President, Newton Booth, of California." It's a ticket no man in the land would be ashamed to vote for. But it's a little ahead of time, and we want Dix for Governor in this State two years longer.

Very well, then say for President, Newton Booth.

Just So.

The Chronicle is much exercised on account of the bill compelling the publication of partnerships. It says:

It is of the nature of an inquisition into the private business of mercantile firms, which will in very many cases of special and silent partnerships work serious damage.

It is a pity to pry into "special and silent partnerships." The Chronicle people don't like this, and we don't wonder at it.

Victoria C. Woodhull.

Here is what an exchange says of Victoria C. Woodhull:

"Say what you please of the subject of this article, she is a woman of power, and cannot be ignored. She 'will not down' and the common sense method would be to meet her squarely, full in the face. All efforts to suppress her have proved abortive, and have only tended to increase her notoriety. She is an ocean bay alive with the stir of whales, and whoever attempts her capture is sure to get splashed."

Missing.

Says a late Victoria paper: G. W. Jester, the clever ventriloquist, who is popularly known as "the man with the talking hand," is missing from his hotel. It is feared that he has fallen into the harbor from one of the wharves.

An Appropriate Text.

London is laughing very heartily over Dean Stanley's text when he preached to the newly-married Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh. It was, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 638 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Neilson, the Vergonnetin, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their fine stock in every department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket-book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for this purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-y

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Music Hath Charms.

Pianos tuned and repaired, at moderate prices and satisfaction guaranteed, by one that understands the business. Also, will perform on Piano at Evening Parties, etc. Orders left at 754 Market or 54 Third street, will receive prompt attention by G. W. Morgan. 4-v*

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry, 121 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento.

New York Theatricals.

In New York, at Booth's Theatre, John McCullough appeared in Spartacus in "The Gladiator," for the last time on Monday night. The New York Spirit of the Times says:

The Spartacus of Mr. McCullough and the Spartacus of Mr. Forrest are totally unlike—as much unlike as David and Goliah. Mr. Forrest made his rough, rugged, and wild, a barbarian in every sense of the word. Mr. McCullough's conception is more human and less barbarous. It is rather a Coeur de Lion than the savage of Thrace. He is gentle where Forrest was rude. He represses passion where Forrest unbridled it. Forrest roused his audience into enthusiasm by the violence of his passion. McCullough wins his applause by appealing to their hearts. Had Forrest never shown us his Spartacus, McCullough's would have been the standard. It is in every respect a performance of great merit. It exhibits a high order of dramatic intelligence and a keen appreciation of every stirring line of the text. His elocution is good, his bearing dignified and impressive, and his action spirited. If his conception differs from Forrest's it is the truest to nature.

Mr. McCullough is announced to appear this week in "Hamlet," "Damon and Pythias," and "Jack Cade," but this programme may be departed from. "King John" is talked of as likely to be produced.....

"Led Astray" has at length been taken on at Union Square Theatre, and Miss Clara Morris has made her appearance in "Camille," with Charles R. Thorne, Jr., as Armand....At Fifth Avenue Theatre "M. Alphonse" still continues the attraction....At Wallack's the attraction was Robertson's "School."....."Humpty Dumpty" reigned at Fox's Broadway Theatre....The New York Spirit of the Times says: Mr. A. T. Stewart has at last found a tenant for Niblo's in the person of Charles R. Thorne, Sr., a gentleman who has had great experience in theatrical affairs. Mr. Thorne has taken a three years' lease of the premises at an annual rental of $35 000. The season will be opened about the 25th inst. The play to be presented is the new version of "The Lady of the Lake," a dramatization of Scott's poem, that proved so successful at the Drury Lane Theatre, London, last season. The company has not been entirely completed, but we are able to announce that Mr. E. Eddy, who will act as stage manager, will assume the role of Roderic Dhu; and Mr. Edwin Thorne, who has been playing for some time past at the Providence (R. I.) Opera House, will be the Fitz James. The house will be entirely renovated and newly furnished by Mr. Stewart, and a cast of strength and talent is promised....At the Lyceum Theatre, Miss Jane Coombs is playing in "The School for Scandal." We notice that Owen Marlowe plays Sir Benjamin Backbite, and Eben Plympton performs the part of Carless.....At the Bowery Theatre J. A. Lord is playing an engagement in Nick Whiffles....At the Metropolitan, Sam Rickey, Miss Jennie Hughes, and others appear....The Park Theatre, it is said, will be reopened by the San Francisco Minstrels....The Grand Opera House is closed....At Steinway Hall, Miss Neilson has been giving Shaksperian readings....At the Olympic, the Worrell Sisters are the stars....Bob Hart is one of the attractions at Bryant's Opera House....At Tony Pastor's, J. H. Budworth and Johnny Allen are the Stars....At Wood's Museum, Miss Manetta Ravel is playing in "Jartine"....At the Theatre Comique, Cool Burgess, Harrigan and Hart Miss Jennie Yeamans and a good variety company appear nightly....Barnum's Hippodrome is crowded nightly. It holds 12,000 people.....The Spirit of the Times says: Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer inaugurate their season at Booth's Theatre on the 10th of next August. Mr. Bouncicault has written a new American drama especially for the occasion which has not, however, been named as yet. The leading role, which is one of heroic interest, will be sustained by Mr. John McCullough, who is at present playing so successfully at that theatre. Mr. McCullough will be the last star at Booth's this season and the first next.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Munchausen Story.

The man who believes the following story isn't an inhabitant of New York. The confidential character who expects faith to be put in it writes for the Boston Traveler: "A gentleman taking a conveyance from the Revere House, last evening, tendered a bill to the driver. 'Have you no change said the John, 'for I haven't a cent of change with me.' All the gentleman could muster was about one-half of the fare he intended to give. 'Well, it's my fault, sir, for not having change, and it's all right with what you have,' and the driver pocketed half his fare, with pleasant words, refusing to call at the gentleman's office at another time for the remainder of his due."

Alas!

The female crusade has afforded T. S. Arthur an opportunity. He has written a novel on it. It will have two readers, anyhow: himself and the proof-reader. The proof-reader has our sympathy. We know how he feels. He would like to take Arthur out into the middle of the ocean and drown him, if such a wooden head could be drowned.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

ONE of the neatest and pleasantest Billiard Parlors in this city is at the northeast corner of Bush and Kearny streets, entrance on Bush. The best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars are to be found at the bar. Chapman & Terrill, proprietors. 5-o

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Streets of New York," with J. K. Mortimore in his original character of Badger, drew a good house last night, and should draw an equally good one to-night, for it was capitally acted. Mr. Mortimer was undoubtedly the original Badger, and the admirable Badger of Frank Mayo can only be considered a copy. It is good copy, and in some respects even better than the original. For instance, we prefer Mr. Mayo's gleeful and exultant manner of exclaiming: "How are you Girl?" to the more emphatic mode adopted by Mr. Mortimer. The Badger presented last night on the stage of Maguire's New Theatre, was an undeniably clever performance, and that it was endorsed by a California audience, is no slight compliment to its impersonator. Miss Josie Batchelder as the cold hearted Alida, presented a thorough realization of the character. Miss Louisa Vavasour was pleasing as Lucy. A. D. Billings gave one of his admirable elderly gentlemen impersonations in Gideon Bloodgood, and John Howson as Dan astonished the public once more by his admirable make-up and success in entirely sinking his individuality. Little Mac as the bootblack, gained much applause, and J. W. Norris, John Hurst, Miss Fanny Young, and Miss Mary Wells were, as a matter of course, all that could be desired in their respective characters. "The Streets of New York" will be repeated to-night.

California Theatre.

This theatre was thronged to suffocation last night when the famous Aimee Troupe made their appearance, and the opera of "La Fille de Madame Angot" was presented for the first time in San Francisco. The story of the opera is as follows: Clairette is the daughter of Madame Angot, she was born at Constantinople under disadvantages. She made her appearance too many months after the death of her father to have any claim to legitimacy. Nevertheless she exists. Her mother dies, and she becomes the protege of the market women of Paris. They wish to marry her to Pomponnet a barber. She likes him, but prefers Ange Pitou, a writer of popular ballads who has written a libelous song, accusing Larivaudiere, a government official, of too great intimacy with Mlle. Lange, the mistress of Barras, an higher officer of high rank. The allegation is true, but is none the less libelous. Clairette about to be married against her will, sings this song for the purpose of getting herself arrested. She succeeds. Mlle. Lange not content with Barras and Larivaudiere, is in love with Ange Pitou. She is also a politician and is mixed up in a royalist conspiracy. While the conspirators are at her house, soldiers arrive to arrest them, but the political meeting resolves itself into a ball and the guests are not molested. Ange Pitou is captivated by the charms of Mlle. Lange, and in the end, Clairette, who has got out of prison, makes the actress a present of her false lover, and accepts the hand and heart of the devoted Pomponnet. The market women applaud her, and declare that she has in this as in everything else, acted like the daughter of her mother. Mlle. Aimee's new troupe is infinitely superior to that which she brought here some years ago. While we still have the old favorite, M. Duchesne (the original Baron Boum in "La Grand Duchess") we are favored with a number of new faces, clever actors and charming singers. Aimee herself is more charming than ever; her acting and singing in the role of Clairette can scarcely be surpassed. Mons. Emile Jutsan last night acted and sang the role of Ange Pitou with much spirit. Mlle. Rosine Stani was excellent as Mlle. Lange, Mons. Duchesne was wonderfully comical as the much-abused Larivaudiere, Mons. Deschamps acted the role of Pomponnet excellently, and Mlle. Cantrelle as Amaranthe, Mons. Lecuyer, as Louchard, and the others engaged in the representation acquitted themselves with much ability. A great feature of the performance, and one of which the audience seemed as if they would never weary, was the dance entitled "La Frisonnee," in which Mlle. Roland and M. Lecuyer, gave a specimen of the comic dances indulged in at the gardens in Paris. The audience went wild with delight over this, encored it, and would if they could, have had two or three repetitions of it. The opera of "La Fille de Madame Angot" is full of fun and pleasing music. It contains many airs which will become popular, and will to-morrow be whistled and hummed on the street. Therefore it cannot fail to be as popular here as it has proved in every city in which it has been played. It will be presented every evening until further notice.

Opera House.

As we prophesied would be the case, a very large audience assembled to greet the famous song and dance man, Bobby Newcomb, who made his first appearance at this house last night. He more than fulfilled the expectations formed of him. His first appearance in an original song and dance entitled "The Girl with the Curl," in which he fully established his claim to the title, "the neatest song and dance man in the profession." Being encored he proved in a song and dance of an entirely different character that he had taking ways and could suit all tastes, encored again he proved that Italian opera was not beyond his reach, and delighted the audience with a clever burlesque of Tamberlik, then the audience called for him again and he told a good story, then they wanted some more and he begged off, and then they wouldn't be satisfied and he made a nice little gentlemanly speech, and retired pretty well satisfied we hope (for he may be) that he is destined to become one of the greatest favorites ever known on this coast, not excepting the last - in - the - Australian - colonies Billy Emerson. The rest of the performance was fully up to the standard of excellence which prevails at this house. Bobby Newcomb will appear again to-night, and will make a thousand more friends.

Bella Union Theatre.

The capital first part, Miss Alice Ross and Ed. Murphy in specialties, Miss Jennie Johnson and others in "The Artist's Studio," H. R. Archer in pleasing ballads, the Japanese in their great feats, and a variety of other performances will be given this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Geo. C. Thompson in his favorite act of "Old Black Joe" and other specialties, Miss Katie Ziska in songs, the old favorite, Miss Maggie Brower in artistic dances and a host of others in performances specified on our first page, afford a capital evening's amusement.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Donald McKay and the Warm Spring Indians, the great Dockrills, the funny Kenebels, the intelligent horses, and the Leopold Brothers, Leon and Lascelles, and other attractions will appear here to-night. The season is fast drawing to a close. The country people must have their circus, and John Wilson will very soon depart with his great combination of stars.

Fechter Coming to San Francisco.

We announce with great pleasure that Manager Maguire has effected an engagement with Charles Fechter, the great tragedian—the embodiment of the Genius of the Stage of the present day. The Fechter season will commence at Maguire's New Theatre, on Monday, June 1st, and will be for four weeks only. Mr. Fechter will bring a leading lady to support him, and the company will be judiciously strengthened in the meantime with an eye to Mr. Fechter's business. It is hardly necessary to say that the engagement will be a very expensive one on the part of Manager Maguire and one that will add much to his reputation as a daring and enterprising manager; though we do not look upon it as a really risky one, for we believe Charles Fechter to be the best dramatic star on the stage to-day, and have no fears of his lack of success in this city. Mr. Charles Fechter will create a furore in San Francisco, and his engagement will be a triumphant success.

Notes.

W. A. Mestayer returned to town yesterday morning, and was the recipient of a valuable gold ring, handsomely engraved and ornamented with a cameo head of Mars, from his associates of the California Theatre Company—a farewell memento of their regards. Mr. Mestayer will depart Eastward on his starring tour to-morrow morning, and as he placed that ring on his finger he remarked: "It mus' 'tay 'ere." He's a good actor, notwithstanding this.

Fred Lyster will arrive from the East on the train to-night. He is, no doubt, glad to get back to California, and many will be glad to welcome him. Fred's a good egg.

John Howson will take a benefit at Maguire's New Theatre on May 29th. No actor ever worked harder than does John Howson to please the public, and his talent is undeniable. He will certainly have a bumper.

Signor Morley's benefit comes off at Platt's Hall on the 28th.

It is rough on Bobby Newcomb to be praised in such bad English by the Alta, but that paper gives him the best it has in the shop when it says:

Mr. Newcomb is possessed of the unusual attribute of a very fine voice, and dances better than we have ever seen by any performer in his line of business.

The Alta means well, but any interlocutor in a first-class minstrel company would express himself more clearly.

Steve Massett will give an entertainment in this city, shortly. He has just returned from a very successful tour through the southern counties.

The Alta of this morning has the following:

NEW YORK, May 18.—Another large audience greeted Mr. McCullough to-night to witness "Hamlet." The Tribune says: "Hamlet," in a Prince and scholar, and Mr. McCullough's interpretation of it is a beautiful piece of art. The other papers are equally emphatic in their praise.

We don't think this is very "emphatic," and we fancy that New York won't accept John McCullough's "Hamlet." So much the worse for New York. New York is wedded unto idols (even as Ephraim was) let her alone. If New York must still swear by Edwin Booth and cannot appreciate the new "Hamlet" presented by John McCullough, we appeal to London. There are only two live "Hamlet's," Fechter and John McCullough.

On Friday evening, Miss Alice Dunning will take her farewell benefit at Maguire's New Theatre, and will appear in Dumas' play of "Diane, or the Prey of the Gods," which will be presented for the first time in this city.

A matinee performance will be given at the Palace Amphitheatre, on Thursday, through the liberality of John Wilson, for the benefit of the Louisiana Relief Fund. The gross receipts will be given to the Fund.

Do You Feel

Cross-grained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

JOE GIUSTA'S Restaurant, at 105 California Market, has been long and favorably known by the public as a place where nice Chops, Fort-r-House Steaks and Oysters in every style could be had. A short time since, Mr. Giusta made an addition of a whole floor to his place, so that he could accommodate families. His restaurant, as now constructed, can well be called a family restaurant. 5-M

THE SHERIFF OF MONTEREY.

Not much of a man was the sheriff,
The sheriff of Monterey,
He sprang from the ancient Spaniab,
But had fallen sadly away,
Since the Dons and Hidalgos flourished,
And rul d with a princely sway,
The sunny slopes of the Coast Range,
Adjacent to Monterey.

And fees were slightly contingent,
On this mongrel old Mexican's skill,
Who fancied that law and order
Depended on one man's will,
And that one man the sheriff,
The sheriff of Monterey,
And he humbugged the court of justice,
In a most ridiculous way.

A gallant old soldier of sixty,
A surgeon, and scholerly too,
Talked freely of land abuses
And raised quite a hullaballo
In the streets of the ruined old village;
And the sheriff he captured him fair,
And the Justice consigned him to Stockton—
The Insane Institution is there.

Fortified with his papers and prospects
Of mileage and duplicate fees,
Old Monterey's sheriff gets giddy
While riding the turbulent seas—
And the lunatic, watching the chances,
Takes handcuffs and papers away,
From the sheriff who chanced to get giddy,
The sheriff of old Monterey,

Right up to the grim gates at Stockton,
With dignified bearing and way,
Our gallant old soldier of sixty
Brought the sheriff of Monterey.
With a look of the kindest compassion,
"A sad case," to the warden, said he.
And he fixed up the sheriff in straight clothes,
And paid the old soldier the fee.

A Great Truth.

A great author has said that a perfect dinner party is the highest product of civilization. Simply to eat is the first low necessity of savage life. To dine delightfully is to sublimate that necessity into poetry.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the word all over the State, and every man and woman is trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 323 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 327 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. He don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

Answers to Correspondents.

CONSTANT READER.—No, Bobby Newcomb does not write the "Letters from the People," which appear in the Call.

VINDEX.—As you say. Fred MacCrellish might get even with the De Youngs for publishing him as a delinquent tax-payer, by publishing them in return. But then you know it could only be for Poll Tax in their case.

LABOR.—A. W. Winn has labored within the last six months. He produced eighteen preamoles and a resolution, we mean eighteen resolutions and a preamble at the Eight Hour Working Man's Winn's Protective Association League Meeting recently, and they were very "labored."

PAUL PRY.—What in the name of goodness does it matter to you if the Chronicle "proprietors" have a "silent partner?"

PLUCK.—We quite agree with you, Gleeson & Fell, are whining like sick kittens about "persecution," when it serves them right if their business has gone to the "deminition bow wows," as Mantilini expresses it. Advertising in the Chronicle is the cause of all their trouble.

Clevah!

A shrewd wife in town, who has a forgetful husband, has adopted a method of jogging his memory which is at once novel and effectual. When she desires him to bring her anything from the store, she makes a cross on the back of his hand with a lead pencil. When he takes a drink at a saloon in extending his hand for the glass, he invariably sees that mark, and remembers the errand. Being thus reminded thirty or forty times a day, it would be singular, indeed, if he should forget what was required of him.

A Warning to Children.

An exchange says:

A post mortem examination made on a valuable cow which died at the Hester place, San a Clara County, revealed the fact that the animal had been dieting on nails. Fourteen nails of assorted sizes were found in her second-stomach.

This is a warning to children not to bite their nails. This unfortunate cow, though it had a second stomach, died, and the inference is that eating its nails was the cause of its death.

Severe.

Muffington being asked by his daughter for some new music bought her a lot of Lingard Sketches. Miss Muffington mildly protested, and Muffington told her they were good enough for her "to use up on the old piano," and promised he'd get her something better when the new one which he had ordered from Gray came.

A Hard-Worked Man.

A dramatic critic being asked if he was busy replied: "Busy! I'm worked to death. I haven't had my opera glass out of my pocket for a week. This was because of the beastly lot of new plays produced at Maguire's New Theatre.

An Idea.

An exchange says:

There are 9,101 Jesuits in the world.
Let's kill 'em.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 634 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Nelson, the Vergonstein, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-v

Music Hath Charms.

Pianos tuned and repaired, at moderate prices and satisfaction guaranteed, by one that understands the business. Also, will perform on Piano at Evening Parties, etc. Orders left at 754 Market or 54 Third street, will receive prompt attention by G. W. Morgan. 4-v

Gaining a Point.

Spirits who speak through mediums, often say that they talk and tip tables and kick up a hullabaloo merely to attract attention and force from the people an acknowledgment of the fact that spirits out of the body are not necessarily out of the world. The spirits seem to have made a point in San Francisco, the majority of the persons professing their belief in their reality of the manifestations and admit that spirits can communicate, but say "they are evil sprits." The Rev. Mr. Dunn is the last who has given in his adhesion to spiritualism, and he quotes Bible against every poor lonely ghost who comes back to have a chat with his former friends and acquaintances. Why does he not quote "try the spirits." It is not fair to snub every spirit that comes and call it bad names.

A Question.

The Bulleting sneers at Vice-Consul Magee for accepting $50,000 damages for the brutal treatment he received from a Guatemala official. Is there anyone on the Bulletin who wouldn't take a licking or a kicking for the same amount of money? It was simply a matter of damages, and Mr. Magee being able to settle the matter without making a national affair of it was sensible in doing so. The remarks of the editor of the Bulletin are prompted by envy of Mr. Magee's luck in having been able to make money in what he, the editor of the Bulletin, considers an unobjectionable manner.

A Dangerous Beast.

SCENE, 1,001 Fifth Avenue—Fashionable young lady talking to eldest son of a rich soap boiler, who is sucking his cane. Young lady—"Have you been to Barnum's yet, Mr. Richgrease." Mr. R.— "No—ah—dem'd stupid, eh?" Young lady—"Quite the contrary. The Hippodrome is immense." Mr. R.—Ya-as. (Sudden brilliant thought.) But I say, what would all the—ah the people do if that—ah dem'd Hippodwome should escape? By Jove, that fellah Barnum is always bwinging over some dem'd wild beast.' Flourish of trumpets and quick curtain.

Energetic.

The Christian Union calls Kate Field "That vigorous young disturber of the peace, who runs down some six or seven dozen of organized imbecilities before breakfast, washes her hands and says, like Hotspur, 'Fie upon quiet life! I want to work!'"

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The opera of "La Fille de Madame Angot," which we noticed in full yesterday, will be performed again to-night by the Aimee Troupe. Seats are secured for many nights in advance.

Opera House.

Bobby Newcomb may congratulate himself on having achieved a decided success. His song and dance performances are generally admitted to be the best ever seen here, and as Susie in his original sketch of "Twenty-one To-das" he draws great applause and laughter. He is ably supported by Welch and Rice, Con. T. Murphy, W F Baker, P. Leomis and others. A splendid bill will be performed to-night.

Maguire's New Theatre.

J. K. Mortimer has made a decided hit in the character of Badger in 'The Streets of New York,' and John Howson as Dan shares the honors. This play will be repeated this evening.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The Warm Spring Indians, the Dockrills, the Kassebels, and all the stars will appear to-night in a great programme.

Platt's Hall.

The complimentary benefit tendered to Johnny Herman, the Dutch comic singer, by the San Francisco Minstrel Combination, will come off at the above-named hall this evening. A very attractive programme will be performed. It is published in full on our first page. After the performance there will be a ball.

Bella Union Theatre.

Capital first part, "The Artist's Studio," brilliant interlude and screaming afterpiece will afford abundant amusement to those who visit the Bella Union to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson, Frank Mortimore, Johnny Price, Hughey Morton and a lot of other artistes will appear to-night in an attractive programme.

Woodward's Gardens.

There is always something going on at these gardens. Drop in when you will, you will find pleasant occupation for a couple of hours, and then you will not have seen half that is to be seen. On Thursday, picnic and ball of the Father Mathew T. A. B. Society. Saturday and Sunday last performances of the Man-Fish, also a grand performance, pantomime and concert, and the thrilling Spiral Mountain feat. The May Festival of the German General Benevolent Society will be held at these gardens on Sunday and Monday next.

City Gardens.

On Sunday next the picnic and ball of the Stratman Zouaves will be held here. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the Garibaldi Guards. A riding match between Daniel Shea and Dennis O'Day on ten unbroken mustangs, without saddle or bridle, will come off in the afternoon, and other novel features will be presented. The whole will wind up with a ball in the evening. Tickets, fifty cents. Major Jack prophesies a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugaman, at his sympodium of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2x

DESTINY.

Whom first we love, you know, we seldom wed,
Time rules us all. And life, indeed, is not
The thing we planned it out ere hope was dead,
And then, we women cannot choose our lot.

Much must be borne which it is hard to bear;
Much given away which it were sweet to keep,
God help us all who need, indeed, His care.
And yet, I know, the Shepherd loves his sheep.

My little boy begins to babble now
Upon my knee his earliest infant prayer.
He has his father's eager eyes, I know,
And they say, too, his mother's sunny hair.

But when he sleeps and smiles upon my knee,
And I can feel his light breath come and go,
I think of one—Heaven help and pity me—
Who loved me, and whom I loved, long ago.

Who might have been * * * ah, what I dare not think!
We all are changed. God judges for us best.
God help us do our duty and not shrink,
And trust in Heaven humbly for the rest.

But blame us women not, if some appear
Too cold at times; and some too gay and light.
Some griefs gnaw deep. Some woes are hard to bear.
Who knows the past? and who can judge us right?

Ah, were we judged by what we might have been,
And not by what we are, too apt to fall!
My little child—he sleeps and smiles between These thoughts and me. In Heaven we shall know all.

Three Pretty Actresses.

The New York Courier says: In London there were, a few years ago, three ladies who held the town by the charm of their beauty—Miss Pateman, Mrs. Rousby and Miss Neilson. Mrs. Rousby we have never seen here, but, from all accounts her beauty has commenced to pall, and her dramatic mediocrity is rapidly driving her down the decline of oblivion. Miss Pateman has come to us and proved that, in addition to her good looks, she possesses sterling ability as an actress. She appeared here first in burlesque, but she has since proved her capacity as a most capable stock actress. She did not aspire too high, but did admirably what she laid out for herself to do. Miss Neilson, though, came to Yankeeland with higher aspirations. She was loudly heralded in advance, and her pecuniary success has been great. Young men have laid flowers at her feet, women have admired her, she has been wined, dined, and feted—because she was beautiful.

Fatal.

A New Hampshire lady died recently after having read the Bible through thirty-four times. After this terrible example it is hardly necessary to warn readers not to read the Bible through but thirty-three times if they would live long in the land.

Iowa claims to have 26,000 Spiritualists.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

Strawberries: Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. The Latest Opera Bouffe.

"La Fille de Madame Angot," after a run of four hundred and twelve nights, was shelved recently at the Folies Dramatiques, and "La Belle Bourbonnaise," a comic opera followed it. The story runs on the wonderful resemblance of Manon, the Belle Bourbonnaise, to Madame Dubarry, the mistress of Louis XV. Manon, accompanied by her family, by her lover Blaise, and a young cousin Billette, has just come to Paris to seek her fortune. She has been induced to visit the capital by a young abbe, M. de Cameries, who is involved in a intrigue to depose Madame Dubarry from the position she holds in the King's favor. He has remarked the astonishing likeness the young girl bears of the royal mistress, and fancies he can make use of it to further his ends. Another plotter, the Baron de Catignac, who has fallen into Madame Dubarry's bad graces by having had the misfortune to injure her favorite parrot, discovering that the lady has got wind of the intrigue, makes an effort to regain her good will by striving to defeat the schemes of the abbe. He endeavors to gain possession of Manon, but in mistake only secures her cousin. Madame Dubarry wins Manon to her side, and induces her to take her place at Trianon while she herself, dressed as her intended rival, goes to keep a rendezvous which been prepared for her royal lover with the Belle Bourbonnoise. The confussion which falls upon her enemies in consequence of the failure of their scheme is complete. Dubarry gains more than ever uncontested power in the Cabinet of the King, and rewards Manon with a handsome dowry, sending her back to her own country to marry the lover of her choice. It is impossible to give any idea of the endless series of laughable mistakes to which the likeness to each other of the two principal characters (both played by Mlle. Desclauzas) give rise.

A Charitable Association.

A number of highly respectable and moral young men of St. Louis have organized an association whose object is to furnish young ladies who have no regular beaux or escort to church, concerts, lectures, and places of amusement. All members have to undergo a rigid examination as to character, etc., before they are admitted, and they obligate themselves to obey all the orders of the Executive Committee. Any lady wishing an escort has only to apply to the President of the society, naming the evening, and a young man is detailed for the purpose. As soon as a young man becomes engaged he must withdraw from the organization.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish, having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or under wear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

New Books.

Quip, a comic paper issued fortnightly at St. John's, New Brunswick, has the following notices of new books:

"Blew as your Nose is He," by the author of "Red as a Rose is She."

"Over one Flagon," by the author of "Under Two Flags."

"Raising the Wind," by the author of "A Blow for a Blow."

"The Circus Rider," by Adirondack Murray, author of "The Circuit Rider."

"Hand Some,' by the author of "Holme Lee."

"Turned Out," a Sequel to "Put Yourself in His Place."

"The Three Ball Game or My Uncle's Adventures Among the Pawnees," by the author of "Great Lord Lund."

"Anglin-(g) on Dr-Bait," with a fine line engraving of the author, by Limerick Hook, Esq., one of the officials in the Fishery Department. For sale at Coubb's in St. John, or Trout, Toronto.

"Tackle," by D. Fisset, author of "Finance in Six Easy Lessons."

A Sulky Old Cynic.

The Sacramento Bee of Tuesday has the following: A man of fifty years, whose appearance gave evidence of a life of labor, was watching the picnickers this morning and indulging in sarcastic comments upon their extravagance. A large sized boy passed with a lot of ball bats on his shoulder: "Ugh!" sneered the old worker, "When I was a boy they put a hoe in my hands and sent me into the cornfield! There was no picnics in them days, and no base ball neither. The extravagance of this race will ruin it in a hundred years, and the Chinamen will take their places!" So growling, the cynic hastened away.

Editorial Courtesies.

Brother William Biven of the Stockton Herald, and Sister Laura DeForce Gordon of the Stockton Leader, says the San Jose Mercury, are pulling hair and scratching like two contankerous felines. She calleth he, "potato brains," and he replieth unto she, that "thus far, she has not exhibited the brain of a potato! She overthrows the Darwinian theory. Darwin says man ascended in the scale of being from a vegetable. She proves that a vegetable has ascended from her!" We are shocked. William, let go of Laura's chignon, and Laura, stop your scrouging.

Independent.

The Philadelphia All-Day City Item is remarkably independent in its theatrical criticisms. This is how it treats two stars:

That unpleasant young woman, Miss Charlotte Crabtree (better known as Lotta), with a very poor company, opened, under the management of Henry E. Abbey, at Indianapolis on the 2d.

Lawrence Barrett and company play in Anoura, 16th; Pittsfield, Mass., 18th; Waterbury, 27th, and 28th.

Mr. Barrett is still under the impression that he can play Shakespeare. But he will never be anything but a moderat ly good actor.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 634 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Neilson, the Vergonstein, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

Do You Feel

Crosgrained and stingy? CIRCUMSTANCES.

Many men fall victims to circumstances. Truly great men rise above circumstances, and are great in spite of circumstances. These are mentioned by Shakspeare as "achieving greatness." The others, who are born great, or have greatness thrust upon them, need not possess any inherent greatness of soul. Circumstances makes them what they are. The truly great man, the man of mind, will not allow circumstances to change his nature in any way. If he is naturally of a liberal nature, he will not allow poverty to make him mean; genial, he will not be made morose by the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. He will make the best of circumstances. True, he may regret that circumstances are not such as to allow him to give full play to his best instincts, but he will not, on this account, attempt to stifle them. If men really believed in the immortality of the soul, they would not so often be crushed by circumstances. They would have hope. They would feel assured that their circumstances must change before many years, and comfort themselves with the idea that the seemingly adverse circumstances which surrounded them in the body were necessary to their development and fitting for another state of existence. We often find a woman whom, even her dearest friends, cannot help pronouncing decidedly homely in feature, rise superior to this homeliness and make every one forget it. Others go through their lives mourning their lack of beauty, and declaring that no one can love them. The people who allow themselves to become victims of circumstances are generally nuisances, and they get no more sympathy or pity from the world than a sick wolf does from his companions. The world thinks they ought to die, and feels very much inclined to put these nuisances out of the way. The world does not do exactly as the wolves do, it doesn't kill off these unfortunate ones, it only lets them die. Of course, it is very uncomfortable for a man who has been accustomed to dressing well to become seedy, but he should not let his poverty of apparel induce poverty of mind. He should consider his poverty as merely a circumstance, not a portion of his life. If people could only treat circumstances, while they surround them, with the same indifference as they view them after they have grown out of them, and they can look back at them, we should have a happy race of human beings. One of the most comforting bits of philosophy ever uttered is: "It will be all the same in a hundred years." It is not exactly true with regard to what a man does, but it is true with regard to the circumstances in which he is, if he is strong enough not to let those circumstances injure his better nature. Half the evils of life should be treated and considered in the same light as the measles and the whooping cough are by sensible mothers. They know babies are likely to have these diseases, and whenever they come they make the best of them and help the babies to pull through the best way they can. If there was a little more charity in the world victims of circumstances would not be so numerous. As charity is rather a scarce article, and is not always forthcoming when needed, it is as well to teach the rising generation philosophy, which will stand them in good stead in time of trouble, and enable them either to triumph over circumstances or to emerge from them uninjured in their immortal nature.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Lonely To-Night, Love.

Husband traveling — Scene I—Room in hotel. Spittoons full of cigar stumps. Bourbon whiskey. All hands equipped for a night's spree. Husband in a hurry to be off, writing home:

Dearest Susie:—My time is so occupied with business that I can hardly spare a moment to write to you. Oh, darling, how I miss you, and the only thing that sustains me during my absence is the thought that every moment thus spent is for the benefit of my dear wife and children. Take good care of yourself, my dear. Feed the baby on cow's milk. Excuse haste, etc.

Wife at home.—Scene II.—Parlor. All the gas lit. Thirteen grass widows; Fred from around the corner, with his violin on his arm; Jim, from across the way, with his banjo; Jack, from above, with his guitar; Sam, from below, with his flute; lots of other fellows, with their instruments. Dancing and singing, sideboard covered with nuts, fruit, cake, cream, wine, whiskey, and so forth. Wife in a hurry to dance, writing to husband:

Dear Hubby:—How lonesome I feel in your absence. The hours pass tediously. Nobody calls on me, and I am constantly thinking of the time when you will be home, and your cheerful countenance light up the routine of every-day life. My household duties keep me constantly employed. I am living as economical as possible, knowing that your small income will not admit of frivolous expense. But, now, dear, I will say good-by, or I will be too late for the monthly concert of prayer. In haste, yours, etc.

A Partial Reformation.

A lawyer in Bucyrus, Ohio, stated at a temperance meeting that, having seen his father killed by the carelessness of a drunken man, he took a solemn oath never to drink again, "Since that time," he continued, "I have never broken that oath, at least not very much."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

Bobby Newcomb has made a hit, a very palpable hit, and is encored again and again every evening. His songs and dances are clever and original, and his wit is far above the average. In the afterpiece entitled "Twenty-One To-day," he does some capital acting as Uncle Peter, Billy Welch as Lottie, and others whose names appear in the cast published on our first page.

Maguire's New Theatre.

John K. Mortimer's capital impersonation of Badger, in "The Streets of New York," is generally endorsed. John Howson as Dan, and Little Mac as the shoeblack, do some capital acting and add to the attractiveness of the piece. To-morrow night Miss Alice Dunning will take her farewell benefit, and "Diane, or the Prey of the Gods," will be produced for the first time in San Francisco.

California Theatre.

Aimee's splendid Opera Bouffe Company is drawing large and fashionable audiences. Every member of the troupe is an artist, and the result is perfection. Mlle. Stani, who has a fine mezzo-soprano voice and is a graceful and pleasing actress, is a great favorite. The Friquasseo dance and the chorus of the conspirators are very popular features of the performances. "La Fille de Mme. Angot" will be presented every night until further notice.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Those bold warriors, the Warm Spring Indians, under their gallant leader, Donald McKay, hold nightly levees at this popular establishment. A brilliant programme of equestrian and gymnastic feats will be presented this evening by the Decksills, the Kenebels and the other talented artistes engaged here.

Platt's Hall.

A very pleasing entertainment was given at this hall last night for the benefit of Johnny Herman. The beneficiary, Miss Annie Higgs, Charley Morrell and others gained much applause. A dance terminated the evening's amusement.

Benefit to Signor Carmini Morley.

We call attention to the programme of the entertainment to be given at Platt's Hall, on Thursday evening, for the benefit of Signor Carmini Morley. Miss Fannie Marston, a pupil of Signor Morley, will make her debut in opera in the character of Leonora, in "Il Trovatore," and Signor Marra will appear as Count di Luna.

"Fron Fron."

On Monday next, "Fron Fron" will be produced at Maguire's New Theatre, with Miss Jennie Lee as the heroine. She will play the part capitally.

Louisiana Relief Fund Benefit.

Through the liberality of Manager Wilson there will be an extra matinee performance at the Palace Amphitheatre for the benefit of the Louisiana Relief Fund. All the stars, including the Warm Spring Indians, will appear, and the gross proceeds of the entertainment will be handed over to the Committee.

Bella Union Theatre.

The amusing sketch entitled "The Artist's Studio," the Japanese in their thrilling feats, H. R. Archer's charming ballads, Miss Maggie Kelly's comic songs, "Terence's Return" by Miss Alice Ross and Ed Murray, and a great variety of other entertainments delight all visitors to this theatre.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Ghostly Visitations," Mortimore's Sketches, George C. Thompson's specialties, the pathetic act entitled "Old Black Joe," and other performances will be given this evening.

Woodward's Gardens.

There is always something going on at these gardens. Drop in when you will, you will find pleasant occupation for a couple of hours, and then you will not have seen half that is to be seen. On Thursday, picnic and ball of the Father Mathew T. A. B. Society. Saturday and Sunday last performances of the Man-Fish, also a grand performance, pantomime and concert, and the thrilling Spiral Mountain feat. The May Festival of the German General Benevolent Society will be held at these gardens on Sunday and Monday next.

City Gardens.

On Sunday next the picnic and ball of the Stratman Zouaves will be held here. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the Garibaldi Guards. A riding match between Daniel Shea and Dennis O'Day on ten unbroken mustangs, without saddle or bridle, will come off in the afternoon, and other novel features will be presented. The whole will wind up with a ball in the evening. Tickets, fifty cents. Major Jack prophesies a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

One of the neatest and pleasantest Billiard Parlors in this city is at the northeast corner of Bush and Kearny streets, entrance on Bush. The best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars are to be found at the bar. Chapman & Terrill, proprietors. 5-u

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Who speaks of strychnine in my tea
In times of his prosperity?
But in all straits "dear mother's" me?
My son-in-law.

Who sent to fetch me when I fell
And bruised his head and made it swell?
Then turned me out when he got well?
My son-in-law.

Who comes for me the cook to drill?
Or when the nursery maid falls ill?
Then straps my trunk with rare good will?
My son-in-law.

Who hoped, since wife was weak and tired,
I'd make the shirts he much admired?
That so no seamstress need be hired?
My son-in-law.

Who, when his wife was strong again,
Pushed me on board a starting train?
Wondering I only got a sprain?
My son-in-law.

Who took insurance policy
On what my life is worth to me,
Then urged me much to go to sea?
My son-in-law.

Who sent a flask of kerosene
Labeled "For kindling!—nice and clean?"—
Cremation—I presume you mean—
My son-in-law.

Who, if the coroner had said,
"By providential stroke, she's dead?"
Had, acquiescent, wagged his head?
My son-in-law.

He Could Not Tell a Lie.

Says the St. Louis Journal: The version as to what Washington said to his father varies with localities. In the old spelling book, he is reported as saying: "Papa, I cannot tell a lie;" in New York, "it would not pay to quibble; I did it, but I'll prove an alibi;" in Boston, "My esteemed progenitor, do you deem it possible that, under any circumstances, I could reconcile my ideas of the ultimate infinite with a present concealment of existing but by no means extenuating circumstances?" in Chicago, "I'll bet you two to one that I can do it quicker next time;" in Cincinnati, "Yes, papa, I wouldn't tell a lie for a barrel of pork;" in St. Louis, "I did it but the trouble is over, let us bury the hatchet;" and in Denver, "Look shear, old man! do you suppose I'd put up a job on you?"

Easy-going Men.

The world is full of men who will cheerfully "boss a job" for a dollar and a half a day, when five dollars a day for actual work would not be the slightest temptation for them.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Daniel Webster.

"Darnel Webster," remarked old Colonel Gumpey, as he trimmed a quid of nigger head and fastened it securely between two decayed teeth in the left side of his mouth, "Darnel Webster was a great man. There wasn't nothin' mean about him. I've hearn him talk, but it wasn't his talk so much as his generosity that tuck me. He had a kinder careless way like, that kept him from gettin' rich. He never seemed to think what things cost. I was comin' up in the Hudson river along with him once, and in the mornin' Darnel Webster and me was washin our faces and slickin' our ha'r in the cabin, and he took out a tooth brush and brushed his teeth. I did'nt see no other tooth brush around, so I borrowed his'n. And after I used it I handed it back to him, and what do you think? why Darnel Webster just slung the tooth brush into the river. And I suppose next day he went and bought him a new one. That's all he cared about money! There ain't no such men as Darnel Webster livin' now," concluded the Colonel meditatively, as he spirted a stream of tobacco juice into the fire place at the other end of the room.

Somewhat Too Much.

The New York Courier says: It has already reached London, and we shall soon have to suffer, as sure as fate. Just as the cockneys were getting heartily tired of Lecocq's Madame Angot, when they had heard it ad nauseum in society and theatres, just when they were looking forward to Giroffe et Girofla it seems too bad that the everlasting daughter of Madame Angot should have been put upon the street organs. But so it is. Whenever we take our walks abroad, says a heart-broken Englishman, the "Conspirators' Chorus" rises on the air, and for the next year or so we shall most likely hear nothing else played by the peripatetic fiends who make life a burden to us.

What Boys Know.

A stolid old farmer talks thus about his boys: From sixteen to twenty, they know more than he did; at twenty-five, they know as much; at thirty they were willing to hear what he had to say; at thirty-five, they asked his advice; and he thinks when they get to be forty that they will actually acknowledge that the old man does know something."

Non Voters.

There are only two women in the Connecticut State Prison, Lyd a Sherman and a colored woman. The male convicts number 228. Thus women furnish only one per cent. of the convicts.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here!
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. F. Beamish, having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or under wear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a mediocrum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

As heroine in the society plays which are so popular at present, Miss Alice Dunning leaves little to be desired. As the wronged woman, writhing under the cruel treatment of society, she never fails to carry the sympathy of the audience with her. In dress she is faultless, and in beauty she has few rivals on the stage. To-night is set apart for her benefit, and we are sure that the public which crowded the house for Miss Dickey Lingard's benefit will do no less on this occasion. The entertainment will consist of Dumas' great play entitled "Diane, or the Prey of the Gods," which will be produced for the first time in San Francisco. The full cast is given on our first page. "Diane" will be played at the matinee to-morrow, to-morrow evening, and on Sunday evening.

California Theatre.

The popularity of "La Fille de Madame Angot," as performed by Aimee and her brilliant troupe of artistes continues. The chorus of the Comprirators, the song of Clairette in which, with the boastfulness of a Captain Jinks she declares that she is the daughter of Madame Angot, and the Pricassee dance are very popular. This opera will be performed every evening until further notice and at the matinee to-morrow.

Opera House.

Bobby Newcomb in song and dance and also in the character of Susie, in his original sketch of "Twenty-One To-Day," Billy Sweatnam in a burlesque of "Macbeth," Russell and Montague in a duet from "Martha," George Knight in his comicalities, and Welch and Rice in "Rebecca Jane," make up capital entertainment which will be given to-night and also at the matinee to-morrow.

Palace Amphitheatre.

This evening and at the matinee to-morrow all the stars of the opera will appear. The Dockrills, the Kenebels, the Warm Spring Indians with their leader, Donald McKay, Leon and Lalcells and others, whose name are given on our first page, will present an entertainment of extraordinarily attractive character. The sum netted by the first benefit tendered to the Louisiana Sufferers Fund, by Manager Wilson, and his circus company, was over five hundred dollars; which, will form the nucleus of a very large collection. The committee publish a card of thanks to Manager Wilson and company in another column. The last night of the season are announced.

Platt's Hall.

To-night the complimentary benefit to the favorite tenor, Signor Pietro Bacci, whose stay in this city has done much to encourage a taste for Italian Opera, will take place at the above named hall. Mme. Inez Fabbri, Mlle. Anna Elzar, Miss Marian Singer, Prof. Mansfeldt, Prof. J. B. Hirsart, Prof. Mulder and Signor I. Contini, will appear in the excellent programme published on our first page, and Signor G. Marra, baritone, late of the Nilsson troupe, will make his first appearance in this city. He will sing a duo from "Belisario," with Miss Anna Elzor and a romanza from "Un Ballo en Maschera," and will take part with Signor Bacci and Signor Contini, in a grand trio from "William Tell." The box sheet gives promise of a very large audience.

Benefit to Signor Carmini Morley.

We call attention to the programme of the entertainment to be given at Platt's Hall, on Thursday evening, for the benefit of Signor Carmini Morley. Miss Fannie Marston, a pupil of Signor Morley, will make her debut in opera in the character of Leonora, in "Il Trovatore," and Signor Marra will appear as Count di Luna.

Louisiana Fund Benefits.

The matinee performances tendered by Manager Maguire, and the companies of the New Theatre and Opera House will take place on Wednesday of next week. A splendid entertainment will be given at each house, and the gross proceeds will be devoted to this worthy object.

Bella Union Theatre.

The great Japanese gymnasts and equilibrists are in the third week of their engagement at this house, and their popularity is undiminished. To-night in addition to songs by Archer, character changes by Miss Alice Ross, amusing songs and acts by Ed. Murray, and a variety of other performances, the comic drama entitled "Two Crimes" will be presented with the cast given on our first page.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Julius in a Fix," Old Black Joe," "Going to the Races," and a variety of other acts, song and dances will be presented this evening by George C Thompson, Frank Mortimore, Johnny Price and others.

Woodward's Gardens.

There is always something going on at these gardens. Drop in when you will, you will find pleasant occupation for a couple of hours, and then you will not have seen half that is to be seen. On Saturday and Sunday next, May 23 and 24, last performances of the Mac-Fish, also a grand performance, pantomime and concert, and the thrilling Spiral Mountain feat. The May Festival of the German General Benevolent Society will be held at these gardens on Sunday and Monday next.

City Gardens.

On Sunday next the picnic and ball of the Stratman Zouaves will be held here. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the Garibaldi Guards. A riding match between Daniel Shea and Dennis O'Day on ten unbroken mustangs, without saddle or bridle, will come off in the afternoon, and other novel features will be presented. The whole will wind up with a ball in the evening. Tickets, fifty cents. Major Jack prophesies a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

One of the neatest and pleasantest Billiard Parlors in this city is at the northeast corner of Bush and Kearny streets, entrance on Bush. The best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars are to be found at the bar. Chapman & Terrill, proprietors. 5-o

A Gentleman.

The St. Louis Republican in a long article on what constitutes a gentleman, has the following: George IV. was proud of being pronounced by his obsequious flatterers, "the first gentleman in Europe." The servant who waited behind his chair was probably much nearer meriting the title than he. He was simply a right royal snob, with no faith in man or woman, and unworthy the respect of the decent members of either sex. The old Scotch dame had a correct view of his case who, on being asked if she would go and see his majesty enter Edinburgh, exclaimed: "Indeed, then, I'll not. Dom a man that will kiss and tell!" We do not imagine that Mrs. Fitzherbert was ever deluded by the idea that the crowned booby who married and deserted her, had a drop of genuine gentleman in his veins—though that blood had trickled down to him through a long line of kings. Chesterfield is reckoned by many as the very chief of gentlemen, because he wrote admirable letters to his bastard boy, instructing him in the minutiae of manners which were to be his passport into the most brilliant circles of the continent. But the mother of that boy, who yielded all that makes womanhood pure and precious for the love she bore this aristocratic roue, and then was driven an outcast from his doors, had small reason to believe that the man who ruined and forsook her was anything better than a rascal and a blackguard.

We have often thought that gentlemen, like poets, "are born and not made." You meet them frequently where they are least to be expected, and—alas for the shameful fact?—they are not often found in what is usually considered their native sphere. A true gentleman, one of God's own gentlemen, is incapable of doing a mean thing. He is as scrupulous in performing the smallest and most obscure duties of life, as in the greatest; for the standard by which he regulates his conduct has no reference to the world's estimate of smallness or greatness, but is based only on his inner consciousness of what constitutes the right. He feels the force of the lines :—

First to thine own self be true
And it shall follow, as the night the day,
Thou can'st not then be false to any man.

A Donkey Show.

An Eastern contemporary says: A donkey show is proposed for the Centenial Exhibition, and, in order to prevent overcrowding, we are requested to announce that common kinds of donkeys, such, for instance, as the following, will not on this occasion be received:

Donkeys who wear an eyeglass, not because they are short-sighted, but because they think it fashionable.

Donkeys who attempt to give dinners a la Russe, although their cook has barely brains enough to roast a leg of mutton.

Donkeys who in traveling still stick to the stupid old conventionality of ordering wine they dare not drink, for the good of the house, and the refreshment of the waiter.

Donkeys who propose for the hand of a young lady before they have made certain that they will be accepted.

Donkeys who are willing, "just for form's sake," to inscribe their name upon a note, to oblige a chance acquaintance whom they know but slightly.

Donkeys who put faith in "crowded houses" and "unparalleled successes" as paraded in advertisements.

Donkeys who buy pictures which they don't a bit appreciate, simply for the sake of airing their pecuniosity.

Donkeys whose ears enjoy the music of the organ-grinders.

Donkeys who give stamps to street beggars, and think they thereby do a charity.

Donkeys who convivially attempt to sing a song when they have quite forgotten the words, and really never knew the music.

Donkeys who think turtle soup the quintessence of good cookery and choicest luxury obtainable.

Donkeys who get on their legs to bray at wedding breakfasts, birthday dinners, and all sorts of social gatherings, which might not be so unpleasant were it not for their sweet voices.

Donkeys who eat salmon out of season at three dollars a pound, and disdain to touch it when it costs but fifty cents, and is in its fullest flavor.

Donkeys who bid at auctions for things they do not want, because they fancy they are going cheaply.

Donkeys who will blackball men against whom they know nothing, for the sake of showing their own sulkiness.

And, finally, donkeys who keep on sending us jokes, expecting we will publish them.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish, having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or under wear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

From one tooth to a full upper set, from $5 to $20. Filling reasonable. By Dr. Crowell, D. D. S., No. 30 Kearny street, near Market. 2-j

The Oregon Moses.

A candidate in Eastern Oregon winds up his speeches thus: Gentlemen and fellow citizens, I wish to call your attention to the fact that there is a political aurora to burst upon us like a mighty rushing of many waters, and in order to meet the demand we must clear our minds of all prejudices, metaphor and allegory, and omit discussing obnoxious, ill-gel, contaminating questions which is obviously in alien and disapprobation to the true political crisis of the day. But we must confine ourselves to a full, clear, concise, succinct, categorical statement of facts, unencumbered with fractious metaphor and allegory, and by so doing we will be able to ameliorate the mind from the iron grasp of the gilded age, and restore the harmonious felicitation of the Herculean age, to edify the mind. Certainly we should profit by the past. But what man knows the future. But June will tell, so we must be content, not knowing what will turn up next. Now, I will say if you vote for me in June, I will commence at once to reconstruct the Government. Moreover, I will do away with polygamy in Utah and silence Beecher and Woodhull. I will have the Wallowa opened for settlement, I will also stop the franking privilege and the divorce mess and do all other business that will benefit the people."

F. S. Chanfrau Aroused.

A Chicago preacher of the name of Frost, having said a number of silly and illnatured things about actors and actresses, F. S. Chanfrau offers to give $1000 towards a fund for the prosecution of any clergyman who dares to assail the virtues of ladies of the profession. Mr. Chanfrau moreover thus throws down the gauntlet: Where is the man who will dare to asperse Maggie Mitchell, Little Lotta, Mrs. Chanfrau, Mrs. Hoey, Mrs. Thomas Barry, Charlotte Cushman, Mrs. Chas. Kean, Mrs. Warren, whose bedside attendant was Queen Victoria, Fanny Kemble, Jane Coombs, or any of the thousand others? Let your Frosts be specific if they dare, and breathe a word against your Chicago ladies, Mrs Stoneall, Mrs. Maeder, Mrs. Allen, Miss Meek, Miss Fletcher, Sydney Cowell, or any one of them.

Nobody is Going to do It.

In the April number of the Sword and Trowel Mr. Spurgeon writes: So far as we are personally concerned our abomination of priestcraft is so intense that we would rather be called 'demon' than 'priest.' As the showman observed: Whichever you pleases, my little man; you pays your money and you has your choice.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 631 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Bep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Neilson, the Vergonstein, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

A California Story.

"John," the California correspondent of the New York Sun, met a man who told him he was "one of the Huguenots of 1849." John goes on as follows:

Says I, "I guess you mean Argonauts, don't you?"

Says he, "Yes, and, stranger, what is an Argonaut, anyhow?"

Then I told him the real genuine Jacobs Argonaut was one of the chaps who sailed to Colchis with Jason in the Argo in quest of the golden fleece. He said that he thought that was it, and he'd been fleeced ever since he'd been here. When he asked me who Jason was I told him we'd conversed long enough on that subject.

We then had some talk about miracles, and he remarked, "That those people crossing the Red Sea never struck him as much of a miracle." Then he related the following:

Says he, "I knew a fellow in the States once, old Bill Smith; he was the worst old beat you ever saw. He'd chase a mosquito eight miles with a lemon squeezers if he thought he could get one cent for the oil. He got married on tick, and has slept on tick ever since. He was so mean that once when he had a cent in his pocket, to keep his wife from getting it, he made his oldest boy swallow it, and that boy was a copperhead all through the war. Bill was going down the Mississippi on a steamboat. When the collection was being taken up, he got out on the guard to hide and he fell overboard. The water was a hundred feet deep and two miles wide, and the best water to drown a man in I ever saw. Bill couldn't swim a stroke, but, stranger, he got out."

"Says I, "How?"

Says he, "He just took and walked straight ashore."

Says I, "How could he walk ashore in water 100 feet deep?"

Says he, "Stranger, do you want to know very bad?"

Says I, "Yes, I do, real bad."

Says he, "Well, stranger, Bill Smith was such a big sponge, he just soaked all the water up, and then walked right ashore."

A Sad State of Things.

French journalists are just now lamenting over the rage which is prevailing among their fellow countrymen for everything English. They say that the Paris ladies have taken to giving their children English names, and instead of calling them Jacques and Diane call them Jemmy and Di. It is becoming the fashion in certain aristocratic circles to talk French with an English accent. Still more marvellous, English cookery and English millinery are superseding French.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Mr. Morrow, owner of the Metropolitan Theatre, has had a new entrance made to the house, just east of the main one. This is to be solely for the gallery patrons. Charles Kingsley lectured on Westminster Abbey, on Thursday evening. On Friday evening Charles Pope supported by the California Theatre company, appeared in "Helpheger," and Mlle. Bonfanti appeared in ballet. The same performance will be given at the matinee to-day, and to-night "The Robbers," will be performed.

SAN JOSE.—Charles Pope, supported by the California Theatre company, performed at the Opera House on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings. The Mercury said:

The California troupe closed their engagement last night to the best house of the season. The people were just beginning to learn that they had a first-class theatrical company among them.

It takes an awful long while for those San Jose people to learn anything.

STOCKTON.—Charles Pope supported by the California Theatre company, performed here on Thursday.

SAN JUAN.—The Times of the 16th, gives the San Francisco Minstrels the following notice: The performance at this place by the San Francisco Minstrels on Thursday evening last was a pleasing and most complete success, and far surpassed the expectations of all who went to see them. They will treat our citizens to another of their superior performances on Tuesday evening, the 19th inst., when we hope to see the theatre crowded to its utmost capacity.

DENVER, COL.—H. W. Waldron and company were performing at the theatre. La Belle B'anche and Johnny Nichols, continued the stars at the Cricket Varieties. Low Parker was stage manager.

PORTLAND.—The Oregonian says: We understand that negotiations are pending between Mr. Benitz, of Gray's Music Store, and one of the leading opera troupes of San Francisco, by which the troupe are shortly to appear in this city, providing sufficient interest is awakened and encouragement extended. The members of this troupe are Miss Mary E. Wadsworth, Signora Giovana Bianchi, Signor Eugenia Bianchi, tenor, Signor Guiseppi Mancusi, baritone, Mr. Bodecker, pianist. An agent will call upon our leading citizens in a few days, and solicit subscriptions. If sufficient money is subscribed to warrant the company in visiting this city they will probably be here on the next steamer. This is reported to be an excellent operatic company, and it is certainly a splendid opportunity for our citizens to have the pleasure of hearing opera music. Whether or not the company visit the city, will, of course, depend upon the measure of encouragement accorded.

VIRGINIA CITY.—Charles Pope and the California Theatre company will open at Piper's Opera House on Monday and play during next week.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 634 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Nelicon, the Vergontsin, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket-book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. "I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Night to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

AN OPEN LETTER

to a Known Business House of this City.

THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the fever over the State, and every man and woman is to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you want to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you can get your money's worth; when you make a purchase, go to the house that manufactures and sells the article direct, and you are sure to buy. To find such a house go to S. POPPER, the shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing establishment, Nos. 534 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 537 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading manufacturing establishment in the city. I offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufacturers'—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior quality, at a more reasonable price than any house in the city. the same in underwear, gentlemen's furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen could not do better than to go there and call before purchasing elsewhere.

WOODHULL & CLAFLIN'S WEEKLY!

.....AND THE.....

General Pacific Slope Depository for all of Mrs. Woodhull's Books and Speeches.

This startling oration, at its first delivery in Cooper Institute, New York City, called out 10,000 people, and was received with the most enthusiastic applause. It contains facts with which every man and woman ought to be familiar.

As a student and advocate of industrial and social reform, Mrs. Woodhull stands prominent among the advanced thinkers of the age, and as such she has become the target at which fossilized conservatism hurls its bitterest shafts. The politicians fear her because she exposes their corruptions and frauds; the monopolists because she insists that all wealth belongs to those who produce it, and the religious bigots because she shows up their pharasaical hypocrisy.

Many audiences which assemble to curse, go home to bless her. She pleads the rights of the down-trodden—the human rights as against civil wrongs. She is the friend of the unfortunate of whatever class, and the determined foe of injustice wherever it is found.

Victoria Woodhull has risen from nothing to a position on the forum where she stands without a peer. Her intellectual position and vigor are no longer a question of doubt; in this respect she is above discussion.—The Chicago Inter-Ocean, September 18, 1873.

The lecture in the evening was a really eloquent and instructive discussion by Mrs. Woodhull. However her ideas may be regarded, there is no doubt but that she is one of the most active, energetic and able speakers that ever AD-

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"La Fille de Mme. Angot" will be performed at this theatre at the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening by the Aimee Opera Bouffe Company. Crowded houses have been the rule during the week. To-morrow night will be the last opportunity offered of enjoying Mlle. Aimee's delightful performance of Clairette, the chorus of the conspirators and the Fricassee dance, as "Les Cent Vierges" is to be produced on Monday evening.

OPERA HOUSE.—This house has been crowded every night during the week, and the clever and versatile performances of Bobby Newcomb have been thoroughly enjoyed by all. The bill for the matinee to-day, this evening, and to-morrow evening, comprises a capital first-part, "The four Spaniards," by Little Mac, Rice, Reed and Knight, "The Girl With the Curl," and other performances by Bobby Newcomb, "Mack Beth" by Billy Sweatnam, Reed and others, duet from "Martha," by Russell and Montague, George S. Knight in his specialties, Welch and Rice in song and dance, and Bobby Newcomb, Gen. T. Murphy, Billy Welch and others in the the laughable sketch entitled "Twenty-One To-Day."

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—This house was thronged last night when the charming Miss Alice Dunning, took her benefit. "Diane; or, the Prey of the Gods," is a sparkling play with scarcely a dull line in it. In the character of Diane, Miss AliceDanning appears to good advantage, as in any character which she has assumed during her engagement here, and she is ably supported by J. K. Norris, A. D. Billings, John Howson, Miss Fanny Young, Miss Mary Wells and others. Miss Dunning dressed the part superbly and by her impassioned acting, gained the sympathy of the audience for the unfortunate heroine. The performance coincided with the comedy of "A Day After the Wedding," in which Miss Dickey Lingard appeared as Lady Elizabeth Freelove, and W. H. Lingard as Colonel Freelove. "Diane; or, the Prey of the Gods," will be presented at the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening. On Monday the popular Miss Jennie Lee will commence an engagement at this house and appear in "Frou-Frou."

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—The last nights of Donald McKay and the Warm Spring Indians, the last nights of the Dookrills, the last nights of the Kenebels are announced. All those attractive performers, and many more whose names are given on our first page, will appear at the matinee to-day, to-night and to-morrow night in a brilliant programme. Manager Wilson cannot any longer delay, the people in the interior must have their amusement, and he is now busily engaged in preparing for the Summer campaign.

SIGNOR BACCEI'S BENEFIT.—An excellent programme was performed at Platt's Hall last night, when Signor Pietro Baccei, the popular tenor, took his farewell benefit. Signor Marra the baritone, who made his first appearance before a San Francisco audience on this occasion, at once established himself as a favorite. He has a fine voice, and is a thorough artist. We prophesy for Signor Marra a great success in the role of the Count di Luna, in which he will appear on Thursday evening of next week, when "Il Trevatore," will be performed for the benefit of Signor Carmini Morley.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The serio-comic drama of "Two Climes," Miss Alice Rosa in character changes, Fred Ritchie in "Dutch Blunders," the Japanese in their thrilling feats, Louise Somers and Tommy Barton in "Weep, Little Children," Miss Jennie Johnson and others in the sketch of "The Double-Bedded Room," and a variety of other entertainments will be presented this evening.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—To-night, in addition to other attractions specified on our first page, Miss Lydia Harrington appears in fancy dances, "The Two Artists," by George G. Thompson and others, is a good feature of the programme.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—THE MAN-FISH.—There is always something going on at these gardens. Drop in when you will, you will find pleasant occupation for a couple of hours, and then you will not have seen half that is to be seen. On Saturday and Sunday next, May 23 and 24, last performances of the Man-Fish, also a grand performance, pantomime and concert, and the thrilling Mural Mountain feat. The May Festival of the German General Benevolent Society will be held at these gardens on Sunday and Monday next.

CITY GARDENS—STRATMAN'S ZOUAVES.—On Sunday next the picnic and ball of the Stratman Zouaves will be held here. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the Garibaldi Guards. A riding match ostween Daniel Shea and Dennis O'Day on ten unbroken mustangs, without saddle or bridle, will come off in the afternoon, and other novel features will be presented. The whole will wind up with a ball in the evening. Tickets, fifty cents. Major Jack prophesies a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mannberg, the proprietor, gets up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

GRAND SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Antelope leaves San Francisco every Saturday at 2:30 P. M. and on Sunday at 8 A. M. from Front Street Wharf, connecting with the cars of the C. F. & N. P. Railroad at Donahue for Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Excursion tickets are issued at reduced rates, and are good from Saturday to Monday. Those who wish to enjoy a little country air at the end of the week could not choose a finer trip than this excursion affords.

NOTES.—Pacific Hall is being fitted up with a new stage, twenty-two feet in depth, and furnished with three sets of scenery. It will be a very pleasant little theatre for amateur societies and small companies.

Next week Bobby Newcomb will appear at the Opera House on the end in the first part, in the act of "The Active Boy," in the song and dance entitled "Beautiful Waltzer," and in the sketch of "The Arrival of Aimee."

Next week the opera of "Les Cent Vierges," by Charles Lecocq, will be produced at the California Theatre by the Aimee Troupe. It is full of fun and good music. We published the plot in FIGARO some time ago.

The famous tragedian, Charles Fechter, who stands at the very head of the profession to-day, will arrive during the coming week under engagement to Manager Maguire. He brings with him Miss Lizzie Price, an excellent actress, who will appear as leading lady. Miss Price formerly fulfilled an engagement in this city at the Metropolitan Theatre.

The week after next Barton Hill will go to Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, and will appear, supported by the California Theatre company, in the "Marble Heart," "Lancashire Lass," "Lost in London," "The Corsican Brothers," "School," "Camille" and other plays in which he has made a hit in this city.

A Spanish dramatic opera bouffe troupe and ballet company, arrived in this city, from Mazatlan, by the last steamer, the Costa Rica. They left Spain, proceeded to Havana, from Havana they went to Mexico, and are now here. The company comprises the following artists: Senoritas Francisca de Luque, Soledad Alvan, Emilia Loqel, Jesus Avsol; Senors Alfonzo de Luque, Antonio de Luque, Juan Loquel, P. Revol, Juan Barbero, Romolo Olivan, Juan Fernandes, Miguel Ruiz, Julio Luque, Young Adolfo Luque, Master Mariano Luque. Those who remember the delightful season of Spanish opera given at the Metropolitan Theatre, some years ago, will hope that this company will find an opportunity of giving us a taste of their quality.

The matinee performances tendered by Manager Maguire, and the companies of the New Theatre and Opera House will take place on Wednesday of next week. A splendid entertainment will be given at each house, and the gross proceeds will be devoted to this worthy object.

We call attention to the programme of the entertainment to be given at Platt's Hall, on Thursday evening, for the benefit of Signor Carmini Morley. Miss Fannie Marston, a pupil of Signor Morley, will make her debut in opera in the character of Leonora, in "Il Trovatore," and Signor Marra will appear as Count di Luna.

A letter from Hongkong, informs us that Chiarini's Royal Italian Circus opened in that place on April 9th, and did a splendid business at the following rates of admission: boxes to hold four $15, chairs $3, carpeted seats $2, and cheapest seats $1.

Papers from Sydney up to April 10th, give the following record of amusements. We quote from the Herald: During the past fortnight the two theatres and the School of Arts have furnished quite a feast of amusement to the public. At the Queen's Theatre which, under the management of Mr. W. B. Gill, maintains a leading position, the business has been very good. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates have been performing for ten weeks at this theatre with unequivocal success. They appeared recently in "Richelieu," "East Lynne," "Trapped," "Camille," "Robert Macaire," "Caste," and "London Assurance," and in the majority of cases succeeded in making a hit: In Robertson's drama of "Caste," Mr. Bates appeared as Eccles and his impersonation must be pronounced most artistic. In the other dramas mentioned Mr. and Mrs. Bates have won golden opinions, and it is satisfactory to know that their engagement has been extended. His Excellency the Governor has given his patronage to the theatre. A very strong company has been engaged by the management of the Victoria Theatre, which has received a fair share of public support. Mr. James Carden, who has had a lengthened and successful sojourn in Sydney, terminated his connection with the Victoria last week, and intends to seek "fresh fields and pastures new." Mr. Fred Belton and Miss Emma Austin, who come here with an English reputation, have just commenced an engagement at the same theatre and attract good houses. Haselmayer, the magician, after a lucrative season at the School of Arts, started a day or two ago for a tour through the provincial towns, en route to Queensland, and his place has been filled by Smith's Combination Company, who are drawing crowded houses.

The same paper says: Preliminaries connected with the ground upon which it is proposed to erect a grand opera house worthy of the city, are almost completed on account of the principal proprietors of the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, Mr. Goppin and his copartners have already such a reputation as caterers of public amusements, that their new undertaking is likely to be well supported.

Victoria Woodhull, who is wilfully misunderstood and misrepresented by many newspapers but endorsed as an honest and undoubtedly talented woman by all persons who have heard her lecture, will deliver a lecture in this city at Platt's Hall on Monday, June 1st. The title will be "Reform or Revolution, Which?" Mrs. Woodhull has lectured to immense audiences in every part of the United States, and will doubtless draw a crowd to Platt's Hall. Those who disagree with or misunderstand her, pronounce her the most eloquent female speaker in the United States.

John Howson, the excellent comedian of Maguire's New Theatre, whose artistic make-up for and admirable acting in every part which he has assumed, have gained for him the good opinion of everyone, will take his benefit on May 29th. He will present a splendid bill, and will we are sure have a splendid house.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York, at Booth's, John McCullough appeared during the present week in "Hamlet," "Jack Cade" and "Damon and Pythias." A magnificent production of "King John" is in active preparation. Mr. McCullough will sustain the role of Faulonbridge. Mrs. J. B. Booth that of Constance, a part in which she won great favor in Boston some while ago.....At Fifth Avenue Theatre, "M. Alphonse" was followed by "Divorce." Mr. Daly announces "a phenomenal revival" of "Oliver Twist," the special feature of which will be the appearance of Bijou Heron as Oliver, and the appearance of Mr. Fisher as Fagan, Mr. James as Bill Sykes, Mr. Lewis as the "Dodger," and Miss Fannie Davenport as Nancy Sykes.....At Niblo's, Manager Thorne has everything in readiness for the production of "The Lady of the Lake" on the 25th. Miss Ione Burke is engaged for the leading part.....School" continues the attraction at Wallack's.....The Lyceum is to be opened on the 25th by a French comedy company .....Fox's Broadway is closed. "Humpty Dumpty" being about to go into the country.....At Bryant's Opera House nothing new has been presented since our last summary.....At the Theatre Comique, Frank Kerns reappeared on the 19th for the benefit of Nelse Waldron.....At the Metropolitan, George H. Coes was the latest addition to the company.....At the Olympic, the Worrell Sisters were playing burlesques.....Nick Whiffles" was the play at the Bowery Theatre..... At Wood's French Spy".....Barnum's Hippodrome is drawing large crowds.

John E. Owens has assumed the management of the Varieties Theatres, New Orleans. Since Mr. Barrett assumed the directorship of this house, some years ago, it has been deteriorating. Mr. Owens hopes now to make it prominent among first-class theatres.

A Boston critic says of Wilkie Collins' latest drama, "The New Magdalen," that it has about the one hundred thousandth part of the merit it ought to possess. It is written in grammatical English—other merit it has none.

Lawrence Barrett and Edwin Booth appear in "Julius Cæsar," at Hartford, Ct., June 6.

Maggie Mitchell has bought a six-acre lot at Long Branch, near Edwin Booth's, for $65,000

Salvini plays in Baltimore, May 28 and May 29; Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, one week, commencing June 1; and New York, commencing June 8.

Mr. Louis Aldrich appeared at Wood's Museum, afternoon and evening, on the 18th, in "Fan" and "Justice."

Joseph E. Proctor has gone into the manufacturing business in Manchester, Mass.

The Vokes Family commenced a two weeks' engagement in St. Louis, on the 11th.

A French comedy company will appear at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, on the 26th.

Miss Neilson commences a farewell engagement in Philadelphia on the 23d.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence sailed for England on the 5th, on the Scotia. This is the sixteenth trip that Mr. Florence has made across the Atlantic. He goes in quest of dramatic novelties, for next season.

Mr. F. L. Davenport is well enough to be upon the stage again.

The New York Mercury of the 9th says: Large numbers who have laughed during the past season at the inimitable drolleries of Sam Rickey, the Comedian of the Metropolitan, will be pleased to learn that he will take a benefit at that cosy theatre on the 15th.

Fanny Janauschek sailed for Germany May 9, by the steamship Neckar. She returns in the Autumn and will make a tour, supported by her own company.

Fred G. Maeder is busily engaged upon a new drama, entitled "Mixed," for Miss Ella Wesner, who intends returning to the dramatic stage next season. Mr. Maeder has engaged her professional services for a term of years.

Philip Phillips, N. Y., 14th; East Hudson 15th. In June he goes to Australia.

Alas! for Australia. Happy America. Philip Phillips and his melodious nose still go marching on.

Billy Armstrong, who was with Cole's N. Y. and N. O. Circus last season, was married recently at Madison, Wis., to Genevieve Watts, daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman there.

Charles Thorne, Jr. J. V. Carroll, and J. Pope leave for England, June 20th.

Harry Stanwood, Ethiopian comedian and banjoist, travels this Summer with Cool Burgess' Troupe.

The Philadelphia All-Day City Item publishes an almost daily record of theatrical matters in San Francisco, taken from and duly credited to FIGARO.

The New York Clipper's San Francisco correspondence amounted to nearly a column of fine type, in its issue of May 16th. San Francisco, as an amusement city, bears a reputation second only to New York.

Fayette Welch, while performing with Haverly's Minstrels at the Olympic Theatre, St. Louis, Mo., was presented by that company, through W. H. Morton the interlocutor, with a gold-headed cane.

Kelly & Leon's Minstrels recently performed at Sandusky, O., and The Register of that city is responsible for the following anecdote: A certain elderly gentleman, who attended Kelly & Leon's minstrel entertainment at Fisher's Hall on Monday evening, became desperately enamored of the feminitable Leon, whom he supposed to be a dashing brunette of the gentler sex. The symmetry of form, the dash and easy, graceful manners of the actor in his guise of a young lady, were irresistible to the old gentleman, and his affections went out in one spontaneous gush. A gentleman who was sitting beside him was the recipient of sundry nudges and whispered words of admiration for the fair one (?), but with heroic fortitude he maintained his equanimity till after the performance, when, the joke being too good to keep, he just confided it as a profound secret to everybody he knew, and now holds his hands on his sides and smiles audibly, much to the discomfiture of the party so cruelly deceived.

Senor Monts, (Rd. Montegna,) and Mlle. Gerretta were performing at the Opera House, Rochester, on the 12th. The Union and Advertiser gives them a first-rate notice. It says of Mlle. Gerretta: Her really wonderful art upon the revolving globe, in which she ascends and descends a horizontal ladder resting upon a pivot while still preserving her balance upon the sphere, is something at once novel and pleasing, eliciting the most vociferous applause from all parts of the house. To a singularly beautiful form Mlle. Gerretta unites a grace and skill that are most admirable.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, 'twas found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three-hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

OUR BROADWAY.

ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Saturday, April 4th, 1874.]

During the last few years the great march of improvement has centered on Market Street. The Grand Hotel, the elegant building constituting the "Nucleus," Bancroft's magnificent structure, and many others in the immediate vicinity, have given a marvelous impetus to the growth and prosperity of that part of the city.

The Palace Hotel, with many other projected improvements, all point with unerring certainty where the great tide of trade will hereafter flow. Numerous wholesalers and a large number of retail merchants have selected Market street as the basis of their trade, believing it to be the main artery of San Francisco. To obtain a good frontage on this thoroughfare seems now impossible, as nearly every store, whether modern or old fashioned, has a rush of applicants. Mr. P. Beamish having thoroughly studied this question of location, some years ago secured one of the elegant stores under the Nucleus, and he has recently rented the one adjoining, thereby giving his premises a frontage of 38 feet on Market street by 18 feet on Third, or, we might state, almost the entire ground floor of the Nucleus Hotel. We had the pleasure yesterday of examining his varied and extensive stock, consisting of the most complete and well selected line of gentlemen's Furnishing Goods to be found in this market. We also examined a very large and fine assortment of Clothing, both of foreign and domestic material, embracing every fashion and style suitable for the present season.

Mr. Beamish has never carried an inferior line of goods since he has been in business, and his success as a merchant is owing entirely to the fact that he treats his customers fairly; consequently they renew their patronage. In some of our stores, a buyer of clothing or underwear receives the same treatment at the hands of a certain class of shopkeepers, as unsophisticated countrymen daily experience on Chatham street, New York. This mode of fleecing the public by guaranteeing domestic goods for genuine Scotch tweeds or west England cloths, has aroused the just indignation of our honorable merchants.

Mr. Beamish is foremost in the ranks to lead public opinion, and has ever made it his study to carry out his representations. So strictly is everything conducted in his establishment, that the merest novice can implicitly rely upon receiving a just return for his expenditure. No second price is taken on purchases, which indicate a high sense of business honor. His entire stock, from the finest beaver or cassimere to a handkerchief or a package of hose, is sold at a fair living price; and an offer under that rate is respectfully but emphatically declined. This one price system is the only standard of commercial honor. We know such ethics rarely find acceptance with a certain class of business men in San Francisco and other large cities, but still they that strictly adhere to them invariably succeed, while the others enjoy but a modicum of patronage. We believe that the mercantile classes of this country will soon be aroused to the necessity of uniformity of prices, and admit the correctness of the doctrine merely as a business expediency, if not prompted by a higher motive. It was not our intention when we commenced to write this article to assume the attitude of a moralist, but we think a word in season may operate beneficially on quite a number of our shopkeepers and raise their notions of correct dealing to a higher standard. We would, therefore, cheerfully recommend all our friends and readers to call upon Mr. Beamish and inspect his fine and matchless stock of Furnishing Goods and Clothing, and we feel persuaded that the correctness of our advice will be fully indorsed by their experience.

WOODHULL & CLAFLIN'S WEEKLY!

AND THE

General Pacific Slope Depository for all of Mrs. Woodhull's Books and Speeches.

Victoria Woodhull has come from nothing to a position of influence where old friends will not know her. Her intellectual powers and eloquence compel a recognition of merit which never can be shown otherwise.—The Chicago Times, October 19, 1873.

The lecture in the evening was a really eloquent and remarkable effusion by Mrs. Woodhull. However her ideas may be regarded, there is no doubt but that she is one of the most active, energetic and able speakers that ever appeared in this city.—The Chicago Tribune, Sept. 19, 1873.

The mysterious woman glided on the stage with the air of a tragedy queen. Her first appearance did not lack sympathy, but invited criticism. She was all rare. Here was a tiger in her hate and playful advances, and then the wonderful exhibition of the piercing eye. Her hair fell just enough over her forehead to give eyes which peered out from beneath, more than a average share of fascinating splendor. Then, however, was only the overture to the Divine play, which she afterward rendered. As she warmed up on a subject, her voice rose in clear ringing tones, and she overawed with the inner consciousness of genius and as her hair, generally worn low upon her majestic brow, hung over her shoulders, the concave of the mind to the standpoint of a man's head and the eccentric Victoria became transformed into the inspired priestess of a new religion. She was a queen. The woman came into the hall, the priestess of slander;

Sad, Very Sad.

The Alta has another "humorist" on its staff editorial. Here is one of his jokes which appeared among the Brevities on Saturday:

"No more drunken men for six months," said a Teetoling fellow to his friend. "Why; will the Crusaders stop them?" "Oh, no; the new hotel requires all the brick, and they can get none to have in their hats. See the point?"

"And they can get none to have in their hats," yes, we see the point. If we had written that paragraph, we should, as soon as we saw it in print, have taken enough laudanum to cure the disease of living. Fancy a man writing a paragraph like that and then continuing to walk about among his fellow creatures! We need no State Idiotic Asylum as long as the Alta office is open to imbeciles.

Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter."

A dramatic version of Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," is drawing crowds at the Ambigu, in Paris. The scene is laid in Massachuset s the stage is of course covered with tropical plants. A few palm trees indicate the environs of Boston, and if a cotton plantation could have been added to the back-ground with a tiger or two and a boa constrictor, the illusion would have been complete.

The plot is as much like Hawthorne's novel as the French version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was like the work of Mrs. Stowe.

Rather Cheap.

The Chronicle cadger for items had the cheek to offer Rochefort a cigar for an article for his paper. Rochefort refused the cigar, but wrote an article which it took him two hours and fifty minutes to compose. We think less of Rochefort than ever. Hang a professional writer who will write for a newspaper for nothing.

Very True.

Henri Rochefort says, "If there is any thing in the world more ridiculous than a republic without republicans, it is a monarchy without a monarch." Also a editor without a paper is very ridiculous, and a leader without followers is equally so. M. Rochefort is really no one in particular.

Common Sense.

We have received the second number of this publication. It contains an interesting account of spiritual manifestations in London, a resume of the occurences in Oakland and some good original articles. It is not radical or shocking, simply "progressive."

Do You Feel

Cross grained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. Don't wear a shabby old hat. Go to "The Hat Store" for a new one. Prices reduced. 3-y

Great Bargains in Clothing.

Plucked Playwright.

Gammer Gurton, the excellent London correspondent of the New York Spirit of the Times, declares that the managers of the London Theatres are willing to pay any price for good plays, but they are not forthcoming. He says: I should like emphatically to express my astonishment that there are so many dramatic Tom Tiddler's grounds and not a single author capable of picking up the valuable gold and silver. Mr. James Albery has failed again. This reminds me of a story. A gentleman was once rash enough to commence his scholastic career at the University of Oxford at an age when he ought to have known better. In fact, he was a married man, with several grown-up and precocious children, when he went into the schools and competed with young and careless undergraduates. Our friend was not what might be called "a shining light." In fact, he was just the reverse, and when his eldest hopeful, after some periodical examination, sought the parent's "testamar," it was invariably found wanting. So the failure of the poor married undergraduate eventually become quite a joke in the family circle, and Jemima Ann, the most precocious infant from the parent stock, contented herself with jerking her head into the door and saying, "Pa's plucked again!" Poor Pa! Poor Albery! who has been plucked again, and I wonder he has got a feather left in his dramatic wings. He is always being plucked. They are always being plucked, and not a week passes but some favorite author is bereft of his brilliant feathers. Gilbert has been plucked. Byron has been so mercilessly plucked that he has not a stump of a quill about his body. W. G. Wills has been plucked. Merrivale has been plucked. Marshall has been plucked; if, indeed, he ever had a plume worth taking. The young fledgling Godfrey has been plucked. Reece has got as used to plucking as an eel to skinning. In fact, take the whole rank and file of dramatic authors, and there is not one who will be found unsupported by crutches, or not bearing about him the relics of a disastrous campaign. They are a battered and beaten and broken old crew, and the managers are at their wits' ends what to do.

Very Smart.

A New York correspondent of the London Athenæum, accuses Kingsley of flattering Americans. He says:

When, for example, Americans are told that their poets have exerted as great an influence in England as at home, they know better.

Such smart Americans as the New York correspondent may know better, but all Englishmen know that Mr. Kingsley's statement is founded on fact. NO English poet enjoys such an extensive popularity in England, as does the American poet Longfellow.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gorville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1860, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

Mr. L. Jallmuth, No. 240 Kearny street,

A "Noble" Man.

"The Washington Republican, in speaking about "Monsieur Alphonse," now running at the National Theatre in that city, says: "Whatever objectionable may be said of French society plays in general, no one who saw 'Monsieur Alphonse' can express an opinion unfavorable to its morality. The lesson it teaches is of the most healthy order, for it shows the triumph of domestic love over that mawkish sentimentality alluded to as the 'world's opinion.'

'The heroine, the wife of Capt. Montaglin, had been inveigled into a mock marriage which she supposed was legal and sincere. Years after she discovered her mistake, when he whom she loved and whom she supposed was her husband, had deserted her and her child and left her to labor for its support. When thus struggling to gain an honest living for herself and offspring she met Captain Montaglin, fell deeply in love with him, and married him without having sufficient courage to tell him that she was a mother.

"In the second scene of the play circumstances bring the child and its father into her own happy home, and in her endeavor to induce her husband to keep the child from being given to a cold-hearted creature for life her intense feeling betrays herself and her husband is overwhelmed with grief in discovering his wife's relationship to the child. The discovery gives occasion for the strongest scene of the play. The wife tells the story of her betrayal and pleads for pity and forgiveness on her knees.

"The husband, on considering his duty, at first utters what judgment the cold, selfish world would pass upon the stricken creature at his feet. Then his noble nature asserts its sway, and when he reflect how for six years she had been a faithful and loving wife, and exerted herself to the utmost to render his home happy, he took his wife in his arms and swore to fulfill the vow he took at the altar and cherish her until death did them part. No more trying ordeal a wife could be put to, and the natural portrayal of her feeling on such an occasion affords a severe test to here, who may assume the part of the wronged mother."

That man is really too noble to live in real life. The average husband under similar circumstances would when his wife was "pleading for pity and forgiveness on her knees," have sternly kicked her in the stomach and turned her out of doors, pleading the duty he owed to society in justification of his act. For ourselves we cannot see in what Mrs. Montaglin had done wrong. It appears that she had been wronged, but that she had sinned in any way is not set forth in the play.

AN OPEN LETTER
From a Known Business House of this City.

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND State of California—As reform is now the cry all over the State, and every man and woman trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make your purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, Nos. 525 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, and 527 Kearny street, between Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading shirt manufacturing establishment in the city. We don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufactory prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior in quality, at a more reasonable price than any other house in the city, the same in underwear, gents' furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, and satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

A great entertainment will be presented at this house to-night. Bobby Newcomb will appear on one end in the first part and will sing an original song entitled "The Chinese Shoemaker," Billy Sweatnam on the other end, will sing one of his original compositions entitled "Let My People Go," and J. G. Russell, B. Montague and G. W. Harley will sing popular ballads. After this, Welch and Rice will appear in "Senegambian Gambols," Mr. George Knight in Dutch songs, Bobby Newcomb in an original song and dance entitled "Beautiful Waltzer," and also in "The Active Boy," with dance of "The Cure." Little Mac, Con. T. Murphy, and Charles Reed in "Dat's Him." Billy Sweatnam, George Knight and others in "Mack-Beth," and the performance will terminate with Bobby Newcomb's sketch entitled "The Arrival of Aimee," in which he will appear as Jeff alias Aimee. Those who visit the Opera House to-night will enjoy a perfect feast of fun.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The thrilling play of "Diane" in which Miss Alice Dunning Lingard has made such a success in the title role, will be repeated this evening and to-morrow evening. Moralists may object to the play, but there is an immense amount of human nature in it. The Call is afraid that the play will "promote domestic unhappiness." As there is at present no domestic unhappiness in San Francisco we should be sorry if the play had that effect. To-night and to-morrow night it will afford entertainment to the audience at Maguire's New Theatre.

California Theatre.

Mlle. Aimee who has quite recovered from her recent indisposition, as was proved by her charming singing and acting on Sunday evening, will appear to-night in the character of Gabrielle, in Charles Le Cocq's extravagantly funny opera of "Les Cent Vierges," which will be presented for the first in San Francisco. We published the plot of this opera some time ago and as the other papers have pretty generally followed suit and libretos are for sale in the theatres, the public can easily become acquainted with it. The full cast of characters appear on our first page.

Palace Amphitheatre.

To-night is announced as positively the last night of Donald McKay and the Warm Spring Indians. M. Dockrill, Madame Dockrill, the Kenebels, and all the stars will appear. On Wednesday, the last matinee will be given, and Wednesday night is announced as the last of the season. It will be long before we have such a circus here again, and the last performances of the season will doubtless draw crowded houses.

Bella Union Theatre.

The comic drama of "Two Olimes," with Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Alice Ross, John Woodard, H. R. Archer and others in the cast, will be played this evening; the Japanese will appear in thrilling feats, Kelly, Barton, Bree Ritchie, Miss Maggie Kelly and others in amusing acts, and others in songs and dances.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The musical sketch of "The Parent's Warning," by Frank Mortimore, Mollie La Forrest, Maggie Brewer, Harry Devoy and Hughey Morton, songs by Miss Katie Zoe, George C. Thompson, in his specialties and a great variety of performances will be presented to-night.

Notes.

Wilson's great combination of equestrian, gymnastic and comic talent at present at the Palace Amphitheatre will appear in Oakland on the 28th and 29th, and at San Jose on the 30th. Having thus entertained the people in the "suburbs of San Francisco," the troupe will proceed on an extended tour through the interior of the State.

The Call critic is happy. He has discovered in a Chicago Sunday paper a scurrilous article about John McCullough, and republishes it this morning.

The Chronicle hints that Fechter is "a veteran tragedian of no wonderful ability." Fechter is simply the very head of the profession. There is no artist like him on the English-speaking stage. Nothing that can be written about Fechter can injure his well-earned reputation as the chief of dramatic artists.

Canon Kingsley, of Westminster Abbey, author of some of the most delightful works in the English language, will lecture under the auspices of the Pacific Lyceum Bureau, at Platt's Hall, on Friday and Saturday evenings. The subject of Friday's lecture will be "Westminster Abbey," and Saturday's "The First Discoveries of America."

Victoria Woodhull who is to lecture in this city at Platt's Hall, on Monday evening, has outlived more personal abuse and lying misrepresentation than any woman who was ever born. It has now in a measure ceased. She recently stood a cross examination nine hours in duration in one of the New York Courts, and nothing was proved against her "character." A woman who can pass through such an ordeal as this, and come out unscathed is certainly entitled to the respect of the most virtuous. Victoria Woodhull's crime consists in exposing wickedness of which "society" says "it's best not to mention it." No man or woman was ever made worse by listening to a lecture by this bold social reformer.

On Thursday evening, Miss Mary Wells, an actress whose talent is fully recognized by the public of San Francisco as well as by that of New York, will take a benefit at Maguire's New Theatre. Miss Alice Dunning will appear on this occasion in her great character of Gilberte in "Frou Frou."

John Howson, the favorite comedian, will take his farewell benefit at Maguire's New Theatre on Friday evening, A splendid bill will be offered and numerous volunteers will appear.

J. C. Williamson and Miss Maggie Moore will leave for Australia on Wednesday, on the Mikado. They will bear with them the best wishes of the public. Miss Maggie Moore will be missed from our stage, and all will be glad to hear good news of her progress in her profession in foreign climes.

Manager Maguire has tendered both his theatres, Opera House and Maguire's New Theatre, for matinee benefits for the relief of the sufferers by the Louisiana overflow, to take place on Wednesday afternoon, and all the artists, musicians and attaches have offered their services for the same good purpose. Nothing now remains but for the public to crowd both houses.

Thursday evening next at Platt's Hall, the ever-welcome "Il Trovatore" will be presented with full cast, chorus and orchestra. Miss Fannie Marston who has always been a great favorite on the concert platform, and who has been studying incessantly, will make her debut in opera on that occasion as Leonora. Sig. Marra, the new baritone who made such a favorable impression at Sig. Bocci's concert the other evening, is to be the Count di Luna of the evening This artist comes here from Max Strakosh's Opera Troupe with a great reputation, and has ately supported Mme. Nilsson in all the large Eastern cities. The tenor part Manrico will be sung by Signor Morley who is the organizer of the affair, Azucena is to be enacted by Signora Franzini and Ferrando by Signor Contini. The box office will be open at the hall on the 27th and 28th inst., and the sale of tickets and boxes outside indicates a very full attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Lovers' Proverbs.

Love knows hidden paths.

Love makes labor light.

Love makes time pass away, and time makes love pass away.

Love me little, love me long.

Amez moi un peu, mais continue—Love me little, but keep it up.

Love one that does not love you, answer one that does not call you, and you will run a fruitless race.

Love others well, but love thyself the most; give good for good, but not to thine own cost.

Love rules his kingdom without a sword.

Love subdues everything except the felon's heart.

Love teaches asses to dance.

Love, knavery and necessity make men good orators.

Love, thieves and fear, make ghosts.

Love, without return, is like a question without an answer.

Love your friend, with his faults.

Love your neighbor, but don't pull down the fence.

Lovers' purses are tied with cobwebs.

Lovers' quarrels are love redoubled.

Lovers think others have no eyes.

Lovers' anger is fuel to love.

Lover-merchandise is jealousy and broken faith.

Lover-plant must be watered with tears and tended with care.

Loving and singing are not to be forced.

Love and pride stock Bedlam.

Love, being jealous, makes a good-bye look like a squint.

Love comes in at the window and goes out at the door.

Love does much, but money does more.

Love is a sweet tyranny, because the lover endureth his torment willingly.

Love is the touchstone of virtue.

Love is the loadstone of love.

It is generally conceded by lovers of malt liquors that "Star Ale and Porter," is superior to any other brand to be found in San Francisco. All the principal saloons have it on draught.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 634 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Neilson, the Vergonstein, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

AT THE BRIDAL.

BY HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

Wide stood the doors, that morning,
Of the sombre and ancient church,
And gayly the yellow sunshine
Streamed in on its seldom search—
Streamed over the rustling satins,
Over jewel and waving plume,
Over smiling and confident gallants,
Over women all beauty and bloom,
And I paused to look at the pageant
In the midst of the shimmer and stir,
And to hear the priest murmur: Forsaking
All others, cleave only to her.

Fair twinkled the taper-set altar,
And sweet blew the organ's breath,
While the lover bent and repeated
To love and cherish till death.

The light from the great rose-window
Came splendidly sifting down;
On her face there fell a glory,
And over her head a crown.
And I knew by the awful passion
With which he stood white and wan,
That he cast his heart before her
For her feet to tread upon.

But the bride was softly smiling,
Lovesome and bright and fair—
He was but the rose on her finger,
He was but the rose in her hair.

And I would there had been a glamour
Over my eyes, and a blur,
At that eager vow of forsaking
All others, and cleaving to her;
For out of the pillared shadow
I saw beside me star',
A wild-eyed girl with her baby
Clasped over her breaking heart,
And down from the porch go flying—
The wreck of a rapture unblessed—
With only the river before her,
With only the river for rest.

The Pickle Albert Edward!

The Spirit of the Times says: "The great English comedian Toole is on terms of intimacy with the Prince of Wales, and often accompanies his Royal Highness on his excursions in search of game," says an exchange. This will be sad news for Sothern. The "dear boy" Wales and Dundreary have a frenzied affection for each other and correspond weekly. What is it that Shakespeare says about Princes' favors? We thought better of "the dear boy" than to suppose he would desert one comedian for another, but perhaps he's making a Toole of the fellow he smiles on now. Not half bad, eh?

A Nice Child.

In a Scotch journal we find this advertisement: Wanted, an experienced nurse to take charge of a young child, between thirty and thirty-five years old, of unexceptional character and good reference. None need apply who cannot produce the best testimonials.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen:
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
in fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

.....AND THE.....

General Pacific Slope Depository for sale of Mrs. Woodhull's Books and Speeches

Persons who could have risen from nothing to a position of fortune where she stands without a peer. Her vast mental position and vigor can be but a question of doubt to those who read the is above discussion.—The Chicago Times, October 10, 1873.

The lecture in the evening was equally eloquent and impressive discussion by Mrs. Woodhull. However heretical she may be regarded, there is no doubt but that she is one of the most active, eccentric and able speakers that ever spoke in Music Hall in this city.—The Chicago Tribune, Sept 19, 1873.

The mysterious woman walked on the stage with the air of a tragedy queen. Her first appearance was not especially calculated to charm. She carried herself with a dress as a queen by her bold and physical advances to them the wonderful resemblance of a lion playing with its prey. Her hair fell low upon over her forehead, the eyes which peered out from beneath, were lit up with a strange flame of marvelous splendor. This, however, was only the overture to the Divine play, which she afterward rendered. As she warmed up on the subject, her voice rang out her massive brow; her eyes flashed with the inner consciousness of genius and as her lithe, graceful form swayed, the lips moved with the mind of a new house and the dramatic Victoria became transformed into the inspired priestess of a new religion. It was a success. The woman came into the hall, the victim of slander, the scorned of the multitude; she stood an object of a shrinking and proud; she came among her people with scarcely ten sympathizers, and at the close of the speech she was the heroine, the idol of her worshipers. Victoria came, Victoria conquered.—Democratic Times, Iowa.

Raising a "Row."

The following is Dan De Quille's latest Virginia City yarn:

A few evenings since a fellow rushed into Tinker & Shephard's saloon in a terrible state of excitement. Throwing his hat on the counter he cried out to Dan, the Barkeeper: "There'll be the biggest row here in about a minute that you ever saw! Give me a drink quick!" Dan set out the bottle, and while the fellow helped himself, began to look to his six-shooter and get his club ready. Leaving his hat on the counter the fellow ran to the door, looked out, then rushed back to the bar, and said: "Yes: in less than half a minute there'll be a h—l of a time here! Give me another drink, quick!" And seizing the bottle, he proceeded to help himself. He then took up his hat and was coolly marching off, when Dan called out: "See here, you—you fellow there! What's all this about a row? You come back here and pay for those drinks, or I'll club you half to death!" "There you go!" cried the fellow. "There you go? Didn't I say there would be a fearful row here in a minute. I knew it; and there you go!" Dan now saw the point. "Look here," said he; "you come back and take another drink if you want it, but I wish it distinctly understood that this is to be the last "row" you ever raise in this house?" "Don't care if I do settle it up that way," said the fellow grinning amiably, as he returned to the bar.

Cool.

A nice young man in Des Moines got married not long ago. He had worked his way to the bottom of the drawer and got reduced to the last clean shirt. He thereupon rose earlier than usual one morning, and kindled a fire. When hanging on the kettle he made a noise on purpose to arouse his wife. She peeped over the blankets and exclaimed: "My dear, what are you doing?" He deliberately responded: "I've put on my last clean shirt, and I'm going to wash one for myself." "Very well," replied she, "you had better wash one for me, too!"

Strange Behavior.

"Dear little tootsy-pootsy! Such a sweet darling," observed a gentlemen, who dropped in, after breakfast, to dandle Mr. Marrowfat's latest born on his knee. Such a bootiful pootsy-tootsy, so it is!" Then he looked up, with a surprised expression on his face, passed the precious pootsy-tootsy to the nurse, and left without saying a word.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

John in California.

John, the San Francisco correspondent of the New York Sun, has the following:

Out here in California, instead of asking "How you are getting along?" they say, "How do you pan out?" "Pegging out" is of cribbage origin, but "panning out" is pure California.

I int reviewed a queer case yesterday. Measured by a thermometer, his forhead was in height about ten degrees above zero. To make his countenance more noble, he'd shaved the hair off his forehead about an inch, and the stubble was quite conspicuous.

Says I, "Handy, ain't it?"

Says he, "What?"

Says I, "Good as sand paper."

Says he, "What do you mean, stranger?"

Says I, "That spot on your brow."

Says he, "Good as sand paper; for what?"

Says I, "To strike matches."

He was disgusted. I told him "if he was disgusted he ought to take something for it; it was nothing to be disgusted when he got used to it; it was a very common complaint. I had it once, when I told my Thursday-out girl how to boil eggs."

Says I, "Mary, an egg to suit me must be boiled just two minutes, and you may boil me six this morning."

That girl did boil 'em, and I broke the crust on 'em, and they were so hard that if they had been shot out of a gun, they would have gone clean through an elephant. I expostulated with Mary.

Says I, "Mary, how long did you boil those eggs?"

Says she, "Just twelve minutes by the clock."

Says I, "Didn't I tell you that an egg to suit me must be boiled just two minutes?"

Says she, "Yes; and ain't there six of 'em, sure? and, be gorra, if twelve minutes ain't two minutes to an egg, it's meself that can't count straight at at all, all."

I told Mary "she could put on her bonnet and take a vacation. When I wanted her I would send for her." That was ten years ago; I haven't sent for her yet. The next girl I had, I gave the same directions to. When she made a mistake one morning and boiled 'em hard she swore she'd only boiled 'em two minutes. I asked her how they came to boil hard in two minutes. She said the clock ran slow.

There is an old story told of a fellow who sauntered into a billiard room. The keeper asked him would he play a game. He said he would. The keeper got the first inning, and thinking he was dealing with a "billiard sharp," he run the game out. The other fellow quietly put his cue away, and started for the door. The keeper sang out, "Here, you haven't paid for your billiards." "Billiards," says he, "billiards; I haven't played any billiards," and he left. That fellow lives in San Francisco.

I came across that same keeper, too. I paid for some billiards, but I didn't play any billiards. The fellow told me he could beat me 100 points up, and he proved to be a man of veracity.

I told him I guessed from his looks he could beat me at a hundred points down.

He said I reminded him of vinegar on pickled beets.

I asked him why.

He observed because I was sour over a beat.

From conversations held with saloon keepers I am inclined to think they prefer a visit from the Santa Cruzaders to one from the women crusaders.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gorville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

AN OPEN LETTER
From a Known Business House of this City.
TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO AND the State of California—As reform is now the call over the State, and every man and woman trying to become economical, I wish to call your attention to a particular subject, and that is, when you wish to invest a dollar to do so, and go where you will get your money's worth; when you make purchase, go to the house that manufactures and imports the article direct, and you are sure to save money. To find such a house go to S. POPPER'S new shirt manufactory and gents' furnishing goods establishment, No. 638 Kearny street, near Sutter and Bush, and 637 Kearny street, near Bush and Pine, the oldest and leading manufacturing establishment in the city don't offer to sell below cost, or retail at manufacturers prices—that's too thin; but he can sell a better made and more perfect-fitting shirt, superior quality, at a more reasonable price than any house in the city. the same in underwear, furnishing goods, etc. Shirts made to order, satisfaction warranted. Gentlemen coming to the city please remember this, and call before purchasing elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The thrilling play of "Diane," with the charming Miss Alice Dunning in the title role, will be presented for the last time this evening, and should draw a crowded house. The sympathies of the audience are enlisted for the heroine, married to a man whom she hates, and they do not hesitate to express that sympathy, by loudly applauding the scenes in which the husband gets the worst of it, and the lovers appear to triumph. Poor Diane has of course to be killed in the last act in order to satisfy society. To-morrow night a good variety bill will be performed for the benefit of the Light Guard.

California Theatre.

"Les Gent Vierges" was played last night to an overflowing house. Aimee as Gabrielle and Mlle. Reminiatani as Eglantine, acted and sang charmingly, Mons. Emile Jateau and Mons. Duchesne as Natalie de Quilienbois and Pourlardot caused much amusement, and Mons. Lecuyer and Mons. Dupuis in their respective roles of Sir Jonathan Piperson and Brididick were wonderfully funny. Mlle. Roland, who is a great favorite, delighted the audience by her delightful acting, singing and dancing in the first act. The opera possesses a good deal of fun and some pretty music. One of the best things in it is the quintette, describing how to make an omelette. This was received with shouts of applause and laughter and was encored. "Les Gent Vierges," will be presented to-night and to-morrow night.

Opera House.

There was a splendid entertainment at this house last night, and the same bill will be given this evening. Bobby Newcomb proved himself an excellent end man. He sang "The Chinese Shoemaker" capitally, and made the audience roar with laughter. His new song and dance "The Beautiful Waltzer" is one of the neatest and most attractive ever produced, in "The Active Boy," he again convulsed the audience with laughter, and in "The Arrival of Aimee," with which this rich evening's entertainment terminated was wonderfully funny. Welch and Rice who appeared in "Senegambian Gambols," were encored again and again, until they must have been fairly tired out. Geo. S. Knight presented some of his best Dutch comicalities, and Billy Sweatnam, Charley Reed-Little Mac, Con. T. Murphy, and others appeared in the screaming acts entitled "Mack-Beth" and "Dat's Him." Bobby Newcomb, as we prophesied would be the case, is fast taking the place which Billy Emerson held in the affections of the fun-loving public of San Francisco.

Palace Amphitheatre.

To-night, the fanciest of French clowns, Jos. Kennebel, will take his benefit and, in addition to a host of other attractions, produce his new and laughable burlesque entitled "Donald McKay and His Famous Band of Warm Spring Indian Warriors." A great variety of other entertainment will be given, and we are sure Joe will have a good house. The last matinee performance will be given to-morrow, and to-morrow night the season will close with a benefit to the Queen of the Arena, Madame Dockrill.

John McCullough in New York.

The Alta of this morning has the following dispatch:

NEW YORK, May 25.—To-night at Booth's Theatre, Shakespeare's historical play of "King John" was produced, with McCullough as Falconbridge, J. B. Booth as King John, and Mrs. Booth as Constance, and was witnessed by one of the largest audiences assembled during the present season. Mr. McCullough was very brilliant as Falconbridge, and frequently elicited the plaudits of the audience.

Signor Morley's Benefit.

The box office will be open at Platt's Hall to-morrow.

Bella Union Theatre.

The male and female minstrels, the Japanese in their great feats, Fred Ritchie in Dutch Blunders, Ed Murray in his Budget of Fun, "The Two Orphans," "Weep Little Children," and other attractions will be presented this evening. Cal Mandeville and Maggie Maguire are underlined and will appear shortly.

Woodward's Gardens.

Donald McKay and the Warm Spring Indians are camped again at these gardens, and will give exhibitions every day, concluding them on Monday, June 1st.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The sketch entitled "The Parent's Warning" has made quite a hit at this house. Miss Maggie Brower gains much applause for her capital acting in the role of Tommy.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 6-tj

TRUE LOVE.

BY CHARLES EDWARD PRATT.

She sits at the window the whole day through,
Busily sewing she seems to be;
Busily thinking, "he cares for me;"
And joyful fancies will come and go,
Just as they used to do, you know,
When life and love to us were new.

She thinks of him, working early and late,
In the dingy shop, that he may win
Enough that they both can life begin,
Together as man and wife some day;
And her love is more than her lips say,
Like a calm deep sea—so pure, so great!

By-and-by when his work is done,
The young man goes along the street,
And raises his eyes to the maid so sweet,
Who bows, and blushes, and says, "Come in;"
Ah! she indeed is the one to win,
To stand at his side in the years to come.

Though men may laugh and man may sneer,
And call true love a thing of the past—
Yet I hold it true, while the world shall last,
That men do love, and will for aye,
As truly as those who have passed away,
Whose homes were indeed a heaven here.

Poor Socrates!

Socrates said wives must obey their husbands, and men the laws of the country. Whether a man marries or not, said he, he'll repent it, for it is with marriage as it is with fish in a net, those that are in want to get out, and those that are without want to get in. Some vile wretch who is not married and never deserves to be, has thus paraphrased the saying of the husband of Xanthippe:

Marriage is like a flaming candle light
Set in a window of a Summer's night;
Those that are out butt heads against the pane,
Those that are in butt to get out again.

An Idea.

The Chinese should be in favor of cremation. Hundreds of dead Chinamen are shipped home to be buried every year, and what a saving would it be could they send their ashes instead of their bodies entire. They might be inclosed in an envelope, with a note to their nearest friend, and sent by mail: "Dear sir: Inclosed please find the ashes of Ah Sin," etc., etc. In that manner a very little Sin might be made to go a great way.

Exact Science.

When the celebrated French chemist, Orfila, was on one occasion a witness at a trial for poisoning, he was asked by the president if he could state the quantity of arsenic requisite to kill a fly. "Certainly, M. le President," replied the expert, "but I must know beforehand the age of the fly, its sex, its temperament, its condition and habit of body, whether married or single, widow or maiden, widower or bachelor."

Hard Lines.

That is a curious mix in the Supreme Court of New York, where a woman, who has been thrice married, was shown to be drawing alimony from each of her first two husbands, while supported by the third. This puts two men in the position of compulsorily contributing to the support of a third man's wife; and all according to legal regulations.

The Aimee Bouffe Opera.

Libby & Swett, the fashionable stationers, at 631 Market street, have just introduced a new shade of Rep Note Paper and Envelopes which they call "The Aimee Opera Bouffe," after Mlle. Aimee, the Queen of Comic Opera, who commences an engagement at the California Theatre next Monday. When Libby & Swett first determined to make fashionable stationery a specialty, they had no idea of the extent of business they would do. They have on hand and in stock nearly three hundred different shades and designs of stationery, many of which they introduced themselves. Among the latest tints are the Julien, the Nellson, the Vergonettain, the Himmel-blau, and last the Aimee Bouffe. Messrs. L. & S., besides their stationery department, which is very large, do a large business in books, and are in receipt of all the latest publications. They also keep a full line of School Books, Maps, Charts, etc. In fact, one can find at their store everything in their line, from a steel or gold pen to write a check with, to a pocket book to hold the check after written. Purchasers can have their articles delivered to all parts of the city free. 5 M

DR. BEERS' Patent Gold Crowns for broken Don't.

The American Register prints the views of a correspondent, a lady, as to whom girls ought not to marry. The list is so long that we fear no men will be left for those that follow her advice. Her catalogue is formidable; whether it is just we leave to the reader's judgment from the few specimen extracts:

Don't marry any man over forty. He bristles with habits as English young ladies do with angles. Don't marry the lively man.

Don't marry a man who stops your mouth with compliments; makes desperate love to you the first time he sees you, and talks about kissing. That man thinks women are fools, but he is mistaken.

Don't marry a man who tells wonderful stories of which he is always the hero, and in which he always distinguishes himself by extraordinary wit, or sagacity, or courage, or presence of mind—these qualities not being, as a rule, conspicuous in him.

Don't marry a man who has a great many sisters. Such a man is always spoiled; beside which it is not pleasant to be engaged to a man who knows all about your false hair, and how much your dress cost a yard. No woman can ever be an ideal divinity to a man who has a whole squadron of sisters.

Don't marry a man who says every woman ought to know how to cook.

Don't marry a man who wears an eyeglass or tight boots with high heels, who curls his hair or his mustache, who puts scent in his whiskers or bleaches his eyelids, who lisps, who has his finger nails long and pointed, carefully cut in an almond shape, who wears four-buttoned gloves, takes six and three-quarters, and tells you so; who, if he be dark, wears a red cravat; if he be fair, a sky blue one—there is no surer indication of a man's character than his pecktie. I always look at that first—who has enameled visiting cards and a brilliant monogram, and who always wears a rosebud in his buttonhole.

Don't marry a man who keeps bull-dogs. He is sure to like them.

Don't marry a man who gets up early. Nothing makes a person so insufferably conceited.

Don't marry a man who nobody ever saw any evil of. Be sure that he is a poor creature.

Don't marry a man who doesn't smoke, and who prides himself upon it.

Don't marry a man who has a great admiration for Dr. Johnson. He is sure to be a bear.

Don't marry a man who invents things. Invention is the offspring of necessity.

Don't marry a good natured man. Good nature is to a man what the gill-leaf naughty boy sometimes adorns a sparrow with is to that unhappy bird. All the other sparrows get round him and peck at him

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that.
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

A Beautiful Boat.

The prettiest, neatest and most elegant little boat that taste and money could produce has just been added to the fleet of the California Boat Club. It is a ladies' gig-boat, lap-streak, seventeen and half feet in length and three and a half feet beam of faultless model, called the "Matilda Blair." It is built of California laurel, black walnut and cedar. The row-locks, the tiller-head, the stern, the rudder-post and the boat-hooks are all silver plated. The boat is carpeted with Brussells carpet, and its lady guests will be pulled over the bay with oars ornamented with solid silver shields, while seated on blue silk plush cushions, protected from the sun by an elegant blue and white silk awning, handsomely fringed, supported by silver rods. Could anything be nicer? Cleopatra in her barge could not have been more luxuriously seated. The Matilda Blair was built by W. J. Stone, and is a marvel of taste and elegance. It is, without doubt, the handsomest, as well as the most expensive boat of its size ever constructed in the United States.

Strange.

An Eastern paper says:

Celia Logan is in Cheyenne; she is disgusted with the place, and especially so with the class of ruffians who are called "Hoodlums" in that benighted country.

Why then does she tarry among us? We could thrive without Celia Logan, whose preposterous "stories" are the laughing stock of New Yorkers, who have visited California.

An Ambiguous Promise.

"I like you," sighed a girl to her suitor; "but I can't leave home. I am a widow's only child. No husband can equal my dear mother in kindness." "She is kind," pleaded the wooer; "but be my wife; we will live together, and see if I don't beat your mother.

Perhaps So.

A clergyman writing to the Zion's Advocate, "I once married a bright couple, and as I took the bride by the hand, at the close of the ceremony, and gave her my warmest congratulations, she tossed her pretty face, and pointing to the groom, replied, "I think he is the one to be congratulated."

Do You Feel

Grossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Strawberries! Strawberries!

The Matinee Fruit Store 409 Bush, is the place to obtain your nice, fresh Strawberries. Parties patronizing us will be promptly attended to, and can rest assured that their Berries will be sent home in good condition, as we have a light spring wagon expressly for that purpose. By leaving your address our wagon will call for orders every day, thereby saving our patrons a good deal of trouble. Give us a trial. 1-y

DUMAS, THE "IMMORAL" PLAYWRIGHT.

People talk flippantly of the "immoral" plays of Dumas the younger. If Dumas were accused of writing immoral plays he would indignantly deny the charge. Dumas is a reformer. He is disgusted with the heartless cruelty of society, and writes against it. He claims that a good, loving and loveable woman cannot by one act transform herself into a despicable being whom it is the duty of Society to keep down and urge to destruction. The lesson of the plays of Dumas is Charity. He feels indignant at a society which renders it necessary for him to write such plays as he does. He wishes to open the eyes of Society to the iniquity of its edicts. Is it absolutely necessary for a man, in order to sustain his reputation for morality to cast up his eyes in holy horror at a woman who has committed a fault which, committed by him, would be considered no fault at all by his male companions, and a very venial one by his lady acquaintances? Those Pharisees who were about to stone the woman mentioned in the New Testament, were not all of them cruel and bloodthirsty. Some of them would gladly have let her off, but the law of their society condemned her, and they were afraid if they did not show zeal in carrying out that law their morality would fall under suspicion. It is not at all unlikely that the partner in the woman's offence was foremost in the ranks, and ready to cast the first stone. It did not, however, take much to divert these indignant moralists from their purpose. A few brave words spoken by one who was a true man, gave them courage to act like men themselves. Dumas is only writing dramatic sermons on that text: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." It is not necessary in these days to preach vehemently against immorality in woman. Heaven knows they are punished severely enough for it. Dumas perceives this, and hence he, at the risk of being termed an immoral writer, produces plays which lead people to reflect that the sins of women should not be the only sins for which there is no pardon in this world. Heaven deliver us and our female relations from the stern moralists who sit down and pen homilies on the subject of the immoral plays of Dumas. By their acts we judge them rather than by their words. The world will not be made worse by such plays as "Camille," "Diane" and "M. Alphonse" of M. Dumas, and may be made better.

Ashamed to Confess It.

A Wheeling paper gives the following spicy examinat on which took place at the United States District Court:

Attorney.—Please state your name, age residence, and occupation.

Witness.—My name is John Reynolds; I reside in Point Pleasant, Mason County, West Virginia; my profession for the past two weeks has been that of a lawyer, but previous to that time I was a millwright.

Attorney.—What were you engaged in last winter?

Witness (turning to the court.)—Am I compelled to answer that question?

Court.—Yes, you are compelled to answer.

Witness.—Well, then, gentlemen, I am sorry to state I was a member of the legislature.

The Lion of the Hour.

Vasquez arrived on the Senator from Los Angeles this morning. He was taken first to jail, and then to Bradley and Rulofson's to have his likeness taken. It was executed in their usual admirable style. Montgomery street was thronged with people anxious to catch a glimpse of the robber.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend;
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gerville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

WOODHULL & CLAFLIN'S WEEKLY!
....AND THE.....
General Pacific Slope Depository for all of Mrs. Woodhull's Books and Speeches.

As a rule, female declaimers are not a success, but Mrs. Woodhull is an exception to the rule. She is a radical of the radicals, and boldly, nay, defiantly launches forth her most ultra and advanced doctrines. She has a pleasant voice, and ordinarily speaks with deliberation, enunciating clearly and distinctly. She appears best when she is broken up by uncomplimentary interruptions; they seem to evoke all the latent powers of her whole nature, and leaving her desk and manuscript, she pours forth a perfect torrent of fiery eloquence, freely using (and effectively too) invective, sarcasm or ridicule, as the occasion demands. She is never at a loss for a ready and apt retort on such occasions. Her peroration at the close of a long and carefully written speech, seems to be impromptu, and the ideas, and words wherewith to clothe them, to come from the inspiration of the moment. She must assuredly have the appearance of one wholly rapt and absorbed by some invisible influence as to be hardly conscious of her own identity. She is very pointed and often personal in her speeches; and to use a pugilistic simile, "hits from the shoulder" and has no hesitation in hitting "below the belt." She is merciless; sparing neither friend or foe; truth, as she claims, is what she is seeking, no matter where it may lead, or how many previously accepted opinions, or former friends and associates are sacrificed. Nothing is sacred or inviolate with her, if it stands in the way she has marked out. She says "wherever I find a social carbuncle I shall plunge my surgical knife of reform into it, UP TO THE HILT." As it regards consequences person l to herself, she declares she never takes them into the account; she dare be shut up in prison, or even lid to the stake, but she will not turn one hair's breadth to the right or left from the course marked out for her by her own conscience, and the teachings of her guardian spirit.--FROM THE NEW BOOK--"THE GREAT SENSATION."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The opera of "Les Cent Vierges" with the charming Mlle. Aimee as Gabrielle, Mlle. Rosina Stani as Eglantine, Mons. Emile Jotsau as Anatole, Mons. Duchesne as Poulardot, Mons. Lecuyer as Sir Johathan Plupercon and Mlle. Roland, Mons. Victor and other favorite artists in the cast was repeated last night to a large and fashionable audience and will be played again this evening. Mons. Lecuyer has made a decided hit on the character of Sir Jonathan Plupercon, and Mlle. Roland is deliciously piquant as Fanny. To-morrow evening "La Grand Duchesse de Gerolstein" will be presented; also, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee, "Le Petit Faust" is announced as in active preparation.

Opera House.

Sweatnam, Newcomb and Murphy are great in the first part entertainment given at this house. Welch and Rice who appear in "Senegambian Gambols" are encored five and six times nightly. Bobby Newcomb's new song and dance "The Beautiful Waltzer" is one of the neatest things of the kind ever seen, the acts of "Mack-Beth" and "Dat's Him" are wonderfully comical, and "The Arrival of Aimee" in which Bobby Newcomb appears as Jeff, alias Aimee is particularly good.

Maguire's New Theatre.

To-night for the benefit of the Light Guard, a capital entertainment will be given. It will commence with the lively comedy of "Naval Engagements," in which Miss Dickey Lingard will appear as Miss Mary Mortimer, Charles Edmunds as Lieut. Kingston, and Miss Mary Wells as Mrs. Pontifax. After this "A Day After the Wedding" will be played with Miss Alice Dunning as Lady Elizabeth Freelove. The performance will terminate with Gilbert's Fairy tale entitled 'Creatures of Impulses," in which Miss Dickey Lingard Miss Jose Batchelder, John Howson and others will appear. To-morrow evening Miss Mary Wells will take her benefit and "Frou-Frou," will be produced for the first time this season, with Miss Alice Dunning as the heroine. On Friday evening that general favorite, John Howson will take his benefit and an extraordinarily attractive programme will be presented.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The last matinee performance will be given to-day, and this evening the brilliant and lengthy season of equestrian and gymnastic performance so successfully carried out by Manager Wilson and his coadjutors will come to a close with a benefit to that wonderful equestrienne, Madame Dockrill. The last night of the circus will be signalized by a splendid programme and of course a crowded house.

Italian Opera.

The Opera of "Il Trovatore," will be performed to-morrow night, at Platt's Hall, for the benefit of Signor Carmici Morley. The beneficiary will appear as Manrico, Miss Fanny Marston, will make her debut in opera, in the character of Leonora, Signora Franzini will play Azucena, and Signor Marra the baritone, late of the Strakosch troupe, will appear as Count di Luna. There will be a large and fashionable audience.

John McCullough in New York.

We take the following from the Alta's telegraphic news of this morning:

NEW YORK, May 26—Mr. McCullough again this evening played Falconbridge, in "King John", to a large audience, and appeared to better advantage than any previous character which he has assumed, there being no Forestian traditions to hamper him and cramp his individuality in the part The present week closes a highly successful engagement of Mr. McCullough, who will leave for San Francisco at an early day, but will return in season to play again August 10th, at Booth's, under the auspices of Palmer & Barrett.

Off for Australia.

J. C. Williamson, Miss Maggie Moore and Fred Lyster leave for Australia at noon to-day. An immense crowd of San Franciscans are determined to say good bye to their pet Maggie Moore.

Bella Union Theatre.

The play of "Two Climes," the acts of "Hotel Runners," "The Double-Bedded Room," "Weep Little Children" and others specified on our first page make up a very attractive entertainment at this house. The Japanese appear nightly.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Struck Oil," "Africa vs. Ireland," "Wig Block," "The Other Fellow," Geo. C. Thompson in his specialties, Frank Mortimore in his sketches and much other amusement will be offered at this house to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

Donald M. Kay and the Warm Spring Indians are camped again at these gardens, and will give exhibitions every day, concluding them on Monday, June 1st.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by he present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

MY FRIEND JONES.

When I was a romantic youth,
'Gainst Jones my hate was keen;
For we were both, to tell the truth,
In love with Ellen Green,
Now, Jones was plain as plain could be,
Dull, plodding and precise,
A stupid drudge—while, as for me,
Why, I was rather nice.

Now, Jones is wealthiest of Cits,
And Ellen is his spouse,
While I am living on my wits,
And do not oft carouse.
For Ellen, while a girl, had thought
Her husband I should be,
But time a wise experience brought,
She married Jones—not me!

She told me frankly what she thought—
"Don't deem me weak or rash,
I love you dearly, but I ought
Of course to marry cash."
I quietly resign my hopes,
So here the story ends:—
And Jones is doing well in soap,
